The fifth aeroplane cancellation came from an aviation meet held at the Athletic Park, Savannah, Ga., November 25 to November 29, 1911. The aviator was Beckwith Havens. Although the meet lasted five days, mail was carried but two days, November 25 and November 28. Havens carried mail from a special postoffice on the field to Waters Road, where he dropped it. The distance was about three-quarters of a mile. After the mail had been dropped, it was taken in an automobile to the postoffice, about two miles beyond. Both the aeroplane postmark and cancellation were in blue ink. The postmark consisted of a double circle at the top of which were the words "Aerial Sub Station". In the center were the words "Athletic Park" and the date. At the bottom were the words "Savannah, Ga." The cancellation consisted of six thin lines, about two and one-half inches in length. At the top, over the lines, in medium sized type, were the words "Aeroplane Mail Service."

No. 6—Columbus, Ga.

The sixth aeroplane cancellation also comes from the State of Georgia and was used at a meet held at the Columbus Driving Park, Columbus, Ga., December 12 and 13, 1911. The mail was carried by aviators Godet and Walsh in a Curtiss machine. The mail was taken up from the park and after a wide circle of about two miles had been made, was dropped at a spot outside the grounds, where it was picked up and carried in an automobile to the postoffice. Both the postmark and cancellation were in bright reddish purple ink. The postmark was circular in shape, much smaller than others previously used. At the top, were the words "Aerial Sub Station." In the center, were the words, "Driving Park" and the date. At the bottom, were the words "Columbus, Ga." The cancellation consisted of eight long thin lines, each two and one half inches in length. Over the lines in medium sized type were the words "Aeroplane Mail Service." Excepting the size of the postmark circle, this cancellation was very much like that used at Savannah.

No. 7—Wilmington, N. C.

The seventh aeroplane cancellation also comes from the South, being used at a meet held at Highwood Park, Wilmington, N. C., January 1 and 2, 1912. Aviator Walter Brookins, the daring Wright biplane operator, who also carried mail at the St. Louis meet, was the aerial mailman. Although the meet was held two days mail was only carried on the first day, a fact that makes this "aero" one of the hard-to-get variety. Brookins carried the mail from the field to a cross road, about three miles distant, where he dropped it. It was taken in an automobile to the postoffice. The mail was dropped from a height of about 500 feet. Both the postmark and cancellation were in black ink. The postmark was circular in shape and was like those of Savannah and Columbus, Ga. At the top were the words "Aerial Sub Station." In the center were the words "Highwood Park" and the date. At the bottom, were the words "Wilimington, N. C." The cancellation consisted of eight lines, one and 5-16 inches in length and 1-16 of an inch in thickness. The words "Aeroplane Mail Service" in large black letters, were printed over the lines and across the stamp or postal card.

No. 8—Los Angeles, Cal.

The eighth aeroplane cancellation comes from California, it being the first to come from that state. This cancellation of which there are three distinct types, was used at a meet held at Dominguez Field, Los Angeles, Cal., January 20 to 28, 1912. The first bird-man to carry mail was Glenn Martin. All of the three types of cancellations used at this meet were in black ink. The types were as follows:

Type 1—Postmark, almost oval shaped, and small. At the top were the words, "Los Angeles, Cal." In the center was the date. At the bottom, were the words, "Aviation Station." At the sides of the postmark was a small star. The cancellation consisted of five wavy lines in the center of which were the words "Aviation Field." The type used in the postmark and the cancellation was small.

Type 2—Same as above, except that the cancellation consisted of six wavy lines, with no printing between them.

Type 3—Postmark was a large circle. At the top, were the words "Aeroplane Station." In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Los Angeles, Cal." The cancellation consisted of four heavy lines, one-eighth of an inch wide. Printed on the second and third lines were the words "Dominguez Field."

On some of the specimens that I have obtained, at the left, is printed, in reddish purple ink "This piece of mail was carried from Aviation Field Postal Station to nearest regular Postoffice at Compton, California."

No. 9—Oakland, Cal.

The ninth aeroplane cancellation is Track, Emeryville, Cal., a small town meet was held at the Emeryville Race Track, Emeryville, Cal; a small town which is bounded on three sides by the city of Oakland. The aviation meet was held February 17 to February 25, 1912. Farnham Fish, the boy aviator, was the aerial mail carrier. The mail service was in use during the entire nine days of the meet. The mail was carried from the special postoffice on the field to the main postoffice, 17th street and Broadway, Oakland, a distance of about 2½ miles. The aeroplane cancellation used at this meet was different from all others previously used. The cancellation was in black ink and consisted of four medium wide lines, the top and bottom lines being one inch in length. The second and third lines were broken and in the center of the broken lines were the words "Aviation Field." The postmark was circular in shape. At the top, were the words "Aeroplane Station." In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Oakland, Cal."

No. 10—Sacramento, Cal.

The tenth aeroplane cancellation comes from Sacramento, Cal., making the third to come from the State of California. An aviation meet was held there Saturday and Sunday, March 2 and 3, 1912. Aviator Phil Parmalee, who was later killed was the bird-man who carried the mail. From a special postoffice on the aviation field, mail was carried to Oak Park, a suburb of Sacramento. Both the postmark and the cancellation were in black ink. The postmark was a double circle. At the top, were the words "Aviation Station." In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Sacramento, Cal." The cancellation was similar to that used at the Oakland meet. It consisted of four wide black lines, 1 3-16 inches in length. The second and third lines were broken, and in the center space thus made were the words "Aviation Field."

No. 11—Baton Rouge, La.

The eleventh aeroplane cancellation comes from the State of Louisiana. An aviation meet was held at the State University Athletic Field, New Orleans, April 10, 1912. Aviator George Mestache made a flight from the field to Baton Rouge, La., a distance of 90 miles, the longest flight ever made, carrying

JOIN THE BOOSTER CLUB.

Don't you want to be initiated into the Booster Club? All it requires is that you put forth a little special effort in boosting MEKEEL'S. Show the paper to some collecting friend and we will do the rest.

Henry R. Cowan of Bangor, Me., writes us:—

"I hereby apply for membership in the Booster Club, basing my application on the fact that here is a dollar to pay for the WEEKLY for a friend of mine for the next two years." This certainly is a tangible bit of boosting and Mr. Cowan is declared entitled to all the rights and privileges of membership in the Booster Club.

mail. Upon making a landing at Baton Rouge, Mestache damaged his aeroplane and the meet, which was scheduled for the following day, was off. Had Mestache alighted safely, he was to have made a flight from Baton Rouge to New Orleans. Had this been done, New Orleans would have had an aeroplane cancellation, as it was planned to have Mestache carry mail on his return flight. The aeroplane cancellation was in blue ink and was quite novel. It consisted of a flag design, with four stars in the upper right hand corner, in a small square; four stripes at the top and three stripes at the bottom of the flag. In the center of the flag were the words "U. S. Aerial Mail Service." The regular Baton Rouge postmark was also used as well as the wavy-lines flag cancellation which is in use at present.

No. 12—Altoona, Pa.

The twelfth aeroplane cancellation comes from the State of Pennsylvania, and was used at an aviation meet held at Altoona, Pa., Saturday afternoon, May 18, 1912. Aviator Walter Brookins for the third time one of the Wright flyers was an aerial mail carrier. Both the postmark and the cancellation were in reddish purple ink. The postmark was circular in shape. At the top were the words "Aerial Post Office No. 1." In the center was the date and at the bottom were the words "Altoona, Pa." Two small stars were at the sides of the postmark. The cancellation consisted of seven wavy lines and was joined to the right side of the postmark.

N. H. Almost Gets One.

New Hampshire came very near having an aeroplane cancellation to add to the list, on May 30, 1912. At the automobile races held at Rockingham Park, Salem Depot, N. H., aviator Lincoln Beachey, the most daring of all the manbirds was scheduled to make a flight from the park of Lawrence, Mass. No special aeroplane cancellation was provided by the post office authorities but the promoters of the races put on sale souvenir postal cards with an aeroplane cancellation printed or stamped upon them. The weather was stormy, Beachey made a few trips in the air, but no mail was carried. The automobile races were postponed until Saturday June 8 but no aviation features were provided, as Beachey was engaged elsewhere.

PHILATELY'S WORLD-WIDE EMBLEM.

The above cut shows a new charm or "emblem" as it is called, to be worn by stamp collectors and thus enable them to be recognized by a fellow-devotee of philately. It is manufactured by an English firm and will no doubt be stocked by American dealers. We feel that our subscribers will be sufficiently interested in this emblem to picture it in the WEEKLY.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Edw. E. Swain, F. W. Lynes (2), Geo. C. Hale, Jr., Fred Dahlberg, John Jacobs, Arthur K. Roberts and E. W. Bridge.

—C. R. Godby, Atlantic, Iowa, sends us a clipping from a local paper describing a display of stamps the property of Mr. Godby that is attracting considerable local attention. Stamp collectors could render much service in stimulating an interest in our hobby by following Mr. Godby's example.

—We are promised a new aeroplane postmark in connection with a state fair to be held near Springfield, Ill., October 4-5. Geo. C. Hale, Jr. sends us a clipping in relation to the same.

—Work is being prosecuted on the Panama-Pacific Exposition stamps. They will appear January 1, 1913.

—The Smith Stamp Exchange formerly of 1007 E. 60 St., Chicago, Ill., has removed to 6251 Drexel Ave., the same city.

—C. F. Rothfuchs, renewing his subscription for two years, writes that Mrs. Rothfuchs is recovering from the effects of her broken arm, and in this their many friends will rejoice.

—We have received from B. Max Mehl the illustrated catalog of his 20th auction sale, to be held Saturday, Sept. 28. The collection of Robert E. French, Oakland, Cal., consisting of rare coins and currency will be sold. We note many rare U. S. and foreign gold and silver coins, cents and half-cents and fractional currency including eight complete sheets.

SCOTT'S CATALOG 1912-1913.

If you are unable to get your dealer to supply you with the new Scott's catalog remit 60c to this office and we will send same with postage paid in an interesting novelty. You cannot afford to collect stamps without Scott's catalog!

NEW STAMPS FOR THIBET.

The Dalai Lama of Tibet is about to issue postage stamps for that country, which until recent years has been a complete stranger to post-office facilities as known to the Western world. W. T. Wilson, the well-known Birmingham dealer, who has frequently given evidence of being extremely well informed as to movements in stamp issues out East, has shown us a complete sheet of twelve of the 1 anna purple stamp, presumably one of the series the Dalai Lama is about to issue.

The stamp itself is a weird and wonderful production, suggestive in its character of the most crude of the emissions of the native feudatory States of India. In the centre, on an uncoloured circular ground, is a mysterious-looking beast, which is identified as the white mountain lion of Tibet.

The white lion is reminscent only in name to that albino creature on Die I. of the Georgian penny stamps of Great Britain; it is enclosed within a broad circular band of colour, on which are native and English inscriptions:—

PODSHUNG
YIG-THE-HU KHA-KANG

which native portions being interpreted read: POD = Tibet, SHUNG = Government, YIG = letter, THE-HU = postage or stamp, KHA = anna, KANG = one.

The spandrel devices are copied from those of the 1 anna stamp of India, and we are informed that it is proposed to copy the ornamentation of the Indian ½ anna for the ½ anna Tibet, and of other Indian values for the respective denominations in the Tibetan series.

The values already in preparation or contemplated are the KHA-CHE (half-anna), the KAR-NGA (two annas) and SHO-KANG (four annas).

Mr. Wilson states that his correspondent, who received the sheet from the very highest quarters in Tibet, adds that he hardly thinks the stamps will ever get to issue, and if they do they certainly cannot last long.—Postage Stamp.

THE BERNICHON SALE.

So desirous was the manager of the Bernichon auction sales to have space in this issue that the cable was called into service to properly exploit the event recorded elsewhere. The catalog of this sale will be of unusual interest to all buyers at auction and a 2c post card is all that is required to have ones name entered for the receipt of this and future catalogs.

NO MEDIUM LIKE THE "WEEKLY."

" We are going to get after things this season. Our success thus far we owe entirely to the pulling qualities of the WEEKLY alone. We tried others in order to reach larger numbers of collectors, who subscribed to other Journals, but it was money thrown away. We certainly got some fine customers from the WEEKLY."—H. H. A. Fox & Co., Oswego, N. Y.

CUBA INVERT 10 ct.

I have purchased the only sheet of this stamp known (10 ct. brown and blue—not the special) it was discovered over a year ago. In view of the wide advertisement of the 1 ct. invert, it is fair to assume every postoffice in Cuba has been carefully searched for inverts. No other 10 ct. has been found, nor is it probable there will be. Never "listed" until now; it will never be any cheaper!

Price on application.

First 25 will be sold at present price, second 25 at $10.00 advance, third 25 at $20.00 advance.

STAMP SERVICE

is what I offer to both buyer and seller. My approval department has been greatly added to by the receipt of stamps from collectors who like my 10 percent idea. I can supply some fine books and sheets of United States and fine foreign at reasonable discounts from catalog. Collectors who would like to receive selections on approval need only to send good references, or A. P. S. number to be accommodated.

Stamps Sold on Commission

This looks good to me, and to lots of collectors. All one has to do is to send me the stamps they wish to dispose of, marked or billed at the price the owner will sell them at. I send these out to my numerous customers, and take out 10 percent of the sales as my commission. The stamps are kept separate—each customer's goods by themselves—so that quick settlement can be made, if it is desired to close an account. A statement of sales is rendered every 30 days and cash remitted for all stamps sold.

I can accommodate a few more sellers who have desirable stamps at fair prices.

Write for further particulars, if my meaning is not fully understood.

"Comparing it with other philatelic papers and so-called magazines one must admit that your paper comes nearer being essential to a stamp collector than any of the others. As long as I take any interest in stamps I hope MEKEEL'S WEEKLY will be published."

The author of the above is W. C. Caldwell, accountant and auditor, Rosedale, Miss., and his two years' renewal reaches our desk as we are closing the forms for this issue. We have always maintained that there is an individuality to MEKEEL'S and every mail that reaches our office witnesses to that individuality. Possibly the most powerful tribute to our paper was the copying of the form, makeup and features of the WEEKLY by a rival publication a few years since.

This week marks an epoch in the history of our paper. We now have 6300 paid subscribers on our mailing list surpassing even the days when we were the official journal of a dozen societies. Our high water mark then was 6200 and of this number there were 500 to 700 whose collecting activities were of the remote past.

Mr. Caldwell voices the reason of our great success in that we are "essential to the stamp collector." We are engaged in building up a great newspaper and we aim to make it indispensable to the collector. Last spring we conducted a campaign that met with marvelous results and now we are out for 7000 subscribers. As they say in Seattle: "Watch us grow."

In the same mail with the Caldwell letter came one from George M. Brack, the assistant cashier of a Minnesota National bank. Mr. Brack writes:—"I am convinced that the WEEKLY is an essential to the recreation."

You can add to the efficiency of the WEEKLY by aiding us in increasing its circulation.

EDITORIAL.

Is That All?—We have just received word from Washington to the effect that Postmaster-General Hitchcock has been quoted as saying that the two-cent Panama Exhibition stamp "is the only one that will be issued in commemoration of the exhibition" and that it is his "intention to have the new stamps ready for the public at the earliest possible time."

Once More—From Mr. Chas. H. Stone, Cambridge, Mass., we have received some particulars regarding the second type of the McKay Sewing Machine license stamps. He says: "I well remember them as during the '60's I was connected with the shoe trade. I enclose one of the stamps that represented two cents, the royalty that every manufacturer who had their shoes soled by the McKay Sewing Machine had to pay the company. The labels came one hundred in a small envelope; and I have an original envelope containing something like forty or fifty of the stamps."

Departmental Order—We have been requested to give space to the following order from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster-General under recent date on "Illegal Conveyance and Diversion of Mail for the Purpose of Taking Advantage of the Drop-Letter Rate":

"It has come to the attention of this Department that letters addressed to patrons of offices not having delivery by carriers are being sent to these offices for mailing from other cities and towns, in various ways other than by the use of the mails, for the purpose of taking advantage of the cent-an-ounce rate, provided for letters mailed at and addressed to patrons of post offices not having free-delivery service by carriers, known as the 'drop-letter rate.'

Postmasters are instructed to inform all persons who tender mail of this character that their action in handling and transporting it, regularly or at stated intervals, from the place at which it originates, and at which it should be mailed, to the place at which they offer it for mailing for the purpose of securing the lower rate, will not only result in a loss of revenue to the Government, but is in violation of Section 181, of the Act of Congress, approved March 4, 1909, which prohibits making provision for the conveyance of letters or packets over post routes, or from any city, town, or place, to any city, town, or place, between which the mail is regularly carried, and that their action may subject them to criminal prosecution.

However, these instructions must not be construed as authorizing any postmaster to refuse to accept such mail for delivery. The postmaster should accept and deliver such mail if tendered after the above instructions have been complied with, and immediately make a full and detailed report to the Third Assistant Postmaster General of all facts in connection with it.

Postmasters at offices of the fourth class are instructed that all such mail is held to be diverted mail, and, while they are not permitted to refuse to accept and deliver it, they will not be allowed commissions on cancellations of postage stamps affixed thereto.

JAMES J. BRITT,
Third Asst. P. M. General."

About Face—In the syllabus of the Liverpool Philatelic Society, it is noticed that a debate is set for April 14th, 1913, on a subject somewhat revolutionary in its suggestions: "Should Great Men's Portraits appear on Postage Stamps?" As it is, tradition has been given a few rebuffs recently. Readers will remember that in an address at Salt Lake City last month, Louis Hill of the Great Northern Railroad said that the faces "of some of our illustrious dead" on postage stamps should be retired in favor of representations of scenic features of this country. We must say sighfully that this is a materialistic age indeed, when the honorable functions of a postage stamp showing the portrait of a great and good man are suspended in the interests of an advertising propaganda. The "human face" is an ideal theme for illustration on a postage stamp; and it wears better than the elaborate design unless it be singularly happy in treatment. We cannot forget the remark of a stamp lover who had sorted over thousands of the two-cent Columbians many years ago who jumped every time thereafter when he saw the stamp in question; he said that the design had got on his nerves.

Our Political Corner—We really must have some political news. Roosevelt stamps have been issued for sale to Progressive partizans who are invited to use them on their letters but at the same time the injunction is conveyed that the stamps should not be affixed to the front of the letters. In suffragette circles this warning has been received coldly. In fact, certain of the more militant leaders have written to the newspapers to inquire somewhat aciduously if it were thought that they did not know the difference between the Ted stamps and red stamps. The newspapers answer vaguely and abashedly; and thereby they have missed a golden opportunity to place the blame on the Taft administration as it was Taft's post-office department that prohibited the use of all such stickers on the face or stamp side of letters.

Advanced—Collectors on this side must make their devoirs to the publicity committee of the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition, London, October 14th-19th, 1912. Just to show that we have no monopoly on advertising enterprise, we quote: "There will be exhibits extending over three-quarters of a mile of interesting and valuable stamp collections sent in by collectors in Great Britain, the United States and many European and other foreign countries and colonies." We have had stamps by the pound, aye, even by the ton, and so why not by the mile. The description is an apt one and should rank with a yard of roses and three feet of books.

Ah!—We have received a card from "The Eastern Advertising Service. Capital $990,856,500 in Our Dreams. O. Joy, Mgr." that wends its merry way as follows: "Do not fail to attend the meeting of the Busting Philatelic Society, Sept. 17th. The September numbers of the Busting Hand Organ and the Boston Radical will positively appear, containing valuable articles by Barren Munchausen, Our Leading Man, and other members of the Ananias Club. Interesting speeches will be given by James Hilo, J. J. Hazzenpfeffer, I. W. Isdone, Would B. Slavery, and Dr. Bunning. Do not fail to attend. Yours very truly, The Under Signed." It may be mentioned here that merely as a coincidence the Boston Philatelic Society will hold a meeting extraordinary on that eventful night. The card has been forwarded to the whilom friend of the WEEKLY, Parnassus Penflip, who still sulks in his tent, in the hope that it rouse him to the necessity for action.

Nearer—Time is performing its well known specialty of flying and in one year from this month, the International Philatelic Exhibition at New York will reveal its glories to the awaiting philatelic populace. The twelve-month will slip away fast and the promoters showed their sapience when they so securely took time by the fore-lock. Even so, the work of preparation looms up formidable but the intelligent efforts of the workers will soon bring order out of the bustle that must precede the opening of any enterprise on a scale of the magnitude of the New York institution.

WORKING OF THE NEW POSTAL LAW.

In response to many inquiries for information, Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., chairman of the senate committee on postoffices and post roads, has prepared the following summary of the provisions of the new Parcel Post law which will become effective Jan. 1, 1913.

Any article is mailable if not over 11 pounds in weight nor more than 72 inches in length and girth combined, nor likely to injure the mails or postal equipment or employees.

Flat rate of 1 cent per ounce up to 4 ounces regardless of distance.

Above 4 ounces, rates are by the pound or fraction thereof, and varying with distance as follows:

	First Pound.	Additional Pound.	11 Pounds
Rural route and city delivery	.05	.01	.15
50-mile zone	.05	.03	.35
150-mile zone	.06	.04	.46
300-mile zone	.07	.05	.57
600-mile zone	.08	.06	.68
1000-mile zone	.09	.07	.79
1400-mile zone	.10	.09	1.00
1800-mile zone	.11	.10	1.11
Over 1800 miles	.12	.12	1.32

The postmaster general may make provision for indemnity, insurance, and collection on delivery, with additional charges for such service, and may with the consent of the interstate commerce commission after investigation, modify rates, weights and zone distances, when experience has demonstrated the need therefor.

THE RAILWAY POST-OFFICE.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

The railway mail service is the circulatory system of the post-office department, and is as necessary to it as veins and arteries are to the human body. America has the most perfect and most highly developed system of distributing mail matter en route of any nation in the world.

Every mail-car is designated a railway post-office, and contains a post-marking stamp, postal supplies, and other necessary adjuncts. The post-office is named from the two terminals, never from the name of the railroad. For instance we have the "Pitts. & St. Louis RPO," which in every-day language is the Pittsburg and St. Louis Railway Post Office. So high a degree of efficiency is required that even names must be abbreviated. The average employe will speak of this line as the "Pitts." The Chattanooga & Memphis RPO is familiarly known as the "Chat," and nearly all others are similarly abbreviated.

In naming a railway post-office, the northern or eastern terminal comes first, always. This is only another little item in the highly perfected system. Sometimes there are several railway post-office lines between the same terminals and some intermediate junction point finds a place on the post-marking stamp. Thus we have the "Chicago & Cincinnati RPO," the "Chicago, Richmond & Cincinnati RPO," and the "Chicago, Monon & Cincinnati RPO." On the postmark these will read Chic & Cin, Chic, Rich & Cin, Chic, Monon & Cin.

The railway mail service was first developed along in the early seventies, and it seems to me that an entire containing a postmark of the first railway post-office would be a very valuable curiosity, indeed. In fact, a few clean-cut post-marks from this branch of the service make an interesting addition to any collection. Postmark collectors will find them of more than passing interest and the task of making a complete collection less difficult than might be supposed.

CHAMPION'S 1913 CATALOGUE.

This Standard French Catalog will be issued early in September and we are desirous that our many subscribers shall be made acquainted with its merits. To this end we make a subscription offer of more than ordinary interest.

The price of the Champion catalog is 85c. We will present you a copy of this catalog free of charge if you will remit $2.00 for four years' subscription to the WEEKLY. This offer comes well within the P. O. regulations regarding premiums on subscriptions and at the same time is a liberal offer.

You may if you desire send in your renewal for two years and, as well, a new subscription for some friend for two years: Add the Champion Catalog to your library.

INTERNATIONAL STAMP EXHIBITION.

As already stated the contingents of visitors from abroad, and from the provinces is likely to be exceptionally large, and not to be lacking in appreciation of the world-wide interest that is being taken in the Exhibition, the programme of entertainment has been extended.

The specal functions already arranged for are:

The Opening Ceremony.—This will take place about 3.30 p. m. on Monday, October 14, and admission will be by invitations, such invitations being extended to all foreign visitors, members of the Philatelic Club, exhibitors, donors of 10sh 6d and upwards, and to all subscribers for the two official functions, viz., the Banquet on Wednesday, October 16, and the Ball on Friday, October 18.

Official Banquet.—This will be held in the International Hall of the Cafe Monico, Regent Street, W, on Wednesday, October 16, time 7.30 to 8. It is hoped that as many members and friends as possible will have ladies accompanying them. The charge for tickets for the Banquet is 6s each.

It is expected that by Wednesday the Jury will have completed their work of judging the competitive exhibits, and that the announcement of their awards will be first made at the Official Banquet.

Ball and Supper in honour of the Foreign Visitors.—It is desired that this function should be attended by all interested in the Exhibition whether as workers, members of the J. P. S., or visitors, as it is expressly designed to mark the courtesy and hospitality due to visitors who have travelled from foreign countries to visit us. By arrangement with the directors, the Entertainment Committee have secured the use of the magnificent ball-room of the Imperial Hotel, together with the luxurious winter-gardens, and adjoining suite. The guests will be received in the Winter-Gardens from 9 p. m. to 9.30, and dancing will commence at 9.30. Light refreshments will be served in the buffet and Winter-Gardens throughout the evening, and at 11.30 there will be an hour's interval for supper. The arrangements for this function already forecast a great success but it is hoped that everyone who possibly can will attend. The tickets will be 6s each, the price of tickets including the ball, table d'hote supper, and light refreshments.

PANAMA CANAL COMMEMORATIVES.

Newspapers have reported quite generally that there was to be but one value of the new series. We have received official word from James J. Britt, Third Assistant Postmaster General that the issue will consist of four denominations. According to our chronicle of Sept 7 the following will be issued:—

1c green, Balboa
2c carmine, Gatun Locks
5c blue, Golden Gate
10c ———, San Francisco Bay.

A Chat With the Advertiser!

Right in the face of the summer season we have performed the great achievement of reaching the mark of 6300 paid up subscribers. Two years ago we had 6200 but 500 were deadwood so far as purchasing power was concerned. We are not satisfied, nor shall we be content until we have reached 7000.

In the last Post Card Exchange A. T. Nelson, the editor, said:—

"MEKEEL'S WEEKLY is the leading stamp journal of the world, there is none better. The manager of the Exchange has been a subscriber for over twelve years and would not be without it, for many times its price."

We are perfectly willing to accept Mr. Nelson's judgment.

By the way have you stamps to sell? We can sell them—sure thing—we mean business. Just write us what you want to do.

This week we introduce the H. H. A. Fox Co. of Oswego, N. Y., very reliable with a leaning towards Br. Colonials. Aug. Fischer of Louisville, Ky. resumes his advertising and will be with us regularly.

These are busy days for us and we want to make your days busy. All you need is a series of advertisements in MEKEEL'S.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by Henry A. Kidder.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

United States.—A kind note from D. H. Graham renewing his allegiance to the "Chronicle," now that vacation is over, contained in an amber envelope which has been folded the wrong way, the stamp and return card being on the inside of the envelope, with the stamp at the left. The cover passed through the mail, the postmark being in the usual place, but the stamp of course is uncancelled. Mr. Graham reports that he has received word that the 2c envelope, old knife, watermarked "U S P O D—1911," on amber, size 5, is scarce. He has size 13, Die A2. Mr. Graham also has the new variety E 2c on white, amber and blue, watermarked, "U. S. S. E.—1911" and on white watermarked "U S P O D—1911".

D. H. Graham has shown us the current 2c postage due stamp on paper with the new watermark, and in a new shade, a bright clear rosy shade of claret.

Ægean Islands.—Notwithstanding the Italian Government has authorized the use of Italian stamps in the islands of Calymnos, Cos and Leros, occupied by its armed forces, some local parties, with an enterprise equal to that of the Cretans, have already provided a series of stamps. These were printed in Athens and are of the same size, paper and perforation as the current Greek stamps. Three designs have been provided 1, 5, and 10 lepta. The design shows the head of Pallas, with the value at the top and Greek words at the bottom meaning "Confederation of the Islands."

Barbados.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us further values in the new set, and we find that there are three distinct designs. The values from ¼d to 2½d are in the design already described. The 3d, 4d and 6d are of the same size as the lower values, but the sugar cane has been removed, and the tablet containing the value appears in the upper right corner, the tablet being a horizontal oblong, with an ornamental frame. The spaces by the King's portrait are filled in with flowers, a broad view of the sea appearing in place of the tablet as in the lower values. The shilling values are of larger size, 25x34 mm., the King's portrait being placed at the top, with tablets containing the value at either side. Britannia occupies the centre of the bottom part of the stamp, groups of palms rising at either side, and extending to the top frame line under the value tablets. The name of the colony runs across the bottom of the stamp as in the lower denominations.

James V. Devenny also sends us specimens of the new 3d and 4d stamps.

French Colonies.—Champion's Bulletin gives the following information regarding the series of provisionals chronicled in No. 1128:

For some time there was talk of the suppression of certain values of the Colonial stamps which were no longer current. At first they had decided to send to the different colonies, the stocks remaining in the Colonial office of the older emissions of the group type. The supplies of some values were considerable, and it was thought that these stamps would never be exhausted. At first they wished to destroy them; afterwards the question was in what manner to surcharge them to transform them into the values of 5c and 10c. It was this last plan which was finally decided upon, and it was decided to surcharge only the values of which there remained in stock at least 30,000 copies. This was finally done. There were 32 different values provided, but owing to the fragility of the paper on which the stamps were printed, a large number were broken and damaged in the course of the printing. Certain values have seen their issue reduced to a figure very much restricted. Of the 10c on 5fr Martinique only 36,000 stamps were issued; of the 5c on 30c French Guinea, only 32,000, and of the 10c on 75c French Guinea and 10c on 75c Reunion, only 29,000 each. Therefore there were only 29,000 complete series issued, which is small in view of the great number of collectors and the welcome given these stamps upon their appearance.

Germany.—John F. Willmott has shown us one of the aviation cards and stamps mentioned in No. 1132. The stamp has no official character, being cancelled with a special cancellation reading "Flug post am Rhein u. am Main" in a large circle, with "Frankfurt (Main)" and the date. The card is headed "Flug Post-Karte." The value of the aviation stamp is 20pf, and is placed on the left end of the card, an imperial stamp of 10pf being placed at the right in the usual place.

Roumania.—According to Champion's Bulletin, Roumania is to have a new series of postage stamps most artistic in design and brilliant in execution. The competition established by the Roumanian Director of Posts has given very satisfactory results, especially the designs for the 15b and 40b which will reproduce the Palace of Posts at Bucarest and a part of the post of Constanja. These are marvels of finish and beauty; if the other values resemble them, the new series may certainly be counted among the prettiest and most attractive in existence.

Straits Settlements.—Johore.—Whitfield King & Co. report the 2c of the current set to be added to those which have been issued on paper watermarked multiple quatrefoil or flower.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE NEW HEBRIDES CONDOMINIUM.

Early Postal Arrangements.

The earliest attempt at a systematic development of the Islands' resources was undertaken by a firm established in Noumea in 1882, under the title of the "Compagnie Caledonienne des Nouvelles Hebrides," who acquired considerable tracts of land in the group, and established stations at Port Vila, Port Sandwich, the Bougainville Straits, and on the island of Vanua Lava in the Torres and Banks Islands. The cultivation of coffee, cocoa, vanilla, etc., and the manufacture of copra was undertaken by the Company on an extensive scale. For the purpose of conveying the copra out of the Islands, a steamer was engaged to make monthly trips between Noumea and the New Hebrides. In 1894, however, this firm was compelled to go into liquidation, and its holdings in the Islands were transferred to a new syndicate known as the "Societe Francaise des Nouvelles Hebrides." Since 1898 this firm has been in receipt of an annual subsidy of Fr. 360,000 from the French Government to encourage their development of the Islands. A regular postal service was organised in 1900 between New Caledonia and Noumea by the Company's steamers, which left the latter port eleven times a year for an itinerary of the principal settlements in the New Hebrides. Letters conveyed by this service were franked with the contemporary postage stamps of New Caledonia, but it is stated that the postal system was at that time entirely a marine one, no French post offices being then established in the group.

Meanwhile, in 1887, a second commercial venture had been launched in Sydney, N. S. W., for the development of the British concessions in the New Hebrides, and the assistance of the Australian settlers, styled the "Australasian New Hebrides Company, Limited." So rapid was the progress made by this Company, that in a very short time it had practically obtained control of the Islands' trade. Regular postal communication between Sydney and Port Vila was inaugurated in 1892-93 by a steamship service, maintained under subsidy of the Governments of New South Wales and Victoria, the former contributing £1,200 and the latter £1,000. Under this arrangement the s. s. "Rockton," of the Australian United Steam Navigation Company, made a monthly call at Port Vila on the voyage to or from Fiji, carrying freight, passengers and the mails, whilst an interisland service was maintained by a smaller vessel, the "Croydon," which touched at all the Islands and returned to Vila in time to connect with the monthly mail steamer. It was about this time that an agency of the New South Wales Post Office was opened in Port Vila. At first postage had to be prepaid in cash, and the letters together with the money for the postage, were forwarded to the G. P. O. at Sydney, where the postage stamps of that State were affixed to carry them on to their ultimate destinations. Subsequently New South Wales stamps were placed on sale at the Port Vila agency and a special postmark was introduced, consisting of a single-line circle inscribed "NEW HEBRIDES—VILA" round the circumference, struck in black. The earliest dated postmark known to the writer is Sep. 10, 95.

The stamps first employed were those of the value of 2½d in the "Advance Australia" type of 1891-94, which, on the reduction of the Australian internal postal tariff to 2d, was superceded by that denomination of the 1897 series. A small roughly formed postmark, similar to the one described above, but struck in violet, is said to have been employed on ship letters.

In 1894 the subsidized steamship service was discontinued, but a small steamer was purchased by the Australasian New Hebrides Company on their own initiative, by which an interisland service was maintained between some sixty-five points in the group, the round trip occupying three weeks. After a short time, a direct steamship service with Sydney was also opened up under the Company's auspices, connecting with the inter-island steamer at Port Vila.

For the use of this service there were issued on March 17th, 1897, two denominations of particular postage stamps which were available for franking correspondence conveyed by the firm's vessels only, within the New Hebrides, themselves. On and after June 1st of that year, however, letters for Sydney and beyond were required to bear one of the Company's stamps in addition to an ordinary 2½d stamp of New South Wales. The postal tariff both inter-island and to Australia by this private service was as follows:—

Letters, per ½ oz. or fraction thereof,	1d
Packets and magazines, not exceeding 4 oz.,	1d
Ditto, for every additional 4 oz. or portion thereof,	1d
Parcels, per 8 oz. or fraction thereof,	1d
Newspapers, per 8 oz.,	1d
Registration fee,	2d

These stamps were issued at the suggestion of a well-known Australian philatelist, Mr. A. F. Bassett Hull, who is also reputed to have been responsible for the design, consisting of a panoramic view of Port Vila, enclosed in an ornamental frame, inscribed, "The Australasian New Hebrides Company, Limited." The words "Inter-island Postage" appear across the top of the stamps, and the value in figures and words at the foot, whilst beneath the central vignette is the name "Port Vila"; the remainder of the design being filled in with fanciful ornamentations.

They were lithographed in two colours by Messrs. John Sands & Co., of Sydney, in sheets of 120, composed of twelve rows of ten stamps, on heavy white wove paper without watermark, and were rouletted. On the margins of the sheets of 1d stamps was the following inscription, "Australasian New Hebrides Company, Limited. Inter-Island Postage. Price 1d per label, 1s per row of 12, 10s per sheet of 120," whilst the sheets of the 2d value were similarly inscribed. The sheets were all numbered consecutively in black in the top left-hand corner, on the margin.

These local postage stamps were cancelled with special postmarks, of which there are two distinct types. The first consisted of a single-line circle lettered "Port Vila Post—New Hebrides—A. N. H. Co. Ltd." and the date, in five lines, and was employed exclusively at Port Vila. The second and commoner type bore the words "Travelling Post Office," and was employed in cancelling letters posted on board of the Company's steamers at places where there was no regular postal station.

Summary.

1897. March 17th. Local postage stamps of the Australasian New Hebrides Company. Two values. Design as above by Mr. A. F. Bassett Hull. Bicoloured. Centre in second colour. Lithographed in two operations by Messrs. John Sands & Co. of Sydney, in sheets of 120, twelve rows of 10 on thick white wove unwatermarked paper. Rouletted.

1d lilac and black.
2d brown and blue.

Variety.

The writer has seen a copy of the 2d value on undoubtedly toned paper, and the 1d probably exists in a similar condition.

Toned Paper.

1d lilac and black.
2d brown and blue.

These stamps are comparatively plentiful and can be secured without difficulty, the reason for this being that they were obtainable in complete sheets for some considerable time after their discontinuance at face value, both unused and postmarked to order.

A slump in the Cotton Market consequent on the Spanish-American War brought about the failure of the Australasian New Hebrides Company, which was wound up with a total deficit of over £25,000. Its concession in the Islands was acquired by the well-known Sydney trading firm of Burns, Philp & Co., who established regular steamship communication with the New Hebrides and also an inter-island service, under Government subsidy, which they still maintain. The subsidy was increased in 1902 when the firm transferred its territorial rights in the group to the Federal Government of Australia.

A series of four pictorial stamps purporting to have been issued for local use by a firm styling itself the "Syndicat Francais des Nouvelles Hebrides," which made their appearance in September, 1903, are, so far as can be ascertained, of an entirely bogus character. They were issued by a Noumea newspaper entitled the "Journal des Nouvelles Hebrides" which had for its mission the stirring up of public opinion in France in favour of the annexation of the islands to New Caledonia the sheet being distributed gratis. In order to recoup themselves in part for this loss, the proprietors hit upon the idea of organizing a French local post in the New Hebrides, for the use of which these special postage stamps were prepared. They were inscribed "Nouvelles Hebrides 1903—Syndicat Francais—Poste Locale" and showed a view of Franceville (Port Vila), and a native aborigine respectively, and were roughly lithographed in sheets of 100 composed of four panes of twenty-five in five rows of five, on medium white wove unwatermarked paper, the perforation gauging 12.

Despite the fact that the authorities refused to authorise their employment in the New Hebrides for postal purposes, these labels were placed on sale to all and sundry, and for some time found a ready market until their true status became known. With a view to imparting a semblance of legitimacy to their issue, it is stated that an agent of the newspaper was despatched to Port Vila with a supply of the stamps affixed to dummy letters which were duly postmarked on board steamer with a circular date stamp inscribed "Port Vila-Nouvelles Hebrides." Subsequently the stamps were suppressed by the postal authorities in Noumea, and to-day they are of considerable scarcity. Notwithstanding their bogus character they are not without interest for the collector of New Hebrides stamps and the few complete sets that are in existence to-day are in great demand. The series was comprised as follows:

5 centimes blue and blue-green (View of Franceville).
15 centimes brown and black (Native aborigine and vegetation).
25 centimes carmine and black (View of Franceville).
1 franc green & dark-blue (Native aborigine).

There would appear to have been two French postal agencies in operation in the New Hebrides during the early part of the present century, the stamps of New Caledonia, series 1892 (Commerce and Navigation) of the values 5, 10, 15 and 25 centimes being known postmarked "Port Vila-Nlles. Hebrides" and "Nlles. Hebrides-Pt. Sandwich" with varieties of dates. The pictorial series of 1905 is also known with New Hebrides postmarks.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

ERRORS.

It is an old and trite saying that "mistakes will happen in the best regulated families" and in the production of postage stamps mistakes occasionally happen in the most careful printing establishments. These mistakes, or errors, have a peculiar fascination for most philatelists and, as they are generally of considerable rarity, they are expensive luxuries.

Perhaps the most interesting class of errors are those known to stamp collectors as "inverted centers." These occur on stamps printed in two colors and which, of course, require two printings to complete them. Only two issues of United States stamps have been printed by the bi-color process and, curiously enough, in both of these errors with inverted centers occur. In the issue of 1869 the four highest values were each printed in two colors and of these the 15c, 24c, and 30c are known with the centers upside down. As the cheapest of these is catalogued at $225 they are varieties the vast majority of collectors must be content to do without. In the Pan-American issue of 1901 three of the six denominations are known with the central pictures wrong way up. Of these the 1c, and 2c were regularly issued and though the 4c all came from an unissued "specimen" sheet they nevertheless command high prices. Of the stamps printed by the better known firms De La Rue and Co. have been responsible for only one error of this sort, one sheet of the 7½d value of the 1897 issue for Tonga being inadvertently sent out to this British protectorate with the head of the King upside down. It is a scarce stamp and usually sells for about $100. The famous firm of Perkins Bacon and Co. have been responsible for two inverted center errors in recent issues of Liberia while another well-known London firm—Waterlow & Sons Ltd.—have let loose quite a number of these errors among stamps printed for such countries as Nyassa, Liberia, Uruguay, and Congo. Spain and India both furnish inverted center errors among their earlier issues the 4a of the 1854 issue for India with inverted head being an exceptionally rare variety. Another famous rarity of this sort is the first 4d stamp issued in Western Australia in 1854. It is by far the rarest of Australian stamps and is worth about $2,000. This error is not a bi-colored stamp but was caused by the faulty placing of a transfer in making up the lithographic stone for this value. This stone was made up of transfers of the central part of the 1d stamp of the same issue with frames added. In the variety forming the "inverted swan" the frame was placed wrong way up so this variety should, correctly speaking, be described as inverted frame.

The American Bank Note Co. have allowed quite a number of inverted center stamps to leave their establishment at different times some of these, such as the Dominican Republic stamps of 1902, being comparatively common.

Other errors of considerable interest are those having incorrect inscriptions. The rarest of these is probably the 20 öre stamp of the 1872-76 issue for Sweden bearing the word "TRETIO" (30) instead of "TJUGO" (20) though the correct numerals are shown and the stamp was sold and used as a 20 öre stamp. Another scarce variety occurs among the 1859 stamps of Lubeck the 2sch being known with correct numerals but worded "ZWEI EIN HALB" that is 2½sch. Among more modern and commoner stamps it will be recalled that the first supply of the 2½d stamps issued in New Zealand in 1898 were lettered "WAKITIPU," instead of "WAKATIPU." Another instance will be found on some of the 18c stamps issued in North Borneo in 1897 these being inscribed "POSTAL REVENUE" instead of "POSTAGE & REVENUE."

Sometimes stamps have been doubly printed in error or printed on both sides of the paper. The former, generally known as double impressions, are not very plentiful the best known instances being, probably, the ½ and 2 annas stamps of the 1883 issue of India. Among stamps printed on both sides of the paper such countries as Tasmania, South Australia, Austria, Turkey, Bolivar, and Venezuela are represented the value generally standing in direct ratio to the philatelic interest of the country.

Occasionally stamps have been printed in the wrong colors, these errors being due to different causes. Some of the most interesting and valuable of these wrong color stamps have been caused by an electrotype of one value being inserted in the "plate" of another value. The best known of these are perhaps the "woodblock" errors of the Cape of Good Hope. In at least one printing of these locally produced triangulars a 4d cliche was inserted on the 1d plate and a 1d one on the 4d so that we find the 1d printed in blue instead of red and the 4d printed in red instead of blue. Another instance will be found in the North Borneo stamps of 1886. In making up the first plate for the 4c stamps a 1c cliche was inadvertently inserted so that this value exists in rose instead of the more usual orange.

In printing the 1865 stamps for Western Australia De La Rue & Co. managed to make two errors some of the 2d stamps being printed in mauve (the color allotted to the 6d) and some of the 1s being printed in bistre (the color of the 1d). In both cases the number printed must have been small judging by their present rarity. Another color error made by the same firm of printers occurs in the 1s stamps of Tobago. The whole of a supply sent to this Colony in 1896 was printed in orange-brown—the color of the 6d. The error was noticed directly the stamps reached Tobago but they were placed on sale nevertheless, but very few were actually used as most of them were bought up by speculators.

Other stamps have been issued imperforate or partly imperforate when they ought to have been perforated; some have been printed on paper intended for the stamps of other countries; and many have been printed with the paper wrong way up so that the watermark appears inverted, though these inverted watermark varieties are of little interest to most collectors.

Finally we have surcharged stamps which provide errors and varieties galore. We find surcharges omitted, inverted, double, treble, printed in wrong colors or from incorrect type, with letters or figures transposed or with altogether wrong ones, etc. In fact of surcharged errors there is no end and as it is surprising how easily some errors can be overlooked we advise our readers to examine their stamps carefully.

THE MATTER OF COMMISSION.

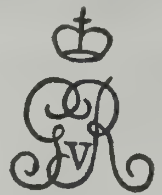
James E. Parker, Newark, O., writes us as follows:—

"I should like to know whether it is customary for stamp dealers to mark the stamps upon their approval sheets higher than the catalogue prices. I have just received an approval selection marked in this manner and when I wrote and asked for a reason the firm stopped sending me approvals and never answered my letter."

In reply to this complaint we wish to say that we shall be very glad to know the names of any dealers using the WEEKLY who send out approval sheets marked in the manner indicated and upon which a "commission" is granted.

THE ROYAL CIPHER WATERMARK.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.



The appearance of the first postage stamp with the new Royal Cipher watermark leads us to a consideration this week of some of the consequences of so radical a change in the watermarking of our British stamps.

It has already been emphasised in the Postage Stamp that the "All-over" or as philatelists have hitherto called it the Multiple watermark indicates a definite trend of progress in stamp-manufacture. The advantages of the "all-over" system over the registered or "single" watermark are considerable in printing establishments which are required to print vast editions of stamps. On this account we foresee the probability of the extension of this method not alone to British overseas dominions but also to many foreign countries that have hitherto used only the registered watermark.

Already the conventional crown is passing out from stamp printing in foreign states; the case of Sweden may be cited where the new papers are either without watermark or have an all-over watermark of wavy lines.

The convenience of the all-over watermark is to be found not in one detail of printing, but in several.

First of all there is register. The paper,, before it is ready for the press has to undergo several preparatory processes, e.g., cutting, glazing, gumming and these are all mechanical processes. With the "single" or "registered" watermark device the paper must be adjusted with absolute precision in the guillotine machine, otherwise the watermark will be out of register when the sheets are printed. So, too, the printing-plate and the paper must be very finely adjusted for registration in the press. This precision of register involves the expenditure of much time, and its ultimate success is by no means certain as there are still to be reckoned such factors as the conditions of the paper, paper stretch and machining.

With the all-over watermark, however, there is a margin of watermarked area capable of extending to a slight but sufficient degree beyond the printing surface of the plate on all sides. This at once reduces the difficulties of register as the watermarked area itself is so thickly spread with the repetitions of the device that no stamp can fail to have its due complement of watermark.

Next there have to be considered the effect of the watermark upon the paper and the tendency which the single device, e.g., the crown, has to spoil the printing effect, especially where as in our British stamps, the stamp itself bears a representation of the Sovereign. Now-a-days, by means of spring balances the pressure of the dandy-roll on the paper in process of manufacture (whereby the watermark effect is produced) can be gauged with fair precision, but although in principle the pressure of the watermark "bits" in the pulpy paper should not have the effect of making the paper surface uneven, the condition is familiar enough to philatelists where a watermark obtrudes itself on the face of the stamp. This in stamp printing is not good, as an obtrusive watermark makes the stamp design print dull in parts, and usually in those parts which are most liable to show up to disadvantage.

With the single or registered watermark system it is practically impossible to entirely eliminate this defect, the watermark bits being set wide apart. Where, however, they are spread "all-over" the paper, a larger proportion of the paper is actually watermarked and the surface of the paper is more evenly affected by the watermark.

With the new postage stamp paper for Great Britain there are some points of novelty not of a technical, but certainly of a very interesting character, which call for remark.

For seventy-two years the "Crown" has been the watermark chiefly used for the stamps of Great Britain. Now, in 1912, we are witnessing a change from the Crown to the Royal Cipher, a change fraught with considerable possibilities of philatelic interest. It will be obvious that such a change implies a necessity for change with the accession of each new Sovereign. This need present no difficulties to the manufacturer, as a new dandy-roll could be prepared and an enormous stock of paper prepared with it long before a British government department could prepare its designs, dies, and plates for stamps of a new reign.

The contingency of the stamps of one Sovereign being printed on a paper watermarked with the Cipher of a predecessor or a successor will of course at once strike the philatelist as within the range of probability. For our part we would not find in such a contingency any cause for complaint, but if it were against the tenets of the ingenious deviser of our new watermark it would only require the exercise of care on the part of the contractors to avoid such a contingency.

Finally, we are inclined to the belief that the new watermark itself is a distinct improvement on the crown device. The watermark in our stamps is primarily a protection against the illicit printing of postage stamps, yet there seems to be no recognised monopoly in this country in the use of a simple crown device like that which has been so long familiar as the watermark in our stamps. Tom, Dick, or Harry could have made to his order paper watermarked with a crown, and probably no offence could be proved unless he could be shewn to have printed forgeries of our stamps upon such paper. But the Royal Cipher is much more characteristic and distinctive; it is a royal emblem to the unauthorised use of which as a paper-watermark legal objection might be taken. So we may welcome the new watermark which for the first time in our British stamp history associates the Royal Cipher with the stamps of our reigning Sovereign.—Postage Stamp.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

The writer is by nature an optimist and for this he is thankful. Optimism bespeaks optimism and looking upon the bright side of things makes one happy and companionable with a more than even chance at prosperity.

The stamp collector and the stamp dealer have every reason to delight in the general trend of matters philatelic. Looking at things from the standpoint of the greatest publicity agent of which our hobby can boast, there seems to be a bustle that portends great activity for the stamp trade this winter.

We make this estimate with our own publication and its varied interests as a basis for our remarks. We have great faith in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. It is a live exponent of philately, a great missioner for the stamp collecting hobby and has a mailing list that now numbers 6,400 paid subscribers. Its value as an exponent of philately cannot be fully estimated.

We have large plans for the winter months and money will be freely expended to produce a paper, better, if possible, than ever before. We shall advertise extensively and increase the interest in philately to the fullest degree. We heartily believe that we are on the way to the greatest prosperity ever achieved. Our views are but the views of others and we append some opinions as voiced by a few representative dealers:—

J. W. SCOTT, N. Y. City.

Not being the seventh son or the son of a seventh son or even the father of seven sons we are unable to prophesy, but our books show that the first two weeks in September record the biggest sales in our history, and probably would make a record in philatelic sales. The stamp season opens first of September, so we think the indications are exceptionally good. The great stamp exhibition will open in about a year from this date and collectors are getting busy, many additional thousands will be spent this fall bringing collections up to prize winning standard. Another indication of what we think of trade prospects is shown by our setting the date for the celebrated Billwiller auction in the coming November. One word more, your readers are among the bright spirits of philately, have they considered that when a bargain is offered in your advertising columns that the time to order is now, immediately after seeing something they want offered cheap. Delays are dangerous and the bigger the bargain the quicker it goes. Amongst your thousands of readers at least ten hundred want every genuine bargain. Probably there never was a bargain offered in your columns which could be supplied to a thousand collectors, therefore many get left, but the live ones get the goods and are happy evermore.

FREEMAN PUTNEY, JR., N. Y. City.

Since resuming my position as head of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., in July, I have been particularly struck with the way in which the demand for high class stamps has persisted through the summer. This applies particularly to fine copies of old issues such as our European friends now call "classic" stamps. Things that were very easy to secure five years ago seem to be almost impossible to get hold of today.

I must confess that after not having been in touch with the market for the past year, I was somewhat skeptical in the advance of prices of U. S. stamps shown in the 1912 Scott Catalogue. Three months' actual experience of the demand and the supply, however, has convinced me that the present market prices for fine copies are amply justified by conditions and we shall probably have to raise some quotations on U. S. in our Monthly Circular within the next few months.

The demand for old Europeans is also strong with little fine stuff to be had. We advertised to buy a number of old Europeans some weeks ago and although a number of consignments were sent us, there was practically nothing in fine condition.

British Colonials are a little more plentiful and it may be that most catalogue prices are as high as they should be at present. These stamps as a class, however, will always be the most popular in the world and if they are taking a little rest at present, any surplus is likely to be absorbed before people realize it and they are likely to take a new and unexpected jump at any time.

COLLECTIONS ON APPROVAL

Here is something mighty good for the busy man. We have divided Scott's International Albums into 10 volumes and mounted in them a collection consisting of mostly medium priced stamps which will catalog about $5000. The net price is marked under each stamp and you can compare them with your Scott album page for page and see at a glance what you need. While value of book will vary, they are approximately as follows. Book can be sent to those ready to spend at least $10 at a time. Special 10% discount on purchases of $25 or more. Goods priced in most cases at about half list though hundreds in each book are marked less than half.

Early South Americans, particularly those countries which have attracted the attention of specialists who go in for plating, minor varieties, etc., are scarce and constantly growing better.

Twentieth Century stamps, from what I can judge, have been resting a little and perhaps recovering from the overboom they suffered several years ago. I expect, however, to see a big new demand for 20th Century stamps as soon as the new 20th Century Album appears late in the fall.

Taken all in all, the outlook for the coming season looks to me exceedingly bright.

P. M. WOLSIEFFER, Chicago, Ill.

The outlook of the stamp business for the coming season is most satisfactory in every way, and looks like a record breaker for the stamp concerns that have the stock to supply the demand.

Although I carry no regular stock on hand but keep it circulating, yet I am receiving a larger number of want lists and requests for certain things than ever before. It is a well known fact that a number of prominent concerns are making efforts to secure many of the medium priced stamps and will pay from 50% to 75% of 1912 catalog prices and in several instances have had representatives to attend auction sales and purchase at prices up to and in some instances over catalog.

Even the slow countries like Columbian Republic, Greece, Hawaii, India, Japan, Montenegro, Transvaal, Turkey, Venezuela etc., are beginning to feel the effects of this persistent buying of the medium priced 19th Century stamps and are enjoying a bonus in a mild way.

In my particular line the "Auction" field is not at all active, nothing of any importance being offered, and what I have booked has been on hand for six months or more. This would indicate that collectors are not selling but buying. Other concerns report a like state of affairs.

The Sales Department of the American Philatelic Society also reflects the same state of affairs, plenty of cheap books sent in but nothing very attractive or salable, while the demand for good desirable material is very strong.

Evidently the election this year is not scaring anybody that collects stamps so far as I can see and if the philatelic season continues as it has started out we will certainly have a banner year.

PERCIVAL PARRISH, Philadelphia, Pa.

From all indications the Philadelphia Stamp Co. believes that we are approaching one of the biggest stamp seasons in the history of philately. We base this opinion upon the fact that such a large number of collectors of mature years are already actively at work on their collections and in the market for the best class of stamps. Furthermore, we find that the business in new issues has been greatly stimulated by the new King George stamps. We have also had quite a call for albums and catalogues, together with a gratifying amount of new business. Auction prices during the latter part of last season were excellent for good specimens. As evidence of the demand for scarce and unusual things, we call attention to the sale of blocks of six of the 5c and 10c 1847 unused at $190 and $625 respectively, making a total of $815 for stamps catalogued at $261. These prices were realized at a sale we held about the first of July. The two blocks were not in the best of condition at that, the 5's being somewhat the worse for wear and two of the 10's being creased, but of course, the stamps were unusual and the sale only goes to show that the biggest prices will be paid for goods of this character. We have similar instances on our books of other stamps.

Excellent crops are being harvested and the general business of the country is picking up rapidly so that we seem to be nearing a boom period which will, of course, be beneficial to philately. We have several exceptionally fine auction sales booked for this season and feel confident that the prices realized will be exceedingly good because of the favorable conditions referred to.

H. F. COLMAN, Washington, D. C.

Judging from last year's trade and even during the summer season I feel convinced the stamp business will steadily improve during the coming year. U. S. and its colonies have been great sellers and are now seemingly priced altogether too low and I will be compelled to raise prices all along the line when I get out my 1913 list this fall. From 1906-1912 Scott's prices on U. S. stamps show a net increase of only between 4% and 5%, or something less than an average of 1% per year. There is such a strong demand for these stamps and dealers' stocks are now so badly depleted that the only thing left is to advance prices which I understand is to occur in the 1913 catalogue.

FRED MICHAEL, Chicago, Ill.

Were you at the Chicago Philatelic Society Auction, Thursday, September 19? If so you would have seen the room full of enthusiastic men and you would have seen the old half catalogue line crossed many times by eager purchasers. Truly the sight promised a season of prosperity to the Society and Chicago dealers.

The boys are beginning to drop in, the sale of albums has begun and from the enquiries regarding Scott's new 20th Century, its sale promises to be of startling proportions.

"Nothing succeeds like success" and the collector of "King Edwards" who has seen his stamps rush comet-like upwards are now eagerly seeking King Georges. The September sales of local dealers have been of gratifying proportions.

AN IMPORTANT TRANSACTION.

Frank E. Goodwin of St. Louis, Mo., our well known contributor and advertiser, has acquired a very fine range of early covers dated from 1847 to 1868, the property of Mr. Jac. Meyer of New Orleans. Mr. Meyer it will be remembered recently favored us with a plate illustrating an interesting Tuscumbia cover.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—"Modern Numismatic Auction Records" is the title of a pretty booklet just issued by B. Max Mehl, Ft. Worth, Tex. If interested in coin collecting write Mr. Mehl for a specimen. Printed in blue, red, purple and black on heavy stock the book is indeed a gem.

—Frank E. Goodwin of St. Louis, Mo., will visit Chicago October 8-10 and Cleveland October 15-18. He expects to call upon philatelists in both these cities.

—"I read with considerable interest Hubert Lyman Clark's article entitled, "A Study in Valuations." Mr. Clark's figures are very interesting and the percentage increase in value shown for the single year is remarkable. I thought that you might like to know how this increase would show up if calculated for a number of years. In 1907 I catalogued by the 1907 catalogue the varieties I then possessed, 873 in all (a school-boy's small collection) and found a total of $22.92 in catalogue value. By the 1912 catalogue these varieties catalogue $28.37 an increase of about 24 per cent. for the five years.—WM. BEUKMA.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Rausch, Geo. C. Hale, Jr., Frank W. Lynes (6), Elliot B. Hunt and E. E. Boylan.

—James M. Woltz sends us from Washington, D. C., a fine picture post card in colors showing a room of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing where postage stamps are being perforated. The perforating room occupies 3,600 square feet.

JOIN THE BOOSTER CLUB.

The membership of the Club is progressing finely. Not a day passes but that someone is initiated, and we are compelled to take note this week of two special cases.

Thomas R. Johnston, Saltsburg, Pa., renewing his own subscription for two years, sends us the names of two new subscribers, a very tangible bit of boosting.

Chas. A. Christian sends us a letter that gladdens the editorial heart:—"As a practical apology for my carelessness in not renewing my subscription before, I enclose a check covering my arrearages, also payment for two years in advance, and the name of a new yearly subscriber. To the above also add twelve leaflets as checked on the enclosed list."

All you need to do to join the Booster Club is to show the WEEKLY to a friend and let the paper tell its own story.

Come along!

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Stamp Publications of Colorado.—By Chas A. Nast reprinted from the Stamp Collector. This book is handsomely printed by the Geo. W. Linn Co., Columbus, O., and admirably covers the field indicated by its title. Price 25c.

We have received in good season from M. Theodore Champion the 17th edition of the Yvert and Tellier-Champion Catalogue for 1913. It is not necessary to introduce this catalogue to our readers, as it is already well known and increasing in popularity among American collectors. Its handy form, being in the somewhat narrow "pocket" size; enables it to be carried about conveniently; and its wealth of information makes it an almost indispensable "pocket companion." In fact, the increasing tendency with publishers of catalogues to make them real handbooks and thus double their value to the collector, has nowhere been better illustrated than by the publishers of the one under review.

What is first noted on opening the volume is the neatness of the arrangement and the excellence of the illustrations. The latter are reduced in size, but are perfectly distinct and amply serve their purpose. The illustrations of surcharges, however, are made full size for better identification of types, and in the case of minor varieties, secret marks, and such puzzling characteristics, enlarged illustrations are provided of the distinguishing details.

The arrangement of the catalogue is absolutely alphabetical, save in a few cases like the States of the Colombian Republic, which follow the National issues. It is thus easy to look up any stamp issuing country off hand, though an alphabetical index is added to avoid any question. In each country, the issues are listed in chronological order, though stamps corresponding in type, or completing a series, are placed with the issues to which they belong, which seems the proper thing to do even though several years may separate the dates of issue.

In the lists a separate number has been given each stamp in its main type; if varieties exist they are sub-lettered under the number of the type stamp, this being now the generally accepted rule for arranging catalogue lists, so that for those who do not specialize the principal list of any issue, consecutively numbered, contains only the main or type varieties.

The catalogue lists not only the regular postage stamps, but the usual accompaniment of newspaper, registered, return receipt, special delivery, "too late," official, war tax, fiscal-postal, postage due, postal packet and newspaper tax stamps. The war tax and newspaper tax stamps are now being more and more omitted from catalogues, as their function has usually been a purely fiscal one. We also find the so-called "return letter" stamps listed, many of these being simply "official seals" as their inscriptions denote, and having no "postage" or even franking character at all. They have been discarded from most catalogues for some time, yet many collectors include them as "near stamps" because of their association with postal departments.

But the lists of telegraph stamps will be appreciated by many collectors, for these are being collected more and more as representing the co-ordinate branch of the communication service, so often united in foreign countries as the "Post and Telegraph Department."

With all these lists are found many foot-notes, explanatory headings, and various other helps to the collector which make his path much easier, particularly if only an amateur. The fact of their being in French seems no deterrent to popular philatelic favor for the catalogue in this country, doubtless, because a large part of our collectors are more or less familiar with the language. For the stamp lists and ordinary philatelic terms used in connection with them and therefore familiar, there should be no difficulty even for the novice in French.

The catalogue has the usual helpful tables, etc., included, among which are a glossary of familiar philatelic terms, the names of common numbers in several languages, a table of the different colonies, protectorates and foreign offices belonging to the European States, an identification table for quickly locating a stamp in its proper category or country of issue, an illustrated table of watermarks, and a money table.

We bespeak the usual warm welcome to the new edition from American collectors. It can be had for 85 cents, post free, of Théodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France.

EDITORIAL.

Reading the Signs—Indulging man's predilection for prophecy, we shall speak of the outlook for the coming stamp season. It is admitted that in predictions of this nature, optimism tinctures the opinions of those who wish for the best or who are vitally interested in the success of their pursuit or business. Yet, even if ordinarily the ideas of those who are in a position to prophesy are discounted somewhat, the views are of value as indicating a general trend of thought. While it may be possible to counterfeit an enthusiasm or substitute the ideal for the real yet it is poor policy to say nothing of the moral obloquy, to misrepresent the meaning of indications. There are many straws usually to show which way the wind blows and it is not believed that the prophets could mistake the direction of the current or stultify themselves by baseless predictions.

Hail—We know that August, 1912, was a better stamp month than August, 1911, from actual experience and that September, 1912, has risen superior to the handicap of the weather and scored a higher average of philatelic interest than the year before. Taking our cue from the reports in the newspapers of the prosperous conditions based on enormous farm yields, it follows that there will be money with which to purchase stamps in the hands of the public generally. Our own case, fortified by the testimony of dealers who have been consulted, proves that there is an augmentation of philatelic interest over that of a year ago; and the wish to buy stamps combined with the money with which to buy them makes an ideal condition. It must be admitted that there is a steady increase in philatelic knowledge on the average and that in consequence, the sense of nicety and discrimination in collectors has become more noticeable. A stronger preference is exerting itself for the stamps of the better character and the desire for good stamps, as to condition, is of wider range than ever before. While in the aggregate there is a market for all stamps, yet those of the more deserving class are the ones that will receive the lion's share of favor during the busy days of the coming season. Philately seems destined to flourish like the proverbial green bay tree this season, which the WEEKLY now announces to be open.

Novelties For Us—From the Philatelic Gazette, we learn that the twelve values of the Parcel Post stamps, ranging from one cent to one dollar, inclusive, have been decided upon and that a special set of postage due stamps will be required without doubt, as an accompaniment of the regular set. A correspondent quotes: "The designing of the stamps of the Parcel Post set is under way and the plates for the printing of the stamps will be promptly engraved." Naturally, an amount of preparatory work, almost inconceivably great, must be completed before January 1st, 1913, the date named by Congress for the start of the operation of the post and it is evident that the department does not propose to be dilatory in supplying the necessary stamps. The new stamps will loan a pleasing variety to the issues of our country; and their advent will be awaited with anticipation.

Excelsior—At present, United States stamps need no aid to emphasize their popularity. The discerning collector noticed that unobtrusive stamps such as the one and ten-cents, 1851, for instance, made quiet advances in price in the latest edition of the catalogue and that there was a tendency to strengthen prices all along the list. We are violating no trust, we believe, in saying that there are a number of early United States that a few dealers are buying for customers who want the stamps in good condition for purposes of study or speculation. While it may not be said that prices are no object in accumulating these stamps, yet it is certain that no limit has been placed on the quantity of the specimens wanted. The buyers know that there is remote danger of being overwhelmed by any number of the stamps in the condition demanded as no doubt they believe the statement that has been repeated so often that there are no really great stocks of early U. S., in fine condition, that may be secured at prices conforming to the accepted ideas of value. We believe that United States issues will register in a short time, a higher degree of popularity than they enjoyed twenty years ago or more, when discounts on the stamps indeed were meager and dealers were loth to send them out on approval, so pronounced was the demand for them.

After Them—For the time being, at least, philatelic publishers have escaped a calamity almost too terrible to contemplate. An amendment has been added to the Postal Laws and Regulations that begins, as follows:

"Sec. 467½. It shall be the duty of the editor, publisher, business manager, or owner of every newspaper, magazine, periodical, or other publication to file with the Postmaster General and the postmaster at the office at which said publication is entered, not later than the first day of April and the first day of October of each year, on blanks furnished by the Post Office Department, a sworn statement setting forth the names and post-office addresses of the editor and managing editor, publisher, business managers, and owners, and, in addition, the stockholders, if the publication be owned by a corporation."

Here we come to the cross of the ruling: "In the case of daily newspapers, there shall be included in such statement the average of the number of copies of each issue of such publication sold or distributed to paid subscribers during the preceding six months." Etc. The time may come when the weeklies and monthlies will be included under a ruling of the kind and then the poor philatelic publishers will howl like dervishes. We, from our pinnacle of probity on the temple of truth, tearfully abjure our benighted brethren to copy our example of telling truly our circulation. Perhaps, it is not too late for them to repent and reform; we shall intercede for the saddest case of all,—the publisher of the Stamp Journal who has aroused the virtuous indignation of our managing editor by saying that his paper had as many American Philatelic Society subscribers as we have. It is to be added, quoting the order of the postmaster-general: "All editorial or other reading matter published in any such newspaper, magazine or periodical for the publication of which money or other valuable consideration is paid, accepted or promised shall be plainly marked 'advertisement'." For a violation of this law, a fine of from fifty to five hundred dollars may be imposed. Good, we say.

Nay, Nay—Our political department has just received the following news, marked "Rush:" "Teddy Roosevelt was a stamp collector. Vide C. J. Phillips' account of his famous interview with President Roosevelt, which appeared in the Monthly Journal some years ago. Consult old file and play up story big. Organize a Roosevelt Club of philatelists."

Dark Was the Night—Details of the suppressed history of the American Philatelic Society convention are leaking out. The beacon light of our esteemed Philadelphia contemporary throws its refulgence on the machinations of a band of delegates who conspired while the righteous slept; it is said: "Through hums and haws while the time of night was fleeting the pros and cons of an official journal which would reach all the members regularly was discussed with enthusiasm and also a wee bit of dejection." We can account for the hummers but who were the conners?

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE UNITED STATES AEROPLANE MAIL.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, Boston Philatelic Society, No. 543.

(The writer would like to secure specimens of all future aeroplane cancellations. They may be sent to him in care of Mekeel's Weekly.)

No. 13—Cicero, Ill.

One of the hardest aeroplane cancellations to get hold of is that of Cicero, Ill., which is number thirteen on the list. Maybe the number has something to do with the difficulty I had in obtaining a specimen; maybe not. Under the auspices of the Aero Club of Illinois a meet was held at the Cicero Flying Field, which is owned by the club, May 30-June 2, 1912. The aviators who carried mail were Max Lillie, Marcel Tournier, Paul Studensky and George Mestach. The aviation cancellation was very simple; it consisted of the words "Via Aeroplane" which was stamped on the letters and postal cards together with the regular Cicero, Ill., postmark; mail carrying on a large scale was in use at this meet. On the first day, aviator Lillie flew from the field to the Elmhurst Golf Club, a distance of 18 miles and aviator Mestach made a flight to Wheaton, Ill., a distance of 24 miles. On the second day, aviator Studensky made a flight to the Elmhurst Golf club and aviator Lillie flew to Wheaton. The third day's program consisted of a flight by Studensky to Elmhurst Golf club and another by Mestach to Wheaton. On the fourth day, Studensky flew to the Elmhurst Golf club and Lillie made the last mail-carrying trip, to Wheaton. The total mail carried weighed 458 pounds, including sacks. The greatest amount carried by an aviator was 81 pounds, Lillie being the aviator.

None From Wisconsin.

It took me quite a little time and considerable letter writing to find out that no aeroplane cancellations were used in either Milwaukee or Watertown, Wis. Aviator Farnham Fish made a flight from Cicero, Ill., to Milwaukee the latter part of May, 1912. On this trip, an 85 mile flight, he carried some merchandise from a Chicago concern. From Milwaukee, he flew to Watertown, Wis., a distance of about 45 miles. On this trip Fish carried bundles of the Milwaukee Journal and dropped them at various towns along the route. He also carried a few postal cards and letters that were handed him by people in the crowd that had assembled before he started. Both the postmasters at Milwaukee and Watertown have written me that the postoffice had no official connection with the flights made by Fish and that no aeroplane cancellations were used. The Milwaukee Journal made great preparations for Fish's trip with their papers getting out an "Aeroplane Edition."

No. 14—Saugus, Mass.

At last, Massachusetts appears on the scene with an aeroplane cancellation, and, incidentally, for the first time, New England. At a meet held at Atwood Park, Cliftondale, a suburb of Saugus, May 30, 31 and June 1, 1912, this "aero" appeared. On the first day, aviator Harry Atwood, famous as an aerial joyrider, carried mail from the park, which, by the way was named for him, to Lynn. Atwood's flight was made shortly before seven o'clock in the evening and he carried 800 pieces of mail, 500 postal cards and 300 letters. The distance was about four miles and the time consumed was about twelve minutes. It rained hard the second day, but on the third day, aviator Arch Freeman made a successful flight with mail. Freeman swooped wide over the water and made for the Lynn boulevard. He misjudged the distance, however, and dropped the sack into the ocean, where it was fished out by carriers from the Lynn postoffice and taken in an automobile to the postoffice. The aeroplane postmark was a small circle in which was printed in heavy black type, medium sized, "Aero Postal Sta. Saugus Mass." The regular Lynn Mass., Cliftondale Branch, postmark was also stamped on the letters and postal cards as well as a "dauber" cancellation, elliptical in shape and in the center of which was the figure "1". I have a postal card which, in addition to the above mentioned cancellations has the Lynn, Mass., West Lynn Sta. postmarked upon it. This may be called type 2.

No. 15—Lexington, Ky.

The fifteenth aeroplane cancellation is credited to Lexington, Ky., but in fact was never used. At a meet held at the Lexington Race Track June 3-9, 1912, aviators Eugene Heth, Paul Peck, whom I will mention later, Oscar Brindley and Leonard Bonney made flights. The aero mail service was not handled by the government, in fact the cancellation was supplied by the Mercural Aeroplane and Entertainment Company of New York City. High winds prevailed throughout this meet and no flights with mail were even attempted. It had been planned to have mail carried from Lexington to Winchester, Ky., a distance of between 18 and 20 miles. Like the Salem, N. H., meet that I have mentioned in a previous chapter, this "aero" is in the "almost" class. A brother newspaperman in the South, to whom I wrote for information concerning this meet, answered my letter as follows: "Nothin' doin'. No mail carried. Wind blowin' pretty strong and guy got cold feet." The cancellation, if such it may be called, consisted of three lines of type, in red ink. The cancellation read "U. S. Official Aerial Mail Stamp". The regular Lexington, Ky., postmark and the wavy-lines cancellation was also used.

No. 16—Squantum, Mass.

Another one of those "almost" aeroplane cancellations, I am sorry to say, hails from Massachusetts. At the meet held at the Squantum, Mass., field June 29-July 7, 1912, "it" appeared. A postoffice was installed just outside of the field. Letters and postal cards were stamped with a special cancellation which was in black ink and read "Boston Aviation Meet—Aero Mail Service." The cancellation was in two lines. There were two postmarks used. One read Atlantic, Mass., and the other Boston, Mass. The meet was a grand fizzle and the aviators did more flying around for their money than they did in the air. No mail was carried and after a day or two, the field postoffice was discontinued.

No. 17—South Amboy, N. J.

Just for a change, I will describe a real aeroplane cancellation. This was used but one day, July 4, 1912 and was, incidentally, the second cancellation to appear in which mail was carried by a hydro-aeroplane. Aviator Oliver G. Simmons in a Burgess-Wright hydroaeroplane started from the Raritan river at South Amboy, N. J., about noon. He had with him a letter from the South Amboy Business Men's Association which was addressed to a New York newspaper. Simmons arose from the river and made a two mile flight to Perth Amboy, N. J. He reached the latter place in just three minutes. He dropped the mail sack, which was picked up by a Perth Amboy carrier and sent through the regular mail channels to New York. Then Simmons hustled back to his hydro cradle on the South Amboy side of the river. The aeroplane cancellation was novel. It consisted of two lines of large type, the ink being reddish purple. The cancellation read "Aero Plane Route No. 900006." The regular South Amboy, N. J., postmark and a "dauber" cancellation were also used.

Collectors will know this if you offer some stamps at attractive prices. There are 12 lines in an inch and every line should make business.

Morever describe your stamp fully. Give date of issue, value, color and catalog price—make it as easy as possible for a collector to recognize the stamp.

This week our advertising columns are replete with interest. The Scott Co. and Negreen are with us with goodly space while Moisant & LeClaire enlarge their space to a quarter page. McLaughlin of New York will have an inch space regularly each week and B. Max Mehl will appeal strongly to stamp collectors who are interested in coins.

An old friend Iole Dione is with us for a regular space and regular position. Ditto A. B. Frawley.

Oct. 30.— B. L. Drew & Co., Boston, a "20th Century" sale.

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—H. R. Cowan has shown us a freak perforation. The specimen is a 3c of 1870-71, from the bottom row in the sheet, but with the perforation at the bottom so placed as to cut through the centre of the second line of the imprint. This leaves a space of 6 mm. between the frame line of the stamp and the perforation, 5 mm. of which is the broad white space between stamp and imprint.

Jesse W. Sargent shows us a unique specimen being a double plate number on the current 2c stamp. The regular plate number is 5946, and the additional number being 5954. The latter is placed just at the frame line of the top row of stamps, just below the regular number, but the lower part of the figures are cut off. Evidently two sheets of paper had been fed into the press, with one of them slightly misplaced so that only the plate number appeared on the upper sheet. Later this sheet was fed in again thus making a double impression.

A. W. Dunning shows us a specimen of the current 1c envelope, green on oriental buff, which has a colorless line extending across the band containing the value, from the point of the bust downward so as to intersect the lower left corner of "E" of "One." Whether this is a defect in the die or imperfect printing is not clear.

Fred Goshert sends us a copy of the current 2c stamp in an especially deep rich shade of carmine. Too much ink appears to be the salient feature, but it is also of an unusual shade.

As stated last week, the new parcels post system will be put into operation January 1. A special series of stamps will be issued, as the accounts are to be kept separate in every respect. The series will consist of 12 denominations which will make possible any combination up to $1 by using not more than three stamps. The denominations decided on are as follows: 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1. The Philatelic Gazette says that the size and designs of the series are still unsettled, and the Bureau has received no definite orders as yet. It is probable that these stamps will be longer and narrower than the present series to give them a distinctive appearance. The numerals of value will undoubtedly be a prominent feature. Regarding the designs, it is rumored that five of the series are to show the portrait of some prominent American, and five others to depict scenery representing agriculture, etc. It is also stated that a special series of postage due stamps will be required for the parcels post service.

According to Scott's Circular: A table of the various sums which will be required to pay postage on a single parcel shows some interesting odd amounts. Packages in the first zone running from one to eleven pounds respectively require the following values: 5, 8, 11, 14, 17, 20, 23, 26, 29, 32 and 35 cents. A continuation of the table shows very few "even" amounts. Values such as 14c, 17c, 32c, 37c, etc., predominate up to $1.22 which is the highest amount. It is probable, however, that for convenience the Parcels Post stamps will pretty nearly follow the present set of ordinary postage stamps, but it is likely that some odd values will be added as experience shows that they are needed.

CHINA.—The New England Stamp Co. and Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½c and 1c values in a new type of overprint. Whitfield King & Co. have been informed by a correspondent that the new surcharges were printed in London, but as it is believed that permanent Republican stamps are being prepared, these new surcharges are not likely to last very long. Only these two values have yet been seen. They are easily distinguished from the older printing, as the new surcharge on the ½c stamp is blue instead of black, and on the 1c the surcharge is in magenta instead of red. Moreover the type of the surcharge is much different, especially the last character. In the older surcharge, the characters run square across, while in the new surcharge they incline upward to the right, giving an appearance like italic in English printing. The last character is nearly square in the old surcharge with the top line curved in a little, while in the new surcharge it is nearer diamond shape, with the top line curved outward, and a heavy line at the right projecting below the frame. All the characters show radical differences, especially in the width.

ECUADOR.—George Sleeper has shown us specimens of the surcharge consular stamps chronicled in No. 1125, the surcharge reading "Postal—Dos—Cents." on the 2 sucres stamp, and "Postal—Un —Centv." on 1 sucre. Of the latter Mr. Sleeper submits a used strip of five. The only varieties appear to be in broken letters in the top and bottom line in the 1c, but the pair of the 2c stamps submitted show a wrong font "D" in "Dos."

FRENCH GUINEA.—As stated last week, the number printed of the provisionals recently chronicled was very irregular. Maury's Collectionneur gives the quantities for this Colony, as follows:

Group type—5c on 2c, 74,000; 5c on 4c, 185,000; 5c on 15c, 109,000; 5c on 20c, 54,000; 5c on 30c, 32,000; 10c on 40c, 68,000; 10c on 75c, 29,000.

Native type—5c on 2c, 326,000; 5c on 4c, 175,000; 5c on 15c, 195,000; 5c on 20c, 92,000; 5c on 25c, 76,000; 5c on 30c, 66,000; 10c on 40c, 68,000; 10c on 50c, 47,000.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us the 1r and 6r Republica split provisionals chronicled in No. 1132.

We find that another value should have been included in the lot as chronicled, the 2½r yellow brown having been surcharged twice "3 reis" and vertically perforated. This value was issued without the surcharge "Republica."

REUNION.—According to Maury's Collectionneur, the following quantities were printed of the provisionals recently issued:

5c on 2c, 193,000; 5c on 15c, 198,000; 5c on 20c, 43,000; 5c on 25c, 66,000; 5c on 30c, 72,000; 10c on 40c, 70,000; 10c on 50c, 36,000; 10c on 75c, 29,000.

SURINAM.—Mr. Schachne sends us the other provisional card which we find like the 2½c noted in No. 1126.

Post Card.

5c red on pink; divided face.

URUGUAY.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2c of the current design, but which has been cheaply lithographed similar to the 1904 issue. In this case, however, the copy has been made by transfer and not by redrawing, so that the new stamp is the same as the engraved issue, though roughly printed. The imprint of the printer does not appear below each stamp, as in the engraved series.

Maury's Collectionneur says that a new issue was to have been furnished by the school of Arts and Manufactures of Montevideo, and as this is the same institution as furnished the lithographed stamps of 1906 and 1910, the issue noted above is probably the first of the promised series.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

PUZZLING WATERMARKS.

The following letter from a Philadelphian reader is typical of many queries I receive:—"Can you tell me anything about a stamp of New South Wales which I can't locate in Scott. It is type A11, perf. 12½, dark green. But instead of being watermarked Crown and N. S. W. like No. 65 it is plainly watermarked with the letters "O S" in large double-lined capitals. Is it by chance an uncatalogued variety on revenue paper, or are these letters part of some name in the margin of the sheet?"

In the latter part of his letter my correspondent hits the nail on the head for these letters are simply a part of the inscription watermarked in the margins of the sheet i. e., NEW SOUTH WALES POSTAGE. These varieties are very puzzling to the beginner and his mystification is hardly to be wondered at. In the stamps of some British Colonies these varieties are frequently met with, especially in the case of such stamps as the small embossed Gambias where watermarked paper suitable for sheets of 120 stamps had to be cut up in the most economical way possible to fit plates of only 20 stamps. In some cases, too, where the watermark is out of position stamps from the outside rows are occasionally entirely without watermark.

PUNCTURED OFFICIAL STAMPS.

Another reader writes:—"I have copies of stamps of Victoria, Scott's numbers 193, 198, 199, 200, and 204, with the letters O S perforated through the stamps and also New South Wales No. 27 perforated OS NSW. Can you give me any information about these?"

Stamps punctured in this manner are intended for use on official correspondence and they take the place of stamps surcharged for official use. During the last few years most of the Australian colonies have dispensed with specially overprinted stamps for departmental use, and have instead used stamps punctured with various initials. Thus the letters "O S" which are generally used stand for On Service and this is the device used by most of the States of the Commonwealth. Some of the New South Wales stamps were also punctured with the letters N S W and other letters frequently met with are "T" for Tasmania and "W A" for Western Australia. I believe Kohl's catalogue is the only one that fully tabulates these varieties though they are equally as much official stamps as if they bore overprints.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

A correspondent asks how the triangular stamps of the Cape of Good Hope issued in 1863-64 may be distinguished from the issue of 1853-58 and whether De La Rue and Co. made the plates for printing the later issue. The plates were manufactured by Perkins, Bacon & Co. and when the printing contract was transferred from that firm in 1863 to De La Rue and Co., the plates were handed over as these were the property of the Cape Government and not of the printers. The only difference between the stamps of the two issues is that of color and though they are easily identified when once one has had the opportunity of comparing the two issues the catalogue distinctions are not very plain to the beginner who has, perhaps, the haziest conception of the difference between brown-red and rose, violet and lilac, and yellow-green and emerald green. Differences of color are particularly difficult to describe in print but, speaking generally, the De La Rue tints are much brighter than those employed by Perkins, Bacon & Co. Perhaps the easiest way of distinguishing between the two issues is by comparing the colors with those of some of the later issues of the same country. Nos. 34 and 42 are both common stamps providing good examples of rose. If the triangular stamp matches this in color then it belongs to the 1853 issue. If, however, it is much darker or has a distinct brownish tint then it belongs to the emission of 1863. No. 44 provides a violet color by which the De La Rue 6d can be identified while much paler tints must belong to the Perkins Bacon set. A good idea of emerald green may be derived from Nos. 52 or 57 while the triangulars differing materially from this color must belong to the 1853 isue. We have still the 4d value left and this is the most difficult one of all to identify. The Perkins Bacon printings show a smooth, clear impression with all the details of the design sharp and distinct, while the De La Rue prints have a slightly blurred appearance. I fear, though, it is idle to imagine any beginner will ever differentiate these two varieties from a printed description for many advanced collectors, with both stamps to compare, find it hard to tell one from the other.

SHORT REPLIES.

G. S. W. (Cerro Gordo, Ill.).—Seebecks is the name given to certain issues of Nicaragua, Ecuador, Honduras and Salvador which were provided to these governments gratis on condition that they had a new issue every year and that the remainders and plates—from which reprints might be made—should belong to the manufacturers. The name is derived from that of N. F. Seebeck who was responsible for the arrangement. They are of course "genuine stamps". (2) The numbers on the backs of the Spanish are sheet control numbers. Every stamp on the same sheet is numbered alike but each sheet bears a different number in numerical sequence.

E. B. H. (Ossining, N. Y.).—I regret I can give no information as to how reprints of the local issues of the United States may be distinguished from originals. In many cases they can only be distinguished by experts who have made a special study of these stamps.

W. P. S. Co. (West Pullman).—I regret I do not know where the first issue for Indo-China was overprinted, nor how many of each value there were.

F. L. P. (Lebanon, O.).—I never heard of any one making a distinction between upright and inverted watermarks in current U. S. stamps. (2) Specialists naturally recognise any colors or shades of the 1c and 2c stamps they can obtain though only very striking differences of tint are ever likely to be catalogued.

NEW SERIES--APPROVAL SELECTIONS

We are now sending out an entirely new series of approval selections at fifty per cent and at twenty-five per cent discount. This series contains many hundreds of stamps never before sold by us at these discounts.

It is without doubt the largest variety offered by any dealer and includes many of the scarcer twentieth century stamps. All prices are taken from our 1912 catalogue.

NEW AUCTION SALES

This Fall we shall resume the holding of Auction Sales at frequent intervals. Our last (169th) sale was in 1910. These new sales will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Hugh M. Clark who formerly conducted the successful "Clark's Auctions" in Chicago.

Our mailing list contains the names of thousands of buyers, of whom many hundreds of the best bidders are unknown to other auctioneers. Our catalogues are written with the utmost care for the interests of both buyer and seller; our terms are as low as is consistent with the best of service; our sales are conducted by a State-Licensed Auctioneer; in short, everything is done that can be done to secure the best results.

Our charge for selling collections at auction is 20 per cent. of the total realized up to $1,500.00, and 15 per cent. on any excess over this amount. We make a special rate of 10 per cent. (minimum charge fifty cents per stamp) for handling desirable single rarities.

Write us to-day if you contemplate selling.

ANNOUNCEMENT--NEW ALBUMS

A new edition of the 20th Century International Album is now in press and we expect that the new book will be out the last of November. This new 20th Century Album will be thoroughly revised and the large number of recent stamp issues added will, from present indications, bring the size of the book nearly up to that of the 19th Century.

A revised edition of the 19th Century Album is also in press and will be ready about the same time. Many corrections are being made and the book will be the finest album published covering these issues.

The retail price of $1.50 on the International Album was established over 20 years ago when the album was about one-half the size of either of the present books. We have been retaining this figure for a number of years, (although comparison with any other $1.50 book published would have shown how absurdly low it was,) simply for its influence in encouraging stamp collecting. We now find, however, that the constantly increased cost of production makes a slight advance in prices absolutely necessary.

The prices on either the 19th Century or 20th Century Albums have, therefore, been changed as follows:

	Price Store	Price Mail
No. 1. Bound in Boards, half cloth	$2.00 net	$2.25
No. 2. Bound in Cloth, gilt, with plain cover	3.00 net	3.25
No. 3. Bound in Cloth, gilt, with additional blank pages..................	4.00 net	4.50
No. 4. Unbound	5.00 net	5.50

The prices on the higher priced editions will remain as they are for the present and will be found in detail in the back of our Catalogue.

THE MATTER OF COMMISSION.

By Alvah G. Clark.

(We must confess that this proposition is one that affects stamp collecting very materially. It is true that any dealer has a legal right to offer his stamps for sale at such prices as he pleases to make. There is, nevertheless, another side to this question. It is a suicidal policy for any dealer to put his stock into the hands of boys to be sold at four or five times its actual value. So many stamps can be obtained at such a small fraction of catalog quotations that no dealer should mark his approval sheets higher than Scott's quotations. More anon.—Ed.)

The article of Mr. James E. Parker, Newark, O., in the last issue of your paper entitled "The Matter of Commission" has been duly read by the writer. Your request at the bottom of this same article has been duly noted. I feel loathe to write this letter to you for I feel certain that you are already acquainted with the facts similar to those of which I will mention and of the same firm.

About the 12th of February this year I received from an advertiser in no earlier an issue than No. 1134, one approval sheet of 20 stamps (unsolicited) together with a mass of advertising matter of said company and a one cent stamped envelope for their return. Along with this mass of cheap literature was a blank stating that 50 per cent. discount would be allowed from marked prices. As a matter of curiosity I looked up the catalogue values of some of the stamps on the sheet and found the following prices marked:

Salvador, No. 21,	cat. 2c	marked	on	sheet,	3c
Cuba, No. 240,	" 1c	"	"	"	2c
Honduras, No. 70,	" 3c	"	"	"	6c
" No. 51.	" 2c	"	"	"	3c

These are four examples out of 20 stamps submitted. Of course I understood the "game" immediately. Such stamps as these are put out to rogue the young boy collectors. Furthermore, the unthinking boy would return the stamps under the one cent rate unsealed as this company suggested in their literature and if anything was missing or went wrong this company would no doubt come on to the boy for the money. Systems of this sort are dead wrong and very injurious to philately. It would be a step well taken if some journal or paper with enough "back bone" and nerve would start a series of articles exposing such firms. Of course some papers would come back with the answer "We will lose this firm's advertising." Maybe so, but the paper would be better off in the end as these firms reflect on the papers in which they advertise.

When this company sent me this packet of junk I suppose they thought me one of their dupes instead of a collector of 15 years' experience. I immediately wrote them that the stamps were not wanted, they were sent unsolicited and upon receipt from them of enough postage to return them registered, I would return them. Some time after I received a request to make returns on the lot and I answered it by calling their attention to my previous letter and adding postage on this letter to their former bill. Up to the present writing I have heard nothing from them. I still have the stamps and literature intact awaiting the postage for their return.

MR. PACK EXHIBITS AT LONDON.

SOME NOTES IN CONNECTION WITH THE FOUR SPECIALIZED ENTRIES.

Charles Lathrop Pack, Cleveland, O., at the urgent solicitation of English friends has decided to send over four exhibits, all in Class G, for single issues. Much new work has materialized and some interesting discoveries are reported.

Our readers will no doubt be greatly interested in the following notes:—

(1.) A specialized collection of the Rivadavia stamps of the Argentine Republic 1864-1872, with a study of the different printings of this issue. This display follows the system as first described by Dr. Jose Marco del Pont of Buenos Aires, but in two of the printings at least there is an attempt to supply further details—the result of the owner's recent work. Attention is called to the extensive series of unused stamps of all printings and to the large number of strips and pairs of used copies. There are two imperf. pairs of the 10c 1864, a pair of the essay of the 15c and numerous used and unused specimens of 10c and 15c imperf. of 1864-67, both watermarked and unwatermarked. All the rarest specimens of the 5c without watermark are shown used and unused. A large number of the stamps are on original covers and these are also arranged by printings. The collection is contained in three Oriel albums.

(2.) A study of the 1879-80 issues of Queensland mounted in accordance with the different types and plates. This work follows the system originally suggested, I believe, by L. L. R. Hausburg, Esq. Attention is called to the diagram illustrating the arrangement of the plates. This collection is in an Oriel album.

(3.) A specialized collection of the 1856, or Diligencia stamps of Uruguay. This issue was included in a larger exhibit shown at the International Exhibition in Vienna in October, 1911, but since that time it has been rearranged, extended and considerably re-studied. Attention is called to the progress that has been made in plating the 60 centavos of 1856. A diagram shows the varieties that have been definitely located, including some that are in other collections. It is only the lack of sufficient material that retards the completion of this plate. There are complete reconstructed plates of the 80 centavos and 1 real, together with displays and descriptions of the different plate varieties. There is a block of 4 of the 80 centavos, at one time the property of Dr. Wonner and unique in this condition. There is also the celebrated block of 15 of the 80c, one time the property of Mr. Vincent Farrer of Buenos Aires. This is also unique. There are no known blocks or pairs of Diligencia stamps other than those in this collection. Attention is particularly called to the largely increased comparative exhibit of corresponding plate varieties in the 60 centavos, 80 centavos and 1 real values—the result of recent study, and very effectively mounted and described.

(4.) A specialized collection of the 1894-1904 issue of Brazil, attention being particularly called to the study of the 100 reis denomination. The whole collection is included in seven (7) Oriel albums. The 10 reis, 20 reis, 50 reis, 200 reis, 300 reis, 500 reis, 700 reis, and 1000 reis mounted by papers and perforations, etc., occupy one album. The sheets of six (6) Oriel binders are taken up by the 100 reis value, including one volume for the substituted heads. The exhibit includes several new discoveries of considerable interest, shown for the first time, including the "Secret Marks" and Die Varieties of the substituted heads from the higher values found in some panes of the 100 reis of Type I. A diagram shows at a glance how these die marks may be recognized. The Borrowed Head Collection comprises:

700 reis head in 8 dies, in 3 positions, on 10 kinds of paper with 2 perforations, a total of 48 varieties known in the various combinations, not including shades, etc.

200 reis head in 5 dies, in 4 positions, on 7 kinds of paper with 3 perforations, a total of 38 varieties, not including shades, etc.

500 reis head in 5 dies, in 4 positions, on 10 kinds of paper with 2 perforations, a total of 32 varieties, not including shades, etc.

The several recently discovered pairs,

COLLECTIONS ON APPROVAL

Here is something mighty good for the busy man. We have divided Scott's International Albums into 10 volumes and mounted in them a collection consisting of mostly medium priced stamps which will catalog about $5000. The net price is marked under each stamp and you can compare them with your Scott album page for page and see at a glance what you need. While value of book will vary, they are approximately as follows. Book can be sent to those ready to spend at least $10 at a time. Special 10% discount on purchases of $25 or more. Goods priced in most cases at about half list though hundreds in each book are marked less than half.

etc., of 100 reis Type I, with Grecian head and Type V with the snub-nose se-tenent are fully "written up" showing that the Type V head was substituted in some panes of Type I. This is new work. The finding of the identical marks of Die III, Die V and Die VII of the 700 reis on Type V proves that Type V was re-engraved from dies of the 700 head. The following are some of the headings or divisions under which the 100 reis stamps are mounted and "written up":—

The Secret Marks and Die Varieties, etc., of the Substituted Heads.

Type I Frame-Flaw Varieties.

The Letter Varieties of Type I.

Head-Flaw Varieties of Type I.

Cracked Medallions.

Black Heads badly worn.

Stamps with head alone printed on back.

Retouches of Type I with the Grecian Head.

Liberty's Hair Retouched.

Retouched Medallions, etc.—Type I.

Recut Zeros Series.

Systematic Comparison of dated copies.

The Sixteen Paper Varieties in order of use.

Exhibition pages of many pairs, etc., showing substituted heads. These are included in the binder containing the Substituted Head Collection. The notes and "write ups" on the pages themselves explain some interesting problems, including the pairs se tenent of Type I and V.

Type V (snub-nose) is likewise fully studied and written up, but a less number of divisions are required. The newly discovered Secret Marks of Type V, the rare Retouched Head Varieties, the Recut Zeros Series and other items are all treated in order. There are many things never shown before in any collection of Brazil.

Carefully made complete check-lists printed and drawn by hand accompany each section or sub-division of the collection.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE UNITED STATES AEROPLANE MAIL.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, Boston Philatelic Society, No. 543.

(The writer would like to secure specimens of all future aeroplane cancellations. They may be sent to him in care of Mekeel's Weekly.)

No. 18—Hamilton, Ohio.

The State of Ohio brought out the eighteenth aeroplane cancellation which was used at the Butler County Fairgrounds, Hamilton, Ohio, July 12 and 13, 1912. The Hamilton Retail Merchant's association secured aviators Lincoln Beachey and Charles F. Walsh and both made flights carrying mail. This was the third time that Beachey had played the aerial mail man and the second time for Walsh. From a special postoffice on the field mail was carried to the Krebs Ball Park, a short distance, where it was dropped in front of the grand stand. One of Uncle Sam's rural carriers then took charge of the sack. On the trip made by Beachey 18,000 pieces of mail were carried. Both the aeroplane postmark and cancellation were in black ink. The postmark consisted of three lines of medium sized type and read "Aero Mail Service, July 13, 1912, Hamilton, Ohio." The cancellation consisted of six heavy lines, about one-eighth of an inch in thickness and an inch and a quarter in length.

No. 19—Coney Island, Ohio.

The nineteenth aeroplane cancellation was used at Coney Island, Ohio, July 19, 20 and 21, 1912, being the second "aero" for Ohio. Coney Island is a summer resort, ten miles up the Ohio river in the village of California, Ohio, and was recently annexed to the City of Cincinnati. Aviator Paul Peck, operator of a Columbia monoplane, carried mail from Coney Island to California, a distance of one mile. There is no postoffice at Coney Island, but a special postoffice was established on the grounds and a charge of ten cents was made for the carrying of the aeroplane mail. The aeroplane cancellation was exactly like the one used at Lexington, Ky. It consisted of three lines of large type reading "U. S. Official Aerial Mail Stamp", and was in red ink. The regular California, Ohio postmark and a "dauber" cancellation in black were also used.

No. 20—Hohokus, N. J.

The twentieth aeroplane cancellation comes from New Jersey, being the second for that state. On Saturday, August 3, 1912, an exhibition was held at Hohokus, N. J., by the Cressier Aviation company. From a special postoffice on the field, mail was carried to Ridgewood, N. J., a distance of about two miles. The meet came near being a failure. About 7000 people were patiently waiting for aviator Durafour, who operates a Morane-Borel passenger carrying monoplane. He did not show up and Joseph Richter, a young aviator who had been doing stunts in the air to amuse the crowd, volunteered to carry the mail. His welcome offer was accepted and Richter started off with the mail. He lost his bearings in the air and at one time was as far north as Suffern, N. Y. Not daunted a bit, the young aviator insisted upon making another attempt. This time he dropped the sack of mail near the Ridgewood depot, where a large bon-fire had been built to guide the youthful bird-man. Both the aeroplane postmark and cancellation were in black ink. The postmark and cancellation both were similar to those used at the Garden City Estates, N. Y., and the St. Louis, Mo., meets. The postmark was circular in shape. At the top were the words "Aerial Special Despatch". In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Aviation Grounds, Hohokus, N. J." The cancellation consisted of four wide lines, one-eighth of an inch in thickness and one inch in length.

No. 21—Fort Recovery, Ohio.

The twenty-first aeroplane, and the third for the State of Ohio came from Fort Recovery, Ohio, and was used at the Harvest Jubilee held there August 6, 7, 8 and 9, 1912. Aviator Earl Sandt, known as the "Boy Wonder", carried the mail. Although the Harvest Festival lasted four days, mail was carried only two days, August 8 and 9. On the first day, aviator George Schmitt broke his machine while alighting. Mail carrying was scheduled for this date but the letters and postal cards which had been cancelled with the special aeroplane cancellation on the field were carried to the postoffice by one of the clerks at the special field postoffice. No mail carrying occurred on the second day as a new machine which arrived could not be ready for a flight and had to be overhauled. There were no flights made on the second day. On the third day, mail was carried by aviator Sandt. The "Boy Wonder" arose until he was a mere speck in the clouds. He tried to drop the sack of mail in a pasture lot but was unsuccessful and the sack landed on the top of a wood pile in the St. Clair Mill's wood yard, about a half a mile from the grounds. The festival was extended one day when Sandt again carried mail. The aeroplane cancellation is one of the most interesting that has yet appeared. It consisted of a large circle with a smaller circle within, both composed of dots. The larger circle was composed of large dots and the smaller circle of small dots, all in black ink. In the space between the circles at the top were the words "Aviation Station No. 1." In the center was the date. Above and below the date were ornaments. At the bottom between the circles, were the words "Fort Recovery, Ohio." The postmark served both as postmark and cancellation.

No. 22—Ocean City and Stone Harbor, N. J.

New Jersey gets the twenty-second aeroplane, being the third for that state. It was used at a meet held August 8-13, 1912, at Ocean City, N. J. The aviator was Marshall Earl Reid. Mail was carried from Ocean City to Stone Harbor over the ocean, a distance of about twenty miles. Ordinarily, the mail between these places goes in a roundabout way. On his first flight, Reid not only carried mail, but he also carried a passenger. On his return from Stone Harbor, Reid also carried mail. The aeroplane postmark was therefore a combination of both places, yet it was applied at Ocean City only. On four trips from Ocean City to Stone Harbor, Reid carried 11,456 pieces of mail and on three trips from Stone Harbor to Ocean City he carried 1059 pieces of mail, a total of 12,515 pieces. On his last trip, which was made to Stone Harbor, he carried between 5,000 and 7,000 pieces of mail.

THE SOONER STAMP CO.,
NORMAN, OKLA.

Purple ink was used for the postmark which consisted of two lines of medium sized type reading "Ocean City & Stone Harbor Aerial U. S. Mail Service." The cancellation was in black and consisted of six thin lines, two and three-quarters inches in length. The lines were grouped so as to make three sets of parallel lines.

No. 23—Portland, Oregon.

The twenty-third aeroplane cancellation comes from the far northwest and was used at Portland, Oregon and the aviator was Walter Edwards. The meet was held at the Country Club racetrack, a distance of several miles from the center of the city, on August 10 and 11, 1912. He carried about 2500 letters and postal cards from Portland, Oregon to Vancouver, Washington, about ten miles and over the Columbia River. Among the mail carried was letters to President Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Col. Roosevelt, Postmaster General Hitchcock and a letter from the mayor of Portland to the mayor of Vancouver. The aeroplane cancellation was in black ink and consisted of the regular Portland, Ore; postmark with the word "Aviation" at the top and the word "Station" below it. The lettering was in medium sized type. A "dauber" cancellation, elliptical in shape and in the center of which was the figure "1", was also used. At the left of the letters and postal cards, in purple ink, was printed "U. S. Aeroplane Mail Service. This letter carried by aviator Walter Edwards From Portland, Oregon to Vancouver, Wash." The words "U. S. Aeroplane Mail Service" were in larger type than the rest of the lettering which was in very small type.

This is the closing word of the series. The compilation has been no easy task. To United States postmasters, brother newspapermen and friendly philatelists all over the country, I extend my heartfelt thanks for their kindness in helping me, not only with information, but in many cases, with specimens of the various aeroplane cancellations.

No. 24—Cicero, Ill.

The twenty-fourth aeroplane cancellation comes from Cicero, Ill., being the second to come from that place. Under the direction of the Aero Club of Illinois a meet was held at the Cicero Field, September 12, 13 and 14, 1912. The aerial mail carriers were aviators Lillie, Thompson, Vought and Prince. All Aurora, Ill., mail delivered at the Cicero postoffice was carried by aeroplane instead of train. The distance was 27 miles. The cancellation was in black and consisted of a small circle at the top and bottom of which, respectively were the words "Aerial Mail" in medium sized type. This was cancelled with seven parallel lines, two inches in length. The fourth line was shorter than the rest, to the extent of a quarter of an inch. The postal cards and letters present a very much cancelled appearance. In addition to the above mentioned cancellations, there were the "Wavy Lines" flag cancellation, a Cicero, Ill., and a Chicago, Ill., postmark. Another type included an elliptical shaped "Dauber" cancellation in the center of which was the figure "1."

JUBILEE EXHIBITION STAMP DESIGNS.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

I am sending herewith some photographs shewing half a dozen of the best of the designs which have been sent in in competition for the prizes which we offered for suggestions for improving the British 1d stamp. I think you will agree with me that these designs provide several very excellent suggestions and we are going to adopt one of the designs and produce stamps from it at the Exhibition, so that the public can see the process from beginning to end. The public will see the paper being made, they will also see demonstrations at intervals of the construction of the plate, they will see the printing from the plate going on constantly and the perforating of the stamps on the King George V. machines. This will be quite an unprecedented display of practical stamp manufacture and I will see that you get early copies of what we hope will be the "Perfect Stamp."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—So many of our subscribers are interested in Esperanto that the advertisement of the Amerika Esperantisto elsewhere in this issue will prove of more than ordinary interest. From personal observation we have been made aware of the fact that many collectors use Esperanto and stamp collecting provides a very natural and profitable use for this world-wide language.

—H. S. Powell of Storm Lake, Ia., was recently called to Los Angeles, Cal., by the severe illness of his father and we learn since that the latter's death occurred Saturday, Sept. 14. The many patrons of Mr. Powell will bear with him in any seeming lack of attention given correspondence addressed to Storm Lake. He expects to be at his office this week.

—"Enclosed I send you for chronicle in MEKEEL'S a photograph of a highly interesting sheet of Tibetan stamps about to be issued by the Dalai Lama, and of which I believe I have received the first and only sheet that has left Tibet. You will observe that I am again first with these as I was in the case of the overprinted Tibet on China."—W. T. WILSON.

—We have received from Frank W. Lynes, N. Y. City, a bunch of eight clippings for which we are duly grateful, though none of them deal with matters of sufficient philatelic interest to warrant our using the same. The parcels post situation is receiving considerable consideration at the hands of the press.

—Have you joined the Boosters?

—If you failed to solve number 5 in the Triangle, note that you have lots of company.

—R. S. Green commenting upon complaint made by James Parker in No. 1134 suggests that it would be a good plan if collectors would take their catalogs immediately on receipt and make the corrections in prices indicated in the Addenda. Mr. Green believes that the dealer is oftentimes unjustly accused, in that Addenda corrections have not been properly taken account of.

—Wayne Hoffman would like to have some dealer advertise the Cape of Good Hope emblem recently illustrated. No doubt other collectors would like to be similarly obliged.

—Are you a Booster?

—Paul Mason advises us of his change of address from Columbus, O. to Covington, Ky. where he is now one of the editors of Fire Protection, a monthly magazine. He has but recently returned from a convention of fire chiefs at Denver.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. M. Overfield, Geo. E. Marx, Raymond Breunig and E. Crisman.

—We have received from H. Cormack his annual price list of Central and South American stamps. It makes a very respectable sized book of 56 pages and is very neatly arranged and printed. It can doubtless be obtained on application.

—Harry T. Willcox lays before us the facts in connection with an English fraud, Charles Moore, who under an elaborate letterhead has been able to secure valuable approval selections and then decamp. Mr. Willcox submits a letter from our U. S. Consul's office at London which substantiates the above. The advertisement through which Mr. Willcox became acquainted with Moore appeared in the columns of a contemporary.

A STREAM OF GOOD WORDS.

"Enclosed you will find $1.00 for two years renewal to Mekeel's Weekly. Have been a constant subscriber to your paper beginning with Vol. 1, No. 1 and consider it the best weekly published. Would not know how to get along without it!"—Paul M. Elsden, Waverly, Ia.

The daily mail contains numerous good words and many subscription remittances but when a word reaches us such as comes from Mr. Elsden we may certainly be pardoned for giving it a bit of publicity. Sometime we shall poll our readers for Vol. 1, No. 1 subscribers just to see what kind of a charter roll we can muster.

Here is a breezy issue of the Weekly. Show it to a friend and send us the new name you surely will be able to get.

The Managing Editor.

EDITORIAL.

Stampless Covers—Not a few of our readers spent their vacations with philately in their thoughts. Searches were made when opportunity offered for stamps with "artistic" if not material success. No power of clairvoyancy is needed to disclose these facts, as will be shown. We have been receiving an unusually large number of inquiries, not to mention the items themselves, concerning stampless covers bearing in addition to the postmark, various inscriptions, such as Paid 5 or Collect 10, for instance, either hand-stamped or written. The similarity of such covers to some of the extremely rare provisionals makes the identity of the covers in question a matter of grave speculation. Such seems to be the irony of fate that many of these unstamped envelopes are to be found while those with stamps seem to be elusive. The fact that covers without stamps were used after 1847, the date of the first general issue is a puzzling circumstance in this connection, which, however, is to be disposed of by the declaration that prepayment of postage by stamps was not made compulsory until 1855. The covers with the markings aforesaid have no philatelic significance, although it may be argued that there is an antiquarian interest about them that is of some consequence. If the covers were used before the stamp era, of course there could be no postage stamps upon them but the covers that were employed after 1847 were sent unstamped at the option of the sender. If the postage on these letters was paid in cash, they were stamped Paid, usually with the amount of postal charge. If he sent the letters with the postage to be collected from the recipients, the letters were marked accordingly.

With or Without—By the Act of Congress of March 3rd, 1851, the postage on inland letters not over a half ounce in weight became three cents for a distance not exceeding three thousand miles with the proviso that if the postage was to be collected on delivery, the charge was five cents. Before that date, the rate was the same pay or collect, if no notice is taken of a minor exception to this rule. Deputy post-masters enjoyed the franking privilege and their letters usually bore the word, Free, stamped or written, with the name of the postmaster written underneath. So, inland letters mailed up to January 1st, 1856, were not required to bear postage stamps in order to ensure their carriage in the mails. We trust that our explanation will allow those having the covers such as are under discussion to define their status.

Where—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who used to pay for the names of dealers from whom stamps could be bought? Is he hobnobbing with the o. f. c., who, when he found a better specimen of a stamp that already was in his album in poor condition, pasted the second right over the first stamp?

Of All Things—Our political department. The human hubbub who sent the telegram last week that was duly detailed in this column follows it with another "Rush" despatch: "Come out with sensational head, pledging support of stamp collectors for Teddy, as when he is elected, the empire will be established with entire new deal of stamps. Work up a page." This person who seems so anxious to overwhelm us with woe evidently remembers the assertion made by a newspaper in the course of a long article on philatelists many years ago that stamp collectors ceaselessly were plotting against the governments of the principal countries of the world with the idea of expanding the number of stamps available for collecting purposes by reason of the political changes.

Model Office—At the convention of the National League of Postmasters of the United States held in Richmond, Virginia, recently, a post-office was installed in the hotel that was selected as head-quarters of the convention. The office was an operating one and the mail of delegates generally was handled through it. The equipment was of the most approved and advanced kind; and in its entirety, the post-office was intended to illustrate the ideal establishment of its kind and its workings. A special postmark was used to designate the mail originating at the temporary office and in other ways the encouragement of the governmental authorities was manifest. We have heard of a few collectors of postmarks of special and temporary offices that got their start with the World's Fair postmark that was used in the office at Chicago on the Fair grounds in 1893, although there had been at least one special postmark employed before that date.

World Moves—It is learned from the Stampster which gives particular attention to the philatelic affairs of the Latin American countries that in all likelihood, Chile will follow the example of Cuba and found an engraving and printing bureau for the manufacture of its stamps. If the probability becomes an accomplished fact "a distinctively Latin American type of stamp design" may be expected to take its place among the standards of stamp execution. The dissatisfaction alleged to have been felt in Cuba in connection with the appearance of the inverts is said to have been instrumental in hastening the creation of the stamp plant; but in addition to the feeling of national pride that runs high in the southern countries there is a wide movement to foster and conserve home industries in all republics. The cynic who reads in the newspapers of the "graft" burdens that are said to be slowly crushing Cuba may ask whether instead of an improvement in philatelic conditions, the new regime will not give a fillip to the zeal of the grafters and afford a new field for their enterprise.

Longing—Mr. F. E. Goodwin, whose series on the stamps of the United States, now appearing in the Weekly, occasions so much commendation intends to write with fullest attention to the wealth of detail afforded by the stamps, on the subject of the one, three and ten cent of the issue of 1851. In order that his monograph be authoritative and advanced in its revelations of research, he wishes to "beg, borrow or buy" the stamps named in singles, pairs, strips, blocks, and also with plate-numbers, imprints, scarce cancellations, etc. We hope that Mr. Goodwin's laudable desire to more thoroughly exploit these stamps than ever before will be fully appreciated. It may be added that President Cornwall of the American Philatelic Society has asked Mr. Goodwin to assist the committee having in charge the work of preparation of the U. S. catalogue.

At Last—Good news from the front. Parnassus Penflip has accepted our truce and again will his verbal scintillations dazzle our readers. Hear him: "I make obeisance to the clamorous multitude hungry for the pabulum that flows from my quill. I feel the surge of hot philatelic blood in my veins; and I feel that an answer to your respectful request for my opinion of the coming stamp season should be feeling vouchsafed. I feel that it will reach a zenith of opulence that will make all who picnic under the umbrageous tree of philately, affluent and affable. Yours with feeling, Parnassus Penflip." Great little feeler is Parnassus.

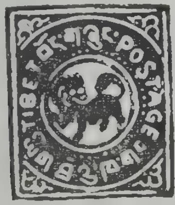
THE DALAI LAMA'S STAMP.

By Fred J. Melville.

The present movements of the Dalai Lama, like the personality of the divine ruler of Tibet, are "wropt in mystery." It is generally supposed that he is not far distant from the Forbidden City of Lhasa, and on his ambitions a gleam of light is shed by a ruddy purple stamp of which one sheet has reached England through W. T. Wilson of Birmingham who sends the Weekly a very fine photograph reproduction of the entire sheet. The stamp has been prepared by the Dalai Lama's government apparently in anticipation of his return to rule the land of the Lamas, and it provides one of those philatelic emissions, unusual in these days of universal postage, which may attain to really considerable rarity and value. Even if it never reaches the stage of regular issue for postal use, the stamp will be a valuable memento of a lost cause.



(By courtesy of W. T. Wilson.)

The stamp is very crudely designed, and just as crudely printed, yet it bears traces of the Dalai Lama's recent long residence within the guardian Empire of India. It has evidently drawn its frame and spandrel ornamentation from the same value of the Edwardian 1 anna stamp of India. In the place of the central portrait, however, there is the mysterious looking beast identified as the white lion of Tibet. Possibly by an error of drawing the white lion is shewn in colour on a white ground.

The inscriptions are in native and English characters, the latter reading "Tibet-Postage." The native characters are interpreted as (at top) POD — Tibet, SHUNG—Government; (below) YIG — letter, THE-HU — postage or stamp, KHA—anna, KANG—one.

The entire sheet comprising twelve stamps has emanated from the very highest quarters in Tibet, and no doubts of its authenticity are entertained by an eminent London philatelist to whom it has been submitted, and it has been secured as an exhibit of unique interest for the London exhibition.

Chapter XII.

24 Cents, Issue of 1861-1868.

What the collector lacks in multiplicity of shades and cancellations in the 12 cents black he can make up in the 24 cents. For when the student of stamps feels that he had gathered about all the collectible things in this stamp the market affords, and has neatly placed several pages safely away, another stamp will arrive to take a place among the others. In fact the writer believes there is no stamp except the 1 and 3 cents of the preceding issue—1851-1857—which admits of such varied arrangement as the one now under consideration.

The one very bad feature of the 24 cents is that one seldom finds one which can truly be called fine. If one is found lightly cancelled, it will be badly off-center. If fairly well centered, an atrocious daub of ink will trouble the collector.

Patience and perseverance will accomplish wonders in the collecting of stamps, and a fine showing can be made, if one uses his eyes to advantage, and his power of comparison constantly.

Like the stamps which have been described recently, this denomination was also printed for August delivery. Unlike the others there is no distinguishing mark to show one whether he has a $40 stamp or one catalogued at 75 cents. Only the expert can take the 24 cents of August and September, and detect the money-difference.

The character of the paper is first considered in making sure whether the stamp under study is of issue of August or September. The paper will be slightly yellowish white (and so, too, are some of the Septembers, caused by gum stain), very thin and brittle. In fact the paper is so susceptible to damage that many an August has probably gone to the scrap-pile through carelessness.

Two shades of 24 cents August are chronicled—violet and deep violet.

The stamp was printed from plate No. 6, and between 200,000 and 250,000 were made and sent out before the change to September color and paper was made.

Early in September, 1861, the change was made. The second stamps also were printed from plate No. 6, proving that no change was made to distinguish the two varieties, as was the case with the others earlier described. The first colors of the so-called September printing were red lilac and gray lilac, followed by gray and the scarce steel blue. Another shade, not mentioned by writers, except to state that it is a possible chemical changeling, is the green-blue. If this is, as has been stated, a chemical changeling, it is due to atmospheric action, because copies are found on original cover, which have never passed through the hands of the acid-artists and all alike in that peculiar shade of greenish lilac.

Later on the red was omitted from the tint which made the earlier stamps a shade of lilac, and the slate was produced.

Still later the colors were all jumbled up, and a considerable variety of shades were produced to the disgust of the general collector, and delight of the specialist. Mr. Luff mentions the following appearing with year dates 1863 and later:

Violet, black violet, brown violet, lilac, gray lilac, gray, red lilac, deep red lilac.

The cancellations in black are most common—in fact about every nine out of ten stamps of this denomination are badly smeared with some form of black cancellation. Pen cancellations are not common, and owing to the delicate tints used in the inks the cleaning of the stamps to make unused ones is not very successful. Red cancellations are rather scarce, and green very hard to get. Combinations of black and red are more common than red without black showing.

The grille was applied in 1867.

Up to the time the grille was employed there were 10,056,990 stamps printed. But it must not be believed for a moment that this number were put out for sale in ungrilled condition. During the time the grille was used there were printed 234,175 stamps. When the issue was withdrawn there were 268,450 stamps destroyed. The grilled stamp is not exceptionally rare. It can be said that no care was taken in running the stamps through the embossing machine, for they will be found with grilles split top and bottom, or on the sides, with an occasional true double grille. I believe that some day the side-roller grille, described in the chapter on the 3 cents 1861-1868, will be turned up on this stamp.

It has been written that the embossed stamp is found only in the gray lilac shade. In this I disagree. I know that the red lilac shade was so grilled, because I have one stamp in my collection in this shade, and have possessed two—one of which was disposed of to a specialist. In fact my grilles of 24 cents show six distinct shades so that the handbooks are wrong in describing the shade of grilled stamps.

There are but two sizes of grilles so far as I have been able to learn or find. They are 9x13½, showing 12x17 points, and 9x13, with 12x16 points. Perhaps there are other sizes. Will students inform us?

The stamp was reprinted in 1875 for the Centennial, and the reprint is a scarce stamp which any collector might be proud to possess. It can be determined by the texture and hardness of paper, being printed on very white, hard paper. The color is deep violet. Only a few were sold to the public, as most of them were destroyed.

This stamp is one of the series which was over-printed "Specimen." It is a very pretty shade of violet, and usually better centered than the regular issue.

Proofs on India paper and cardboard should be collected. They will come in handy for study and reference sometime. And, further, they will be eagerly sought for shortly, when stamp collectors get the habit of studying their stamps deeply.

A Chat With the Advertiser!

We pat ourselves upon the back this week with a few quotations from advertisers' letters:—

H. Leonard, Jacksonville, Fla., writes us:—"Although you hid my Barbados advertisement away down on the sixth page of the Sept. 14 issue, I have already received more orders than I can fill. I am expecting a further supply. From my St. Lucia advertisement I received twenty-one orders. The WEEKLY looks good."

We quote from another letter:—

"Enclosed find copy for our advertisement in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. We shall use space weekly until further notice. Our experience last season with several periodicals convinced us that MEKEEL'S is the best."

This is the word that reaches us from the Sooner Stamp Co., but this firm is not alone in its word of commendation, for in the same mail we received the following from the manager of Herbert H. A. Fox & Co., Oswego, N. Y.:—"We received replies from our first advertisement even before our copy of the WEEKLY had reached our office. What do you think of that?"

H. N. Haas, user of trade space, writes:—"Your paper is the paper to bring results. Its the best medium I ever used."

Its up to you to do business with us!

Note that we have with us this week some new advertisers:—the old and reliable Fulton Stamp Co., of N. Y. City; the International Stamp Co. a newer concern of the same city; Whitfield King & Co. of Ipswich, Eng.; Chas. A. Townsend of Akron, O. and the Sooner Stamp Co.

Remember the WEEKLY gives you full measure, pressed down and running over!

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—A Washington dispatch dated Sept. 29 says: As the result of the conferences held here last week between postmasters of the metropolitan centers, the Postoffice Department announced today that arrangements have been made for the engraving and manufacture of a series of 12 postage stamps of novel size and design for use in the parcels post system. The stamps will be larger than the ordinary stamp and will be of attractive design and distinctive color to prevent confusion. The first series will depict the transportation of mail by pony express, railway, automobile, aeroplanes, etc., while the second will show the four classes of postal employes at work. The third series will give industrial scenes. The stamps will be ready by Dec. 1, as the parcels post system starts Jan. 1.

The Philatelic Gazette reports the 1c Postal Savings Envelope on white paper, watermarked U. S. S. E. The same paper says: There is still on hand a considerable supply of the old paper with the double lined watermark for use on hand presses which print stamps in sheets of 200 only. Only four stamps are now on this list, namely the ordinary 50c and $1, and the same values for the Postal Savings system. 30c and 50c Postage Due have not been printed for a number of years, but a four hundred subject plate was made for each of these some time ago. The watermark seems to be more common sideways recently, which is simply due to the cutting of the paper and of no philatelic importance.

The following new precancels have been reported since last chronicle, by Lowell J. Ragatz, Frank B. Eldredge and Edward Howard:

Cleveland, Ohio, 2c 1912, normal, type IV.

Cuba 10 Cent Invert

As over thirty of the only known sheet have been placed, price is advanced $10.00 on Oct. 1st. In view of the fact that a large proportion of those remaining are now on approval, it is almost certain that more than half of the sheet will be sold by the time this "ad" appears. As soon as 50 are actually sold price advances $10.00 more. Why not order now? The stamp is really worth $100.00 and will surely sell for that price as soon as collectors are satisfied it can't be bought for less. One sheet of 2ct. Pan American sells at $220.00 per stamp why not 10ct. Cuba? [30

CEYLON.—The new series of stamps was to have been placed on sale in the Island October 1. These stamps will have the portrait of King George and will be used for all purposes—revenue, judicial, postage and telegraph. They will bear the words "Postage and Revenue," and therefore will supercede the present revenue stamps. The new issue will consist of 16 values, as follows: 2c, 3c, 5c, 6c, 15c, 25c, 30c, 50c, 1r, 2r, 5r, 10r, 20r, 50r, 100r and 500r. Simultaneously with the issue of the new stamps, there will also be a change in the stamp stationery, such as stamp labels, postcards, and envelopes, printed locally. New dies with the King's head for printing these were received by the Government printer in July.

Type same as at present with the exception of one or two slight modifications in some values. The present values 1, 3, 5, 12, and 15 centavos are to be suppressed and substituted by 4, 8, 14, 40 and 60 centavos, as these values will be more in harmony with the recently increased postal tariff.

DENMARK.—The postal authorities of the Kingdom have branched out in a new direction, having issued a stamp larger in size and of a higher value than have before been seen in Danish stamps, a specimen having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co. The stamp is of the value of 5 kroner, and the size 37x20 mm., the stamp being a horizontal oblong. The stamp is roughly executed, the design showing a picture of the Central Post Office at Copenhagen, dated "1912." The frame is in a different color from the central picture, and has "Dannmark," in a curved line at the top, with large post horns in the upper corners, and the figures of value in large ovals in the lower corners. "Kroner" is printed in a tablet across the bottom between the figures of value. The stamps are printed on paper watermarked Crown, two crowns appearing on each stamp, and perforated 13.

Adhesive.

5kr lake and carmine.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us the 6c value, with head of King George, announced some time since. There is no change in the design except the King's head.

Adhesive.

6c scarlet.

GUATEMALA.—Edwin W. Fuss has shown us three new provisionals from Guatemala, made by surcharging three values of the 1902 set in various ways. The 20c rose lilac and black has been surcharged "1 UN CENTAVO 1" at the bottom, with the date "1912" placed over the old date, "1902" in the upper right corner. The 50c red brown and blue has been surcharged "2 CENTAVOS 2" at the bottom, and dates, "1912" have been placed in each of the upper corners. The 75c gray lilac and black has been surcharged "CINCO CENTAVOS" at the bottom, with new date, "1912" over the old date in the lower right hand corner. The new value is placed in the upper corners, a large figure "5" being printed over each "75." The printing is very poorly done. All surcharges are in black.

Provisional Adhesives.

1c on 20c rose lilac and black.
2c on 50c red brown and blue.
5c on 75c gray lilac and black.

MARTINIQUE.—Maury's Collectionneur gives the following as the quantities printed of the recently issued provisionals:

5c on 15c, 453,000; 5c on 25c, 125,000; 10c on 40c, 37,000; 10c on 5fr, 36,000.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Australian Philatelist for June reported the discovery of copies of the current 6d stamps printed in brown, the color of the 5d. It was stated on good authority that when 6d stamps were ordered from the Government Printer early this year he had an insufficient supply of carmine ink and endeavored to eke it out by adding some of the brown ink used for the 5d. This resulted in a color much nearer brown than carmine but it was used for the last few sheets of the order.

In the July number of the Australian Stamp Journal there is a flat contradiction of this story and an "official explanation" that the stamps in the wrong color "had been returned from an office where there had been a fire and that the change of color was due to the excessive heat." The experiment of baking some 6d stamps resulted in brown stamps but they also had brown gum, whereas the supposed errors had white gum. Apparently it remains to be proved which story is correct.

PERSIA.—Scott's Circular reports having found 1, 2, 3 and 6ch of the 1909 issue, overprinted "Service" at the top in the type used for the official stamps of 1902-03, and Persian characters at the bottom.

PORTUGUESE INDIA. — Another provisional should be added to the list of those recently issued, specimens having been shown us by Whitfield King & Co. The 2½r yellow brown of 1902, being surcharged "2—Reis" twice, and perforated vertically. The "Republica" surcharge is lacking on this stamp.

Provisional Adhesive.

On Issue of 1902-3.
"2 Reis" on 2½r yellow brown.

SURINAM.—We are informed by Whitfield King & Co. that a 10 cent value was included in the list of provisionals recently chronicled, and Ewen's Weekly gives the color, but we have not yet seen it.

Provisional Adhesive.

10c slate.

BRITISH AUTOMATIC FRANKS.

The automatic franking machine which was on trial at the G. P. O. from January 25th last, has now been returned, the last day of use being 31–8–1912. It will be remembered that by placing a penny in a slot and turning a handle, after inserting the letter in an opening, the letter was stamped with a red circular device, consisting of an outer line, within which, at the top,was inscribed in a curve "London E C" below this a large 1D then in a straight line the words "Postage Paid" and below this an Imperial Crown. A notice appeared recently in the Post Office Gazette stating that this device would no longer be accepted as showing Postage Paid and that all envelopes found in the post showing it were to be treated as unpaid.—Marsh's Circular.

WHY NOT BE A BOOSTER?

The club is growing rapidly!

E. P. Lent of Cleveland, O., is now a Booster. Here is the story:—"While on a little trip a few days ago I showed a copy of the WEEKLY to a friend and enclosed find 25c to pay for a six months' subscription. He will take the Toppan book." Any one can do what Mr. Lent has done.

F. Liebeck of the Bornot Bdg., Philadelphia, renews for two years and sends in a new yearly, Wilmington, Del., subscription. This is a good bit of boosting surely.

Chas. G. Brown, Jr., sends in a new yearly. We are grateful also for the ten centers and we enroll every one a booster who sends in a new name. Boost, booster, boost-test!

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

COMING AUCTION SALES.

(For the benefit of our advertisers as well as subscribers we shall keep all sales posted and desire early receipt of catalogs that dates may be promptly entered.)

Oct. 12.—Wolsieffer's, No.122, at the C. P. S. club room, when collection of Scott Jordan of Chicago and several minor properties will be sold, 300 lots of U. S. and colonies and fine range of foreign, especially British colonies.

Oct. 18-19.— R. P. Lee collection of U. S. and foreign stamps by Philadelphia Stamp Co.

Oct. 24-25.—Nassau Stamp Co. will sell the collection of Wm. Uhlman.

Oct. 30.— B. L. Drew & Co., Boston, a "20th Century" sale.

THE TRIANGLE REBUS.

When the triangle rebus was announced it was stated that all designs but one were illustrated in Scott's catalog. Certainly number 5 will prove a stickler to one who relies upon catalog illustrations. To the score who have sent in lists minus number 5 we offer the suggestion that this is a European stamp listed by Scott and the illustration shown in the catalog does not apply to the stamp. We offer this word in view of our preliminary statement. Take your collection, look it over and find this triangle and send in supplementary word by Oct. 18.

A PHILATELIC CLUB IN LONDON.

During the week of the Jubilee Stamp Exhibition the demand for a central philatelic rendezvous in London, as advocated at the last Congress, will be put to a practical test. With characteristic enterprise the Exhibition Executive is providing an attractive social club in the Exhibition building itself, for the comfort and convenience of visitors, which will doubtless be appreciated by the foreign and provincial philatelists visiting London at that time, as well as by those of the Metropolis. A well appointed club room, reserved exclusively for members and their friends, is being fitted up on the first floor of the Royal Horticultural Hall, where facilities for reading, writing, interviews, etc., will be provided, and light refreshments served at special charges. Members of the Philatelic Club will also have the privilege of having their correspondence addressed to them care of the Club, and there will be various other concessions.

CHAMPION'S 1913 CATALOGUE.

This Standard French Catalog was placed on the market last month and we are desirous that our many subscribers shall be made acquainted with its merits. To this end we make a subscription offer of more than ordinary interest.

The price of the Champion catalog is 85c. We will present you a copy of this catalog free of charge if you will remit $2.00 for four years' subscription to the WEEKLY. This offer comes well within the P. O. regulations regarding premiums on subscriptions and at the same time is a liberal offer.

You may if you desire send in your renewal for two years and, as well, a new subscription for some friend for two years: Add the Champion Catalog to your library.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

PROOFS AND ESSAYS.

Certain imperforate stamps are described in Scott's catalogue as being only "finished proofs" while the terms "proofs" and "essays" frequently occur in philatelic literature so that it is as well for the beginner to have some sort of idea of what is meant by these words.

An ESSAY is any design suitable for a postage stamp submitted to the proper authorities in printed form, but which was never made use of.

A PROOF is a printed impression taken from a die or plate, incomplete or quite completed so far as design is concerned, of a stamp design actually issued for use.

The essential point of difference between them is that an essay is a print from a design that only reached the proposal stage, while a proof is a print from a design or part of a design which was accepted for use.

Essays owe their existence to a variety of causes but most of them originate when a Government invites suitable designs for a new stamp or series. From the original drawings submitted a few are perhaps selected as likely to prove suitable and engravings are made of these, the exact size the stamps are to be, from which the final selection of designs may be made. The ones rejected as unsuitable or not so good as the others are essays. Or, perhaps, when new stamps are wanted the Government printers are instructed to submit prints of suitable designs and any of these not adopted become essays. In fact practically any design submitted in printed form to the proper authorities with an idea of its being used as a postage stamp and then not so used is an essay. As a rule essays are not easy to obtain and some are extremely rare. They are however, of the greatest interest to the specialist and their inclusion in a collection adds considerably to its philatelic and historic value.

Proofs, as we have already shown, are really trial printings of designs actually used for postage stamps and these may be sub-divided into two classes—die-proofs and plate-proofs.

Die-proofs are impressions taken from an original or subsidiary die either during the process of engraving or when finished and ready for transference to the transfer-roll. When engraving a die the engraver takes impressions of his work at frequent intervals to see if everything is progressing as satisfactorily as it should be. As a rule these impressions are thrown in the waste-paper basket and destroyed but sometimes they are saved and come on the market and are eagerly absorbed by specialists. When a die is complete impressions are taken and submitted to the proper quarters for approval before the work of "laying down" the plate commences. These die-proofs are not uncommon so far as many United States issues are concerned but of the stamps of some countries they are well-nigh unobtainable.

Plate proofs are proofs taken from a plate and here again they may be prints taken from an unfinished plate or one quite ready for the actual process of printing. In the case of plate proofs from unfinished plates we get such varieties as impressions of the Hayti designs of 1891-95 before the numerals had been inserted in the upper angles, or impressions of the early British stamps without the corner letters. When a proof is taken from a plate in the color which has been decided upon for that particular denomination it frequently differs from the issued stamps only from the fact that it is imperforate. As a rule proofs are taken in black ink as in this color it is much easier to detect any imperfections. Sometimes prints are taken in all sorts of colors before any decision is arrived at regarding what colors shall be used for the different denominations in a series. These are usually known as color-trials. Occasionally, too, proofs are printed in different colors on paper of various kinds and colors, all of these being proofs. Sometimes proofs are printed in various colors and on all sorts of papers and then gummed and perforated like the issued stamps. As a rule these are made when some difficulty is experienced in deciding upon the most suitable color combination for a stamp. Being finished in every detail the "powers that be" can tell exactly how any given colors will appear when the stamps are ready for sale to the public.

Essays and proofs, while of the greatest interest to the specialist and philatelic student, hardly come within the scope of the beginner or general collector. Speaking generally they are easily distinguishable from the ordinary issued stamps but there are some cases where they constitute a real danger to the unwary collector. As an instance we may point to the rare 3c scarlet of the United States series of 1862-66. The genuine stamp is a rarity while the imperforate proof in practically the same color and on practically the same paper is by no means uncommon. Clever but dishonest individuals, therefore, take the proof, add fictitious perforations, and then try to sell it as the genuine 3c scarlet. Plate proofs of most of the stamps of the United States can be obtained at comparatively small cost so that the trick of adding perforations to deceive the uninitiated is one that has often been played. It therefore behooves the inexperienced collector to be careful in purchasing unused copies of the rarer stamps to be sure that he is not buying perforated proofs. And the only safe way is to purchase rarities only from firms of good standing who can give a guarantee that the stamp sold is what it is represented to be.

PARCELS POST STAMPS.

Series to be Placed on Sale New Year's Day.

(Clipping from Jos. Wood.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—When the new parcels post system becomes operative Jan. 1, 12 new stamps will be placed on sale in post offices for affixing to packages. These stamps will be larger than the ordinary postage stamps. Arrangements already made by Postmaster General Hitchcock for their engraving and manufacture provide for a series of an even dozen so distinctive as to color and size as to prevent possible confusion with other stamps.

The 12 stamps will be issued in three series of designs. In the first series modern methods of transporting mail will be illustrated. The mail car of a railway train will be shown on one stamp; an ocean steamer will be shown on another; the third will have a motor wagon of the type used in the postal service, and the fourth will show a mail-carrying aeroplane. Postal employes will be shown at work in the second series. The figures will be those of railway mail clerks, post office clerks, city letter carriers and rural free delivery carriers. The third series will represent four industrial zones, showing the principal sources of products that will be transported most extensively by parcels post.

By Dec. 1 the stamps will probably be ready for distribution to the 60,000 post offices in the country.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Mr. J. C. Auf der Heide, of Holland, has sent us a very neat brochure entitled (translated) "Handbook of all the Postage stamps of Netherlands and Colonies, with Lists of all the Paper, Perforation, Type and Shade Varieties." The book contains 141 pages, with a page plate of Jacques Wiener (1815-1899), the engraver of the first Dutch stamps, four of the retouches of the 1852 issue, enlarged, three of the retouches of the 1864 issue, enlarged, two of the types of the 1867 issue, enlarged, and one of the types of the 1 gulden "Coronation" stamp, enlarged. All the issues are finely illustrated in half-tone, full size, as well. A chapter is also given to counterfeit stamps and postmarks.

Following Holland, the Dutch Indies, Curaçao and Surinam are given the same attention.

In a short preface we are told (subject to our own limitations in Dutch) that the family of Thurn and Taxis anciently had the monopoly of the post in the Netherlands until the States of Holland took it over and modeled it upon the English postal system. Under Napoleon it was conducted more on French ideas, naturally, but was considerably improved in 1818 under King William I. In 1850 it was reorganized on the English plan adopted in the United Kingdom in 1840. On April 12, 1850, a decree announced the issue of the first Dutch postage stamps for the 1st of January, 1851; but another decree, of 22nd December, 1850, postponed the issue until the 31st of December, 1851, and, as we know now, they appeared on January 1st, 1852.

The author acknowledges his indebtedness to "Kohl's Briefmarken Handbuch und Grosser Katalog" and Mr. Melville's popular work on "Holland," from which he was enabled through Mr. Peckitt's kindness to employ the illustrations for the retouches of the 1852-4 issues and the type varieties of 1867.

The work can be obtained for 60 cents of J. C. Auf der Heide, S. H. D., Koornstraat 31c, Hilversum, Netherlands.

A DISTINGUISHED SOCIETY.

The Philatelic Society of Sweden, with nearly 1200 active members, has the honor of having its membership list headed by the Crown Prince of Sweden, the King of England, and the Postmaster General of Sweden. As the Society's membership list gives the occupation of each member, it is interesting to observe the vocations from which the membership has been recruited. The Stockholm and Gothenburg sections of the Society have together somewhat over 300 members. Amongst these we find 18 officers in the army, 7 bankers, 44 wholesale merchants, 27 retail merchants, 20 lawyers, 22 doctors, 35 cashiers and clerks, 18 engineers, 6 architects, 7 post officials, 2 professors, 26 government officials, 3 druggists, 8 consuls, 6 manufacturers, 16 managing directors, and 5 artists.

PHILATELIC FACTS AND FALLACIES.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F. R. P. S.

In addressing myself to those who have recently entered the philatelic game, my only desire is to give them the benefit of a few experiences purchased for a cash consideration by one who is only collecting in a small way but who has been steadily at it for many years. There are those who always preach that stamp collecting should be done for pleasure's sake and should be divorced from all thoughts of money values or monetary returns. I am inclined to believe that these apostles of purity are either entirely theoretical or else are so abundantly supplied with cash that the outlay for their collections cuts no figure. For my own part, I belong to the great majority to which the constantly increasing high cost of living is a problem difficult to solve. As the solution involves a curtailing of expenses for pleasures, the stamp collection has to take its share of this curtailment, and it becomes imperative to know that the money we spend on stamps is not spent foolishly. One of the pitfalls of the beginner is his desire to cover the whole field at once. I know that the temptation, backed as it is by an abundance of enthusiasm, is very great, but if the collector can master this temptation and will take up one country at the time, carrying it towards reasonable completion, he will be more satisfied in the end. Printed albums with loose leaves are in the market and these enable the collector to purchase leaves for only one country at the time. Concentrated efforts always produce more satisfactory results than scattered efforts and this is true in stamp collecting as well as in everything else that we undertake. If a collector feels inclined to run a country beyond the limitations of the printed album, then the blank album is to be recommended, and an early start with the latter may just as well be made because it is what the serious collector will come to in the end, anyway. A general collection, housed in a ponderous volume which exhibited about 10,000 blank spaces caused me to drop the collection and general collecting in disgust. If I had been provided with a sectional loose leaf album from the beginning, filling in the less expensive issues in one country at the time, I would probably have been at it yet.

As a rule, the young collector with his first catalogue becomes possessed of highly exaggerated ideas as to the importance of catalogue values. In a few instances stamps in extra fine condition may be worth the full catalogue quotation, and even more, but these are scarce stamps sought by those who can afford to pay connoisseur's prices. The great majority of stamps are purchased by the dealers at prices enormously out of proportion with catalogue values. One serious fallacy in regard to catalogue values is the beginner's ignorance or disregard of the importance of the condition of the stamps he buys. A poor copy of a rare stamp is only worth a small fraction of its listed value, and a poor copy of a common stamp is not worth anything, and should not even be given away. The disregard of condition when purchasing stamps has caused collectors more disappointments and serious losses than all other philatelic pitfalls and fallacies combined. I have been there myself and know what I am talking about. When I started a general collection, I turned to a large and reputable house for packages of stamps, sets, and single specimens. I was isolated from other collectors and deprived of experienced advice, consequently I accepted in good faith as fine the condition of the stamps I received. The single stamps I purchased at a discount of 10% on catalogue prices. One day they sent me a stamp from Holstein which was trimmed within the design and had one corner hanging by a shred. This certainly did not look fine to me, and having my suspicions aroused I decided to try another dealer whose advertisements laid stress on the condition of his goods. The first approval selection I received from him was an eyeopener. I found that the stamps I had purchased during a whole year were rather indifferent as far as condition was concerned and as a result, I had to spend money on better specimens with which to replace those that looked the poorest. This was many years ago, and the condition standard was not quite as high as it is today but

A ten cent bill with each stamp.

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

I suspect that I was rated as belonging to the schoolboy class and was catered to accordingly. A new beginner should never collect according to his own imaginary standard of excellence, but should avail himself of the first opportunity to consult the collection of an advanced and careful collector. If such an opportunity does not present itself, he may scan his own or somebody else's daily mail for a well centered, distinct but lightly cancelled, and perfectly clean specimen of a U. S. current 2c stamp. When found, this specimen may be mounted on a card and used as a standard with which to compare every single stamp received on approval. If a stamp does not compare favorably with the selected standard, leave it alone. Of course, in the case of several of the scarcer issues some latitude will have to be allowed, as well centered and lightly cancelled specimens of such issues may be nearly unobtainable and command prices accordingly. As far as common stamps are concerned, those that catalogue from 1 to 25 cents, there is no excuse for being satisfied with poor specimens. The unsatisfactory condition of the stamps in the collection of the average beginner can be laid to the impatience with which he is striving to fill blank spaces. His motto is too often, that anything is good enough as long as it will fill a space. He should remember that the stamps he may purchase years from now will have to keep company with those first entered into the collection and for that reason every beginner should start with a condition standard which will stand the test of his own critical scrutiny when he has reached the advanced stage of collecting. It will make slower progress but the future satisfaction reaped will more than repay the earlier irksome restraint.

Offers of free hinges and cheap hinges should be shunned. The best hinge in the market is none too good, and when it comes to parting with a collection through the agency of a dealer, the way the stamps have been mounted will be second only in importance to the condition of the stamps themselves. Careless mounting with poor, nonpeelable hinges will discount the sales value of a collection most seriously. The present prices of good hinges leave no excuse for purchasing those of poorer quality.

Never grudge the paying of a fair price for a fine specimen. Stamps that are sold at 50 or 75% discount from standard quotations are generally 50 or 75% off when it comes to condition.

R. H. MARTIN, SAN JOSE, CAL.

Walter F. Slusser, Fishers Island P. O., N.Y., reports unsatisfactory dealings with the above named party. The charge is substitution and no attention is paid communications sent him. Will interested readers communicate with Mr. Slusser?

MILWAUKEE AERO CANCELLATION.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE.

In my article on "The Development of the United States Aeroplane Mail," the second instalment of which appeared in this paper September 28, I stated, under the caption "None From Wisconsin," "that, no aeroplane cancellations were used in either Milwaukee or Watertown, Wis." I have since learned that an aeroplane cancellation was used at a meet held in Milwaukee, May 30-June 1, although at the time I wrote that there were no aero cancellations in Wisconsin, I had letters from postmasters in both places to that effect. I therefore tender my apologies to Wisconsin, particularly to Milwaukee. This cancellation should be number 14 in the list. The other cancellations, after Cicero, Ill., (No. 13) should be advanced one number.

No. 14—Milwaukee, Wis.

The fourteenth aeroplane cancellation was used at a meet held in Milwaukee, Wis., May 30, May 31 and June 1, 1912. The aviator was Farnham Fish. The meet was held at the State Fairgrounds, about five miles west of the city. A postal station was established on the grounds. Mail was carried from the grounds to the West Allis Branch of the Milwaukee postoffice, about a half mile distant. From there it was carried to the city proper by rail.

Both the postmark and cancellation were in blue ink. The postmark was circular in shape. At the top were the words "Aeroplane Station." In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Milwaukee, Wis." The cancellation consisted of four heavy lines, about one-eighth of an inch in thickness. The top and bottom lines were one and one-eighth inches in length. The second and third lines were broken. In the space where the lines were broken, were the words "U. S. Mail" in type about this size. This cancellation is similar to those used at Oakland and Sacramento, California.

A PANAMA COMMEMORATIVE.

There is every indication that Panama will have a single commemorative stamp in September 1913. Gerald D. Bliss sends us the following clipping from a Panama paper dealing with an order introduced in the Panama Assembly:—

"A measure was introduced providing that the Postoffice Department should place in circulation a new stamp from September 1 to 25, 1913, commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the South Sea. The stamp is to be of two and one-half centisimos in value, green in color and to bear the portrait of Balboa, with one foot planted on a rock on the shore and the sea behind him. The bill was approved on first reading."

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Ben Delovage, R. Livingston Bodge, F. W. Lynes (4), Geo. C. Hale, Jr., Gerald D. Bliss, James M. Woltz, Alfon J. A. Stark, R. E. Jessup (2), John A. Muchmore, Bernard Hoisholt, Jr., H. T. Willcox, Edward Howard (4).

—L. Harald Kjellstedt has been elected an honorary member of the Pacific Philatelic Society of San Francisco. Henry J. Crocker is the president of the Society.

—Are you boosting?

—Numerous subscribers have sent us clippings dealing with the new parcels post series of stamps. This clipping however appeared last week, thanks to Joseph Wood who was the first to send it in.

—"I see you have established a "Booster Club" and I suggest that you also start a "sticker club" or a roster of the faithful old timers. I think it would be an interesting record if you could print a list of the twenty-five or more of your oldest subscribers, in the order in which they stand. Just to show you how much I like your paper; you need not bother with any premium for my two years renewal."—EDW. WINTERMUTE.

—The Newark Stamp Club will hold a special meeting, Friday, Nov. 15, at which time a lively stampic entertainment will be offered and a capable committee will have charge of the "eats." All collectors are cordially invited. Club rooms, 827 Broad St.

CHAPTER XIII.

30 Cents, Issue of 1861-1868.

There seems to be little out of the ordinary which can be said of the 30 cents, orange. And yet there are a few matters known to the specialist and unknown to the general collectors, or newcomers which must be said to complete the story of Specialized United States.

Like all of the preceding stamps of this issue the 30 cents was made a part of the August issue—so-called. And like the 24 cents there is nothing except a difference in shade and the character of the paper upon which it was printed, to prove its existence. The August stamp is a sort of reddish orange in color, was printed from plate No. 7, and about 100,000 copies were struck off before the change in color and paper was made for the September deliveries, and later.

That there is no plate characteristic by which the September stamp can be separated from its August brother is proven by the fact that the September "sticker" was also printed from plate No. 7. And later, when the grilling process was applied to the entire issue, plate 7 was continued in use.

The September stamp first came out printed in pale orange, which, in comparison with the rarer and earlier color, looks washed out and sickly. It was apparent that the printers, and the powers in Washington, were not satisfied with this shade, and it was deepened into a true orange, and a little later to deep orange, to which can be added a red orange, almost a counter-part of the August color, but upon the September paper.

This gives the collector four true shades in the ungrilled variety.

In August, 1867, the 30 cents of this issue was, like its fellow stamps, put through the grilling machine. The stamp is chronicled as being grilled all over. Some experts declare that in this form it was designed for postal use, and others are just as positive that it is merely a form of essay.

Be that as it may I do not believe that the average collector need to worry his brain over lack of it, nor need he leave a vacant space for its future reception. Few will ever possess the 30 cents with grille covering the entire stamp, and unless he be possessed of considerable wealth, a copy of the stamp would be likely to excite suspicion that it is bogus.

The historian says that 3,224,410 stamps were printed before the use of the grille was noted.

If one wishes to possess a real rare variety of this stamp he should be on the watch for a pair unperforated. For be it known that at least one or two sheets did pass through the watchful guards of the printing department without being punched between. As large margins are occasionally found an unperforated stamp in single shape should be accepted "as is."

Only two sizes of grilles have been noted in this stamp, namely, 9x13½, showing 12x17 points; and 9x13 showing 12x16 points.

Each size is found in shades of orange and deep orange.

Perhaps further study of this stamp will bring out other varieties of grilles and shades. I have a copy of the 9x13 double perforated vertically.

There were 282,740 stamps printed after the grilles were applied. But like the stamps which have been described prior to this chapter it is certain that many of those earlier printed were put through the grilling machine.

This stamp either grilled or ungrilled is hard to find in fine or superb condition. Most of the stamps are badly off center, and the postmasters seemed to take especial delight in seeing how much ink they could apply to the receipt for postage. A red cancellation is very rare, and I believe a green cancellation is much to be sought for. I have yet to see one. It seems likely that Paid cancellations would exist, but I have yet to see one. But then my stock of these stamps for examination have been rather limited, and time will likely bring forth new things, as I am certain that the great interest which is being taken in this series of articles will cause collectors to write of their treasured possessions and finds.

ORDERS PANAMA STAMPS.

Postmaster General Approves Designs Made to Commemorate Opening.

Jan. 1, 1913 will see the new issue a reality. Four values 1, 2, 5 and 10c in striking designs and superb workmanship are promised.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved proofs prepared by the bureau of engraving and printing of the new special issue of Panama-Pacific postage stamps. The series comprises four denominations, one, two, five and ten cent. The stamps are about three-fourths of an inch high by one and a sixteenth inches wide; at the top appear the words "U. S. Postage" and "San Francisco, 1915,"; in the left hand border is a branch of laurel and in the right hand border a palm branch; a numeral expressing the denomination is shown within a circle in each lower corner, with the word "cents" between.

The one-cent stamp is green and in the center appears, within a circle, a bust of Balboa, discoverer of the Pacific ocean, looking to the left, and wearing a cuirass and a helmet with a plume. On either side of the background are palm trees, with the ocean in the foreground. Below the portrait, in a horizontal panel breaking the circle, are the words "Balboa, 1513."

The two-cent stamp is red. It represents the Gatun locks of the Panama canal, with a merchant steamer emerging from one lock and a warship in the other. The mountains of the isthmus appear in the distance, and palm trees on the right hand side of the locks. Beneath the picture are the words "Gatun Locks."

The five-cent stamp is blue, and presents the Golden Gate of San Francisco harbor, with the setting sun in the background and a steamer and sailing vessel in the bay. The words "Golden Gate" appear below the picture.

The ten-cent stamp is dark yellow. The subject is "Discovery of San Francisco Bay," from a painting which represents the discovering party looking out upon the distant bay.

All of the new stamps are fine examples of the engraver's art. The Postmaster General has directed that 80,000,000 one cent, 150,000,000 two cent, 8,000,000 five cent and 5,000,000 ten cent stamps be prepared, and that they be placed on sale in post offices beginning January 1, 1913.

OUR NEXT SPECIAL.

We believe in publicity and during the season shall issue recruiting numbers of the WEEKLY, designed to popularize stamp collecting. These special numbers will vary in size and quality of material though all will have the single purpose of strengthening the hold of the hobby on the public mind.

Our special number of October 26 will have a wide circulation and we bespeak for it a goodly advertising patronage in the knowledge that it will be a profitable number. Our "Small Ads" column is a particularly good column for the collector to use.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Progress—A despatch was sent from Washington, under date of October 5th, that by this time has appeared more or less prominently in thousands of newspapers throughout our "fair" land. The announcement which comes from an authoritative source gives a quietus to the report that was current several weeks ago that only a single stamp, the two-cent would compose the Panama-Pacific "set" of commemoratives. Proofs of the following described stamps have been accepted and the newspaper list may be taken as final, we doubt not: "The one-cent stamp is green and bears a portrait of Balboa; the two-cent is red with an engraving of the Gatun locks; the five-cent is blue, with an engraving of the Golden Gate, and the ten-cent is a dark orange, bearing a reproduction of the painting, 'Discovery of San Francisco Bay'." It is told that the postmaster-general has ordered the preparation by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing of 80,000,000 of the one-cent; 150,000,000 of the two-cent; 8,000,000 of the five-cent and 5,000,000 of the ten-cent denomination; and it is the intention to place the stamps on sale at all post-offices on January 1st, 1913. Recently, the design of the two-cent stamp was described with some attention to detail and the other stamps are to be uniform in shape and size with the stamp that previously had been approved. San Francisco is fortunate in having the department equip it with so effective an advertising medium so long before the exhibition becomes an actuality; and it is reasonable to say that the advantage is one of almost immeasurable benefit. Collectors will patiently await the coming of the stamps which have been given a due meed of publicity in their publications.

Not So Easy—A member of the American Philatelic Society writes to say that in view of the fact that over 4100 members have been allotted numbers in the society, while in reality, there are fewer than 1500 members, the propriety of re-numbering the members suggests itself. Without considering the desirability of the reduction to a consistent plane, it must be borne in mind that the American Philatelic Society is an incorporated body and that a change of the kind is not to be made easily, and any procedure of the kind must conform to the necessary legal formalities. When the West Virginia charter, under which the society was first incorporated was surrendered and papers taken out under the Minnesota laws, some entanglement resulted, as older members recollect.

Proud Record—We heartily congratulate the firm of Alfred Smith & Son, London, England, upon having attained its fiftieth anniversary. In September, 1862, an advertisement appeared in the London Times, which furnishes visible proof of the existence of the firm at that remote date, the business having been established by Mr. H. Stafford Smith at Bath. The text of the early philatelic announcement was as follows: "One Thousand Foreign Postage Stamps for Albums.—Just published, price 3d., post free, a Descriptive Price Catalogue of several hundred varieties of British, Colonial, and Foreign Postage Stamps. Address H. Stafford Smith, foreign stamp depot, 25 Kingsmeadterrace, Bath." It is needless to say that this price-list was one of the very earliest printed records of philately and no copy of it in its entirety is known today, although "some cut-out portions are preserved in the library of the Royal Philatelic Society." A new dignity attaches to the firm in having completed a half-century of philatelic usefulness, commercially, and the present standing of Alfred Smith & Son proves that business probity is apt to be well-rewarded. May our confreres long enjoy the distinction that is carried by their occupancy of their rare position in our world of philately.

Still at It—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who bought sheets of "gummed paper" and cut the hinges to suit himself? Perhaps, he has joined hands with the o. f. c., who, when once a stamp was placed in his book would not remove it for any consideration or under any circumstances.

Trouble Brews—Our political department. At the meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society held October 3rd, our special correspondent reports that a straw vote was taken for the presidency, just after a debate on the subject: Was the lot of the old-time collector happier than that of the collector of today? was decided in the negative, much to the hilarity of the reactionaries and disgust of the progressives. Fuel was added to the flame when the result of the straw vote was announced and the "rising tumult" of the excited partizans forced the conviction that the scene was not one that could be witnessed by a special correspondent of a moral sheet such as the WEEKLY. Teddy's name lead all the rest.

A Bit Late—Mr. B. F. Garnett, Elgin, Illinois, sent us some time ago, particulars of the much-discussed Sarmiento commemorative stamp of Argentine; and in view of the speculation in both senses of the word that the stamp has engendered, some of Mr. Garnett's remarks are appended: "This stamp was in use one day only in celebration of the birth of Domingo Faustina Sarmiento, who was born in 1811 and died in 1888. As an opponent to Rosas in politics, he was exiled in 1831 but returned in 1836 only to be exiled again in 1840. He served with Urquiza against Rosas in 1851 and assisted in framing the constitution in 1853. Sarmiento was minister to the United States in 1864-68 and president of the Argentine Republic in 1868-74. He founded many educational institutions and labored zealously for the promotion of learning. The Sarmiento special stamp was sold out in many post-offices by noon on Sarmiento's birthday; and much speculation in the stamp followed. It has been offered to the philatelist in the United States by dealers at prices ranging from twenty-five to fifty cents but from the date of issue until the middle of December last, the stamp could be had at thirteen cents, our money, in Buenos Aires. I purchased many copies at this price from my correspondent and at date have been offered all I want at twenty cents each, used and unused. The stamps of Argentine are on a silver basis, one dollar in silver equaling forty-three cents in U. S. gold. Claims that the stamp was selling at from fifty to seventy-five cents meant that the price ranged from twenty-two to thirty-two cents in our gold."

Straws—Indications are not lacking that the 35 ore surcharges on the 16 and 20 ore, 1874-79 and 32 ore green, official, 1874, Denmark, respectively, are destined to be desirable. The Denmark, portrait of King Frederick VIII in light blue or ultramarine, described in our issue of August 31st, is in demand by the specialist in particular and seemingly is of limited supply. A cover has just been received from Chile with a ten centavos blue with central portrait of O'Higgin in black, as it appears on the five of the current issue. A Nicaraguan specialist informs us that the postal conditions in that country are in so chaotic a condition that no one can foretell what the philatelic developments will be in the disorganized country.

THREE CENT GRILLED ALL OVER.

By Frank E. Goodwin.

It is good to know that stamp collectors are reading the articles now appearing in Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News on "Specialized U. S." and the information which is being brought out will be of inestimable value in the future study of the stamps of the United States. In re my recent inquiry as to the mailing point of the 3c 1867, with grille covering the entire stamp, it was, for many years supposed that this stamp was only used in Little Rock, Ark. Then Mr. Luff discovered a copy postmarked Savannah, Ga., in the collection of Mr. Deats, I believe. It then became well understood that probably these two cities represented the only ones where this stamp was furnished.

My inquiry brings out the fact that the 3c grilled all over were used at several other points.

Hugh H. Ackler, Peru, W. Va., informs me that he has a copy on entire "official business" envelope, postmarked Washington, D. C. John Paalzow, Dansville, N. Y., tells me that he had one, sold in 1894 to R. F. Albrecht & Co., which was postmarked in Sept. 1867, from Baltimore, Md.

A very interesting letter comes from Horace Jones, San Francisco. Mr. Jones says that in 1867 he was employed at a railroad office in Indianapolis, Ind. He was sent to get a sheet of 3c stamps at the postoffice, and noticed their oddity. He saved one copy, pasted it down flat in his album, and has it yet. This stamp, or rather sheet of stamps, was with grille covering the entire stamp. The next sheet he bought was grilled 11x13, and that, too, he has saved until this time.

Speaking of grilles, F. R. Cornwall, of St. Louis, president of the A. P. S., has a 3c red, or rather pale rose, which is grilled 16x17, 20x22 points. It is said to be the only copy of this size known. Has any reader a like copy?

F. D. Collins, St. Louis, has presented the writer for his collection two copies of the 2 cent 1894, and a 1 cent 1890, with the "stitch" watermark, similar to the so-called watermark in the 1847, and 1851 issues. Mr. Collins has shown me the 3c 1857, type II, with watermark.

Theodore W. Barry, Ayer, Mass., reports having a 5c and 90c 1861, with double perforations, and also 90c 1867, grilled 9x13½, 12x17 points.

Let the news of discoveries come. This year is making history in the knowledge of U. S. stamps.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH, ENGLAND

OUR ENGLISH LETTER.

By W. Ward.

Of course the great Stamp Exhibition in London is to be in October. All the daily press has copy about it. If Exposition Secretary Johnson and President Melville cannot boom and create a record for this show, well, no one this side has an earthly show in the boosting department.

Club Secretary Armstrong tells me that the Exhibition Club will be great; he has received more applications from collectors outside England who are coming for the great Exhibition, than he ever imagined could be the number of collectors that would visit us at this time of the year. We are to have that great Swedish Collector, Baron Leijenhufyud, as the controller and Captain of this short-lived but enthusiastic reunion of collectors of all nationalities. Secretary Armstrong tells me of American collectors who are coming.

We've just got our new Gibbons. Few surprises in anything except new North Americans. What jumps! But nothing but what absolutely requires proper promotion. The earlier Canadians have decidely gone to what I expected and vouched for three years ago in Mekeel's; they get harder and harder every month. What a speculation, or properly, an investment it would be to buy up every first, second, or third rate copy one saw of the large 5c 1868 and 8c registered Canada! What is the real true value of the 2c of 1859? Who is the collector in the States that is buying all the 3d imperf. and 5c beaver Canadas that he can get?

Uncle Sam's great cut can hardly be said to promise much for other nations including Madame Brittania; but what a demand has risen for the "Zones." A year ago 1, 2 & 5c values were nearly a drug on the European market. I remember last year on my continental trip going with about eight thousand assorted of all three issues, 1c to 10c (very few 8c), and practically none of the Continental dealers would look at. Today they are out of everybody's list—I am talking about the 1904's on, and excepting the 1c & 2c of the current. Where you could have a pick of the 10c stamps last year at a dime, you cannot find at face today. It is surprising, too, what an amount of good they have done to Colombias, for so many years in philatelic disgrace. Just points to what Uncle Sam has done for the Ditch Zone.

The current British stamps of course provide a deal of interest to people here, but I fear other parts of the world are getting tired of the de la Rue, Harrison, and Somerset House prints. Just heard that the famous 7d has been seen as a Somerset House print; if it's true, and I quote with all reserve, it is a real dead sure big stamp. The new 2d British, King George Orange has been royally received by the public here; though from a printing point of view, the great number of various shades of yellow to deep orange, is not in it's favor. A good many people here are collecting the Insurance stamps, which are watermarked with the new monogram. The 2d orange are also printed on this paper. Of course just yet, the people here are being influenced by political noise against the Insurance of every person by law, and do not believe that even the great Republic are anxiously wanting that which they have obtained.

The Danish are altering their stamps. They have already brought the 10 ore out in the single color figure type and I hear that many of the other frequently used values will follow suit. 'Course I don't say that the Danes are tired of repeating the process of new stamps for each monarch, but they are evidently going to save money, by having a design that will do for every reign.

Mr. D. B. Armstrong, the Editor of the Stamp Collectors Annual tells me that he has some very exclusive information on Stamp Values, and that the writer, "O. Reginald Gum," lately writing for the Postage Stamp is doing the business, and his predictions of the past few years read like an "Old Moore's Almanack." Conversant and easy-style writers on Philatelic-value subjects generally provide matter acceptable to both Editor and reader, so that I feel sure that Editor Armstrong is providing to taste. By the way, what has become of "Senax," whose articles were of so great an interest to the readers of the Weekly? A little bird whispers that he has been "called" to a higher post, for he was ordained in the Church, and that the importance of his new flock allow him little time for journalism, though his heart has not lost its feeling for philately. Wonderful, isn't it what a lot of professional men, doctors, clergymen, lawyers, that go in for stamps? Ever thought of the fact? As the advert. says —"There's a reason!"

AMATEUR EXHIBITS AT NEW YORK.

J. W. Scott in Met. Philatelist.

One year from this date amateurs who intend to offer their collections for competition at the great International Stamp Exhibition must have them finished ready to deliver to the proper officers. A year may appear quite a long time but unless the book is ready now there is plenty of hard work ahead. Those who desire to compete in the highest classes can only buy when opportunity offers and must never lose a chance to obtain a rarity. These gentlemen are well aware of the fact, but there are others who expect to show moderately complete collections and these should commence at once to get their books in order, it may be a matter of only a few stamps to get a decision in their favor, every addition counts and even if the prize is not secured, their time and money have been well invested. A popular class will consist of collections started within a year of the opening. This we think should attract many who have sold their collections and are thinking of starting again. Our advice and co-operation are at the service of all who need it.

A Chat With the Advertiser!

We are greatly pleased with the manner in which the "new season" is being "opened." Our advertisers are getting busy and we have every reason to believe that our subscribers are meeting them at least half-way.

We receive day by day many warm words of congratulation from satisfied advertisers and two particularly strong endorsements we must quote.

C. H. Nammack writes as follows:—"I deem it but proper that I should write you that my advs. during the past year have brought a large number of replies and many excellent customers. Moreover, these customers have been responsible to the utmost degree and it is a pleasure to transact business with the readers of your paper. I send my best wishes for the continued successful career of the 'Daddy' of philatelic journalism in America."

H. Leonard of Jacksonville, Fla., writes us that he is about to print one thousand letter heads upon the reverse side of which will be an advertisement of Canal Zone stamps. He offers the WEEKLY some advertising space upon the same, believing that it would "help some" as Brody would say. Mr. Leonard adds:—"I am willing to do all I can to help the cause along and I am certain that the WEEKLY is the paper to bring business."

The Clark & Robb Co. has reorganized, Mr. Robb being succeeded by J. A. Clark, and the firm will hereafter be known as the Clark Co. The firm will be found regularly in the columns of the WEEKLY, the initial advertisement appearing this week.

Things look good to us and we advise you, Mr. Dealer, to make a bid for the business MEKEEL'S WEEKLY makes possible.

William F. Palmer reports several Chicago precancels with freak letters evidently caused by too light impressions or the use of too little ink.

CANADA.—We have been informed by the New England Stamp Co. that the 1c and 2c values of the King George set have been issued in coils like the United States stamps part perforated 8½ horizontally.

CHINA.—In No. 1135, we chronicled a new surcharge as having been seen on the ½c and 1c Imperial stamps. Whitfield King & Co. now inform us that this new surcharge was printed in London. Only two values have been issued thus far, but Messrs. King are informed that all the other values up to and including $5 have been similarly surcharged, but will not be issued until the old stock is exhausted. Even these it would appear are likely soon to be superseded, for the ½c Postage Due comes over with a third type of surcharge in square form, a specimen of which we enclose. Whether this surcharge is one specially made for the Postage Due stamps or whether it will also be applied to the postage stamps, is not known. The three types of surcharge which are already chronicled are the only ones authorised by the Chinese Government, except of course the first surcharge "Provisional Neutrality" which was immediately withdrawn, although a few were issued. The various local surcharges which have been chronicled from time to time are not only unauthorised, but also unnecessary, as any unsurcharged stock not returned to Shanghai to receive the authorised surcharge could be used up without surcharge.

It will be remembered that the original Republic surcharge on the Postage Due stamps was in a single vertical column. Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us the new surcharge similar to that noted in No. 1135, but arranged in two columns, of course reading from right to left, and printed in black instead of red. We have only seen the ½c with this surcharge, but presumably all values have been similarly treated.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The ½d and 1d King George stamps have been issued in coils of 500 and 1000, specimens of the full coils having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co. Unlike the United States coils those for Great Britain are not made up from part perforated sheets, but are regular perforated strips torn vertically from the sheets and joined together at top and bottom. The strips are evidently torn off by using a ruler, as the vertical edges of the stamps are bent and roughened. A strip of brown paper is at the beginning of the coil, upon which is printed the number of stamps in the coil, the value of the coil, a statement as to whether the coil delivers the stamps top end first or the reverse and a large letter in parenthesis, indicating the place of that particular coil in the following scale:

The coils of 1000 stamps have cores of 1¼ inches diameter, and the 500 stamps coils have cores of ½ inch diameter. Each coil has a strip of tape run through the centre, green for the ½d stamps and red for the 1d. The ends of these strips of tape are sealed with a lead seal, inscribed "G R" below a crown. All the coil stamps we have seen are of type II and are perforated 15x14. An additional charge of 2d above face value is made on the 1000 stamp coils and 1d on the 500 stamp coils. While collectors will be greatly interested in these coiled stamps, there is absolutely no way to distinguish them after they are separated in the coils. Those shown us all have the new watermark. Apparently the collectible thing will be the strips of paper at the beginning and end of the coil, with the tape and lead seal. As noted above, there are eight varieties of the papers at the beginning of coils.

New Caledonia.—Maury's Collectionneur says that half the recently issued provisionals were sent to the Colonies. This applies to French Guinea, Martinique and Reunion, as well as New Caledonia. The number printed for the latter Colony were as follows:

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

To the Editor:

I note the criticism of "H", Lexington, Va., in re the Tuscumbia envelope recently illustrated in your columns. I had the pleasure of examining this envelope, through courtesy of the owner, Mr. Jac. Meyer, of New Orleans, La., and am certain this is a very interesting and rare cover.

We are learning things about the early history of our stamps, and while not as much study is being made of Confederates as they deserve, yet a considerable advancement has been made recently. There can be no doubt but 3 cents was sufficient to carry a letter from one part of the South in the early days of the civil war, as a number of covers which I have examined attests. For example—a letter would go from points in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, and other states to other points in the Confederate States under a 3 cent stamp, issue of 1857-60, and owing to lack of envelopes they would be turned, stamped with a 5 cent Confederate and travel back again.

Without knowing the date of the Tuscumbia 3 cent postmaster's stamp, I should judge that it was made and used before the postmaster learned that a 5 cent postal rate had been ordered by the Confederate postoffice department. That the postmaster or perhaps the purchaser, had doubts about the stamp being legally good for postage to the destination of the letter might have caused the 3c U. S. stamp to be affixed. I do not pretend to know.

Of this I am certain, if I was especially interested in Confederate stamps or covers, or was specializing in these issues, someone would have to bid high on this cover to keep me from being the possessor of it, for I consider it a type of the early Confederate envelopes which will be very desirable in the future.

SAN FRANCISCO ON THE MAP.

At the present time we have a membership of about 50, although there are at least 200 more collectors in this neighborhood that do not belong. I am therefore laying plans for a big meeting of every stamp collector around here, the meeting to take place at Mechanics Institute in this city on our next meeting night, October 16th. I intend to place an advertisement in all our daily papers for several days previous to the meeting and see if I cannot start something. Will have some beautiful stamps on exhibifion that night and want every collector who can possibly do so to be there. Would appreciate a notice in your paper. San Francisco has woke up and from now on there must be something doing all the time.—S. C. Marcuse.

OUR HANDBOOK No. 1.

The proprietors of our excellent American contemporary, Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News have joined the ranks of the publishers of handbooks. If the present activity in this department continues it will soon be a difficult matter to find a country which has not been "monographed" to death. However, our friend, Mr. Poole breaks comparatively new ground in the Cook Islands, so he may be forgiven. More, he may be very warmly commended for a very excellent study of these little-known issues. Our own opinion of the excellence of Mr. Poole's work may be judged from the fact that we have ventured to make an extended quotation of his chapter on the "Federation" issue of 1892 for the information of Fortnightly-readers. — Fortnightly.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

Provisional Issues.

One of the most interesting classes of stamps known to philatelists is that comprising provisional or emergency issues. These stamps, as implied by their name, are issued to fill some temporary need of more or less urgency, and they owe their origin to a variety of causes. One of the most common of these causes is a sudden shortage of some particular value due, either to careless management on the part of the postal officials in keeping ample stock, or to a change in the postal rates leading to an abnormal demand for a certain value. Then, as it is not always possible to obtain new supplies at short notice, a temporary stamp of the required value has to be created. This is generally affected by applying a surcharge, denoting the new denomination required, to some other value of which there is a large surplus stock or for which there is little enquiry.

A change in postal rates necessitating the use of a new value not represented in the current series has frequently been responsible for provisionals. It is curious that in many cases where these changes have been made the authorities quite failed to realize beforehand that new stamps would be necessary and then when the new rates are in actual operation, they suddenly discover they have failed to make any provision for the necessary stamps. Supplies are hastily ordered and pending their arrival various makeshifts are issued to meet temporary demands. This has often happened in British colonies when first introducing halfpenny postage for newspapers and printed matter.

Then again war has often been responsible for the creation of provisional stamps. These may consist of special labels issued for the use of the troops on active service or they may consist of commandeered supplies of the enemy's stamps suitably overprinted to indicate the "fortune of war." Revolutions and insurrections have also had their share in the issuance of provisional stamps.

Finally, we have stamps of certain countries overprinted for use in other places. Stamps like those of Great Britain overprinted for use in the Offices maintained in the Levant, or those of New Zealand overprinted for use in Aitutaki, Niue, and Penrhyn Island can hardly be called provisionals for these are the only stamps supplied or intended to be supplied these places. But stamps like those of the United States overprinted "Philippines," those of Fiji overprinted "New Hebrides Condominium," or those of India overprinted "Zanzibar" are all legitimate provisionals although in some instances "provisional" use extends over a lengthy period. Where there is an intention to supersede an overprinted issue by one of special design then the overprinted stamps are provisionals. But where there is no intention of issuing stamps of special design then the overprinted labels can hardly be called provisional and they are certainly not "temporary."

Having mentioned most of the causes responsible for the creation of provisional issues we can now proceed to examine some of the methods by means of which provisional issues have been produced.

By far the most common method of manufacture is the application of a surcharge, or overprint. This may be done by means of a handstamp as in the case of certain Haytian stamps, some of the Niger Coast provisionals, some of those of Siam, etc., or the desired values and inscriptions may be applied by an ordinary printing machine from a composition of ordinary printer's type.

Another method occasionally adopted is that of surcharging the stamps in manuscript. As instances we may mention the ½d and 1d provisionals issued on Feb. 27th, 1895, in British East Africa, and the "1d" on 6d surcharges issued in Trinidad in 1882.

Then we have a combination of handstamp and manuscript as in some of the British East African stamps issued in 1891 where new values were applied by handstamps and the authenticity of the surcharges was attested by the addition of initials written with pen and ink by responsible officials. Some of the early provisionals of Siam provide another curious combination—that of handstamp and printed surcharge. In these instances the English overprint was applied by type in the usual way, while the native overprint was applied by handstamps to one stamp at a time.

One of the most interesting of makeshift stamps is the "check-stamp" provisional issued in British Central Africa in March, 1898, the frame being printed from type and the centers been struck from the stamp usually employed for stamping checks.

Then there are typewritten overprints as shown in the "Halfpenny" stamps of Tonga issued in 1896, type-set stamps of all sorts as found among the isues of British Guiana, Gaboon, and Guadeloupe, and more pretentious methods such as lithography have been occasionally employed.

Last, but by no means least, in point of interest and value, we have the stamps known as bisected or "split" provisionals. These are stamps cut into halves, or smaller pieces, each portion then being available for use as a separate stamp. They may be cut vertically, horizontally, or diagonally and as a rule the pieces are surcharged with the new value they are intended to represent. As an instance of a split provisional without surcharge we may mention the Jamaica 1d blue of 1860 which, in November, 1861, was allowed to be bisected and each half used as a halfpenny label. Barbados, Canada, Dominica, Falkland Islands, Niger Coast and Grenada are a few countries which have occasionally issued bisected stamps with surchages to denote the new values and in some cases these surcharges have been applied by handstamps, in others they have been printed from type, and in a few instances they have been written in manuscript.

Provisional issues have added much to the interest of stamp collecting although it is to be feared that many of those of the last twenty years or so would never have appeared had there not been a "philatelic" demand for them!

A TRIP TO HAWAII.

By Arthur Irwin Smith.

For a long time Raymond Harvey had been deeply interested in collecting Chinese revenue stamps, but after he had inadvertently started a "rough house" in the drug shop of Sing Lee Fat one night he steered clear of Chinatown for quite a while. Somehow the queer dragons and other native symbols seemed to lose their fascination all at once.

His general collection, however, was benefitted by his loss of interest in the specialty. He began to delight in hunting for stamps in out-of-the-way places, and many valuable specimens were added to his album by rummaging in garrets and waste-baskets. San Francisco is quite a port for foreign trade and the correspondence of some of the up-to-date firms bore many nineteenth century stamps of high values and corresponding rarity. Here he found the shilling values of Victoria and other Australian countries, the used "King's Heads" as they were issued, and occasionally something of exceptional scarcity.

A good friend of his, Thomas Proctor, was employed as clerk in the offices of the Trans-Pacific Steamship Company, and was responsible for his being allowed to examine the refuse and waste-paper of that corporation. One gray morning in June—there are many gray mornings in San Francisco—Thomas greeted him with an air of unusual importance.

"Hello, Ray," he said, "I'm on track of something good for you. A ship's officer was in here this morning and happened to drop a remark about a sailor on his vessel who had a big sack of rare stamps. He said the man picked them up in Zanzibar or Shanghai or somewhere out there for a few shillings and that he knew his fortune was made."

Raymond smiled skeptically. He had followed up these tales before and had never found much of value. "Thank you, Thomas. I'll look the fellow up, but these novices have very little idea as to what constitutes a rare and valuable stamp. They expect as much for a 10 pfennig German as for a gem of the first water."

"I'm not wise to the stamp game, myself," acknowledged Thomas, "but this seemed like a good tip to me. Better go after it. I didn't get the fellow's name, but he is employed on the Princess Charlotte. I don't suppose you would have any trouble in finding him if you should apply there."

Raymond lost no time in making his way to the vessel. The purser was not any too polite, but he finally succeeded in eliciting the name of the sailor with the stamps. "John Drury," the purser told him, "now absent on shore leave."

Raymond could get little information further than that. Presumably the man would return within a few hours, as the ship was evidently due to embark shortly, judging from the work that was going on. Without asking any more questions Raymond decided to wait aboard. He made himself at home, going on all the decks and even into the engine rooms. No one questioned him or took time to talk with him, so he finally settled down on the floor of the upper deck, taking in the sunshine as it broke through the drifting clouds from time to time. An hour passed and he began to grow drowsy. The sun came out and its warmth lulled him into oblivion. Turning over on his face, in two minutes he was sound asleep.

The next sound that greeted his ears was the steady chug-chug of the working engines and the regular swish of the wheels as they churned aside the water. Where was he? He jumped up with a start and looked around him.

In the distant east California loomed up dim and indistinct. He fancied he could yet descry the smoke and skyscrapers of his home city through the evening haze. He was a stowaway on the Princess Charlotte with less than five dollars in his pockets and bound for a foreign land. For a moment he stood, frightened, undecided as to what to do, then burst into laugh at the ludicrousness of his situation.

He made his way to the purser, who did not recognize him. Taking him for a passenger, he showed some measure of attention. Raymond explained the situation fully and the purser first frowned then laughed heartily.

"Our first stop is Honolulu," he said. "You will of course disembark there, and return on the next steamer of our line that passes. As there is some question as to who is to blame for this, the company will very likely pay your expenses in case you agree not to bring suit. Some one of our employes is to blame for letting you aboard so near to the time for sailing without transportation; on the other hand you were practically concealed aboard and might be termed a stowaway. I shall lay the matter before the captain and I am certain that we shall be as liberal as possible."

Raymond thanked him and revised his opinion of him at once. Truly, it is hard to judge a man at the first meeting. Hard work and indifference had made him a different creature when Raymond had first approached him in the morning. Now that things were running smoothly and his interest had been aroused, the official was quite friendly.

Later Raymond looked up John Drury, the sailor with the bag of stamps. "I sold them to a dealer in 'Frisco," the man told him. "I got five dollars, but I only paid a dollar. I don't think they amounted to much, for I visited several men and four dollars was the only other offer I could get."

It was a bag of junk, just as Raymond had surmised, but it had gotten him into a peck of trouble. What would his parents think had become of him? There was no wireless aboard, and unless a passing vessel could be hailed and word sent back they would be sure to believe that foul play had befallen him. It was not his nature to worry, however, so after matters had been arranged with the captain, he tried to put the affair from his mind. He had been away from home before unexpectedly, and perhaps his people would not be unduly troubled. He would send a cablegram from Honolulu: until he arrived there he was going to settle down and enjoy the trip.

At Honolulu Raymond went posthaste to the American consulate. That kindly official agreed at once to help him along. A cablegram was sent to Mr. Harvey in San Francisco, and that gentleman replied by wiring Raymond a hundred dollars and peremptory instructions to return on the first steamer of the Trans-Pacific line that came along. Raymond smiled, for that was his intention anyway.

"So you are a stamp collector, eh?" queried the friendly consul. "I know where you might pick up something of interest. I will give you a note to the Rev. Mr. Hildreth, who has been a missionary here for twenty or thirty years, and if he can't put you next to something good in that line I'm sure no one else can."

"Thank you," replied Raymond eagerly.

The Rev. Mr. Hildreth was seventy years old and almost totally deaf, but Raymond finally made him understand the object of his visit.

"Oh, yes; stamps," said the old man, in a querulous voice. "Well, we used to find some rare ones and sell them for good prices, but that has been many years ago. I had a dozen or so once and got five dollars for them."

"Some of the rare missionary Hawaiians," thought Raymond. "I'd like to buy a few at ten times that price." But he said nothing that the old man could hear.

"I don't suppose anything of the kind could be found now," continued the Rev. Mr. Hildreth. "But wait, I have a letter that was written me from Molokai. Let's see—it is in my trunk somewhere." The kindly old fellow rummaged around for many minutes before locating it. "Here it is. You may have the stamp if you like; it is not pretty and is so dirty I don't suppose it would be of much value."

It was the 5c blue, 1859 issue, worth about twenty-five dollars. Raymond gasped at sight of the gem and thanked the old man effusively, but most of that was labor lost on account of his deafness. Raymond handed him the five dollars in silver with which he had left home, in order to show his thanks in a substantial way. Then it was that the old missionary's face lighted with gratitude, and Raymond began to wish he had twice as much to give him.

The Princess Louise, a sister ship, came along within a day or two and the voyage home was made without incident. Mr. Harvey scolded Raymond roundly at first, but when the young man had made the circumstances plain he could not keep from smiling.

"Am I not lucky?" asked Raymond of his friend Thomas Proctor. "For five dollars I get a trip to Hawaii and a peach of a stamp that I have always wanted. Can you beat it?"

CHAPTER XIV.

90 Cents, Issue of 1861-1868.

Again the writer engages in the task of supplying a little information regarding a stamp which possesses little field for extensive study. Not being able to possess hundreds of copies for research it is necessary to consult the writings of experts, and some extensive correspondence, for what knowledge I am able to impart. I am certain that after this chapter has been well read by collectors there will be additional information brought out which will make even the 90 cents of this issue interesting to the specialist.

The August issue of this stamp has, fortunately, some distinguishing marks which will separate it from the September stamps and later ones. Besides the difference in color and paper, which marked each of the August issue from the others, the 90 cents was changed in the making of the plate, somewhat. This change is well described in the standard catalogues and need not be repeated here.

The August stamps were printed in a color of slate blue, from plate No. 8. As nearly as can be estimated there were about 5,000 printed and probably issued. This stamp is said to exist unperforated. I would like to be the lucky person who would come into possession of an unsevered pair in this imperforate condition.

The September stamps, so-called, probably did not appear until later in the year—possibly in October. The color of the earliest printed September 90 cents was a striking shade of marine blue. Later printings were in pale blue, blue, bright blue, dark blue and indigo.

That new plates were constructed for the printing of the September stamps is determined by the fact that they were printed from plate No. 18, as were also the stamps which were passed through the grilling machine. So far as the historian has any knowledge there were printed 384,920 prior to 1867, when the grille was adopted.

This stamp is an exceptionally disagreeable one to collect, owing to the fact that it can seldom be found in even nice condition. The sheets were atrociously perforated, causing a great majority of them to be badly centered. Then, too, the postal employees seemed to take especial delight in trying to see how much ink they could make the stamps absorb. Lucky is the collector who is able to secure fine, or superb copies of this stamp for his collection. In this condition, if the numbers I have handled is any guide to prices, it ought to be worth full catalog. One thing is certain, 50% off is altogether too little for a 90 cent in perfect condition.

There is not much which can be said of the 90 cents, grilled. It has been found in two sizes—9x13½, with 12x17 points, and 9x13, with 12x16 points. All books and literature I have been able to secure chronicle it only in deep blue. This I believe to be a mistake, because I have it in light blue, blue and deep blue, and there can be no mistake in the shades, nor the genuineness of the grilles.

Owing to the relative scarcity of the stamps of this denomination there will not be much of a field for the collection of different cancellations. Black is the predominating color. Red cancellations are very rare. Others I have not seen. But of this I am sure—whenever I find this stamp with a very unusual form of cancellation, either red, blue, Paid, or something different, no matter if it is a little off center, or is heavily cancelled, it will never find its way back to its owner.

Right here let me offer a word of caution—if unused specimens are offered be certain the stamp cleaner has not been at work. Occasionally the stamp appeared pen cancelled, and several copies have come to my hand, said to be unused, which had been skilfully cleaned of the cancellation of writing ink, and a beautiful new coating of gum given to the back.

Like all of this issue the 90 cents was overprinted "Specimen." A copy of this, together with proofs on India paper and cardboard proofs should be collected. So, too, may be the 1875 reprint, if one is fortunate enough to have one offered which is authentic. Former remarks about the reprint will serve as a guide here. It is rare.

It has probably been noticed that I have not yet touched upon the 2 cent black, or the 15 cent black which is made a part of the 1861-1868 issue. These stamps were brought out later—the 2 cents in 1863, and the 15 cents in 1866. For this reason I have thought it best to wait until the August and September issues, with their grilled varieties were disposed of, before taking up the study of these two stamps mentioned.

HWANG-DO PROVISIONALS.

J. Klemann, Jr. of the Nassau Stamp Co. favors us with a clipping from the China Press in reference to some surcharged stamps issued by the post office at Hwang-Do. The stamps were issued in black and red overprinting, the latter, however, being issued in a very small quantity. The local post office was unable to secure the filling of a requisition and to meet the local need the Hwang-Do officials surcharged the stamps with a block made especially for this purpose. These facts will be helpful in establishing the true status of these provisionals when the history of the Chinese Republic stamps is written.

NEW PROCESS OF PRINTING U. S. STAMPS.

By J. M. Bartels.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, commonly called the "Bureau," for practical purposes, has for the past eighteen years printed the postage stamps for Uncle Sam, and for a much longer period all bank notes or currency certificates, all the various revenue stamps besides a number of miscellaneous items which called for the work of a skilled engraver.

Every visit to this important institution which is a branch of the Treasury Department furnishes new testimony of progress, of advance in practical methods and the application of scientific inventions. It is no longer the custom to appoint as the head of this veritable bee hive overlooking the calmly flowing historic Potomac River, dividing the District of Columbia from the picturesque hills of old Virginia, a politician lacking experience in the line of work under his direction. Today only a man with long practical training, one thoroughly versed in all details connected with the vast amount of work of this institution, can acceptably fill this responsible position. Just such a man is J. E. Ralph, and we venture to say that no servant of Uncle Sam is rendering more efficient work and giving greater returns for the comparatively small compensation received than this present Director of the Bureau. He is meeting with untold opposition on the part of labor unions and others who oppose every labor saving device or invention, but Mr. Ralph is losing no sleep on this account. His conscience is clear, and he knows he is doing what is right. The greatest good to the largest number is his ideal, and this idea he is combining with the most efficient service at the lowest possible cost.

The New Process of Printing.

The results of eight years of well planned experiments under his direction will, in not many weeks, put into practice a totally new method of printing stamps which inaugurates a revolution in this line. The new method is already working perfectly. No longer will stamps be printed in sheets as formerly, but on rolls of paper 500 or any other indefinite number of feet long. Experimental printings have been made with the current two-cent stamp, and such a roll to the length of about 40 feet was partially unrolled and stretched across the long room from corner to corner on the floor. The printing is done from two curved plates, joined together in the shape of a cylinder. Each plate has 150 subjects, so there will be 300 stamps printed with each revolution of the cylinder. The roll is only ten stamps wide and at the end of every 300 stamps appears a guide line between the stamps, similar in appearance to those of the present day. One of the most noteworthy features of the new process was the absolute uniformity of the impression and the color of the ink. There will be no more "heavily inked" or otherwise defective impressions, due to the amount of hand pressure used by the individual operator of the old power presses. We will no longer buy sheets of stamps from which we can select a deep shade from one corner of the sheet and a light one from another part. The work is simply perfect and Mr. Ralph and his co-workers may justly be proud of their great achievement. Another noteworthy feature is an annual saving in the cost of production of probably more than $300,000. Just think what that means.

For many years this country has ranked high in the small cost of production of its stamps. The Bureau, from the beginning, has charged the P. O. Department 5c a thousand for all ordinary stamps, but for a number of years this barely covered the cost of manufacture; there was in fact a slight deficit. Mr. Ralph has not only wiped this out and returned $35,000 last year of the amount appropriated for printing postage stamps, but has placed his Department on a dividend paying basis.

Another country producing stamps at a low cost is Japan, but the rate there is 7c a thousand. When we consider that there labor costs only from 10 to 40 cents a day, as compared with $1.50 to $10.00 which the Bureau is obliged to pay its employees, we have something upon which to base our ideas of the many wonderful results achieved by these efficient servants of Uncle Sam.

Among the important governments adopting some of our methods in stamp production was recently the Australian Commonwealth whose secretary-treasurer has been in close touch with the Bureau for some time.

It will not be long before we will see stamps printed by this new method, but it is doubtful whether it will mean a new variety or series for collectors, as it may not be possible to distinguish single copies printed by the new process.

The experimental printings have been made on unwatermarked paper, but due care is of course taken to guard against any chance of these experimental stamps leaking out.

An important new feature introduced with the new method of printing will be the consecutive numbering of every sheet printed. This number will appear once on the side margin and be a great assistance in tracing stolen sheets, especially after the robbery of a postoffice. It is possible that the plate number will also appear on one side of the sheet, but there will be no other imprint. Of course top and bottom margins will rapidly become a relic of the darker days of stamp printing. Even all of these features by no means end the possibility of other new improvements, and so we are informed that one operation will not only print but also gum and perforate the stamps. We will thus see the plain white paper enter the machine on one side, and the finished product already automatically counted, appearing on the other.

The Pyrometer and Scleroscope.

Numerous new devices have proven to be of incalculable value in the production of postage stamps, among these the electric pyrometer. This is an instrument used for measuring the graduation of temperature above those that can be indicated by the mercurial thermometer. For the past three years steel plates, to be used for printing stamps or currency certificates, have been subjected to a heating process lasting 10 to 20 minutes. In a temperature of 860 to 900 centigrades the plate is hardened to a degree most suitable for printing.

The scleroscope is another modern device by the aid of which it is now possible to make from 200,000 to 250,000 impressions from every stamp plate, while formerly the best plates ranged between 35,000 and 70,000 impressions, and others only 25,000 to 30,000. This means a tremendous saving as the production of plates is an expensive item. The scleroscope records with great accuracy the extent to which a plate has been hardened. It resembles a thermometer, which in the place of the mercury contains a needle. Upon being released by a lever this needle rebounds in accordance with the hardness of the steel upon which it falls. For stamp plates 38 to 45 points are required. Should the rebound not reach 38 points the plate is considered too soft to endure the required number of impressions, and is again subjected to the heating process above described. Currency plates are hardened to 34 points. In case any plate should wear out prematurely the cause is now immediately investigated and the responsibility ascertained.—Philatelic Gazette.

SOMETHING DOING IN ECUADOR.

By H. C. Barr.

While it may be of relatively no importance in comparison with the "World's Base-Ball Series", and possibly not even news to you, I thought it might interest you to know that Ecuador seems to be in trouble as regards her stamp supply. Our Ecuador mail contains all sorts of combinations, including 20c values cut in two to serve as 10c; custom revenues surcharged "Correos"; old issues of five and six years ago, which looked like they might have been dug up in some obscure post office; manuscript surcharges on revenues, and revenues with no surcharges at all.

It certainly looks as if the supply of regular issues had given out. However, I do not pretend to be posted on New Issues, as I collect 19th Century only, so this may be stale news. Our South American mail is enormous, and I seldom have time to look it all over, but these Ecuador combinations struck me particularly.

ORIGINAL MAURITIUS PLATE FOUND.

(Our correspondent very kindly sends us a photograph of this plate, which shows the fine condition the plate is in. It is indeed a gem. —Ed.)

Since the earliest days of stamp collecting there have been no stamps of such popularity as the 1d and 2d "Post Office" Mauritius; indeed they are symbolical of philatelic rarity and value, and are the most desired stamps in the world.

The discovery we have to announce is that of the Original Copper Plate from which these rarities were printed. This plate is in splendid condition, and constitutes the most valuable piece of copper in the world, for its size and weight, as its value has been fixed, by competent experts, at at least $25,000.

The history of the plate, since it was last put to press, has been a very uneventful one. In its early days it had been kept by a high official in Mauritius as an interesting souvenir of the first stamps of the Island. In due course it passed into the possession of his son, and was placed in the safe keeping of his bankers, from whose custody it has only just been removed, on its purchase by D. Field. It is now the property of Sydney Loder, the well-known philatelist, and owner of the famous gold-medal collection of British stamps.

MR. HANDSHAW VISITS HAMBURG.

(Extract from letter.)

We were in Hamburg for nearly a week, and we found this city one of great interest.

There are numerous stamp dealers here, and Wm. Sellschopps seems to be one of the largest, if not the largest dealer. It will be remembered that some ten years ago Mr. Sellschopps was located in California but after leaving the States went to Hamburg where he has been located ever since. We called upon him and were very cordially received. We found him a very busy man, with a fine office in the beautiful Barnhof building. He has a large office on the ground floor with two big show windows, and also occupies a large space on the first floor, cut into various rooms. There are some 30 or 40 employees, with Mr. A. Linck as manager.

Auction Sale November 2nd

We offer and solicit bids on the following fine lots of stamps. All are in good condition and the combination lots are made up of stamps of high grade. Any lots not satisfactory may be returned. Be liberal with your bids and make offers on as many lots as you feel you can afford to pay for. In bidding bear in mind that others make offers on the same lots and you are not likely to get all you bid on. Bids may be sent on postal cards. BID EARLY—in case of tie first bid received gets the lot.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from W. F. Van Dusen, Geo. E. Hale, Jr., R. Hickey, H. Clark Jarrett, Frank W. Lynes (3), H. T. Willcox, John Jacobs (4), Nassau Stamp Co., H. H. Chumley (2), Raymond V. Seaman.

—Frank E. Goodwin of St. Louis is on a business trip east and wishes us to state that all personal correspondence will be attended to upon his return home early in November. We have received the initial number of the Stamp Collector published by Mr. Goodwin in the interests of his business.

—The Detroit Philatelist, the house organ of the Robt. Millard Co., is at hand. The number before us is marked Vol. 4, No. 1 but as the date line reads 1912-1913 it is difficult to arrive at the numbers necessary to make a volume. The subscription price is given at $.00 per year. One good thing about this sheet is its motto, "Good value is good business."

—We have been very much interested in the scintillations of Pernicious Penslip, begging his pardon Parnassus Penflip, and we have wondered whether he has any relationship with Mr. Quackenbush. Of course there is a compliment here and either gentleman may claim it.

EDITORIAL.

Speaking of Names—We think that the half-dozen or so cities that by common consent rank as philatelic centers should be recruited by certain others even though the proposed additions are so small in size that it takes a very large map to show them. Who will say that Stamping Ground, Kentucky, and that Stamper in the same state are not deserving of philatelic renown? On former occasions the claims of Stamps, Arkansas, have been presented for favorable recognition and they will not be repeated here. If Phil, in Kentucky, is looked at askant as an aspirant, all opposition to Philo of California, Illinois and Ohio must vanish. Who will say that Issue, Maryland, is not a community teeming with philatelists? In time, Issue may attain such an eminence that there will be a New Issue somewhere much to the joy of the twentieth century enthusiasts. It is to be remarked that no Mekeels are found in the new edition of the official postal guide but in Minnesota and Texas, respectively, there is a Wylie, while there are three Severns, one each in Maryland, North Carolina and Virginia. As the editor was born in Virginia, it is not necessary to say that Severn, Virginia, was named in his honor. Naturally enough, Parnassus is to be found several times but through some inexplicable mischance, Penflip is omitted. Later. By some vagary of the types, perhaps, Penhook, Virginia, was intended for Penflip.

Still Searching—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who refused all unused stamps fearing that they were reprints? Perhaps he has sought some hermit isle in company with the o. f. c. who trimmed his perforated stamps in order to fill the spaces calling for imperforate stamps of the same design.

Political Pot—Our political department. A reader says: "I was intensely interested in the news of the first issue of the empire and I exult in the contemplation of the philatelic possibilities under the dictatorship. I suggest the following designs for the first set: One-cent, Teddy Bear; Two-cent, Bull Moose; Three-cent, Big Stick; Four-cent, T. R. as Rough Rider; Five-cent, T. R. as African Hunter; Six-cent, T. R. in Imperial Robes; Eight-cent, Princess Alice; Ten-cent, Nic; Fifteen-cent, Kermit; Fifty-cent, H. L. Legg and One Dollar, Parnassus Penflip. The two gentlemen last named will be gorgeous figures, I understand, in the court of the first empire."

Just to Think—Strange tidings are wafted to us. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer says that "One of his clients who has not been a buyer for a year or more writes a rather strong letter of protest to him about his recent forecast for a lively and brisk business season." Moreover, Mr. Wolsieffer is charged "with being in league with the WEEKLY to force high prices and boom the season in advance" and it is broadly insinuated that Mr. Wolsieffer's letter "was inspired by the Boston office of the WEEKLY, where Mr. Wolsieffer was a caller recently." Further, it is intimated that Mr. Wolsieffer is being repaid for his letter by advertising space. Harken: "This pessimist is not the famous Penflip but a very well-to-do man who can buy out the average stamp dealer with just one of his immense corn crops, particularly this year." After saying that Mr. Wolsieffer wrote just what he pleased without any payment or promise of it on our part, we merely shall quote the following words from an editorial that chances to be at hand: "It is a wonderful stream of wealth that nature has poured into the lap of the nation this year. The cereal crops will be more than a billion bushels greater than last year, breaking several records . . . . . This accretion of wealth is tremendous, for the crops are still the foundation of our material prosperity." If the country is to boom, philately will boom with it.

High and Other Seas—An inquiry has been made regarding ship letters which entered so prominently into the postal regulations of earlier days; and as they have an appealing interest for not a few investigators, an examination into present conditions when mail steamers ply the waters of all parts of the world, almost, is worth while. As a general rule, postage upon articles mailed on board steamers on the high seas must be prepaid by postage stamps of the country, under whose flag the vessel sails. "Postage on articles mailed in a sea post-office on board a trans-Atlantic steamer, other than a White Star steamer, on a voyage from the United States can be prepaid only by means of United States postage stamps, notwithstanding the steamer may sail under a foreign flag." On White Star steamers prepaid letters are obliged to bear the stamps of Great Britain. Letters intended for America when mailed on the high seas on "American bottoms" bringing a mail to this country, as well as articles handed to the officers for mailing ashore, are subject to American postage rates and regulations. Postage on items mailed on board a steamer in a port of any country are to be prepaid only by the stamps of that country. "Ship letters" is the name usually applied to those carried by vessels not regularly employed in transporting the mail and are subject to double rates of domestic postage of four cents upon delivery.

A New One—The Société Française de Timbrologie of Paris has undertaken a grand international competition on an original scheme as the entries are to consist not of stamps but of articles relating to stamps. Manuscripts may be submitted in French, English or German and the competition is open to March 1st, 1913. By a system that compels secrecy, the manuscripts will be adjudged on their merits, as until after a decision is made, the names of the contributors remain unknown. Gold, silver and bronze medals are to be awarded and the catholicity of the subjects is an attractive feature. For instance, essays, cancellations and cut provisionals, etc., are named and the historical element is not ignored, while philatelic literature and forgeries also are included in the list of subjects. One competition is reserved to young collectors, under the age of eighteen years.

As It Happens—It is often remarked how if used and unused postal savings bank stamps and envelopes must not be sold or given away in used or unused condition they reach the hands of collectors. If the regulation be strictly enforced, there still is a quantity of the issue that comes through the mails addressed to persons not connected with the service and such specimens become legitimate spoils for the collector. Again, when the stamps first were used, the supposition was that used copies could be disposed of by postmasters as they saw fit and in this manner, a somewhat generous distribution was made to the advantage of collectors. Dealers have refrained from handling unused copies of the stamps that may have been offered them, much to their credit.

$1,250,000 IN STAMPS ON EXHIBITION.

The following cable to the New York American gives evidence of the reflex influence that the Exposition has upon our own country.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Those who do not collect postage stamps will wonder that a few soiled, minute pieces of engraved and tinted paper—not bank notes—are worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. Yet $1,250,000 worth of postage stamps will be shown at the Jubilee Stamp Exhibition which opens at Royal Horticultural Hall next week.

Collectors are hastening here from all over the world, guarding the stamps they bring as if they were more precious than rubies. Among the exhibitors probably will be King George, a devoted philatelist, with one of the finest collections existing.

H. J. Crocker, the San Francisco millionaire, will display his collection of Hawaiian postage stamps, estimated to be easily worth $100,000. It includes seventeen "missionary stamps," those issued by the daring preachers who ventured to the Sandwich Islands in the early fifties.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Whitfield King's 1913 Catalog.—We have received from the publishers a review copy of the 13th annual edition of this well-known work. The publication of the present edition has been somewhat hastened by the fact that the 1912 edition was exhausted early in May of the present year. A great many advances in the prices of British Colonials are noted, the issues of King George receiving the most careful attention up to the time of going to press. The book is compact in form, well printed, and accompanied by more than 4000 illustrations. Price 50c postpaid.

BE A BOOSTER.

A valued correspondent would like particulars of our Booster Club. There are no particulars. It is simply a matter of boosting. Boost the WEEKLY and that's the price of initiation.

During the past week our remittances have been flavored with something a bit foreign to stamp collecting. A California subscriber writes:—"I hope you will win the World Series." With our mind on stamps and stamp collecting this was a puzzler, but knowing the difference between a foul and a base hit we soon got our bearings.

B. E. Clarke qualifies this week as a Booster and Arthur Russell keeps him company, both showing their appreciation of the WEEKLY in a tangible manner.

Charles G. Brown of the Penn. State College promises valued co-operation and for a starter sends in one new subscription.

Just show the WEEKLY to a friend and be a Booster.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

P. S. Even the editor has it bad. In a letter just at hand we read, "The Red Sox are the boys."

THE GOVERNMENT COLLECTION.

By JAS. M. WOLTZ.

I am interested in postage stamps from a business as well as a collecting standpoint and have often gone to look over the display of postage stamps shown by the Government, when I had a few minutes on my hands I did not know how to employ to better advantage. Imagine my surprise when on a recent visit to Washington, I found that the collection had been removed from the Post office building on Pennsylvania Ave., where it had been the last few times I had visited it and I was told it was now at the National Museum. Naturally I thought I would find my old friends in the new building back of the market on the Mall, I made diligent search there and asked several of the attendants, but could not locate the stamps I was seeking. At last and on another day I visited the old Museum Building, located on the south side of the Mall between the Smithsonian Institute and the Army and Navy Medical Institute. The attendant at the door informed me that the stamps were in the first room to the right as I entered and to the left as I passed the first door.

The location of the cases and arrangement of them is anything but advantageous. Some of the cases are so poorly lighted, by reason of being placed back of high cases used for the exhibition of other historical articles, that to make any sort of an examination of the contents is a decided strain on the eye and most unsatisfactory. Other of the cases are so arranged the lower rows of the sheets upon which the stamps are shown are so low that one has to stoop or have provided himself with a low stool, to examine them with any degree of comfort or satisfaction.

Fortunately the stamps of the United States are in cases that are located between the high cases before mentioned and thus they have fairly good light and can be seen more advantageously than most of the other countries.

It is a shame that this great Government could not afford a better and more satisfactory manner of exhibiting these stamps. While the collection is far from complete, and many of the rarer stamps are missing (this is true of the issues of the United States series as well as those of other countries) still the collection is one that will well repay any collector to take the time to visit and if he have the time, to study seriously. Another matter to be regretted is that recent issues are not shown and this is true of the United States even. The display of envelopes is also disappointing. For instance the last envelope shown so far as we were able to find was No. 1628 (Scott).

Let me make a sugestion that may assist in bringing our hobby more prominently before at least the younger portion of the country. There are very few towns of any size that do not boast of a public library. Why not get up a collection for the library?

NEW CHINESE REPUBLIC STAMPS.

Homer H. Wong, the Chief of the Postal Department of the Ministry of Communications China has received instructions to issue three series of stamps for general use. Two will be commemorative issues, limited in number, and one will be the ordinary issue for future use. One set, bearing the effigy of Dr. Sun Yat-sun, is to commemorate the Great Struggle for freedom which yielded the revolutionary Government at Nanking; and the other set will be in commemoration of the effective foundation of the Republic under President Yuen whose face will appear on the stamps. The national device has been selected for the ordinary set. The stamps will be issued prior to Dec. 1.

MR. KJELLSTEDT HONORED ABROAD.

In the September issue of the Philatelic Journal of Sweden we find the minutes of the 55th meeting of the Boros branch of the Swedish society. As several paragraphs have reference to our friend, Mr. Kjellstedt, we render them in free translation.

No. 1. The chairman greeted Professor Kjellstedt and wished him welcome to the meeting and thanked him for finding the time, during his short stay in Boros to honor the branch with a visit. Thanks were also extended for the great interest he had taken in the society and it was hoped that anything that may be found lacking in the arrangement of this festivity would be counterbalanced by the heartiness of the homage rendered.

No. 5. Prof. Kjellstedt thanked for the kind reception extended to him and related that although he was the American representative of several large societies and had for many years done yeoman service for philately, he had never before attended a large philatelic meeting, and that the first occasion should occur in his native city was of special interest to him. He stated that on his return to America this evening would stand forth as one of the brightest memories from his short visit to the old fatherland.

No. 6. Mrs. Kjellstedt and the members' ladies arrived. Banquet was served in the festivity hall of "Hotel Du Nord." The chairman spoke for the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Kjellstedt, and for the ladies. Prof. Kjellstedt spoke of philately in the United States, and then dwelt in a humorous strain on woman's relations to philately.

No. 8. After the banquet a social session took place. The hours seemed too short and soon it was time to part, but this festival will long be remembered by our branch as one of the very happiest.

DEATH OF HENRY J. CROCKER.

Just as we go to press we learn of the death of Henry J. Crocker, who passed away in San Francisco October 11. Mr. Crocker was so well known to a host of philatelists that his death will come as a severe shock. A more extended notice will be given next week.

A Chat With the Advertiser!

The Robt. Millard Co. in their house organ the Detroit Philatelist declares that "the one general all around philatelic publication is MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of Boston, Mass. It is reliable, arrives on time, and is worth twice the subscription price of 50 cents per year. We recommend no other." This is a strong word of commendation from a firm that has used the WEEKLY regularly during the past year and is with us again for the coming season.

Maxwell Krause, another dealer and a frequent user of space in the WEEKLY writes us the following unsolicited testimonial:—

"Several times during the summer I placed small ads in your Trade Column, and I was greatly surprised at the results, especially since it was during the off season. At the same time I was carrying a ¼ page ad in a leading monthly and various amounts in other journals. Not one of these ads, not even in the busy season, brought me such results as my small ads in your paper."

In this connection we may observe that the WEEKLY is not giving away advertising space. It is not satisfied to let space go at any price the advertiser may choose to pay, nor does it run advertising indefinitely and be content with payment for the space orginally contracted for. If the coat fits, put it on.

This week two old advertisers have resumed regular space in the WEEKLY. We refer to P. G. Beals of Boston, and the Chesapeake Stamp Co. of Baltimore, Md. If you, Mr. Dealer, are not using the WEEKLY just bear in mind that there is no publicity agent in the world that can reach stamp collectors as does the WEEKLY.

So far as the A. P. S. is concerned we have more than twice as many members on our subscription list as has the so-called official journal. If you want to buy or if you want to sell, it is absolutely necessary that you patronize the WEEKLY.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

U.S. Unused--Pairs and Blocks

This is a popular and saving method of collecting. The great demand for U. S. Stamps in this form will rapidly cause their absorption. For a few weeks only—or until the market values settle a little—I offer the following:

		Pair.	Blk. 4
1902	3c purple	$0.12	$0.25
	4c brown	.15	.30
	6c dull lake	.25	.50
	8c black violet	.30	.60
	10c light brown (first printing)	.50	1.00
	13c gray black	.50	1.00
	15c olive	.50	1.00
	50c orange	1.25	2.50
	$1 black	2.50	5.00
1898	13c sea green, very dark shade	.50	1.00
1909	2c Lincoln	.10	.20
	Imperforate, in Pairs and Blocks.
1903	2c shield, vermilion	.25	..
1909	1c green, double line watermark	.06	.12
	2c rose, double line watermark	.10	.20
	Same line between	..	.30
	Same wide and narrow space, 2 blocks	..	.50
	3c purple	.15	.30
	4c light brown	.17	.35
	5c dark blue	.25	.50
1912	1c green, new design	.05	.10
	Same, line between	.08	.15
	Same, center block	..	.50
	Same, imprint and plate number (three)	..	.25
	Same, 4 arrow block	..	.50

Specialists will do well to get some of these before the price advances. Have a nice stock, now, to select from.

Am arranging my early issues of U. S. for fall and winter trade. Those wishing selections on approval should make applications early, not forgetting to name good references. Have a number of extra fine stamps, in perfect condition, for those who want to pay the price.

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

ANOTHER AERO MAIL POSTMARK.

H. H. Chumley, Birmingham, Ala., sends us the particulars of an æroplane mail service established at the Birmingham Fair Grounds October 7, when letters were sent from the grounds to the Birmingham P. O. A special stamping device was used as follows:—"United States Aeroplane Service" and the time of leaving the grounds.

A sad incident in connection with the event was the death of Joseph Stevenson, one of the two aviators engaged by the Fair authorities.

THE LISTING OF PRECANCELS.

Last week we used up nearly a column of space in our Chronicle listing types of precancels that would do credit to an acrobatic performance. We want to know whether our readers were at all interested. We are glad to publish all the news but question whether these hair-splitting varieties are worthy of the consideration that we give them. If our subscribers tell us that they want this news, it will be continued. If not, it will be discontinued. Just send us a post card so that we may know your desires.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—H. Loeb shows us specimens of the 1898 surcharged revenues, small surcharge, Scott's No. 2992, showing some interesting peculiarities. The most common appears to be a line of color below the surcharge as though the bottoms of the letters dragged and deposited a little color before being set firmly in their proper place. The other variety, is constant and appears only once on each sheet, and always in the same place. This consists of a broken period after "I" or possibly a small period, about one-quarter the size of the normal period. Mr. Loeb submits an unused pair, showing the variety and also the regular appearance.

AZORES.—Champion's Bulletin states that the current stamps of Portugal have received the surcharge "Acores," though the colors of the surcharge are not given. The whole series from ¼c to 1c has been thus treated. We have not yet seen the stamps, and so will defer the formal chronicle.

BARBADOS.—Gerald D. Bliss has shown us used specimens of the 6d, 1sh and 2sh King George stamps recently chronicled. They were used on mail from the Island about September 10.

BAVARIA.—Six values of the Prince Luipold set have been perforated "E" for "Eisenbahm," for use as parcels post stamps. This issue takes the place of the 1908 set with the same letter surcharged. The values thus treated are the 3pf, 5pf, 10pf, 20pf, 25pf and 50pf.

CANADA.—L. C. Hooper sends us a wrapper used on a London publication—with a branch office in Canada. No postage has been paid on the ship passage from London to Halifax, Nova Scotia, apparently, but a hand stamp has been used reading "Postage paid at Halifax," and the date. It is a peculiar way of getting the paper through the mails. Probably arrangements were made with some of the Ocean Liners to carry these papers to Halifax as freight.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—A. W. Dunning has shown us some interesting varieties from this Republic, as follows:

a. No. 136: pair, one having the "2" missing.

b. No. 146d: vertical pair, the top stamp having the last "A" of "Dominicana" missing.

c. No. 146: pair, the top stamp having the "C" of "Centavo" missing.

d. Vertical strip of three showing No. 146d at top, No. 146 in the center and No. 146e at the bottom.

e. No. 147: block of four, one being No. 147d.

f. No. 148: block of four, one being No. 148d.

EGYPT.—Lemaire's Journal says that the provisional postage due stamp of 1908 (1898?), 3m on 2pi orange, will shortly be retired from circulation.

Sudan.—Champion's Bulletin reports that a new value has been added to the current official set, the 10pi of 1907-11 having been surcharged "OSGS," like the other stamps in the series.

GAMBIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the full set from ½d to 1sh of the new King George set, which was announced some time since.

Adhesives.

½d green.
1d scarlet.
1½d olive brown and green.
2d gray.
2½d ultramarine.
3d violet on yellow.
4d black and carmine.
5d brown orange and violet.
6d violet and mauve.
7½d brown and blue.
10d gray green and carmine.
1sh black on green.
1sh 6d violet and green.
2sh violet and blue on blue.
2sh 6d black and carmine on blue.
3sh yellow and green.

GERMANY.—L. C. Hooper has shown us a cover mailed at Possneck, Germany, which has in addition to the regular cancellation covering the stamp, another postmark consisting of a large "5" in a small circle, with "Porto-Controll-System—Fa. Custos Duissorg" (apparently) arranged in a circle around the inside of the frame rule. Perhaps some of our German friends can inform us as to what the significance of this stamp is?

INDIA.—Hyderabad.—The 1a carmine of 1908-09 has been surcharged with the usual native characters for use as an official stamp.

Official Adhesive.

1a carmine; black surcharge.

ITALY.—Champion's Bulletin states that the following quantities were printed of the commemorative stamps issued in honor of the 50th anniversary of Italian Unity: 2c, 4,000,000; 5c, 8,000,000; 10c, 5,000,000; 15c, 5,000,000.

The same paper says that the 15c value of the Venetian Campanile issue has already been exhausted.

Various rumors come from abroad as to the intention of the Postal Authorities of Italy in regard to stamps for the newly acquired territory of "Libia." One report says that a new and artistic series of stamps, recalling in form and designs the last French stamps for Tunis; while another, possibly equally authoritative, says that no special stamps are to be printed, but that the current stamps of Italy are to be surcharged with the word, "Libia." Meanwhile it is stated that Italy proposes to endow each of the 13 islands in the Ægean Sea, which she occupies with a series of Italian stamps, surcharged with the name of the Island.

PERU.—Champion's Bulletin reports that a provisional issue of three stamps, 1c, 10c and 15c, will shortly be issued at Lima.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us further provisionals from this colony, all surcharged on issues of 1902-03, or 1898-1900, with new value twice, and perforated vertically into two halves. None of those chronicled below have the "Republica" surcharge.

Provisional Adhesives.
On Issue of 1902-03.
"1 Real" on 1t carmine.
"1½ Reis" on 9r gray lilac.
On Issue of 1898-1900.
"6 Reis" on 4½t light green.

SURINAM.—In regard to the statement made in No. 1136, to the effect that a 10c value in slate had been issued in the series of provisionals recently chronicled, Edwin W. Fuss writes:

"My correspondent happens to be the party that ordered the new stamps ½c, 2½c, 5c, and 12½c and no 10c was ordered or printed. Besides, had they been printed or even suggested, I would be the first in the United States or anywhere to know it, as my correspondent is a personal friend and no news of further provisional stamps was received."

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—Silas Weatherby has shown us a block of four unused copies of the current 2d purple stamps watermarked Crown A, with a freak perforation, the lower row of stamps having the vertical perforations carried to the right nearly the space of one perforation. Evidently the stamps were perforated with a comb machine and the vertical perforations are far from being in line, the lower perforations cutting into the stamps.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the shilling value, with portrait of King George, the balance of the design being the same as for the previous issue.

Adhesive.
1sh black on green.

GENIAL STAMP COLLECTORS.

(Editorial in Christian Science Monitor.)

The American Philatelic Society is holding its twenty-seventh annual convention at Springfield, Mass. It appears that the 1500 members are well represented and that the proceedings, when put into printed form will interest not only the stamp collectors of the United States but the stamp collectors of all the countries under the sun. For there are stamp collectors everywhere, and there is a tie, a bond, uniting them all. Included in the membership of the American Philatelic Society are some of the most genial, some of the most interesting, some of the most informing men in the nation. As much can and should be said for the stamp-collectors of all nations. You meet one of them on train or shipboard, at home or abroad, in New York or San Francisco, in Tokio or Egypt, on the Alps or Andes, motoring or aeroplaning, and you will not be long in his company before you discover that you have been wasting the most precious moments, hours and years of your life in bothering with the things that have interested or concerned you up to this time.

It is a remarkable fact that the stamp collector can quickly disabuse any ordinary man, if given a fair chance, of the idea that there is anything going on in this world or anything likely to go on in this world that can hold a candle in importance to the things that are going on in the realm of philatelics. It is a pleasing sensation while in the presence of a stamp collector—the circumstances being as they should be—to find one's notions about politics, economics, and business dropping off until one is fully persuaded that so far as having an object in life, so far as developing a career, so far as satisfying an ambition, so far as anything else is concerned, everything save stamp collecting is a sheer waste of time.

The fisherman, the motorboatman, the automobilist, the golfer, the amateur photographer, or the baseball fan, is completely overshadowed and outclassed by the stamp collector, when it is a question of proving to one not in the game that there is nothing on this fair green earth worth while outside of the game. If anybody entertains any doubts concerning this, let him write to the secretary and arrange for the printed proceedings of the Springfield convention. He will not only be satisfied that what is said here is substantially true, but he will learn, in addition, that some of the brightest men in the country have adopted philatelics as a study and that they are serving a very worthy purpose, from an historical and educational point of view, while engaging in a delightful means of recreation.

THE PRECANCELS OF DETROIT, MICH.

By S. M. SCHOEMANN.

Detroit bears a peculiar distinction among the precancel issuing cities. It has never used but one type, and while the varieties of this type are quite prolific, they are found only on the 1902-03 and St. Louis Exposition issue. Of the latter only the 1c and 2c were used. I have been advised by a fellow collector that he possesses a copy of the 3c (St. Louis Ex.), but I can state upon absolute authority that all such are not genuine. I am listing only such varieties as I have in my collection. I have a large number of these cancelled on the various shades, viz., 1c green, 1c blue green, 1c yellow green, 2c carmine, 2c deep carmine, etc., but have thought it best not to list them.

THE STAMPS OF COOK ISLANDS.

(The following commendatory notice appeared in Gibbons' Monthly Journal. This book can be obtained of us for 25c.—ED.)

Of the making of Handbooks there is no end, and the number even of separate series of handbooks must by this time be a respectable one. The latest that has reached us is No. 1 of the "Mekeel Philatelic Handbooks" published by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., of Boston, Mass., and this opening number is by our friend Mr. B. W. H. Poole, who is doing good philatelic work somewhere San Francisco way, we believe. The Cook Islands stamps are not a very extensive or complicated series at present, indeed we might recommend them to any collector desiring a not too difficult subject for specialization; there are, however, some little points to be studied in the make-up of the sheets of the first issue, and there are flaws and peculiarities in the plates of the later issues, which serve to distinguish some of the stamps and impart interest to their collection and study.

60% We have arranged a particularly attractive line of approval sheets at 60% discount. Reference required.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

GREECE.

Some weeks ago a reader asked for an explanation of the designs on the current stamps of Greece and in response to a request then published Mr. L. Lazarus has forwarded the desired explanations.

The 1, 3, and 10 lepta show a head of Hermes of Tanagra copied from an old coin. Hermes, or Mercurius as he was called by the Romans, has been depicted on previous stamps of Greece and also on one of the stamps of Crete. He was one of the Greek gods, the son of Zeus and was born in a cave in Mount Cyllene in Arcadia. According to the legends, he had only been born a few hours when he stole the cattle of Apollo, which he drove from Pieria to Pylos. When Hermes grew up, Zeus made him the herald and messenger of the gods, hence he is now used to typify the mails. It was also his duty to guide the souls of the dead to the lower world. As the herald of the gods, he was the patron deity of eloquence; as the god of prudence and cunning, he was worshipped by merchants and traders; and his reputation for ingenuity caused him to be regarded as the author of the lyre, the alphabet, numbers, gymnastics, weights and measures, etc. He was also worshipped as the patron of roads and travellers; hence the statues called Hermæ were set up to him on roads and at the entrances of buildings. He was also the god of luck. He was especially the patron of gymnastics; and he himself was represented in art as a youth whose figure showed the ideal perfection of graceful and harmonious development of the body, as in the famous statue of him by Praxiteles at Olympia (shown on the 2 drachmai stamp of the 1896 issue for Greece). His regular attributes are a broad-brimmed cap, the herald's staff or caduceus, and the winged sandals which bore him on his journeys. The cap and caduceus are plainly shown in the design of the 1, 3, and 10l stamps. The 25dr stamp is of similar design but much larger.

The 2, 20, 25 and 40 lepta stamps show a full length figure of Iris who, in Greek mythology, was the daughter of Thaumas and Electra. and a sister of the Harpies. The Iliad represents her as a messenger of the gods and as a messenger her suitability as a subject for a stamp design is at once apparent. In earlier writers Iris appears as a virgin goddess, but later poets represent her as the wife of Zephyrus and mother of Eros. This design, like that of Hermes, was taken from an ancient coin.

The 5, 30 and 50 lepta all show a full length figure of Hermes in the act of putting on his winged sandals. The 1 lepton stamp of the 1900 issue for Crete shows this deity in a similar pose.

The 1, 2, 3, 5, and 10dr values show Hermes with Arcas.

The dies for these stamps were engraved by Mr. Thomas Macdonald in London, and the stamps were printed by Messrs. Aspiotis, a well known firm of Chromo-lithographic printers of Corfu.

LUBECK.

A correspondent asks for any geographical or historical information regarding the German State of Lubeck (or Luebeck to use the German spelling of the name) which issued its own stamps from 1859 until the end of 1867. This State is situated on the River Trave having an area of 115 square miles and a population of about 100,000. The only towns of any importance are Lubeck and Travemünde. By its Constitution, revised in 1875, the State is governed by a Senate composed of 14 life members and a council of 120 citizens. It is represented in the Reichstag by one member. The free city of Lubeck is one of the three remaining Hanse towns. It was founded in 1140, ceded to the dukes of Saxony in 1158, and captured by the Danes in 1201. After their expulsion it was made a free imperial city (1226) and became the leader of the Hanseatic league in 1241. In 1810 it was annexed by France but regained its liberty in 1813 after the battle of Leipzig. In 1868 it joined the North German Confederation (at which time its separate series of stamps was withdrawn from circulation), and in 1870 it became one of the states of the new empire.

SHORT REPLIES.

H. O. H. S. (Cupertino, Cal.).—The Indian stamps overprinted "Postal Service" or "I. P. N." were not used as postage stamps at all their use being purely fiscal.

R. H. Y. (Canton, Mo.).—Almost any dealer in new issues should be able to supply you with the Leichtenstein stamps. (2) Whitfield King's 1913 catalogue is already published. (3) The 2c value of the "Panama" commemoration series will probably be on sale early next year. (4) Until your collection contains a few thousands of stamps a blank book is better than a large printed album. In the latter a few stamps are apt to be lost and the number of empty spaces is, to say the least of it, discouraging.

E. S. B. (San Francisco).—You will find the set of 1901 Philippine Islands stamps you refer to under numbers 220 to 225 in Scott's catalogue. The album spelling "Phillipines" is incorrect. The word has one "l" and two "p's."

C. B. (Philadelphia).—The words "Gt. Pre" in the overprint on the Haytian stamps are a contraction for "Gouvernment Provisoire" that is "Provisional Government."

G. N. A. (Chicago).—I described how paper is made and all the different varieties in a section of the "Beginner's Guide" some months ago. Yes, the "laid" lines in laid paper may be vertical or horizontal. If both varieties are found on the same value of a set I should certainly treat them as two distinct and collectible varieties.

LADIES AS STAMP COLLECTORS.

Clipping from Rev. Louis Voss.

Stamp collecting, which in these days celebrates its fiftieth anniversary, viz., the publication of the first stamp catalog, is more and more becoming a fad, also in the feminine world. While but a few years ago the other sex had only few representatives in the ranks of philatelists, now the ladies are playing an important role among collectors. At first stamp collecting became the style among fashionable English society. Since then it has extended to the Continent, where it is spreading more and more.

Among female philatelists there are several crowned heads. Queen Mary of England caught the infection from her husband, a passionate collector, and now she possesses a handsome collection herself. Then there is Queen Elena of Italy who collects stamps with hardly less enthusiasm than her husband collects coins. Last year she accepted the position of honorary president of the International Philatelic Exposition at Turin. Several times she received valuable collections from foreign governments that knew of her hobby and now she is proud of the complete sets she possesses of stamps of the United States, the Argentine Republic and France.

Queen Maud of Norway likewise indulges in the sport of stamp-collecting and the Swedish crown princely couple are both deeply interested in it. When Crown Princess Margaret of Connaught married the Swedish Crown Prince, she intimated to the French Government that she would greatly appreciate as a wedding present a complete set of French stamps and she hardly enjoyed as much any other of her valuable presents.

Some English ladies own very extensive and famous collections which can be placed on an equal rank with the most important of male collectors. An almost complete collection of Great Britain and the British Colonies is owned by Mrs. Bridson, though her chief pride is a magnificent collection of Portuguese stamps, for which she has already received several honorary medals.

Another large collector is Mrs. Edith Field, who is a member of many large philatelic societies. In an interview she expressed herself in an interesting manner on the pleasure and charms which stamp collecting has especially for ladies:

"Stamp collecting is so well suited as an occupation for women, because it requires good taste in the arrangement of stamps, cleanliness, accuracy and order—all qualities peculiar to women. Ladies know especially how to appreciate the wonderful colors of the old stamps, their vivid imagination flies over lands and seas and through the centuries of history as they study their stamps. What is better when you are sad, than to delve into the pages of your stamp album? What can help you better to pass the hours than to run your eyes over the many-colored rows that awaken so many reminiscences?"—Echo.

HINTS FOR YOUNG DEALERS.

A PERSONAL EXPERIENCE SELLING POSTAGE STAMPS.

BY WILLARD O. WYLIE,
Managing Editor Mekeel's Weekly.

Six years as a dealer taught me that a person of ordinary ability, by close application could build up a trade in stamps substantial and lucrative. In 1898, I was engaged in a business that gave little promise of any promotion, and I was anxious to make a change where I might enter a wider field of action. I did not have much ready cash to launch into a new business, even though I had the courage. Howard K. Sanderson, of Lynn, Mass., said to me one day: "Why not try the stamp business? Give your leisure time to it and work it up gradually!" I followed out the suggestion and my success can be duplicated.

I purchased some Zechmeyer continentals, than which nothing cheaper can be bought, cut out all evening socials and tea parties, and got right down to business. I spent my spare time over the benzine cup and approval sheets, and on the railroad train substituted Scott's catalog for the morning paper. There is no royal road to learning; hard work is the highway to success. I advertised in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY (and that is the only publication I ever used) with uniformly gratifying results.

The first two years were hard sledding—naturally so—and especially since I never put a dollar into stamps except profits. All the while, though, my stock books took on form and comeliness, to say nothing of material value. The third year I got on my feet in fine form; in 1902 I sold stamps to the value of $6,000, while in 1903 I even surpassed those figures and, mark you, was giving only my leisure time to the business.

About this time Mr. Mekeel came along. He wanted a manager for the WEEKLY. He took me away from my former business as well as the new,—for newspaper work is to me my atmosphere. I sold my stamps for close to $3,000, representing wholesale valuation and bought some stock in the WEEKLY.

All of this by the way of introduction! The methods I used are offered for your consideration. Improve upon them if you can. I append, as born of my experience, some USEFUL SUGGESTIONS.

—Advertise every week, summer and winter, in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

—If economy is aimed after, use the SMALL ADS COLUMN of MEKEEL'S where the rate is only 20c per line; 50 lines for $7.50.

—Don't imagine one advertisement will establish you in business and that collectors are going to tumble over each other in an effort to patronize you.

—I seldom inserted an advertisement any week that paid for itself in direct returns.

—It is perfectly proper to send out approval lots where you are doing business with collectors, and this was my usual custom, always enclosing postage for return.

—Watch for wholesale offerings, and get all price lists possible. Every dealer has his specialties.

—Make your advertisement serve the purpose of opening up business relations with the one who reads it. Even though I bought cheaply, prices were fixed for a reasonable profit and thus I secured the confidence of my patrons.

—Use neat note paper, envelopes and approval books.

—Get a good 10c hinge. Use it and push its sale at every oportunity.

—As soon as you can get together a few stamps make up a price list, have a few hundred printed, and a little later issue another list. Never fill an order without putting in one or more lists. I ran up to No. 26, and my record order was one of $100 in 1903.

—Buy a dozen instead of a hundred. If you get a salable thing you can replenish your stock, and if unable to do this something else will come your way. Be careful how you tie your money up in slow stock.

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

By WASHINGTON GRANT.

CHAPTER I.—DECISION.

The impulse to become a "stamp dealer" is one that masters not only the small boys, but many older persons after they have become interested for a time in stamp collecting. The impulse is a legitimate one, particularly in this American country of ours, with its heritage of a natural merchandizing instinct, and where the stigma of "trade" does not attach to those who buy and sell for amusement, avocation, or for livelihood.

No really great fortune has yet been amassed in stamp dealing, by which is ment that, so far as known, no man has yet succeeded in piling up a full million dollars by buying and selling our interesting bits of paper. It is true, however, that several men in this country and in Europe have in the past retired from the stamp business with fortunes ranging from $100,000 to several times that amount. These sums, which would be highly satisfactory to most of us, were acquired in the "bonanza" days of stamp dealing, in the period from 1880 to 1900, when the steady spread of general stamp collecting all over the world shot up price quotations to a remarkable degree and in many cases supplies of stamps acquired at a few cents or a few pence each were sold a few years later for as many dollars or as many pounds sterling.

The days of such fabulous profits on a large scale are probably over. Since more competition has come in, the business has been reduced to a more solid, mercantile basis, and the greater volume of available stamps has forced the successful dealer to adopt to a greater degree the principle of making quick sales rather than to attempt to hoard his stock in the hope of larger speculative profits in years to come. This is not to say, however, that a wise dealer who happens to secure a large stock of a desirable stamp attempts to force on the market in a hurry more copies than there is a natural demand for. Experienced stamp merchants are not afraid to hold extra quantities for a year or two, or even longer, rather than disgust their customers by letting them see a stamp bought as a bargain decline still more in price simply because the impatient or greedy dealer is not himself willing to carry the same variety which he has perhaps recommended to the collector as an investment. Such matters call for ordinary business judgment, and without business judgment as well as a knowledge of stamps, no man or woman (for there are several ladies in the business) can expect to be a successful stamp dealer.

This brings us to the question: How is one to know if he is qualified to become a successful stamp dealer? If you ask this question yourself, then you know whether you have shown business judgment in other lines. If you are sure that your business ability is good, and you have a working knowledge of stamps, there is no reason why, with pluck, determination, some capital, perseverence and a willingness to work, you should not become a successful stamp dealer. You won't set the world on fire in a day, or even in a year; you will make mistakes, some of them expensive and discouraging, the same as you would probably make in any other new business; it may take longer than you expect to establish your enterprise on a solid, paying basis; but if you stick to it the same qualities that would make you a successful tradesman in your own town will pull you through and make you a real stamp dealer.

The above, of course, applies to you if you are a man grown, of age, with some knowledge of the world and experience in it and a pretty clear idea of your own abilities. But I see several hands raised from the seats in the front row. You may speak, Andrew!

Andrew says that he lacks several years of being twenty-one. He has never been in business for himself and does not know whether he has any "business judgment" or "business ability." He has been collecting stamps for several years, however, and likes them very much and has been doing a little trading with other boys in his own town. Will it be wise for him to go into stamp trading now on a little larger scale and see if he cannot get some mail business as well?

Go to it, Andrew; go to it!

Probably a large majority of the successful stamp dealers in this country began as Andrew will. They started as boys by trading with others and later branched out either with little stores in large cities or perhaps wholly by mail. Their businesses were built up from very small foundations; but the fact that they had no chance to splurge or to make expensive mistakes at the beginning may have been the real reason why their gradual growth ended in success.

There are doubtless many readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY who have had some intention of starting a stamp business in a small way or who, perhaps, have already done so. It is for the benefit of those readers that this series of articles, of which this is the first, has been prepared.

Future chapters will deal with the way to start a stamp business; how to buy stock and supplies; how and where to get customers and what is especially important, will mention and explain some of the stumbling blocks which have beset the paths of dealers, large and small, in the past.

FEDERATION OF COLLECTORS CLUBS.

FOREWORD.

(We are very pleased to publish Mr. Dunning's communication on this subject and interested parties are invited to communicate with him at Newton, Mass. We regret that lack of space prevents the opening of our columns to a general discussion of the subject. Write Mr. Dunning.—Ed.)

I say "foreword" for that is practically all that this is. If any interest is excited, I may say that I have ideas which might prompt a second communication on this subject. There is no question whatever of this scheme being realized one of these days, but whether the time is now ripe, or not, is a question.

The following outline sketch of a Federation of Collectors Clubs, is written in the hope that it may provoke discussion, and I should be very glad to hear the views of other collectors upon this subject. That some such organization is needed and would prove of benefit—if wisely instituted and intelligently managed—I have little doubt. However, such a federation, to be of the greatest value to all concerned, must be very carefully planned, not only to include every useful feature within its scope, but to avoid pitfalls in the nature of unwise and hasty acts. Furthermore, provision must be made for the permanency of the organization and for the safest possible custody of its records. Its officers must be men who are fitted for their tasks—men whose judgment is safe and sane and not biased by spite or personal motives of any kind. To be of the greatest value such an organization should be international and world wide in its scope. Opinions both as to the feasibility and practicability of the scheme, as well as to what should be included and what excluded, together with ideas and suggestions in any way germane to the subject, are earnestly solicited and will be carefully considered and submitted to the committee of organization—should such a committee be formed.

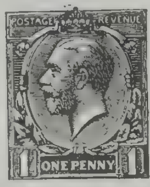
A. W. DUNNING, Newton, Mass.

HONOR TO MR. PACK.

A signal honor was paid to Charles Lathrop Pack, in his election to the Presidency of the American Conservation Congress for next year. These annual congresses, of which the one held in Indianapolis was the fourth, have become a strong factor in furthering the conservation of national resources. Attended by delegates from the different states and municipalities, they provide a means for discussion and afford an agency through which the people of the country may frame policies and principles affecting conservation. Mr. Pack, who is one of the foremost authorities on forestry in the United States, has been closely allied with the conservation movement from the first. He has taken an active interest in former congresses and is keenly alive to their opportunities and possibilities. The American Conservation Congress is to be congratulated on its choice for president. He will undoubtedly do much to increase the usefulness of the organization and to broaden the field of its endeavor.—Cleveland Town Topics.

NEW BRITISH STAMPS.

By kindness of Fred J. Melville we have received specimens of the new 1d and 3d stamps of Great Britain, and the 1d we illustrate herewith.



Mr. Kidder will no doubt refer to these new issues in his Chronicle, but we deem them worthy of special attention in view of the fact that the 1d appears without any heralding. Mr. Melville suggests that the change in the design of the penny stamp may be attributed to the propaganda for an improved postage stamp in connection with the recent British Stamp Exhibition.

The new penny stamp is a distinct improvement over the old design, while the three-penny in a handsome shade of violet has a design very much like the two-penny recently chronicled.

BRITISH EXHIBITION AWARDS.

AT THE BRITISH EXHIBITION JUST CONCLUDED.

Mr. Pack's specialized collection of Brazil received the grand gold medal offered by Baron Leijonhuvvud for exhibit of specialized collection of Brazil 1894-1904, while C. A. Howes informs us that his Corea secured for him a bronze medal. The Philatelic Gazette by cable despatch gives complete list of United States medal winners as follows:

Chas. L. Pack, grand gold, Brazil, 1894-1904.
Chas. L. Pack, gold, Queensland, 1879-80.
Chas. L. Pack, gold, Uruguay, 1856 Diligencia.
Chas. L. Pack, silver gilt, Argentine, Rivadavia.
E. R. Ackerman, gold medal, British Guiana.
Henry J. Crocker, gold medal, for rarities.
John N. Luff, silver medal, early Samoas.
C. A. Howes, bronze medal, Corea.
E. M. Taylor, Silver medal, Tonga.
J. A. Steinmetz, bronze, United States.
Eugene Klein, bronze, Danube Navigation.
N. E. Stamp Co., silver, for publications.

This is certainly a very creditable list of prize winners and we congratulate the exhibitors upon the showing made. We expect a detailed account of the Exhibition for an early issue of the WEEKLY.

It will be interesting to note that Mr. Pack's specialized study and display of the stamps of Brazil 1894-1904 received the grand gold medal, in view of the fact that it shows the possibilities of specializing by a man of moderate means. The highest priced 100r stamp in the whole exhibit cost only 18c and most of the stamps cost less than 1c each. Mr. Pack's great success at the London Exhibition completely refutes the idea that advanced philatelic work cannot be done with low priced material.

It is a matter of great satisfaction that Mr. Pack should be accorded the high honor attendant upon the receipt of a grand gold medal, and American philately has received a tribute of marked respect. Mr. Pack's collection will be exhibited in London at a meeting of the Royal Philatelic Society on November 7, when Thomas William Hall will read the particulars of the new discoveries and progressive work connected with Mr. Pack's research.

In common with American philatelists we extend our congratulations and the congratulations of our many readers to Charles Lathrop Pack and those associated with him in the recognition accorded American exhibitors.

A bit of melancholy interest is attached to the awards in that Mr. Crocker's death was recorded last week and the despatch given indicates that his great rarities secured for him a gold medal.

JOIN THE BOOSTER CLUB.

J. M. Stonier, Morgantown, W. Va. is our latest recruit. He sends us a new yearly from Wheeling, W. Va. who in turn secured two other subscribers. Mr. Stonier also sent a new one from Greensburg and the latter has secured another new one. As our friend writes us, it is an easy thing to "boost" if one wants to.

Frank E. Goodwin, St. Louis, Mo. has the right idea about boosting. Read this excerpt from one of his letters just at hand:—

"Will have copied the names I have secured which cannot be traced to MEKEEL'S and send them to you to help out on your mailing list.

Suggest that you send me some printed matter recommending MEKEEL'S which I can mail with my answers to inquiries. Perhaps that would help "boost" your paper. I'll do my part, you know that."

Such things as these warm the cockles of the editorial heart!

DEATH OF HENRY J. CROCKER.

We made a brief mention last week of the death of Mr. Crocker. It was based upon the following from a San Francisco paper dated Oct. 11:—

"Henry J. Crocker, capitalist, former state harbor commissioner and one-time candidate for mayor of San Francisco, died this morning at 11:30 o'clock, in Adler's Sanitarium. His health had been failing for several months but he did not become seriously ill until a few weeks ago while sojourning at his country home on the McCloud River. A week ago last Sunday his condition became alarming and he was removed to the sanitarium in this city. Since that time he had been sinking rapidly and the end today was not unexpected. Death was due to a complication of liver and kidney complaints.

Crocker, who was about 50 years of age, was a member of the well-known Crocker family which has figured so prominently in the social and financial history of this city and state. He was a nephew of Charles and Henry S. Crocker and a first cousin of William H. and Colonel Charles Crocker. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ives Crocker, and five children, Harry, Clark and the Misses Marian, Kate and Mary Crocker.

Crocker was prominently identified with the leading clubs of this city, being a member of the Pacific Union, Bohemian and Family clubs, as well as numerous others. His financial interests were very extensive. He was president of the West Coast Life Insurance Company, vice president of the Italian-American Bank, a director of the American National Bank, vice president of the H. S. Crocker Company, the local stationery concern, vice president of the Refining and Producing Oil Company and a director in numerous other large corporations. His fortune is estimated high in the millions.

The family has for years occupied a handsome home at Laguna and Washington streets, where Mr. and Mrs. Crocker dispensed lavish hospitality."

While nothing is said concerning Mr. Crocker's philatelic possessions it is well known that he was one of the world's foremost collectors. His collection of Hawaiian stamps, particularly of missionaries and numerals, was most superb and his study of these stamps marked him a philatelic student whose loss will be felt severely.

He was president of the Pacific Philatelic Society and was giving much attention to promoting a philatelic interest in the great 1915 exhibition. Truly our loss is great.

19th CENTURY

The following 100 items are taken from a collection purchased a few days ago. This is a good old time collection (no stamps since 1895), mostly used though quite a few of the 1880 to 1890 issues of Colonies are mint. Send want list of any special stamps needed. While there were no great rarities most of the spaces were filled.

EDITORIAL.

Death of Mr. Ewen—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News for October 5th conveys the news of the death of H. L'Estrange Ewen, founder and editor of Ewen's Weekly Stamp News. His death followed a long illness but so contrary was it to Mr. Ewen's policy to recognize the personal equation that it was not known generally that he was ailing. Mr. Ewen was a splendid specialist in the stamps of Great Britain; and his standard catalogue of British Stamps and Postmarks, published in 1893 was the first special catalogue of the kind, it is claimed. Mr. Ewen was a keen student of the railway mail letter stamps of Great Britain and his monumental work of 430 pages on the subject, published in 1901 is the one complete record of these stamps. Ewen's Weekly Circular, which was first published in 1897 was developed into Ewen's Weekly Stamp News in 1899, and the whole number of the two journals is 766. Mr. Ewen perhaps was the first to organize a new issue service of magnitude on a systematic basis and his colonial stamp market did much to make the collecting of the stamps of the twentieth century both popular and fashionable. Mr. Ewen's remarkable philatelic aptitude made him one of the foremost stamp men of the day and we regret to have to announce his death at an age comparatively young.

Who Can Tell?—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who did not care for United States but wanted foreign only? Has he stolen away in company with the o. f. c. who made his unused stamps used by pen-stroking them neatly himself? On the other hand, what has become of the old-fashioned dealer who did not mount his stock in books but sold it loose out of a box? Has he strayed away with the o. f. d. who thought that it was all right to sell sets of fac-similes of Confederate locals and eke those of Hamburg?

Worst Has Come—Our political department. Someone writes: "Here is one really too good to keep out of the political department. At our stamp meeting Thursday last, one of those restless members who was always on the hunt for watermarks, said, with a shout: 'I see the elephant,' (on an Indian stamp), whereat, one of our wags (of whom we have several) said in a droll enough way, 'I say, you should vote for Chafin.' 'No,' replied the watermarker, 'I shall vote for Taft; I have just found the G. O. P.' Needless to say that this ringing reply was cheered until the rafters rang; and now the watermark chap is the lion of the society, you know. What say you?" A glass of mead, please.

Made Good—We congratulate the Junior Philatelic Society upon the success of the great exhibition under its auspices, at London. The exhibition, signally favored by King George as an exhibitor, as it was, scored a "veritable triumph." The news of the grand opening of the exhibition was gathered from a cablegram that appeared in one of the leading newspapers and we dutifully acclaim this sapient London correspondent who does not hesitate to expend cable tolls in reporting philatelic events.

A Coming Sale—Through the courtesy of Mr. B. T. K. Smith of London, we are enabled to make an announcement that will excite no little anticipation on the part of those who are interested in the literature of philately. The great library of Alfred Smith is to come on the open market and as it is the first of its kind to be dispersed, we believe, amateurs of the literature of stamps will rejoice at the prospect. "Its foundation dates from the year 1862 and it has been continued unceasingly since the death in 1880 of the late Mr. A. W. Smith up to the present day. Its scope embraces the whole range of British and foreign philatelic publications and it is especially rich as may be imagined, in the early rarities of philatelic literature, notable among these being one of the very few perfect copies known of the first published catalogue of postage stamps, namely the 'Catalogue des Timbres-Poste' of Alfred Potiquet (Paris, 1861)." A priced list of items in the library is in compilation and due notice of its appearance will be made.

Even So—Parnassus Penflip: "As a philatelic knight, filled with surging thought, I course the country over to bring into the flash-light of fame, great artistic achievement. Let it now be recorded for posterity that a cigarette company is illuminating insensate wood with a picture of a girl whose pose and costume bespeak the freedom of the golden west, telephoning a gent in similar habiliments, in these historic words: 'Foreign stamps, Dick Yes, in every package of ——— cigarettes.' Thus do we see that all the children of the earth claim kindred with philately; and how we glow at the thought of the cow lady and cow gent, after a harrowing day's work on the range, wrapt in the witchery of stamps, in their solitary cabin far from the paths of civilization." Even so, but we wager that they cannot get away from those unsolicited approval sheets.

Personal—Mr. A. G. Burgoyne, Pittsburg, who was one of the party of prominent newspaper men who made the trip to the Yellowstone as guests of Mr. Hill has returned home, improved in health, and richer in appreciation of the natural wonders of our country. Mr. Burgoyne, although assistant librarian of the American Philatelic Society, is not so closely attached to stamps at present as formerly, when his name almost was synonymous with foreign revenues; and this circumstance we regret, as he is one of the real philatelic celebrities. It was a privilege to hear from Mr. Burgoyne's own lips, the story of the purchase by the Carnegie Institute of his superb collection of foreign revenue stamps which was one of the best ever assembled and which was replete with examples of original research. Mr. F. E. Goodwin of St. Louis, was a recent visitor to Chicago where he met many collectors who have been following his studies with keen attention. Mr. Goodwin made the statement that one of his principal objects in writing the U. S. articles was to secure the release of many bits of knowledge of the stamps of the United States that are in the possession of collectors and it is gratifying that he has been successful on that score. He has given the necessary stimulus that calls forth this private information, so to say. It is our intention to reprint Mr. Goodwin's articles as our third handbook, number two of which is promised for an early appearance.

An Answer—A reader asks why type I of the one-cent, 1851, should be scarcer than type I of the one-cent, 1857-60 issue, in view of the explanation that has been made rather often that the purpose of cutting away of the ends was to allow for the accommodations of perforations. In the case of the one-cent stamp we believe that the perforation theory is a fanciful one and that the sole reason that type I imperforate is more valuable is because of the increased use of the perforated one-cent, all types in the aggregate, in comparison with the imperforate. Mr. Luff says that the sheets seemed to be made up, regardless of any rule as "all the varieties are found scattered irregularly over some plates, on others, they occur in rows."

THE LISTING OF PRECANCELS.

Last week we used up nearly a column of space in our Chronicle listing types of precancels that would do credit to an acrobatic performance. We want to know whether our readers were at all interested. We are glad to publish all the news but question whether these hair-splitting varieties are worthy of the consideration that we give them. If our subscribers tell us that they want this news, it will be continued. If not, it will be discontinued. Just send us a post card so that we may know your desires.

JUST LIKE FINDING MONEY

In remounting my stock of U. S. stamps I find that I have a few which are not right up to my requirements for approval books. Rather than carry them over I have decided to price them so low that anyone who is not "finicky" will buy and be glad ever after. These stamps have small faults, are not perfect stamps, as I interpret the term "perfect." They are as good as the usual run of U. S. put out on approval; none badly damaged, and anyone except the most exacting will be proud to own them. They are, however, sold "as is" and when the few offered at this price are gone I have no more at these prices.

CHAPTER XIV.

2 Cents, Issue of 1863-1868.

A stamp to which no true lover of the artistic ever turns, is the 2 cent black of 1863. This is about the most hideous looking stamp ever allowed to disgrace the face of an envelope, and were it not for a number of features worthy of study, the specialist would gladly pass it by with the contentment of possessing merely a single specimen. The big black face of Andrew Jackson stares out at one so stolidly and even defiantly that he is willing to turn quickly to the dark, sorrowful features of Lincoln on the next stamp issued.

Forbidding as this stamp looks, there is still so much in it for study that one must give it considerable place in his album, and three or four pages will be very well filled before all of the collectible things have been put into place.

The 2 cents black is one of two of this entire issue which bears a well defined double transfer, or as it is wrongfully termed—shifted die. At least this is my belief. The other is the 15 cents black—Lincoln head. At least two varieties of the double transfer are known, the most common showing very plainly in the line which runs through the letter U at the lower left hand corner. The scarcer variety shows just a faint trace of color through the inscription at the top.

This stamp first saw the light of day on July 1, 1863. It is printed on white wove paper of different degrees of thickness, and later appeared on vertical laid paper. It is very commonly found on what is termed a gray surfaced paper, but this was due to improper inking of the plates, causing the partially wiped parts of the plate to leave the traces of ink upon the surface of the paper.

Fortunately for the collector this stamp did not come in with the August lot, and he is spared the pain of not having opportunity of possessing them all.

It has been found imperforate vertically.

The stamp was printed on Dr. Francis' chemical paper—that brown wove paper which changed color when cancelled with a sort of acid.

The stamp is not over-prolific in shades, coming in gray, gray-black, and full black. There is also a peculiar shade of greenish black, probably caused by the plate being wiped with the cloth used for another color of ink.

Seven plates were used to print this stamp, their numbers being 28, 29, 30, 31, 50, 51 and 53. There were printed for distribution 256,566,000 stamps before being put to the grilling process.

When the grille was adopted this stamp was also put through the embossing rollers, and as a result a number of varieties of grilles have been found. The sizes so far known are:

Size.	Points.
12x15	15x19
12x14½	15x18
11x14	14x18
11x13	14x16
9x14	12x18
9x13½	12x17
9x13	12x16
8½x13½	11x17
8½x13	11x16

The records show that there were 76,559,100 stamps issued after the grille was applied. But as was the case with those which have been described before, stamps printed before the adoption of the grille were undoubtedly run through the rollers, making the supply not very limited.

The double transfer also exists in the grilled stamp.

There is a plate variety, known to exist in the ungrilled stamps, which I described in these columns a few weeks ago. This minor variety exists in the point of hair at the right side of the top of the head. That point is almost entirely obliterated by cutting the lines of shade deep and heavy. I have not been able to find this variety in the grilled stamps, but expect that it does so exist. It stands to reason that it should, as probably all of the seven plates were used to print the grilled stamps.

Double grilles are not infrequent, and split grilles are almost as common as the normal ones. The end roller grille ought to exist in these stamps, but I have never heard of them. But then there are lots of things coming up, now that collectors are studying their stamps, which we never heard of before.

The Dr. Francis patent chemical paper also exists grilled, in size 11x14. The grilles in these stamps were never pressed out by pneumatic pressure.

DEATH OF H. L. EWEN.

It is with regret that we have to announce the death of H. L. Ewen, the well-known English dealer and the publisher of Ewen's Weekly Stamp News. Mr. Ewen's death occurred Tuesday, October 1, after a long illness. Mr. Ewen's loss will be a severe one to English philately. Editorially we comment at length upon the loss stamp collecting has experienced.

THE GUARANTEE THAT MAKES DISSATISFACTION IMPOSSIBLE

NO PACKET GUARANTEE CAN BE MADE STRONGER THAN THIS

The value of any guarantee depends on the reliability of the firm that makes it. Keep this always in mind and remember as you read this broad, unlimited guarantee that it is made by a firm which through 15 years of dealing has never broken a promise or failed to keep faith with a customer.

Here is the guarantee. Read it carefully. See how absolutely and completely it protects you from disappointment and loss.

OUR GUARANTEE

WE guarantee that our packets are assembled in the best manner and only good, clean, well selected stamps are used in their make-up. In short, we guarantee to you complete satisfaction in every respect or will cheerfully refund your full remittance.

There are no conditions to this guarantee, no "ifs" or "and" or "buts". It is unlimited. Could we make this guarantee stronger? We ask you frankly, could we?

The Secret of Our Packets.—How We Can Give You Guaranteed FIRST QUALITY VARIETY STAMP PACKETS At ½ SAVING.

Best of all, these perfect packets cost no more, and in many instances less, than the cheap and trashy "imported" packets. Possibly you have envied some collector who has bought a FIRST QUALITY PACKET and have wished that you might have one of them too. But, perhaps you have imagined that such packets were too expensive for your pocket book. True, packets of the best quality are expensive when made by regular stamp dealers who has a comparatively small trade in this line, who buys his stamps in small lots and must make a big profit on every transaction. Right in New York City, for instance, there are dealers who ask twice our prices for packets of as good quality as ours, but they haven't near the value in them.

There are a number of reasons why we can make you a better packet for less money than others. In the first place, our purchases of stamps are so enormous that we get them at the very lowest cost. Our sorting and assembling rooms are so systemically organized and perfectly operated that expenses are reduced to the lowest point.

These things, and many others, all contribute to the reduction of expenses to a point where we can—and do—profitably make you a packet at a price that would be ruinous to any stamp dealer. QUALITY AND VALUE CONSIDERED.

By taking advantage of the opportunities that our packet service offers, you can get the best packets that money can buy and they will cost you no more than the ordinary, indifferently kind made of packets. The following packet offered is sure to please you.

You have promised yourself to try one of our packets sometime—why not make that sometime NOW?

A $10.00 Packet for $5.95

The Variety Packet That All Can Use. It's Our First Quality Packet No. 14A.

Contains 1500 all different varieties good, clean, well selected postage stamps. From nearly every stamp issuing country. A great many of those hard-to-get-kind that you can use. This lot will do wonders toward filling up the blank spaces in your albums. In this lot will be found Japan overprints for China and Corea, Austria Jubilees and Birthday Issues, Prince Luitpold Barvarias, Quebec Tercentenary, Levants, Argentine and Chile Jubilees, Panama, Suriname, Italy Specials, Turkey, Greece, Java. A fine lot of Portugal, King Emanuel and overprint Republic, British, French, German (Steamship type), and U. S. Colonies. Many postally used So. and Central American stamps. A great many Commemorative Issues. Immense Value is given for the price asked. These packets have no superiors. Just one sold in America as good and the price is $10.00. But our price is only $5.95. No matter how large your collection is—you can use this packet to Real Advantage. Postpaid $5.95.

APPRECIATIONS

J. C. Walton, Secy-Treas., the Daversport Rubber Co., of Boston writes:—"I was much pleased with the 1500 stamp packet and found several hundred stamps I did not have. My collection numbers over 9000 var."

Rev. John Luther Kilbon, Park Congregational Church, Springfield, Mass., recommends our packets and says:—"I find that the 1500 var. lot was a profitable purchase, adding about 400 stamps to my large collection and increasing its catalog value considerably, to say nothing of what some very desirable duplicates may bring in the future."

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by Henry A. Kidder.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

ARGENTINE.—A correspondent in Buenos Ayres informs Champion's Bulletin that the 5c and 12c values of the current series, which have previously been printed in New York, will hereafter be printed by the Caseda de Moneda in Buenos Ayres, like the other values of the series. The price will be 14 centavos per 100, instead of 50 centavos.

BELGIUM.—Champion's Bulletin and Lemaire's Journal chronicle and illustrate several new values in the new set. The higher values are in the same design as those previously chronicled, with portrait of King Albert, but the 2c is in a new design, different from either the 1c or the 5c values, previously chronicled. The Belgian Lion is surrounded by a white tablet containing "Belgique" to the left and "Belgie" to the right. In the lower left corner is a large "2" and opposite a large "C." The crown surmounts the tablet, and small scrolls fill the upper corners.

BRUNEI.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 50c value of the current design in the universal color scheme.

50c black on green.

CHILE.—The L. L. Albright Co. shows us the first of the new stamps announced in No. 1119, though the statement there made on the authority of Maury's Collectionneur proves to have been incorrect as to color and portrait. The specimen before us is the 10c value, and with the exception of the figures of value in the lower corners, is an exact reproduction of the previous 5c stamp, except that the portrait is in black.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Judging from the contents of recent letters from England, the British postal authorities sprung a surprise on the English philatelists, October 8, when the new 1d stamp was issued. No advance announcement was made of a change of design, and the

W. H. PECKITT, 47 Strand, LONDON, W. C.
CABLES "PECKITT LONDON"

Dealer in Rare Stamps
AND
"New Issues at 10% Over Face"

I beg to announce the purchase of the very important Collection of

CAYMAN ISLANDS

formed by Leon Adutt, Esq., President of the Thanet Philatelic Society &c , &c.,

Such interest has always been taken in this popular little country that I am very pleased to have been able to acquire the Collection which is well known as being the finest that has ever been got together.

A study of the stamps of this Island will well repay the Collector, indeed it is very surprising how very small most of the numbers are, especially in the case of the Provisionals. Of these there are so few that it must be apparent to the most casual observer that there is nothing like a sufficiency for the Collecting world, even for the specialist in West Indies, let alone the general Collector, and looking to this fact it is obvious that there must be a very large increase in value in the future.

This therefore is the last opportunity that most Collectors will have of completing their wants at reasonable figures.

It is impossible within the limits of an advertisement to mention more than a few items in this magnificent Collection. Among the Provisionials however the following are particularly noticeable:

½d on 5sh double pane of 120 stamps shewing error unsurcharged stamp with normal.
½d on 5sh double surcharge.
½d on 5sh inverted surcharge.
½d on 5sh strip of three middle stamp without surcharge. Etc.

1d on 5sh double pane of 120 stamps
1d on 5sh double surcharge.
1d on 5sh double surcharge used.
Etc.

2½d on 4d, block of 12 stamps.

secret appears to have been well kept, but from the specimens sent us by Fred J. Melville, W. E. Whitnall and J. A. E. Lowe, from widely separated offices in England, the new stamps were placed on sale simultaneously at a number of postoffices. After the somewhat florid ornamentation of the first King George "penny red," the new stamp seems rather plain and severe, and yet we have no doubt the general concensus of opinion will be that it is a vast improvement over its predecessor. The portrait of the King used is the McKennal profile portrait, which has taken the place of the unsatisfactory photograph at first used. This portrait is the same as that used on all the recent Colonial issues, though it is of large size, like those on the new stamps of Bahamas, Cyprus and Gibralter. The portrait oval extends nearly to the top of the stamp, leaving just room for the crown, which is smaller than in recent issues, with the rim in a straight line like that on the new Cyprus stamps. The orb on the top of the crown extends above the frame line, like all the recent issues. Fillets of ribbon extend from either side of the crown, the ends terminating in the corners formed by the upper tablet and the top of the oval. The portrait has an oval molded frame, and thus resembles a framed picture rather than a medallion. Wreaths of oak and laurel are arranged below the frame, extending half way up the oval. The colorless figures of value are contained in small tablets in the lower corner, with the value in words between. The portrait hangs from a wide tablet, which shows "Postage" at the left and "Revenue" at the right, in small letters near the top frame line. The whole effect is excellent there being none of the crowding of ornaments so prominent on all other King George issues of Great Britain. The new stamps are perforated 15x14 and are printed on paper with the new watermark. We are informed by the New England Stamp Co. that the new 1d stamp has already appeared in two distinct shades.

Simultaneously with the issue of the new 1d stamp, appeared the 3d King George, specimens having been shown us by Fred J. Melville and the New England Stamp Co. The design is the same as the 2d value recently chronicled, except the necessary change in value. The color is a rich shade of violet, but the paper is white, the first time this value has appeared on white paper since the issue of 1884. The perforation is 15x14, and the sheets bear the control number 12 for the first time.

Adhesives.

1d carmine.
1d carmine rose.
3d violet.

The chronicle of the ½d and 1d coiled stamps in No. 1137 should have stated that the stamps were on old watermarked paper and not the new.

Ewen's Weekly reports having seen two distinct shades of the King George 2d stamp, recently issued, pale orange and dark orange.

GRENADA.—Scott's Circular says that a new issue of postage stamps, with head of King George, will replace the present Arms type some time in January next.

HAYTI.—We find in Champion's Bulletin the chronicle of two new values in the Leconte series. the 5c of the same series having been described in No. 1126.

Adhesives.

1c carmine.
2c orange.

PARAGUAY.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us a new provisional from this country, the 50c carmine of 1910 having been surcharged "Habilitada—en—VEINTE" in three lines with a narrow rule below, the overprint being in black.

Provisional Adhesive.

20c on 50c carmine; black surcharge.

PORTUGAL.—Mr. Schachne has shown us another card of the permanent issue which we find is like the single card noted in No. 1132.

Post Card.

1cx1c dark green on buff; divided face; L. 3.

PORTUGUESE INDIES.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us another value in the split provisionals from this Colony, this last also being without the "Republica" surcharge, perforated vertical into two halves.

Provisional Adhesive.

On issue of 1898-1900.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Rausch, Hugo Kuenstler (4), W. H. Hitchings, David Hurwitz, Harry C. Zobel, H . Clark Jarrett (4).

—Geo. C. Asby, Union Center, Wis. advises us that he has had the misfortune to lose by fire a twelve years' accumulation of stamps including his general collection of U. S. and foreign, also precancels, match and medicine, and foreign revenues. Mr. Asby feels keenly not only the loss of his stamps, but as well his philatelic library of about two hundred volumes. The only books saved were half a dozen bound volumes of MEKEEL'S and the complete second series of the American Journal of Philately. If any of our readers have duplicate copies of the WEEKLY or other stamp papers Mr. Asby will appreciate very much the receipt of the same.

—H. V. Blackburn of Toronto, Can., is now located at Winnipeg, Man. and his many friends will be pleased to know that he is now connected with the Hobby Club and its official organ, The Hobbyist.

A MATTER OF FIGURES—AND TRUTH.

O. D. Challans calls our attention to a displayed claim made by a monthly contemporary and asks "How about it?" It was our intention to pass the matter by unnoticed, but Mr. Challan's query has changed our mind. Here is the claim:—

"This magazine printed 2,279 inches of advertising during the last busy season. This is more advertising alone than any American competitor, either monthly or weekly, printed in advertising and reading matter combined."

We don't know how many months were included in this "busy season" but in a twelve months no less than 19,968 inches of matter finds insertion in the WEEKLY, no accounting being made of the special numbers issued during the winter months.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

MISCELLANEOUS EXPLANATIONS.

In the chapters dealing with the manufacture of postage stamps we have referred to and explained the meaning of several technical terms frequently met with such as plate, die, etc., and we have now to supplement that information by mentioning a few other terms used in catalogues and articles in connection with line-engraved stamps.

The first term we have to consider is re-engraved: either the die from which the plate is made, or the plate itself, may be re-engraved, and stamps so produced are distinguished as being from (1) a re-engraved die or (2) a re-engraved plate. When a die or plate becomes worn by continual use so that impressions from it are not satisfactory some or all of the lines of the design have to be re-cut or re-engraved. As a rule the alterations made are sufficiently marked to be noticeable in the finished stamps so that it is possible to identify them from impressions in the original state. To be strictly accurate a die rarely becomes sufficiently worn to require re-engraving from that cause alone. Dies are re-engraved with the idea of strengthening various parts so that certain lines in the design will show more plainly in the printed stamps. Thus in the first 1d stamps of Great Britain the shading round the eye, etc., was a little too faint so the die was re-engraved with the object of more strongly defining this shading. The 1c, 3c, 6c, and 10c United States stamps of 1881-82 furnish excellent examples of the differences made by re-engraving the dies. If these are compared with the original designs it will be found that considerable alteration has been made.

When plates are made from a die and any re-engraving takes place it is the die that is re-engraved so that on the new plates the stamps are all alike though, of course, different from those on the original plate. When, however, the plates were originally engraved by hand such as the early Mauritius, the "Sydney Views" of New South Wales, etc., then the plate itself has to be re-engraved. The work of renovation may be confined to only certain stamps on the plate or to the whole of them. As a rule these hand engraved plates were made of some soft metal like copper which wore very quickly; consequently after a certain number of impressions had been printed it was necessary to re-engrave the plates before they were in a fit state to be used again. The plate for the 2d Sydney View was entirely re-engraved on three separate occasions and each time radical alterations were made to the design so that not only can the different states of the plate be distinguished but the stamps may be "plated" in either state. In addition the plate was re-touched at least twice. Perhaps the most interesting stamp known for its re-engravings and re-touches is the Bolivian 5c label of 1866. The plate was entirely re-engraved on several occasions, and in between these re-engravings certain stamps were re-touched (sometimes the alterations or additions made were trivial in the extreme) so that it forms one of the most difficult studies any specialist can attempt.

Re-cut, a term we have mentioned above, is sometimes used to denote re-engraving, but its use in this connection is not strictly correct. It would perhaps be better to refer to re-cutting as the actual work involved in altering a plate or die and re-engraving to denote the finished article.

Another term often met with, and also mentioned above, is re-touch. This is generally used as though it were synonymous with re-engraved but the two terms should not be used in the same connection, but, rather, should be made to convey two distinct ideas. Re-engraved we have already explained; and re-touch, in our opinion, should only refer to minor alterations made to a plate. It should, in short, refer to a local "touching up" and not to a careful re-engraving of a whole design.

The fact that a plate can wear to such an extent as to require re-engraving obviously shows in impressions printed from it and one thus finds such terms as early impressions and worn plate in philatelic literature. An early impression, as the name implies, is one taken from the plate while all the details of the design are bold and distinct, while in stamps printed from a worn plate the finer lines of the design have disappeared altogether, and the whole is indistinct or blurred. Between these two extremes there are innumerable stages which are more or less explicitly described as intermediate or medium impressions. These "states of the plate" have considerable bearing on the value of such stamps as the early New South Wales, Mauritius, Tasmania, etc. For instance Gibbons prices an early impression of the 1d "Post Paid" Mauritius of 1848 at $125.00 while the same variety from very worn plate is only valued at $10.00.

SHORT REPLIES.

E. B. C. (Oregon City).—Your Bechuanaland stamp must be a forgery if it has the C C watermark as you state.

B. H. L. (Chicago).—Your stamps bearing the name "BAYERN" belong to Bavaria this being the German equivalent.

F. H. (Milwaukee).—I think I have already stated in these columns that I do not believe in the authenticity of any of the Haytian imperforate stamps of Scott's type A18. I believe they are entirely counterfeit.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Once again we have the standard German catalog of Gebrüder Senf with us, in good time for the season of 1912-13. It has increased its size by some 80 pages, but otherwise is unchanged in appearance. It is in the usual narrow, upright "pocket size," but unlike most catalogs uses but one column to a page, which makes it rather thick. However, these pages are full of information for the collector, foot notes and headings combining to give him a mine of information concerning the various issues of all countries.

The catalog is issued in two parts, adhesives and entires, but the one before us includes only the former. The illustrations are hardly on a par with most catalogs, as they are much reduced in size and are line-cuts which are often lacking in clearness. Yet in many cases they are amply sufficient to serve for the identification of the stamps themselves, and this is really the main point.

The countries are arranged absolutely alphabetically, even the states of the Colombian Republic being in their proper alphabetical order. This has its advantages in looking up the countries in a catalog, but it hardly seems the proper way to mount a collection—one specializing in Colombia would doubtless want all the state issues together, following the national issues,—but this is rather beside the question as we are reviewing the catalog. Foreign post offices of any country, however, follow the national issues both logically and alphabetically, which gives them their proper position.

Main varieties of stamps are the only ones given the serial numbering in the lists, the minor varieties being noted in various methods by sub-lettering, etc., which is now the accepted way of making up lists. We do not find enlargements of type varieties, which would make such differences plainer to the novice. There are, however, many points given under the "General Remarks" at the beginning of the volume which serve to instruct the amateur in the technicalities of the science.

A general index for the catalog is given as a separate folder, which "contains all the names of the countries entered in the catalog, in German, English and French language, also the inscriptions and surcharges of all stamps which do not bear the name of any country or an abbreviated one, with directions where to find them."

The book is a valuable addition to the philatelist's library, and it already has a good circulation among American collectors. It can be obtained of Gebrüder Senf, Leipzig, Germany, for 98 cents, post free.

The Star Coin Encyclopedia issued by B. Max Mehl, Fort Worth, Texas, is a most comprehensive book and well worth the price, $1.00. It is superbly illustrated with many full page plates and hardly one of its 200 pages has no illustration at its service. This book gives the fullest description of the ancient, medieval, and modern coins of the entire world of any book extant, with prices paid for the same by Mr. Mehl. Anyone interested in coins cannot afford to pass this work by, dealing as it does with so much of interest to coin collecting. Chapters on "Money Past and Present", "The Mints of the United States", "Paper Money in China" and "Encased Postage Stamps" are an indication of the wide range of the work.

CHAPTER XV.

15 Cents, Issue of 1866-68.

The study of the so-called war-time stamps close with this denomination, the last of this interesting series to be issued. Although printed in black, the 15 cents is not repulsive in appearance as is the 2 cents, and bearing the portrait of the martyred President Lincoln, has sentimental reasons to overcome the sombre hue, which appeal to some collectors.

By act of Congress on March 3, 1863, the postmaster general was authorized to fix a registration fee at any sum he saw fit. Acting under this power the high postal official caused the registration fee to be fixed at 15 cents, and on April 15, 1866, the 15 cents black stamp was issued to the public.

The stamp is very free from shades, and plate varieties, being found only in gray black and full black; but upon several papers—very thin, thin, medium and thick. By improper wiping of the plates the stamp is found on a gray-surfaced paper, so-called, but I doubt that it is strictly collectible. The stamp was printed from plate number 41, and during the year in which it was issued, in its ungrilled state, there were 2,139,300 stamps printed and issued.

This stamp has been found with double transfer, and as only one plate was used this "shift" ought not to be uncommon or rare. Nevertheless one will look a long while before he will find a copy showing the double transfer, and it certainly did not occur in more than one stamp on the plate, as all of the copies show just a slight trace of the "shift" in the lower left corner.

In common with all of the other denominations, the 15 cents black was grilled. There are but two sizes listed in the catalogs and handbooks. But there were at least five different collectible sizes. Perhaps there were others. If there are they ought to be scarce, as the grilles have been well measured by collectors and specialists.

The sizes so far known are:

Size.	Points.
11x13½	14x17
11x13	14x16
9x14	12x18
9x13	12x16

Of these grilled stamps there were issued 2,536,360. No one knows the relative number of each size which were printed, and the value can only be determined in the proportion which each size bears to the whole, when several hundred are examined. I believe that many grilles supposed to measure according to catalog, will, on receiving a more accurate measurement and count show other sizes than what they are supposed to be. Collectors should use a correct measurement gauge, with dividers, and if possible, count the points upon the back of the stamp.

The stamp is found rarely in part perforate vertically, and I have a copy imperforate all around, with good margins. I cannot vouch for its being issued for postage in that form, however, as I have never seen or heard of an imperforate pair.

The cardboard and India paper proofs should be collected, as well as the stamp overprinted "Specimen." I am certain that no trial printings were ever made, such as I have described in other denominations.

There are several forms of cancellations which might be well collected. The red is rather rare; blue is found more frequently. I have seen two or three copies with Paid cancellations, but no other things out of the ordinary. Year dated cancellations are quite rare and to one who collects them ought to be worth a fair premium.

On account of so few things being shown to make the stamp worthy of deep study, I will omit the check-list. A very satisfactory one can be made up from the above, which covers all of the points of interest which have appeared in print.

I am in hopes that this article, and the one preceding it, may bring out some new facts which have been overlooked or omitted in the past, by students of the United States postal issues.

Our Specialty is Filling Want Lists.

Send us a list of any odds and ends in either U. S. or Foreign, that you may need to fill up your sets, (even if the cheaper grade), and we will forward them for your inspection, neatly mounted and each stamp priced separately, and you have the privilege of returning any of them for any reason. We only send out perfect specimens and our prices are right, a trial will convince you, and we recommend this method of filling up your blank spaces. Send us THAT LIST of HARD TO FIND STAMPS.

Our 50 Page Want List

Will surely interest you and also save you money, our prices are low and stamps in finest condition, it quotes all U. S. Stamps singly, including shades, not offered in any other list and it is pocket size, to serve you as a check list as well as a guide; it also quotes 1,000 sets of 19th and 20th Century sets of Foreign stamp supplies. It will be sent free to any address, and don't fail to request samples of our "HINGES", the best on the market.

TWO ENVELOPE FINDS.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

I have just made two finds of more than usual interest. The first one concerns collectors of entires only. This is a current 2c stamped envelopes, size 5, new knife, buff paper, watermarked 1907. I picked up two copies of this.

The other discovery affects cut square collectors as well, being an entirely new variety. When the Dayton dies were first described and numbered 1 to 13, Die 11 was a two cent wrapper. Later Bartels changed the numbering all around and this was given as No.13 and so appears in their stamped envelope catalogue. It always seemed to me that this was not a separate die and closer scrutiny in the light of my new discovery confirms my suspicion. The die is the same as original Die 7 (later Die 5). This has been the only Dayton die wrapper hitherto found. To-day I picked up a 2c wrapper that is Dayton Die 3 (original nnmber 5). This is the die with the extremely narrow front to bust. Thus at least two of the Dayton dies are being used on the wrapper. For the information of those who only follow Scott's catalogue, I would state that the above remarks apply to Scott's Die D, which as a matter of fact consists of 12 separate dies.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received Vol. 1 No. 1 of Philatelic Opinion, edited by B. W. H. Poole, the publication of which has been heralded in the columns of the WEEKLY for the past few weeks. The contents of this number will commend the magazine to both specialist and beginner and the subscription price of 50c per year will bring it within the reach of any collector. The magazine is crowded with newsy matter and with Mr. Poole at the helm Philatelic Opinion is an assured success.

—"The writer was sometime ago elected secretary and treasurer of the Minnesota Philatelic Society which has now nearly thirty members and is growing rapidly. I wish that you would kindly insert a little item regarding this society in a copy of the WEEKLY at an early date, and state that the society is for the purpose of getting the Minnesota collectors better acquainted with each other and that I will be pleased to furnish any further information that will be desired." —IRA C. HOLT, 1733 Capital Av., St. Paul, Minn.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Chas. Jarecki, C. M. Breder, Rev. Louis Voss (2), W. H. Hitchings, and T. C. Mann.

—A. N. Estes, the manager of the Republic Stamp Co., has recently been called to Nashville, Tenn., for several days. He desires us to state that he will be greatly obliged if correspondents will kindly bear with him in any delay that may result from his enforced absence.

—The J. M. Stuart Co. has disposed of the Precancel Monthly to Everybody's Philatelist and announces Stuart's Semi-weekly Stamp News to be published every Wednesday and Saturday.

—Frank E. Goodwin, the well known writer and dealer, has bought the Unique Stamp Club effects from the former manager, H. L. Lindquist, Chicago. Mr. Goodwin intends to push the Club during the coming few months. The Unique Stamp Club is for the co-operative buying, selling and exchange of stamps;there are no admission fees or dues—the sole requirement for membership being first-class references and activity in stamps. (advt.)

—Thos. S. Clark & Co. have issued a rather unique and handsomely printed circular price list, which we take pleasure in commending to our subscribers. This firm has just purchased the business of Clark & Robb and it will no doubt be pleased to send this list to anyone upon a post card request.

—October 16 there was organized at the home of Henry Schuhmacher Jr. at Roslindale, suburb of Boston, the Suburban Stamp and Curio Club, and the following officers have been elected: President, Henry Schuhmacher Jr; Secretary-Treasurer, E. C. Thompson, M. D.; Sales Manager, R. Williams. Meetings will be held at the homes of members on the first and third Thursday of each month. Mr. Williams has invited all those interested to attend at his home No. 16 Newburn St., Jamaica Plain on November 7th where will be found a congenial group of collectors who collect anything and everything such as coins, postage stamps, butter-flies, birds' eggs, books etc. Full particulars by applying to the president at the above address.

—Edward C. Scheffler, who through his activities in local philatelic circles in Chicago and his duties in connection with the silver anniversary convention of the American Philatelic Society held in that city last year attained a reputation that by no means was confined to his home city, died at his home on October 23rd at the age of twenty-six years, after an illness of several months. Mr.Scheffler enjoyed the esteem of his associates and at his funeral on the 26th of October eight members of the Chicago Philatelic Society who contributed an appropriate floral piece were in attendance. Mr. Scheffler had been honored with several positions of trust in the Chicago philatelic organizations and his death is deeply deplored by all his stamp friends.

U. S. STAMP BOOKS.

By L. Harald Kjellstedt.

When the first 2c books were issued, in April, 1900, a lot of 240 books had the covers and each stamp handstamped with the word "Specimen." This lot was prepared for distribution to the members of the International Postal Union, and as very few could come into the hands of collectors, these books are undoubtedly very rare.

Recently a collector of U. S. stamp books picked up a few 2c books of the 1900 issue surcharged "Specimen." As the owner knew I had a book of the original "Specimen" lot in my collection, he wrote me about his find, but stated that the covers of his books showed that they were of a later date, and consequently he wondered if another and later issue of "Specimen" books had taken place.

This caused me to write to the 3d Assistant Postmaster General about the matter from whom I received the following reply, dated Oct. 8, 1912:

"In reply to your letter of Sept. 26, you are advised that no record is found of any issue of stamp books marked 'Specimen' after the first delivery of such books."

If "Specimen" books with covers of later date than the original are found, it thus would seem that they are either of spurious nature or, if the overprinting is genuine, procured by unofficial use of the original handstamp.

MERCHANDISE FOR GREECE.

Office of Second Asst. P. M. Gen.,
Washington, Oct. 23, 1912.

The Postal Administration of Greece has advised this Department that the legislation of Greece prohibits the importation by mail under registration of any article of general merchandise having a salable value, whether in a closed or open cover, and that any article received in the mails from another country, whether registered or unregistered, which is subject to Grecian customs duty, will not be delivered, but will be returned to origin.

In these conditions, any article having a salable value is unmailable to Greece under registration, either as a letter or as a sample, and can be accepted for dispatch from this country unregistered only at the risk of the sender.

Postmasters will cause due notice of the foregoing to be taken at their offices.

Second Asst. P. M. Gen.

AMERICA'S GREAT GOLD MEDAL STAMP EXHIBIT.

Before the Royal Philatelic Society.

The specialized study of the Brazil issue of stamps of 1894-1904, which was awarded the Great Gold Medal by the Jury of Awards at the recent Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition in London, will, by request, be displayed at a meeting of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, on the evening of Thursday, November 7th. His Majesty King George of England, is the Patron of this distinguished society, of which he was a member for many years, when Prince of Wales. His interest in the hobby of stamp collecting and in the progress of Philately is well known. Since the close of the Exhibition, an additional album has been dispatched from this side of the ocean to London, containing a study based on the examination of ten thousand dated copies of the 100 reis of 1894-1897, with particular relation to the time of use in Brazil of the many paper varieties.

This is gratifying news to all American collectors, coming, as it does, on top of the good word recently received as to the unexpected success of American Philatelists in securing awards at the London Exhibition. It promises well for the success of our own New York International Stamp Exhibition in October of next year.

NEW ORLEANS CLUB ORGANIZED.

(We have received from Rev. Louis Voss the following clipping from a local paper giving the particulars of the organization of the New Orleans Stamp Club, Friday evening, October 18. We give the clipping in full as it shows the work of a master hand in the preparation of press copy.—Ed.)

A preliminary meeting of a few ardent students of philately was held at the "Old Hickory" on Friday evening, and one more organization was added to the list of literary and social features of the City—the New Orleans Stamp Club. Among those in attendance were Messrs. Jac Meyer, C. E. Allgeyer, W. E. Smith, H. Fourment, the Rev. Louis Voss, Alexander Hay and E. Foster. In addition to the above "stamp fiends," quite a number of enthusiasts sent in their regrets at not being able to attend.

The meeting was called to order by Jac Meyer, who explained that the proposed organization was mooted to bring together a few of those whose hobby was the study and collection of stamps, for the discussion of philatelic problems and the comparing of collections, the exchange of duplicates and auctioning off of specimens among the prospective members, and the getting together of literary matter pertaining to the study. In other words the formation of a club where the members could meet at convenient intervals in a social way for mutual benefit and instruction.

The question of title was the first thing discussed, and on the suggestion of Rev. Mr. Voss, that of "the New Orleans Stamp Club" was adopted tentatively as being short and to the point. The further question of affiliation with the American Philatelic Society was left over for future consideration.

The following officers were asked to act pro tem; W. J. Morgan, president; H. Fourment, vice president, and E. Foster, secretary.

Mr. Meyer whose collection is reckoned one of the most valuable in the South, exhibited a fine line of early United States issues, which precipitated a discussion on varieties, their watermarks and perforations, while their relative variety came in for consideration and was discussed by Messrs. Allgeyer, Smith and Voss. Mr. Fourment gave a few remarks on French colonial stamps which proved that he had made a special study of this special branch.

The members adjourned to meet the succeeding Friday at the same place, when permanent organization will be gone into more thoroughly.

After adjournment the dry-as-dust discussion was turned into one touching on the poetic question of a "feast of reason and a flow of soul," only the "feast" may be said to have been paraphrased by a admirable collation served by Jac Meyer, of well-known catering abilities. A vote of thanks to Mr. Meyer for his kindness in furnishing apartments and also for the good things outside of his exhibition of the gems of his collection.

The feature of the next meeting will be the exhibition of an almost complete collection of French colonial postage stamps by Mr. Fourment.

EDITORIAL.

A Tribute—A heavy toll on philately has been exacted by the death of Henry J. Crocker of San Francisco; and the untimeliness of his taking away makes a particularly painful impression. How earnestly he was laboring for the success of the philatelic features of the San Francisco fair was known to many and through his efforts mainly, a substantial foundation for the prosecution of the work was established. Mr. Crocker was heart and soul in the promotion of the philatelic side of the Panama-Pacific fair and if we mistake not, he anticipated the year 1915 as a sort of culmination of his philatelic effort or the climax of a working and well-sustained philatelic career. Mr. Crocker was in the minds of many of us intimately and he never seemed to be too much occupied by his extensive business interests to heed all the diversified calls of philately. He was known throughout the philatelic world, as one of the greatest philatelists of the times and the fame of his Hawaiians has penetrated even to the outposts of the world of philately. Mr. Crocker intensely was a Californian; he gloried in his state and was proud of his San Francisco. He was as loyal to his west as to his stamps and we know to what a degree his faith and his works could be carried.

A Few Details—It need not be repeated that Mr. Crocker's Hawaiian collection was famous the world over; only in the last year it was awarded gold medals at Sydney, New South Wales and Vienna, Austria. The Hawaiian collection has been shown in different of the stamp centers in the past, under the charge of a competent custodian. Likewise, his Japanese collection, probably the most valuable one of its kind ever assembled and which was destroyed in the San Francisco fire was sent by Mr. Crocker for exhibition at several of the local societies. In fact, Mr. Crocker's confidence in his fellow collectors bordered on the marvellous and the editor cannot forget how insistent Mr. Crocker was to place his Hawaiian collection in the hands of two philatelic friends, if such they could be called in the face of the fact that Mr. Crocker had never seen them before, for leisurely examination, while he attended to other matters in Chicago. Mr. Crocker when the editor met him last still retained many rarities in single stamps that made a bewilderingly rich display. Mr. Crocker's book on the Hawaiian numerals was a labor of love in the creation of which he took an admitted pride. It is sad that this descendant of Charles Crocker, one of the Southern Pacific Railroad builders, was not spared for many more years; Mr. Crocker was born in 1860, at Sacramento, we are told.

Keep An Eye Open—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who kept a record of the number of stamps on his album's pages? Has he folded his tent and silently vamoosed in company with the o. f. c. who pasted a treasured newspaper clipping about the astounding collection of the "Count Ferrari, son of the Duchess of Galleria" in his stamp book? Then, where is the old-fashioned dealer who keeps all the cut round envelope stamps in the conviction that some day there will be a demand for them? Is he basking in the smiles of the o. f. d. who sells the perforated hinges of execrated memory?

Discoveries—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says: "Add to the philatelic wonders of the world: A philatelic editor that has a stamp collection: A collector who never has dreamed of making a find: A first number of a stamp paper not containing the article 'How to Collect': A collector who is satisfied with the catalogue."

Now, Now—Our political department. A peppery correspondent writes: "Why do you ignore Wilson? Don't you know that Hugh C. Barr, editor of La Hacienda, is a Princeton graduate? He is a sample of the excellent philatelic material turned out at Old Nassau. Rah, Rah, Rah, Tiger!" Nurse, see the aurora borealis.

So He Thinks—Just before Bunn, the Baker of Baraboo, was relegated to the cannery by B. L. T. in his column in the Chicago Tribune, the following beautiful lines appeared:

"Bunn the Baker doth remind us
We, too, may be shining lamps,
And departing leave behind us
Other heads for postage stamps."

It Must Be—In reference to the impression, "Porto-Controll-System, Fa. Custos, Duisburg," with "5" in center, that was mentioned as appearing on a German cover, in addition to the stamp with the regular postmark, Mr. J. Saulnier, Fordham, New York City, writes: "The stamp means that the Imperial Post makes a statistical count and the value '5' is the same as on the affixed stamp. The reading is: 'Porto-Controll-System-Fa. Custos (name of officer) Duisburg (Place where the controlling office is located)'."

Sorry Now—A man in Illinois has been arrested on the charge of having pieced together the unobliterated parts of used postage stamps and of having employed the apparently complete uncanceled stamps for postage. Philatelists know that it would not always be an easy task to match parts of two different stamps of the same denomination but probably the eye of the outsider is not trained so nicely in color discrimination as that of the philatelist. Some years ago, the postal authorities circumvented those who were suspected with good reason of snipping off the obliterated parts of stamps when the ink was near the edge by interdicting the use of stamps with any material parts missing.

Truth at the Bottom—The news of the great find at Philadelphia comes in from different sources but one may not make a definite statement until particulars are fully authenticated. At least it is certain that a great uncovering of the stamps of the early issues including a host of 5 and 10-cent, 1847 and St. Louis provisionals has been uncovered. One of our informants says that the find was of the correspondence addressed to Hon. Cave Johnson and if such is the case, several missing links will have to be supplied to account for the discovery of the philatelic treasure. Mr. Johnson was a distinguished Tennessee statesman who was appointed postmaster-general on March 5th, 1845 and served until March 4th, 1849, when Zachary Taylor succeeded to the presidency.

Louder, Please—Says a writer in the Hobbyist of Winnipeg: "Another U. S. commemorative is talked of for 1913—to mark the 100th anniversary of a minor naval victory." O, very well—but really was it not only some sort of regatta in which a boat or two was wind-tossed? Commodore Perry has not had to wait a hundred years for grateful recognition on our postage stamps; vide our first and subsequent ninety cent stamps. It must be admitted that as such occasions go, the Perry centennial next year affords about as good an excuse for stamp commemoration as any historical event could and from the popular viewpoint, an issue of the kind would be very acceptable, it is safe to say.

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 75c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.50 for three years' renewal (or two years' renewal and one new yearly subscription) and we shall send you the book post free.

A GREAT FIND.

For a couple months Nassau street, as well as Broadway, has been agog over the wonderful find of old St. Louis, New York, and 5c and 10c 1847 issues. From what we can gather the firm of Townsend & Whelin, of Philadelphia, sold a lot of old paper to a junk firm, who realized that they had a good thing. The correspondence of long ago was addressed to Charnley & Whelin, the predecessors of the present firm.

All the stamps are on the original covers and among the lot are some very wonderful things. We have only seen a few of the St. Louis stamps which are mostly of the 10c denomination. Of these there were some forty or fifty, while of the 5c there were only about half a dozen. However, lo and behold, there are said to have been more twenty cent stamps than there were fives! The lot includes one cover with two 20c and a 5c making a 45c rate for a heavier letter to an Eastern city.—Phil. Gazette.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH ENGLAND

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

By WASHINGTON GRANT.

CHAPTER I.—DECISION.

CHAPTER II.—Stock Books.

Having decided in his own mind that he is competent to run a stamp business on at least a small scale our would-be dealer is now ready to start operations. To paraphrase a famous bit of advice, the way to begin stamp dealing is to begin.

Probably most young dealers start gradually by selling or trading their own duplicates. This is the best start because a natural one and after being thus started, one gets into the swing of the business in a small way without running risks or making any costly mistakes. One's stock of duplicates, however, unless it is an unusually large one, will not last very long and the next step is to buy outside and so secure additional supplies of stock. A later chapter will be devoted particularly to buying, so we will pass over methods of purchasing for the present.

It may be noted here, however, that a great many collectors who become dealers make the mistake of selling their own collections. While it is difficult for a dealer to keep up a personal collection as well as to engage daily in buying and selling stamps, yet some of the most successful large dealers of the past have had private collections of their own which they have prized very highly and in the formation of which they gained considerable valuable philatelic knowledge. The dealer who gives up collecting too soon misses a large philatelic education which would otherwise be extremely valuable to him in his business. Of course, there are two sides to this question and the temptation to fill a customer's order by taking specimens out of the private collection is always present, but the dealer who resists this temptation and continues to build up his private collection as his stamp business increases will find that he accumulates not only very valuable reference material but also a substantial financial nestegg which may prove a matter for congratulation in future years.

The first question which the young collector must meet is that of caring properly for his stock. In the old days stamps were kept almost wholly in envelopes of various sizes arranged in boxes and drawers. Nowadays the stock book with paper pockets has largely displaced the old envelopes with most dealers. These stock books are usually made of manila paper with narrow strips pasted across the pages horizontally so as to form pockets into which the stamps are slipped. The upper part of the stamps projects from the pockets so that any desired variety may be quickly found. The stamps should, of course, be arranged alphabetically by countries and follow the standard catalogue. Most stock books have removable binders so that new leaves can be inserted at any place, so the young dealer needs only to arrange the stock that he actually has on hand, allowing a reasonable amount of space for additions. Then, as his stock grows, he can buy more stock books and interleave new pages to take up the growth.

Another kind of stock book is made with transparent paper pockets so that the whole of each stamp may be readily seen. This kind of stock-book does not hold the stamps so tightly as do the manila pockets and if stamps are crowded they are likely to slide around more or less. These books with transparent pockets are, however, extremely desirable for rare stamps, or for stock where it is not desired to crowd the stamps as they allow the whole of each stamp to be seen and the copies kept in them thus require less handling.

A variation of the stock book idea is in the approval cards which are simply cards made with pockets and used as the name indicates to send out stamps "on approval." They are also handy in keeping and arranging stamps in one's own stock. Loose leaves from old stock books are also convenient for the same operation and it is not a bad idea to buy one or two old stock books, if opportunity offers to secure them cheap, in order to make this use of the leaves.

Envelopes for keeping the bulkier lots of stamps cannot be wholly discarded, nor in fact, should they be. It is foolish to stuff out stock books with large quantities of common stamps as one so frequently sees, even in the safes of experienced dealers. The surplus of any common stamp or, in fact, of any stamp over what business requires should be removed to an envelope, the outside marked with the country, catalogue number, date and a brief description, and filed in a box or drawer.

Order is said to be Heaven's first law and it should also be the first law of the stamp dealer, but in too many instances it is a law which seems to be enforced only in the dull season when there is little else to do and the dealer has time to arrange his stock. Many a stamp man wastes as much time in a month in trying to pick out "Want Lists" from an accumulation of odds and ends in the rush season as would enable him to put his entire stock in order if his work was done systematically.

There is such a thing, however, as overdoing the matter of system. There are some stamps which are seldom if ever sold singly and to sort these all out and put them in envelopes properly classified is a waste of time for a small dealer. The mixtures sold at 25c a thousand are excellent for the beginner to buy as mixtures and pick out stamps for his collection, but the common continentals which make them up are not worth sorting out into envelopes and simply take up room in the new dealer's books. Such material had better be left in mixtures and sold in mixed packets and the time devoted to more profitable work.

If you intend to do a local business you should have "counter sales books." The best sales book is a standard printed stamp album using as high grade a one as you can afford for the use your business is likely to require, although a cheap album will do at the start. If you buy a collection, it is a very good idea to price the stamps and use this as a sales-book, refilling the pages from your stock as fast as the stamps are sold.

If you cater to the boy trade as you probably will, it is well to have a separate book of one cent stamps and another of two cent stamps mounting several copies of a kind if you have them. This saves the wear of the specimens as well as the book and it is just the thing for your young customers who only buy cheap stamps. All of your sales-books should be marked by catalogue if you intend to give a straight discount or at net prices if you intend to sell that way. Some dealers have two sets of sales-books, one for the stamps that can be sold at 50% discount and another for the higher grade stamps on which the discount from catalogue varies, so that each specimen has to be marked at a net figure. If you give a straight discount from catalogue, you will be, of course, above the reprehensible trick of marking your stamps up above the catalogue figures. This trick will deceive your customers only a short time and is absolutely contrary to an axiom which absolutely holds and which is, that honesty is not only the best policy, but the only policy to be pursued if you wish to succeed in the stamp business.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

Will Be Issued Saturday, November 30, 1912

READ WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY OF US AND HAVE COPY IN NOVEMBER 23

"Several times during the summer I placed small ads in your Trade Column, and I was greatly surprised at the results, especially since it was during the off season. At the same time I was carrying a ¼ page ad in a leading monthly and various amounts in other journals. Not one of these ads, not even in the busy season, brought me such results as my small ads in your paper."—Maxwell Krause.

C. H. Nammack writes as follows:—"I deem it but proper that I should write you that my advs. during the past year have brought a large number of replies and many excellent customers. Moreover, these customers have been responsible to the utmost degree and it is a pleasure to transact business with the readers of your paper."

H. N. Haas, user of Trade space, writes:—"Your paper is the paper to bring results. Its the best medium I ever used."

H. Leonard, Jacksonville, Fla., writes us:—"Although you hid my Barbados advertisement away down on the sixth page of the Sept. 14 issue, I have already received more orders than I can fill From my St. Lucia advertisement I received twenty-one orders. The WEEKLY looks good."

We quote from a letter from Sooner Stamp Co.:

"Enclosed find copy for our advertisement in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY We shall use space weekly until further notice. Our experience last season with several periodicals convinced us that MEKEEL'S is the best."

In the same mail we received the following from the manager of Herbert H. A. Fox & Co., Oswego, N. Y.:—"We received replies from our first advertisement even before our copy of the WEEKLY had reached our office."

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by Henry A. Kidder.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

United States.—The present is a very important time, says the Philatelic Gazette, both for collectors of cut square and entire envelopes, to keep up with the new issues. Certainly it needs not the gift of prophecy to predict that among the new envelopes there will be a certain number that are sure to be scarce. We need only recall the fact that there are five dies of the 2c carmine in use, of which Die A is the most common. Dies A2 and C are also extensively used, while the latest die, called Die E, but not yet listed by Scott, is gradually appearing. So far, Die E has been found, however, only on sizes 5 and 13. Die D, formerly called erroneously the "Dayton" die, easily distinguished by the wide, round "S"s in "Sates," has only been seen on the wrapper. Die B, 2c carmine, was entirely discontinued not later than November, 1907. The open end envelopes have likewise been discontinued.

Next we have the three new watermarks used by the paper concerns which supply the contractors. The watermark used by the Aetna Mills has a dash between the two S's to distinguish their paper from the stock manufactured by the American Writing Paper Co. This latter watermark has the letter "E" with the second horizontal stroke nearer the top stroke, while in the Aetna watermark, the second horizontal stroke is placed in the centre of the down stroke. There are also differences in the size and shape of the "S," the American paper having large extended letters, while the Aetna paper has the letters contracted. The paper used by the Aetna Mills,—thus far only white, blue and amber papers have been seen,—is heavier and grayish. Again, the new issue has introduced a new shape of knife for sizes 5, 11 and 13.

The Philatelic Gazette reports having seen the four approval designs for the Panama Exposition stamps. The 2c stamp has been somewhat changed since the first drawings were submitted. It was difficult to get a satisfactory picture of the Gatun Locks, so Director Ralph finally made a trip over to the War Department to inspect the model there on exhibition. Arrangements were at once made to have the water turned on. Models of merchant vessels were placed in each lock and then a photograph was taken. This has given a very satisfactory view, and it will take the place of those sent up from Panama. The principal distinction is the long dam which divides the two locks. This did not show at all in the first design. The 2c drawing received the approval of the Postmaster General on August 27, while the 10c was approved August 22. The latter depicts the discovery of San Francisco Bay. It shows a large party arriving on the coast, with some of the figures in the picture reclining on the hillside. The Sunset Monthly supplied the Bureau with a splendid photograph of this painting by Matthews, which is said to be somewhere in San Francisco. The same picture was recently published by that magazine. All efforts to find a portrait of Cabrillo proved futile, otherwise his effigy would have adorned the 10c value. The size of the stamps will be the same as the Jamestown and Alaska-Yukon issues. The frames will be the same in all four values, showing at one side a palm leaf and at the other an olive branch. The series is expected to be ready for distribution to the various postoffices beginning January 1, 1913. The denominations and quantities are as follows: 1c, 80,000,000; 2c, 150,000,000; 5c, 8,000,000; 10c, 5,000,000.

I beg to announce the purchase of the very important

Collection of CAYMAN ISLANDS

formed by Leon Adutt, Esq., President of the Thanet Philatelic Society &c, &c.,

Such interest has always been taken in this popular little country that I am very pleased to have been able to acquire the Collection which is well known as being the finest that has ever been got together.

A study of the stamps of this Island will well repay the Collector, indeed it is very surprising how very small most of the numbers are, especially in the case of the Provisionals. Of these there are so few that it must be apparent to the most casual observer that there is nothing like a sufficiency for the Collecting world, even for the specialist in West Indies, let alone the general Collector, and looking to this fact it is obvious that there must be a very large increase in value in the future.

This therefore is the last opportunity that most Collectors will have of completing their wants at reasonable figures.

It is impossible within the limits of an advertisement to mention more than a few items in this magnificent Collection. Among the Provisionals however the following are particularly noticeable:

½d on 5sh double pane of 120 stamps showing error unsurcharged stamp with normal.
½d on 5sh double surcharge.
½d on 5sh inverted surcharge.
½d on 5sh strip of three, middle stamp without surcharge.
Etc.

1d on 5sh double pane of 120 stamps
1d on 5sh double surcharge.
1d on 5sh double surcharge used.
Etc.

2½d on 4d, block of 12 stamps.
2½d on 4d inverted.
Etc.
1d on 4d inverted.
1d on 4d inverted, used.
Etc.

BERMUDA.—Mr. Schachne has shown us a new card with the "Dry Dock" stamp. The headlines, excepting the third, are like the former 1d, but changed in length. The third now has "Post Card" at left of arms and "Carte Postale" at right.

Post Card.

BOSNIA.—Beyond the item printed in No. 1131, we had no advance information regarding the new set for Bosnia which has just been sent us by W. T. Wilson. Though the last foreign mail brings papers containing advertisements offering the new stamps, no formal chronicle is yet at hand. The stamps are large, square in shape, and in design resemble very much the 5k value of the 1906 set. There are three main designs, the krone values being larger than the heller stamps. The latter are 22x24 mm. and the krone values 26x24 mm. Two recent portraits of the Emperor Francis Joseph appear, the 1h to 30h inclusive and the 1k and 2k values showing the Emperor nearly full face, though turned slightly to the left, while the higher heller values from 35h to 72h and the 3k and 5k show a profile view looking to the left. Both portraits are very finely engraved and beautifully printed, the workmanship being of the same high character as has distinguished recent issues of Bosnia. The inscriptions read "K. U. K. Militar—Post" at the top and "Bosnien—Hercegovina" at the bottom. The different spelling of the last word in the double name of the country is noticeable, as the 1906 set had the older spelling "Herzegowina." The set is also notable on account of including the 3k value for the first time in the postal history of the country. The only differences in the various values is the changed ornaments in the side panels, the same scheme being carried out as in the 1906 set, though with different ornaments. The figures of value are placed near the bottom corners in small colorless squares for the hellers and in larger colored oblong spaces for the krone values, the latter having "K" after the figures, while the former have the figures alone. The set is a very handsome one, though lacking in the picturesque quality which distinguished the former issue. The stamps are perforated 12½ like the Jubilee issue of 1910. The new issue was placed on sale in Bosnia, October 4.

CHINA.—Homer H. Wong, Chief of the Postal Department of the Ministry of Communications, has received instructions to issue three series of stamps for general use. Two will be commemorative issues, limited in number, and one will be the ordinary issue for future use. One set, bearing the effigy of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, is to commemorate the great struggle for freedom which yielded the revolutionary Government at Nanking, and the other set will be in commemoration of the effective foundation of the Republic under the President whose powerful face will appear on the stamps. The national device has been selected for the set for ordinary use.

INDIA.—The Philatelic Journal of India says that the dies for the Georgian stamps of India are being recut. The Government of India has objected to the head die, as it throws a queer high light on His Majesty's countenance, especially about the nose and mouth. The new head die will remedy this defect, and also improve the appearance of the elephant in the chain around the King's neck. To prevent a scarcity in stamps of any particular denomination, the supplies already under order are being struck off from the existing plates. But there is to be one important exception. It is thought that the present 2½a Georgian stamp is a poor looking affair and it has been decided to introduce the new 2½a label at once.

Sir Charles Stewart Wilson, Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs, states that a certain number of the higher values of the last issue of the long telegraph stamps, Edwardian type, were overprinted "On H. M. S.", the intention being to use them on official or service telegrams, but it is doubtful if any were actually used as the stock was burnt.

The London Philatelist chronicles two new values in the Georgian postage set, 4a and 25r, the latter being bicolored. Both have been overprinted "Service" for official use.

JAPAN.—Mr. Schachne shows us a letter sheet which is really a letter card with three times the space for correspondence. The size folded is 145x82 mm., unfolded 327 mm., not including the flap which adds 20 mm. more. There are flaps at each side 10 mm. wide on the upper quarter, all three gummed.

The only imprint is a round stamp at upper left and a single, separated, horizontal line at bottom with five characters in each part. The stamp has "3 SEN 3" in lower part and other Japanese inscriptions above and at sides. The card is upright rectangular.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

MISCELLANEOUS EXPLANATIONS.

A sheet of stamps is the term applied to a piece of paper on which an impression has been printed from a stamp plate and which has been gummed and perforated ready for sale to the public. There are really two sorts of sheets—"printer's" sheets and "post-office" sheets—which often differ very materially in size. Take the current 2c United States stamp as an example. The plates from which these are printed contain 400 impressions so that there are 400 stamps on the sheet as originally printed. These large printer's sheets are cut into four sheets before being distributed to postmasters so that the post-office sheets—the ones familiar to the public—contain only 100 stamps. The only exception is in the case of the imperforate stamps which are sold in the full size printer's sheets of 400. Speaking generally, however, when a sheet is referred to in philatelic literature it means a post-office sheet and these vary considerably in size. The number of stamps on a sheet depends as a rule on the currency of the country issuing them. In countries where decimal currency obtains the sheets are generally composed of a hundred stamps or some multiple of a hundred. The current ½d and 1d stamps of Great Britain are in sheets of 240, thus having a value of 10s and 20s respectively—equal to the two gold coins of the British Islands. United States stamps, on the other hand, are in sheets of 100 so that a sheet of any value totals an even number of dollars or dollars and a half

The size of a stamp often has direct bearing on the number contained in a sheet. The larger the stamp the fewer in the sheet is the usual rule though the actual printing area may be equal to that of a sheet containing two or three times as many stamps.

Again the method of production has frequently been an important factor in determining the number of stamps in a sheet. The embossed stamps of Gambia were printed in small sheets of fifteen not because fifteen was a convenient number but because of the difficulty of embossing a larger number of specimens at one operation. Where stamps were engraved by hand, as the early Mauritius, New South Wales, etc., the difficulty of reproducing the same design even tolerably alike on several impressions led to small plates being used. Then in the case of some locally produced stamps the size of the printing press available has had to be taken into consideration in deciding on the number of stamps in a sheet and in the case of type-set stamps the number of impressions has had to be limited to fit in with the amount of type available! We thus find sheets of stamps of all shapes and sizes ranging from the small sheets of ten for some issues of Labuan (2 rows of 5): 12 (6 rows of 2) for the 1882 issue of British Guiana; 30 (3 rows of 10) for some of the old stamps of St. Vincent; 50 (5 rows of 10) for the dollar stamps of North Borneo; up to the large sheets of 240 for the British stamps already mentioned.

In printing the larger sheets of stamps the impressions are arranged in two or more blocks on the plate and these sections are, in the printed stamps, referred to as panes. For instance many of the current stamps for certain British colonies are issued in sheets of 240 specimens but these sheets are divided into four panes of 60 stamps each. A narrow strip of margin separates the panes vertically and a wider strip horizontally.

Around each pane (or the block of stamps if the sheet is not divided into panes) of most of the British and British Colonial stamps printed by De La Rue & Co. since 1887 what is known as a Jubilee line is shown. This is a line in the same color of the stamp—or in the color of one or both sections of the design if the stamps happen to be bicolored—which is placed about one-eighth of an inch from the outside margin of the outer stamps, so as to prevent undue pressure occurring on the edges of the plates. At first the lines were continuous but for the last eight years or so the lines have been cut into lengths corresponding with the height of the stamps on the side margins, and with the width of the labels on the upper and lower margins. They are known as Jubilee lines from the fact that they were first used in 1887—the Jubilee year of the reign of Queen Victoria.

Reference to Marginal plate numbers or inscriptions is frequently made in stamp articles nowadays. The meaning of these expressions is obvious for, of course, they simply relate to anything engraved on the margin of a plate and thus printed at the same time and in the same color as the stamps. Any sheet of United States stamps will serve as an example, for the number of the plate is engraved, the imprint of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is shown, and there are generally initials of the plate-men who have had something or other to do with that particular plate. Marginal varieties are chiefly of interest to the specialist and their study alone is an interesting occupation.

SHORT REPLIES.

E. C. D. (New York).—The difference between the 1908-9 and 1910 issues of the United States lies in the watermark. In the earlier issue the letters "U. S. P. S" are double lined while in the 1910 set they are single-lined. The 10c and 50c with Franklin's head you cannot find in the catalogue belong to the 1912 issue which appeared after Scott's catalogue was printed. The 1c with Franklin's head belongs to the 1908-9 or 1910 issue according to its watermark. Varieties without watermark are from the edges of the sheets.

A. E. S. (Loomis, N. Y.).—Mr. Luff's work on the Stamps of the United States appears in Volumes X to XIII of the American Journal of Philately.

BRITISH STAMP EXHIBITION.

W. T. Wilson favors us with a copy of the official catalog of the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition held at Royal Horticultural Hall, London, Oct. 14 to 19. It is a magnificent production, one of the finest of its kind ever issued. The cover is adorned with an illustration of the Exhibition stamp printed in brown and blue. The catalog runs to 84 pages, a goodly amount of advertising having been obtained. The description of the various entries make the book a valuable reference list and the Society may well feel proud of its labors, in catalog production.

The wrapper in which the catalog was mailed shows the special cancellation to which reference has already been made. In a circular band are the words "Stamp Exhibition Jubilee International", while in horizontal lines within the second circle is the following:—"1912—Royal—Horticultural—Hall S. W.—5:30 P. M.—Oct. 14—12."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

U. S. ENVELOPES — PAPERS NOW IN USE.

There has been an enormous increase in the use of stamped envelopes in this country during the past few years, particularly in what are officially termed "Special Request" envelopes. These have the name and address of the sender and a request to return the letter in a given number of days in case of non-delivery in the upper left corner. No charge is made for printing this, but orders must be for not less than 500 of one kind at a time.

On account of the enormous quantity of paper now required the contractors have found it advisable to purchase stock from several firms so that at the present time no less than five different mills are forwarding large supplies of paper to Dayton, Ohio, to be manufactured into envelopes.

The American Writing Paper Company is a large concern, controlling numerous mills, mostly in New England. No less than three of its branches now supply envelope paper and all bear the same watermark "U S S E 1911." These are Harding Paper Company, of Franklin, Ohio; the Geo. R. Dickinson Paper Company and the Parsons Paper Company, both of Holyoke, Mass. The first named has been supplying paper since the beginning of the 1907 contract.

The T. A. Sord Paper Company, Middletown, Ohio, is another of the concerns, but as far as could be learned the only watermark they have used until now is the old "U S P O D 1907." But this does not seem to be correct and it is the writer's opinion that the paper with the same watermark changed to 1911 is now being supplied by this concern.

On March 21 of this year the Department authorized the contractors to make a deal with the Aetna Mills, of Dayton, Ohio, for supplies of paper and on May 27 the manufacturers began to use the new product. For practical reason the contractors desired to have some distinguishing mark and petitioned the Department to authorize the insertion of a dash between the U S and S E in the watermark. No objection arose and permission was granted. Thus we are called upon to look out for a new watermark, which so far seems to have escaped the vigilant eyes of collectors, as we have only seen it on size 5 white, die C, ourselves.

Instead of two 1911 watermarks we are now to have three and collectors will be kept busy for a while yet. It is certain that in view of the four or five different 2c dies now in use there will be many future varieties in the current series. Many will unquestionably be quite valuable, consequently efforts bestowed upon a collection of present envelopes will be sure to bear good results.

Two or three firms, including our own, have endeavored for a number of years to secure a small supply of every envelope which has been noted as new, but this has been exceedingly difficult. These are mostly the "Special Request" kind, which means that supplies cannot be bought at a postoffice. When a used copy is seen some diplomatic step is resorted to which promises the best result. Usually any demand exceeding a package of 25 is apt to result in total failure, frequently, therefore, the entire supply obtained is limited to a few copies. More often requests are refused and a large percentage of those complied with results in disappointment, as the obliging user of the desired variety will inform you that he has just obtained a new supply and takes great pleasure in sending you something that you cannot use at all, except for postage as the new lot is of course not the knife, die or watermark desired. Considering the large amount of detail work and correspondence involved in acquiring new varieties it can certainly not be considered excessive when 10c each is asked for such varieties.

The U S S E 1911 watermark was used by the contractors without the knowledge or sanction of the postal authorities, who immediately raised a protest. Later the official authority was given after the reasons had been stated why it was desirable to distinguish the product of the different paper manufacturers.

Not all watermarks will be found on all sizes of papers. This is not to be expected. Neither will all dies come on all knives and sizes. In classifying the 1911 envelopes the most practical classification will be the listing primarily by watermarks, namely U S P O D 1911 (T. A. Sord Paper Co.), U S S E 1911 (American Writing Paper Co.), and U S—S E 1911 (Aetna Mills). Then make further divisions according to dies and papers, and later sizes and knives (or shapes of envelopes).—Philatelic Gazette.

GIBBONS' 20th CENTURY CHECK LIST.

The firm of Stanley Gibbons Inc. feels very proud of its Twentieth Century Check List and well it may. It is the most thoroughly exhaustive list of British Colonials of the twentieth century, both as regards description and prides, that has ever been produced. It prices these stamps both used and unused and the quotations, though at wide variance with both Gibbons' and Scott's catalogs, are based on what this firm believes to be the present-day market value of King's head stamps.

We are advised that the larger dealers in the United States are ordering this check list for their own use with their own imprint, so that there is every indication that the list will be an important factor so far as the prices of twentieth century stamps in America are concerned.

The page advertisement of Stanley Gibbons cannot but attract the attention of our readers, and we expect that a large volume of business with our subscribers will be the natural outcome.

SCOTT'S CATALOG FOR 1913.

You cannot afford to collect stamps without Scott's catalog. It is the American standard and if you will remit 75c to this office we shall send you a cloth bound copy.

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

By WASHINGTON GRANT.

CHAPTER III.—Packets and Sets.

You will also doubtless wish to sell packets and sets. Every little while some new dealer attempts to make a success by dealing only in packets and after a short display of fire works usually ends in a damp fizzle. The reason for this is that collectors start in by buying packets but as soon as they get to the point where they find they are getting too many duplicates, they switch to purchasing sets or single stamps. The dealer who sells only packets thus is constantly losing customers and has to hustle all the time to obtain new ones so that he is fighting a constantly up-hill contest. Encourage your customers who are beginners to buy packets at first, but do not try to fill them up with packets after their collections have reached the point where this method of purchasing is not profitable. Guard your customers' interests in this as in any other matters and you will find they will stay by you.

Your list of packets therefore should be only a limited one and confined to a few mixtures, several variety packets giving as many stamps as possible for the money and a few special packets to sell any special line of stamps of which you have a surplus. Do not, however, use your packets to get rid of damaged stamps, particularly when you include the damaged stamps to make up a certain set catalogue value. This is not fair business and damaged stamps (which have their value) are much better sold for what they are, singly or in special packets advertised to contain damaged stamps only.

Sets may in time be made up from your own stock but at first you will probably buy them as such at wholesale. It is well at first not to be ambitious to carry a long line of sets. Keep a very few at first, (if, in fact, you need any at all,) and do not include any sets in a printed list unless you have enough in stock to fill orders. It is foolish to list sets and then expect to get them after you receive your orders. Such a course would disgust your customers with the delay and cause them to cease trading with you. Promptness in filling orders is one of the great secrets of success, particularly on the class of goods where the customer sends his money in advance.

CHAPTER IV.—Approval Selections.

Unless you are in a large city and intend to do a strictly local trade, a large portion of your business will probably be transacted by mail. Most of the mail stamp trade is done by means of approval selections, as every collector knows. Stamps to send out on approval may be arranged in either approval books or on approval sheets. Books are better for the high grade stamps as they protect them, and are easier to handle.

It is a peculiar fact, however, that the young collectors in this country much prefer approval sheets to approval books and many dealers who have tried to popularize approval books of cheap stamps among beginners have had very little success. There seems to be something about a big approval sheet of cheap stamps which attracts a small boy and he does not care for the approval book with small pages and more limited display. A dealer must therefore, arrange his wares to attract his prospective customer.

Both books and sheets should be neatly mounted and clean. A torn, rumpled and dirty selection not only disgusts the customer, but encourages carelessness in handling the stamps. In making up approval books, the stamps should not only be properly priced by catalogue, but the number of each specimen should be written in the corresponding space. These may seem a good deal of extra trouble at first but it will be found a great convenience whenever the stamps have to be transferred and it also helps to prevent substitutions and avoids unpleasant disputes with customers. It is not always possible to number the cheap stamps on approval sheets, but these sheets should so far as possible be made up several at a time, all alike, so that substituting can be easily detected. Some firms have a set of envelopes for each approval sheet, the third envelope, for instance, containing copies of the stamp which goes on the third space of the sheet and the number and catalogue value being written on the outside of the envelope. Substitutions can thus be very easily detected, particularly if a sample sheet is kept for comparison.

A variation of this method is used by some of the large firms in the shape of pasteboard trays containing small boxes arranged to correspond with the plan of each approval sheet. This is too expensive a method for the small dealer but some dealers have used the wooden type cases made for printers with good results.

Good hinges are essential in making up approval selections. The transparent peelable hinges should not be used for cheap selections as they do not stand the rough usage which small boys give them on the playground or in the school yard, and the stamps drop off. Good ordinary hinges are best for this use.

Peelable hinges should always be used for higher grade stamps, particularly for unused specimens. Each new lot of hinges should be carefully tested before being used. Stamp hinges are something which some of the best manufacturers have difficulty with. Where the materials are supposed to be identical it often happens that an inexplicable variation of the paper or gum will turn a supposedly peelable hinge into a gummed atrocity that sticketh tighter than a brother who wants to borrow money.

GIBBONS' 20th CENTURY CHECK LIST.

The firm of Stanley Gibbons Inc. feels very proud of its Twentieth Century Check List and well it may. It is the most thoroughly exhaustive list of British Colonials of the twentieth century, both as regards description and prices, that has ever been produced. It prices these stamps both used and unused and the quotations, though at wide variance with both Gibbons' and Scott's catalogs, are based on what this firm believes to be the present-day market value of King's head stamps.

We are advised that the larger dealers in the United States are ordering this check list for their own use with their own imprint, so that there is every indication that the list will be an important factor so far as the prices of twentieth century stamps in America are concerned.

The page advertisement of Stanley Gibbons cannot but attract the attention of our readers, and we expect that a large volume of business with our subscribers will be the natural outcome.

WEST INDIES FEDERATION.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Federation of the British West Indian colonies is probably to be brought before the British government for approval very shortly.

The proposed federation has been much discussed since the colonial office granted permission for the trade agreement between Canada and the West Indian colonies. C. Gideon Murray, administrator of St. Vincent, lately prepared a scheme for the federation, but this proved unacceptable to the West Indies because it excluded from the plan Jamaica, the Bahamas and British Honduras.

It is claimed that federation would greatly reduce the cost of administration, which is now disproportionately high; that it would lead to the establishment of a common treasury, thereby enhancing the credit of the colonies; that it would result in the abolition of the present customs duties which the islands have raised against each other, and that it would gradually establish uniform laws in place of the present tangled skein of imperial laws and orders in council.

DEATH OF A. L. SEAGER.

We are compelled to announce the sad news contained in the above headline. Mr. Seager who had long been a resident of San Francisco came east last spring visiting Boston en route to Newcastle, N. B., where he expected to engage in business. Matters did not turn out satisfactorily and Mr. Seager returned to Boston where he obtained employment.

In August he was taken ill and his ailment became so serious that he was taken to the Mass. General Hospital where he underwent the amputation of a leg. A second operation was necessary and all of no avail for on Friday, Nov. 1 he passed on, after several days during which, while conscious, he was aware that the end was near.

The writer had known Mr. Seager for years. His was a bright, sunny disposition and his deeds of kindness were many. His friends in San Francisco and especially the stamp collectors of that city will miss him greatly.

During his stay at the Boston Hospital, Messrs. Carpenter and Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co. did all in their power to make him comfortable, Mr. Carpenter being a frequent visitor and rendering him service of great value. The funeral occurred Tuesday, Nov. 4. Services were conducted from Jones Undertaking Rooms, Lagrange St., with officers and members of the Boston Philatelic Society present as a last tribute of respect. Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett, Mr. Carpenter and the writer attending at the grave.

We pay this tribute of love and respect to one who far from the home city was stricken down and none of kin to do him service. We remember him as one who, whatever his faults were, loved his fellow man, and we shall remember him as one who prized his philatelic treasures above all else in earthly possessions.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We are indebted to Wm. F. Mayer for a clipping describing the Mauritius plate recently referred to in our columns. Mr. Mayer also sends us a specimen of the "Ideal" stamp in enlarged post card form, printed in colors. On the face of the card is the Exhibition postmark. We are indebted to various correspondents for specimens of this card.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Dr. W. L. Babcock, Herman Boers, E. N. Tuckerman, Hugo Kuenstler, Ralph Day, David Hurwitz, A. E. Drought, F. C. DePuy (3) and Franklin S. Smith (3).

—M. Ohlman is the latest convert to the house organ and sends us his Philatelic Advertiser, a very newsy price list that he will no doubt be willing to send to any applicant free of charge.

—The Perry Collector, formerly the Vest Pocket Philatelist, now rejoices in second class rates. It quotes an advertiser as saying, "Results as good as MEKEEL'S". The compliment works all right in our direction but the name of the advertiser seems to be missing. Published by the Webb Pub. Co., Perry, O.

—And yet another, My Purpose, from Iole Dione, Grandview, Wash. It's unique and interesting. Get a sample copy.

TRAVERS CHANGES PLEA.

Arthur M. Travers, former chief clerk to the third assistant postmaster general and for several months acting as third assistant postmaster general, today (Oct. 29), withdrew a plea of not guilty to two indictments charging him with embezzlement and conspiracy in connection with the sale of stamps of the department having a large philatelic value. Mr. Travers, who was removed from the department early in 1911 and indicted April 3, 1911, entered a plea of nolo contendere.

Justice Gould, in Criminal Court No. 1, imposed a fine of $1,500, which was paid by Mr. Travers in $100 notes.

No statement was made as to the disposition of the conspiracy indictment against Joseph A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, who was charged with buying the stamps removed by the postal official. It is expected, however, that in view of the settlement of the case against Mr. Travers the charge against Mr. Steinmetz will be abandoned by the government.

The stamps taken by Mr. Travers represented, it is stated, about $30 in actual value, but as they were of a rare issue, commanded a high price among collectors of stamps. From the alleged sale of the stamps, it is said, Mr. Travers received about $1,500 and when he made the offer to submit to a fine of that sum the Attorney General and United States Attorney Wilson agreed to that disposition of the case because the government had suffered no financial loss, Mr. Travers having substituted stamps of current issue for those taken.—Washington Star.

THE COLLECTORS CLUB OF HARTFORD.

This Club was formed nearly three years ago with the object of bringing into closer relations, the stamp collecting fraternity of Hartford, Conn. and the surrounding towns.

During the first year, it met with only partial success, having several serious handicaps to contend with. But owing to the persistence of the members, the Club has since proved, not only a greater success than was anticipated from the start, but has increased its membership to nearly thirty members, all active collectors.

The Club has a very substantial surplus on hand, and this surplus is used by a committee in the purchase at auction or otherwise of collections or separate auction lots for the benefit of the members.

The stamps having been purchased, are then neatly mounted in the Club album and are marked at net prices that range on the average of about one quarter to one third of Scott's Catalog prices. This affording the members an opportunity of being able to purchase desirable stamps, that would otherwise cost them one half to nearly full catalogue.

Another advantage is the exchange department, which is extensively popular among the members at every meeting. Still another the auction sales that are held at nearly every meeting, when many stamps are sold at bargain prices. All members have the privilege of selling their stamps at auction if they desire.

Refreshments are served at frequent intervals during the season and many prominent philatelists from different cities have favored the Club with their presence and given an informal talk on stamps.

The Club meets in the rooms of the Woman's Exchange at 24 Lewis St. at 7.30 every other Monday evening and includes members from the following town: Hartford, Glastonbury, New Britain, Forestville, Bristol and Meriden. There is no initation fee, but the dues are $1.50 payable every six months in advance. Life membership to collectors and dealers outside of Connecticut for $5.00. All candidates must be at least eighteen years of age.

COMING AUCTION SALES.

UNUSED U. S. STAMPS

I have made up a number of books containing scarce unused U. S. in pairs, strips, blocks, and with imprints and plate numbers. There are a number of hard-to-get items in these books, and will please those who collect stamps in this form. Prices reasonable for quick sale.

Departments—Some of the lower priced ones in pairs, strips, blocks, rare cancellations, ribbed papers, etc.

Revenues—Some nice things in first issues, all picked copies.

Entire envelopes—An immense stock of early issues, cheap.

The Unique Stamp Club—is an ideal plan for buying, selling and exchanging stamps. There are no dues, membership fee, or preliminary cost. Unquestioned references only required. Has 'em all beat in simplicity and effectiveness. Full particulars, with copy November issue of the "Stamp Collector"—8 pages—for stamp.

Approvals—I can accommodate a number of more customers with nice stamps, U. S., Colonies, British Colonies, old German, and general lines, at net prices. Send References and state countries desired.

EDITORIAL.

The Travers Case—In the legal record of Washington, Tuesday, October 29th, Criminal Court No. 2, Mr. Justice Gould, was the entry: "United States vs. Arthur M. Travers; violating sections 225 and 19 penal code; nolle pros. Attorney, W. E. Ambrose." In legal verbiage, this is the disposition of the famous Travers case, which has been pending for nearly a year and one-half, or ever since the sensational charges were lodged against Mr. Travers a year ago, last April. We are enabled to supplement the announcement with the following particulars. The plea of not guilty to the two indictments charging Mr. Travers with embezzlement and conspiracy in the sale of postage stamps, the property of the post-office department, was withdrawn by Mr. Travers; his petition was allowed by Justice Gould who imposed a fine of fifteen hundred dollars and this amount was paid by Mr. Travers, who was charged with having realized the same sum, fifteen hundred dollars, from the sale of the stamps. Mr. Travers, it will be remembered, was chief clerk to the third assistant postmaster-general, who acted in the capacity of third assistant postmaster-general for several months; and at the time he was removed from office under charges, April 3rd, 1911, he entered a plea of nolle contendere. This plea is "sometimes accepted in cases of misdemeanor, whereby the defendant, without pleading 'guilty' submits himself to sentence by declining to contest the charge." The final adjudication of the charges against Mr. Travers has removed from the calendar a celebrated case from the philatelic view-point; and philatelists will moralize upon the circumstances that combined to make him a victim of pliability or good nature, particularly as Mr. Travers was always courteous and considerate in according all the information available to inquiring philatelists. In all probability, the charge against Mr. J. A. Steinmetz of collusion as a purchaser of the stamps will be abandoned, as it was not brought up at the time Mr. Travers was fined. It is learned that "the actual value of the stamps with which Mr. Travers was charged with abstracting from the department records was but thirty dollars," although their value to philatelists, as may be imagined from the fact that they were the experimental paper varieties on bluish paper, was many times this nominal or face value.

Parcel Post—A notice has been sent to postmasters explaining the new regulations occasioned by the adoption of the parcel post on January 1st, 1913; and one of the features to which attention is directed particularly is that ordering that the parcel post stamps must be used on all fourth class matter "and that such matter bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as 'Held for Postage'." The effect of this ruling is that ordinary postage stamps will not be recognized as paying postage on matter of the fourth class; and consequently, a source of supply of the higher values of the current stamps, among other denominations, will be removed.

A Genius—From the biography of Mr. H. L'Estrange Ewen that appeared in Ewen's Weekly Stamp News of October 19th, particulars of the life and labors of Mr. Ewen are gained. Mr. Ewen was a young man, comparatively, having been born July 6th, 1876; and the memorial amply confirms the impression that Mr. Ewen was a remarkable person. Indeed, the term brilliant is justly used as qualifying his success and as descriptive of his surpassing abilities. An inherent love for study early was manifest and "whilst still a child, having had access to a fine library, he compiled a dictionary, composed of carefully arranged vocabularies in many languages, of which each word had been traced to its ancient root stock." An absorbing interest in stamps was developed in Mr. Ewen's first school-days; and on his thirteenth birthday, he began business as a dealer in stamps under the firm name of Ewen Brothers, with a capital of thirteen pounds. The business prospered from the start, so proficient was Mr. Ewen philatelically and able in the mastery of business; and soon, Mr. Ewen became recognized as an authority on the stamps of Great Britain. In 1903, Mr. Ewen removed to Norwood, London, where Ewen's Colonial Stamp Market reached its fullest fruition and revolutionized all theories on the subject of new issues, so ardently did he believe in their possibilities. A love for languages was a valuable concomitant to Mr. Ewen's wonderful philatelic progress. So prodigious were Mr. Ewen's labors that his health broke but so strongly ran the pulse of ambition and endeavor that he did not heed nature's promptings, we infer, and after suffering heroically for several months, death granted him a release. Truly the philatelic world has lost a genius. It may be added that Mr. Ewen's business at Norwood is offered for sale.

Echo Answers—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who did not use mucilage with which to paste down his stamps because it would discolor them but employed a flour and water paste instead? Has he escaped in the confusion with the o. f. c. who carried his traders loose in his vest-pocket? Where has the old-fashioned dealer hied himself who marked his stamps with no reference to the catalogue but in accordance with his own ideas of values? Has he found the retreat of the o. f. d. who would throw in a stamp when the boy had bought a dollar's worth?

So He Says—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says that he has found an auction sale cataloguer whose descriptions satisfied both the owner of the stamps and the buyers: A sales department manager who retired customers' books in six months' time: A collector who did not think that he had found a three-cent pink, 1861, United States: A publisher who was surprised at the large number of subscribers that he received upon sending out the first number of his stamp paper.

On and Off—Our political department having accomplished the object for which it was established now is discontinued. To the intelligent and discriminating reader who has written to say that he will miss the department in question, we address words of cheer, as a Santa Claus department will replace the missing corner. We are well along in November and it behooves us to plan for the merry Yule-tide. Next week our Christmas campaign will be begun.

Picked—Parnassus Penflip: "Now that the battle of ballots is over, let us relegate politics to the lethal chamber and apply ourselves assiduously to our avocation. I invoke you, O, fair Philatelia, to scatter the perfume of philately on the multitude so that they may scent the sentiment of our smiling sprite, the stamp. If it is the wish of our new president that I serve him—as it has been intimated to me it is—I shall select the portfolio of postmaster-general. The honor bestowed is one that will be returned by my acceptance. P. S. The morning after election, I found that my new philatelic charm, the Cape triangular, had been stolen, together with my watch. Could the depths of human depravity reach a lower level?" Let's play drop-the-handkerchief.

THE NEW CHECK LIST

We beg to announce that we have produced a new edition of that very useul little article known as our Check List of Twentieth Century Colonials. Produced, as it was originally, as a help to collectors of these stamps to check off what they had, the editions became larger and larger until with the sixth or last edition the little book had attained quite some proportions. Unfortunately, the Gibbons Catalogue does not distinguish the difference between ordinary and chalk-surfaced papers as far as price is concerned and collectors are likely to be misled by quotations which in many cases apply to the ordinary paper, but there is no doubt but what a vast majority of sensible collectors are taking both surfaced and unsurfaced paper in as much as the difference in these stamps is quite as marked as many other varieties which are listed in the catalogue. Furthermore the Gibbons Catalogue already lists enamelled papers in Portuguese Colonials and it also lists chalk-surfaced papers in New South Wales.

Having stated the reason for the production of this Seventh edition of our check list, we would like for a moment to say a few words about the prices. In glancing over this list you will see that our prices in many cases are at total variance with the Gibbons Catalogue—they are also at variance with Scott's Catalogue and with anybody else's catalogue, because after having inspected all the stocks of stamps in Europe of the Twentieth Century, we are very glad to be able to state that in our opinion we have a finer stock of these stamps than any two dealers put together. Many British Colonials quoted in the Gibbons Catalogue for 1913, which has just appeared, cannot be supplied at the price and a quantity of quotations in that list are, in our humble opinion, at total variance with the market.

Therefore, for the first time we are showing our Right Royal Independence by making our own prices based on our stock, based on the cost necessary to restock and in some cases based on conditions which we perhaps know better than anybody else. We might possibly, as an example, take the three-cent Mauritius, multiple, on the surfaced paper. Here is a stamp that we have hunted everywhere for. Here is a stamp that we find missing in every collection we mount and we also find it on every want list that ever comes into this office. In Gibbons' new Catalogue for 1913 the stamp is priced at 12c. In Scott's new Catalogue they evidently see something the matter with it as they fail to price it. In the French Catalogue they put the modest price of 8c upon it, whereas in this new King's Head List you will find the stamp is priced $1.00 and we doubt if it could be secured from any dealer in America outside of ourselves. Therefore, in putting this new list in front of you, we believe it to reflect the actual market conditions in Twentieth Century Colonials, and the prices quoted are those at which we can supply the stamps if they are in stock. Many of them are not in stock, but rather than leave the collector in the dark as to their actual value, we are quoting prices that anyone remitting us for a stamp which we have not got can have the money instantly returned or the order booked and the first copy that reaches us will be sent to him at the prices therein quoted.

The Price of this Check List is Twenty-five Cents and it can be secured from

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Fred Goshart sends us a copy of the current special delivery stamp, which has the top line of the entablature, and therefore of the whole design, lacking. The cutting has been badly done, and in some cases a little of the line still shows, while in other parts of the stamp the cut extends into the engraving, the work being very irregularly done. Mr. Goshart says that he is "surprised that this has not been noticed sooner, as the variety is quite common, about one to three of the others. The entire sheet is similar to the one shown, so that it is not due to defective printing."

BELGIUM.—Lemaire's Journal chronicles another value of King Albert stamps, completing the series. According to the same paper, the 25c recently chronicled has a larger portrait of the King than the other values, but whether this will be applied to all the portrait values remains to be seen.

We have received from Mr. Schachne several new cards. The 5c and 10c cards are without change except the stamps which are those so sharply criticised in No. 1120. The telegram card has been described in No. 1121. The letter card with stamp of 1905 has the same design of the 10c of 1910 both front and back, and the new ones are identical except they have the new stamp. All perf. DD.

BOLIVIA.—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. sends us a specimen of the 5c brown stamp listed in No. 1133, but which still appears to be a scarce stamp in the mails. None of the foreign papers that we have seen have chronicled this stamp, which is a very fine specimen of stamp engraving and printing.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a new value in the King George set for this Protectorate.

GREAT BRITAIN.—W. H. Peckitt sends us some new things from London, including the King George 3d chronicled recently, and also a new 1½d stamp, which has not hitherto been noted. The design of the latter is the same as the ½d green except that the portrait is the large profile used on the new 1d stamp, the values being changed of course. The new portrait improves the design very much, and it is rather difficult to criticize it, though it is fair to say that the whole appearance of the stamp is not up to the standard of the new 1d.

A MAGNIFICENT COLLECTION OF THE STAMPS OF THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS

This is practically the finest collection of this group extant, containing as it does the pick of the well-known Bagshaw collection — the late owner has also purchased anything fine that came on the market during the last few years.

The following interesting items may be mentioned:

1867 Issue — Large mint blocks of all values with full margins including a pane of one denomination.
1879-82 — Provisionals in blocks, etc., including the 5c and 7c with error in blocks and strips.
1883 — Provisionals. Large blocks and strips showing various types and several copies of the newly discovered 4c in red on 5c blue.
1892-4 — 32c error unused and used, the latter being the only known copy extant.
1899 — 5c carmine without surcharge.

JOHOR —
A fine range of all the various surcharges, errors, etc., etc.

PAHANG —
Used and unused copies of the 8c and 10c; the bisected provisionals, used and unused, $50 on $5, etc., etc.

PERAK —
Errors with surcharge inverted, 1c with Roman ."I", etc., etc.
Service — The errors with double overprint, without stop, and with wide spacing.

SELANGOR —
A fine lot of the different surcharges, including the error on the 2c on 24c green, of which this is the only known copy.

SUNGEI UJONG — All the various overprints in blocks, etc., etc.

Lists of wants of the above group will receive every attention, and selections will be forwarded on approval.

NOVELTIES AT THE EXHIBITION.

By Fred J. Melville.

The greatest attraction at the exhibition is the model stamp factory, and the machines here are surrounded at all times by eager bands of students. The manufacture of paper has been demonstrated by the Junior Philatelic Society in London before, but the printing of stamps by the typographical process, and the printing from large intaglio plates on a practical scale, has not hitherto been demonstrated to the student of stamps. The "ideal" stamp which has been produced at the exhibition has given complete satisfaction to the critical philatelists, and to the numerous technical printing experts who have witnessed the demonstrations. They are not altogether in agreement with the Postmaster-General, who, after printing a sheet of the stamps for himself, expressed the view that the Government's new penny stamp was the better of the two.

The exhibition stamp is being printed in blue, but on Tuesday morning a large crowd of interested spectators witnessed the production of a number of sheets in the red colour of the postage stamps. One sheet in this colour was perforated and mounted in a handsome case for the acceptance of his Majesty the King; it is the only sheet that will be issued in this colour. At night another colour—dahlia lake—was used for the purpose of printing a single sheet, which was to be exclusively used for distribution to the visitors at the official banquet on Wednesday night, a banquet where the 240 guests represent precisely the number of stamps in a complete sheet of British postage stamps.

Some interesting additions have been made to the philatelic exhibits during the week. From New Zealand there are the original designs sent in for the competition held in connection with the pictorial stamp issue of 1898. The New Zealand Government has also sent a series of photographs illustrating the methods of stamp production at their stamp-printing works, and a collection of the Statutes of the Dominion relating to postage stamps.

From the Australian Commonwealth there has arrived the first perforated proof of the new map stamp, said to have been designed by the Postmaster-General of the Commonwealth. In its latest form there are some modifications. The word postage has been inserted below Australia, and the figure of value has been transferred from the northeast coast of the island continent and dropped in the Australian Bight. I understand the die has been pierced so that it may serve for the making of electrotypes for all the denominations. It is proposed to print some of the higher values in two colours; the issue of the stamps is not expected to take place before New Year's Day.—Telegraph.

OUR REBUS TRIANGLE CONTEST.

We are surprised and delighted at the manner in which our subscribers rallied to the rebus contest inaugurated in our issue of Aug. 31. It proved very successful and the result will be followed with interest. No less than 90 entries were received and the prize winners are as follows:—

First, Frank C. Clark, Eagle Point, Ore.
Second, Herman Focke, Box 242, N. Y. City.
Third, Thomas M. Riley, Eagle Point, Ore.
Fourth, J. C. Devick, Chicago, Ill.
Fifth, J. A. Wainwright, Morgantown, N. C.

These five contestants sent in complete lists and the ranking has been based upon the care taken in writing up their entries. We publish Mr. Clark's entry herewith.

No. 1, Portugal.—1880 issue, 25r grey and red lilac. Also on the same stamp surcharged and used in the colonies such as Azores, Madeira, etc. The design is to lower left corner and is repeated in the other corners.

No. 2, Hungary.—1881 to 1898 issues, and is the triangle in the upper right corner of the stamp, though the other triangles correspond with it. There is a nice distinction between this checked triangle and the one shown on the telegraph stamp of the Commercial union Scott's No. 2050, 51, and that is, that the latter has a very heavy line on every other line. First thick then thin. While the rebus has all lines of even width. Prussia No. 21 is quite similar to the Commercial telegraph also.

No. 3, Col. Rep. Antioquia.—1878, 1883, 85, 2½c blue, green and buff respectively, and is the lower left hand corner and same to the other corners just outside of the labelled circle.

No. 4, Greece.—Postage due stamps, being the upper right corner, between the Greek fret pattern and circle containing the pleasant information to "come through" with more postage.

No. 5, Italian Office in the Turkish Empire.—1874, 60c lilac, Scott's No. 506, being a copy of the much altered corner design of the Italian stamp No. 28. At any rate No. 506, surcharges "Estero" is this particular bird, that resembles a top view of a monoplane. Mr. Hunt made me hunt, catalogues and then through the collection.

The nearest illustration in the catalogue might be the Spain issue of 1867, No. 88. The same lines can be obtained as the illustration in the rebus by leaving off the left and downward strokes and the half arrow points on the upper and lower cross lines. But even then, the proportion of the side lines would not be equal to the rebus. The next similar, would be India, Jhalawar though not having the separated lines.

No. 6, Canada.—1857, 59, being the upper right corner groundwork to the ½d and 1c pink, also the former on wove paper.

No. 7, Tasmania.—1900, ½d green, Scott's, Nos. 86, 94, 101 and is the lower left hand outer corner ornament.

No. 8, Trinidad.—1883-84 issue and is the upper right corner above the name label and similar to the other corners.

No. 9, Austria.—Postage due stamps, 1893, 1900 issues and is the lower left corner ornament, and repeated in the other corners. Scott's illustration of D1 shows the double lined triangle quite clearly.

No. 10, Victoria.—1886, 87, issue of the ½d lilac and rose stamps Scott's Nos. 159, 160, 180. This nearly got my goat. It is the triangle just above the arched name label and within the border pattern on the upper right side and over the letter "A" to Victoria. Similar on the left side over the letter V.

No. 11, St. Christopher.—Being the lower left corner to the early issues and while it is more clearly shown on the stamps, still I had quite a hunt for it. I found that there are other Fleur de lis on other stamps, and noted the issues of Porto Rico, Scott's illustrations A4, A5, and Philippines A14, also Naples, Parma and the slight likeness on the Mozambique Co., 1894 issue.

No. 12, Mauritius.—1872, 10p claret, and is the upper right corner between the circle enclosing the head and the outer border and top label. Similar to other corners. Bermuda 1865, 3d looks like it but the design is not in black or colored lines. Its design being white.

No. 13, Egypt.—1888, 93 issue, Scott's, Nos. 45, 46, 3 mil brown and orange. Being the lower left triangle between the oval and border lines, and same design to other triangles.

No. 14, New Zealand.—Postage due. 1900 being the triangle at upper right corner. Same to other corners. There are a number of designs similar to this, but each has some variation from the illustration. For example, take CEYLON, 1872, 2k brown. It will be noted that the white lines running diagonally from upper left to lower right follow the slight curve of the circle line enclosing the head. New Zealand has the lines straight.

No. 15, Russia.—1884, Scott's 39, 40, 53, 54, 67, 3½ and 7r values. Being the lower left scroll in the triangle space outside of the central oval. Russia being the head country I give it first choice in preference to Finland, 1901, 10m Scott's 69.

No. 16, Costa Rica.—1892, 1 peso, Scott's No. 41 and is the triangle just above the word "correos" in the upper central part of the stamp. As the illustrations are of triangles, we can assume that the triangle may be at any angle upon the stamp, and not necessarily as the rebus shows.

No. 17, Hong Kong.—Postal Fiscal Stamp, 1874 Scott's 202 $3.00 violet and is the lower left corner, being a double triangle combination. Similar in other corners.

No. 18, United States.—That part is easy, isn't it? And it is on a fifty cent stamp. Getting along fine. Now it is on the 1902-3 issue and is on the right upper corner. It represents a leaf. Though it looks like my drawing of the Island of Cuba, when I had to draw maps in school. It must be one of the leaves that fall off about this time of the year, as it is of an orange color.

No. 5 was not illustrated in the catalog as indicated in our preliminary announcement, and in response to our invitation and explanation in the Weekly one contestant sent in a supplementary solution to this design and he is entitled to the honor of sending in a complete list.

A. Harold Kirkpatrick.

Though Mr. Kirkpatrick's list is now complete it does not measure up to the other entries. Mr. Clark's entry is a good object lesson of real merit in honor winning. We may add that had number 5 been excluded no entry would have surpassed in excellence the five named in the first paragraph with the exception of Gardner Teall's.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

MISCELLANEOUS EXLANATIONS.

A stamp collecting expression constantly met with is mint or mint condition. A stamp is said to be in mint condition when it is in precisely the same state as a specimen newly issued from the stamp manufacturers' premises. That is, it must be unused, perfectly clean and fresh-looking, have full gum and be without any defects. An unused stamp without gum, even if in the most perfect condition otherwise, cannot be properly described as mint except in the case of those stamps which were never issued with gum.

In describing a mint stamp in the most perfect condition possible from a philatelist's point of view, the words well-centred are often used. A mint stamp is, of course, not necessarily well-centred, for lots of stamps are placed on sale at the post-offices more or less off-centre as it is termed. A well-centred stamp is one in which the design is as nearly as possible equidistant from the perforations on all four sides, or with a nice margin on every side in the case of imperforate stamps. Where one or more sides of the design are cut into by the perforation or other method of separation and there are extra wide margins on other sides the stamp is said to be off centre. Perfect centering is a practical impossibility in the case of some old stamps for the impressions were arranged so closely together on the plates that there was no room for perforations. Some stamps, like those of the United States, are notoriously difficult to obtain in well-centred condition; others, like those of Great Britain, Germany and France are normally well centred. A poorly centred stamp is certainly an eyesore but the absolutely plumb centering demanded by some collectors nowadays is carrying matters to extremes. The middle course is the sanest; if a stamp looks well and the perforation does not actually cut into the design then it may be fairly described as a good and perfect specimen.

Millimetre is a familiar term in connection with all sorts of stamp measurements and one that is now universally adopted by philatelists. It is, of course, a measure in the metric system signifying the thousandth part of a metre. Perforations are gauged by the number of teeth or holes that may be counted in the space of 2 centimetres—i. e., 20 millimetres. Measurements of stamps and of surcharges are always expressed in millimetres, so that a collector will find a millimetre gauge a very useful item in his collecting equipment.

Another familiar philatelic expression is obsolete. Stamps that are no longer on sale at a post-office owing to the fact that they have been superseded by a new issue are said to be obsolete. Many obsolete stamps are available for postage long after they have ceased to be in issue, but sometimes old issues cease to have franking power, and in this event they are said to be demonetised. A demonetised stamp, therefore, is always obsolete, but an obsolete stamp is not, of necessity, demonetised.

Sometimes the letters o. g. follow the description of an unused stamp, and the uninitiated may be puzzled as to their meaning. The letters are a contraction of the term original gum, which refers to the fact that a stamp has the full gum with which it was originally supplied when issued.

Control marks are overprints of more or less meaningless devices applied to certain stamps either as an additional safeguard against forgery or to prevent stamps of similar design, but without the overprints, which have been stolen from being brought into use. The 1899 issue for Persia will serve as an example.

A term sometimes used in describing a stamp design is spandrels. These are the spaces that appear between an inner oval or circle and the rectangular frame or border outside. Thus, in the case of the embossed stamps of Gambia the spandrels are the spaces, roughly triangular in shape, occupied by the ornamental scrolls.

Another stamp-collecting expression requiring explanation is grille. This is a pattern of small embossed dots usually arranged in the shape of a square or rectangle and occasionally covering the whole of the stamp. It is found upon some of the stamps of the United States and Peru. The postal authorities had this grille (or "grid" as it is sometimes called) applied to make the cleaning of used stamps impossible. The embossing or grille effected a weakening of the substance of the paper and made it highly absorbent. Thus when the stamps were cancelled a fair amount of the postmarking ink was absorbed by the paper so that any attempt at removing the cancellation simply resulted in the destruction of the stamp.

Tête-bêche is another familiar expression and one that often puzzles the novice. When a stamp on a sheet appears upside down in relation to its neighbors it is said to be tête-bêche as regards those surrounding it. Usually such varieties are due to an error in preparing the plate either a cliché being inserted wrong way up or one of the impressions rolled on to the plate upside down. In the case of the 1883 stamps of Grenada, however, the tête-bêche arrangement of the horizontal rows was intentional each alternate row being inverted. A vertical pair of stamps from any part of the sheets of this issue is, therefore, tête-bêche. These varieties must, obviously, be shown in pairs as the stamps when separated show no peculiarities.

To all of these contestants six in number, we are sending five handbooks from our list and trust that they will prove helpful in the pursuit of our hobby.

The following contestants answered all but No. 5, the design that proved the great stumbling block in the contest:—

Allen H. Blake, M.D.
W. H. Lieber
Miss M. E. Cary
Gardner Teall
James Lewis Howe
Howard Algeo
H. S. Ackerman
Guy West Wilson
D. B. Gawthrop
T. Russell Hungerford
Roy Newell
Rev. M. Koslowski

A. B. Paine
Rev. H. H. Acker
Carl H. Miller
Erdman West
E. J. Linson
E. P. Morehouse
Harvey E. Nichols

W. S. Truesdell

The entry of Gardner Teall editor American Homes and Gardens was a very meritorious production. Mr. Teall concludes his entry:—

"I do not know of any pleasant mental exercise more delightful than that presented by working out philatelic "puzzles" of this sort. As an aid to developing memory, a keen observation and one's faculties in general few pastimes for indoors approach it."

The following solved all but two and we have inserted the numbers missing:—

Geo. O. Williams submitted his solution in verse. The entry of Frank E. Greene was an excellent production.

The following failed in three of the designs: A. Steinberg, 5, 14, 17; Silas Wetherby, 4, 5, 14; Mrs. J. A. B. Whitney, 2, 4, 5; A. A. Kranhold, 2, 4, 5; L. C. Schumacher, 2, 4, 5; F. M. Currier, 2, 5, 15; Walter E. Bellows, 4, 5, 14; Geo. M. Manherz, Jr., 4, 5, 17.

The following failed upon four:—Major Gilman, 2, 4, 5, 14; W. Lawrence, 2, 5, 14, 15; M. W. Turner, 4, 5, 10, 16; J. J. Predergast, 4, 5, 6, 18; H. Clarkson, 5, 12, 15, 16.

Incomplete answers were received from the following, all of whom had five at least incorrect:—E. B. Charman; Geo. S. Chapman; Robt. H. Purcell; Francis O. Holmes; F. N. Chevalier; John C. Morgan; Ferdinand Gottlieb; Mrs. Chas. F. Bailey; S. T. Jones; Arthur Barger; J. T. Perdomo; Frank E. Peck; Roy Boyden; Dale Russell; Clyde B. Parker; Dr. H. S. Johnson; L. J. Sneath; J. M. Overfield; Elwood Lounsbery; C. A. Clapper.

Consolation prize awards have been made Gardner Teall, Geo. O. Williams and Frank E. Greene because of the superior merit of their incomplete entries.

It is our intention to inaugurate soon another contest that should prove equally as interesting as has been the triangle rebus. So long as our subscribers enjoy these rebus contests we shall be very pleased to continue the same.

1913 EXHIBITION NOTES.

The International Philatelic Exhibition will be held in New York next year, at the new magnificent Engineer's Building, 39th Street, week of Oct. 27, 1913.

John N. Luff, Chairman of the Committee on the prospectus of the New York International Philatelic Exhibition has concluded his work. The pamphlet containing the rules, regulations, classes of exhibit, etc. will shortly be mailed.

Among the Committee of Honor who have signified their acceptances to the Secretary of the New York International Philatelic Exhibition, besides many of the leading collectors in this country, are the following prominent European philatelists: Messrs. A. Leon Adutt, E. D. Bacon, M. P. Castle, S. Chapman, Dr. A. Chiesa, The Earl of Crawford, Dr. E. Diena, Henry J. Duveen, Major E. B. Evans, Gustave Gelli, L. L. Hausburg, Thos. W. Hall, Paul Kohl, Philipp Kosack, Hugo Krotzsch, Dr. A. Kunkler, Fred J. Melville, Count G. Mailath, Capt. F. H. Napier, W. H. Peckitt, C. J. Phillips, Admiral von Raimann, Baron de Reuterskiold, Carl Willadt and R. B. Yardley.

ST. NICHOLAS STAMP DIRECTORY

In November, 1873 — nearly forty years ago — in the first number of St. Nicholas Magazine appeared the advertisement of a well-known stamp dealer. The same company is using St. Nicholas today.

This is indicative of the place we occupy among stamp dealers who aim to reach the highest class of customers. Our Department has kept its unique place among its friends because of its ability to serve only the best advertisers in the best way. It has always stood for quality.

Note the following from a well-established and reliable concern:

"Enclosed please find the amount of bill. It is a pleasure to pay St. Nicholas bills. We find the purchasing ability of the St. Nicholas readers (in our line) far better than any other medium we use, as the returns to cost has proved."

WHAT IS IT?

Angus McTavish has uncovered something undoubtedly new to the average philatelist, and we shall be compelled to call upon Parnassus Penflip to unravel the mystery. We quote from his "Current Chatter" in the P. J. of G. B.:—

"I take off my wee bonnet to Sir Herbert Melville, and Sir Frederick Johnson, they have worked well to make the great Exhibition the huge success it was. May they never lack the price of a lemon squash."

What is a lemon squash? We are enough of a farmer to know what a squash is and the lemon has been handed to us so frequently that we have become well acquainted with this fruit, but a lemon squash is a combination that we know not of. Is it a case where 'tis folly to be wise?

AWARDS AT THE EXHIBITION.

By Fred. J. Melville.

The Jubilee Exhibition undoubtedly eclipsed all previous records, both for the quality and extent of the exhibits and the number of visitors. That nearly 45,000 people visited the Royal Horticultural Hall during the week is good evidence of the continuance of stamp-collecting in popular favour. The championship in the British Empire section proved a "deadheat" between the Ceylon collection of Baron Anthony de Worms and the Great Britain stamps brought together by Mr. Sydney Loder. The judges could scarcely have decided otherwise, for both competitors had dealt with countries whose stamps present equal difficulty of acquisition and arrangement, and each had formed as complete a collection as is practicable. In the "Foreign Countries" section of the championship, Mr. A. J. Warren's magnificent and copiously annotated collection of Holland well merited the great gold medal. Dr. Achillito Chiesa, of Milan, received a gold medal for his Buenos Ayres stamps, and Mr. Victor Beaujeux a similar award for his beautifully-arranged Swiss collection.

In Class B, devoted exclusively to the stamps of Great Britain, Mr. W. Martello Gray, F. C. A., received the gold award for his collection of unused English stamps, a collection particularly strong in the stamps overprinted for postal use in Government departments, e. g., Inland Revenue, Board of Education, Royal Household, Army, Admiralty, Government Parcels (including two specimens of the 1d and one of the 1s of the parcels overprint inverted). Mr. R. M. R. Milne secured a silver-gilt medal for an interesting display of the stamps issued by the colleges of Oxford and Cambridge between 1871 and 1885, in which latter year they were suppressed at the instance of the Postmaster-General. Messrs. Mendel and J. R. M. Albrecht received a silver-gilt medal for their collaborated collection of the Mulready envelopes and wrappers, and the scarce early caricatures of the same.

There were two good displays of British Guiana in Class C, that by Senator the Hon. E. R. Ackerman being awarded a gold, and the other, belonging to Mr. H. M. Hepworth, a silver medal. Mr. O. K. Trechmann, J. P., and Mr. C. L. Bagnall received silver medals for collections of Ceylon and Papua respectively. One of the finest specialised displays in the exhibition was that of Mr. Harvey Clarke's New South Wales stamps, which collection, however, was not for competition. Mr. Henry Grey's Trinidad collection secured a gold medal and Mr. H. H. Harland received Mr. D. Field's special gold medal for a very fine collection of the stamps of St. Helena, which was one of the most studied and original pieces of work in the exhibition. In the same section Mr. A. J. Sefi received a gold medal for his collection of Kashmir. Mr. E. M. Taylor, of Altadena, California, was awarded a silver-gilt medal for a very interesting and well-worked-out collection of Tonga.

In the European section the majority of the awards were made to foreign exhibitors, many of whom were present throughout the week. Mr. Karl Gunther, of Chemnitz, received a gold award for his stamps of Saxony, and Mr. Ralph Wedmore (London), the hon. secretary of the Junior Philatelic Society well merited the silver-gilt medal in the same section for his collection of Prussian stamps. Mr. Rudolph Köhler, of Chemnitz, and Baron Erik Leijonhufvud of Bournemouth, secured gold medals for very fine displays of Roumania and Sweden respectively, and W. von Polansky, of Warsaw, was awarded a silver-gilt medal for his Russian collection. Commandant G. Aupecle's Spanish collection also received a gold medal in this class.

It is surprising that not one of the great collections of stamps in the United States was shown, despite the fact that there were many exhibitors from this country. Mr. George Brückner received a silver-gilt medal for a collection of these stamps, but the only gold medal awarded in the American class went to Captain G. S. F. Napier, of Bickley, for his collection of Brazil. In Class F, Mr. A. S. Mackenzie Low received a gold medal for Egypt, and Messrs. Harte-Lovelace and R. W. H. Row, B. Sc., silver-gilt medals for China and Siam respectively.

The keenest competition was in the class for "Single Issues Specialised," and here Mr. C. L. Pack, of Lakewood, New Jersey, and of Cleveland, Ohio, secured the Baron Leijonhufvud's great gold medal and two other gold medals for certain issues of Brazil, Uruguay, and Queensland. In the section for stamps printed from recess-plates, Mr. Pack's fine exhibit of the Rivadavia issue of Argentine was outdistanced by Mr. H. Wade, of Leeds, who showed the first issue of Holland (gold medal). Mr. W. J. Cochrane, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Mr. Pack, who each showed the Rivadavia issue of Argentine, each received a silver-gilt medal.

For general collections Mr. August Wehn, of Frankfort, and Mrs. Field, of London, received gold medals; and in the junior section the championship cup was awarded to an Eton scholar, Victor A. Cazalet (under 17 years of age) for his capital collection of the stamps of Great Britain. The Countess Apponyi and Mr. D. A. West received gold medals in the class for collectors under 21 years of age.

For exhibits composed entirely of rarities, Mr. Henry J. Crocker, of San Francisco, and Dr. A. Chiesa of Milan, received gold medals, the former for his early Hawaiian stamps, and the latter for rarities of the old Italian States. Mr. Harry L. Hayman, of London, was awarded a silver-gilt medal for a wonderful display of rare stamps, which included the 1d scarlet and 1d rose "woodblock" triangular stamps of the Cape of Good Hope, unused; a pair of the 4c British Guiana on dark blue paper, two of the 3 pfennige Saxony stamps on the original letter, the ½ Tornese (Arms type), of Naples, also on letter, the Finnish 3½ roubles, printed in error in the colour of the 7 roubles, and a score of other stamps rarely to be met with. Special gold medals were awarded to Messrs. Waterlow Brothers, Messrs. Miller and Motley, and Messrs. Grover and Co., for stamp printing, plate-making, and perforating respectively.—Telegraph.

OUR BOOSTER CLUB.

The Booster Club has been very busy of late, but the crowded condition of our columns has prevented our doing full justice to the Club. Our members are busy at work helping us reach the 7000 mark and we have good progress to report.

L. S. B. Saunders, Clinton, N. Y., sends in two new subscribers. Arthur L. Gleason, Suffield, Conn., renews for two years and notes three new subscribers to his credit. We also add to our membership for distinguished services A. A. Braley, A. P. S. 3553, and C. V. Webb.

Chas. E. Jenney writes us "The WEEKLY has become one of the strong supports of our hobby. As you are no doubt aware, I am another charter member."

A. W. Whitten, Chicago, Ill., sending in a two year renewal and a new yearly writes, "I enjoy the WEEKLY so much and have become so accustomed to it that I don't know what I would do without it. The week isn't complete without it. I am glad to have you reach the 6600 mark and to further the cause I have secured a new subscriber. I want to help you over the 7000 mark."

Our mail is filled with words of good cheer, all of which inspire us to do our very best in improving the WEEKLY from every possible standpoint. Be a booster! All it costs is a good word.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

A CHRISTMAS HAMPER.

A valued correspondent calls our attention to the advisability of stamp collectors making a practical use of the Yule-tide season. With the good cheer that is always manifested philately should play a stronger part than has been its custom. Our correspondent writes:—

"There probably isn't a reader of your paper but what is in the habit of Christmas giving to at least two or three small boys, not to mention small girls. If every one of those readers would each Christmas make a point of starting some embryo stamp collectors the result in the way of the growth of philately would be immense."

We shall enlarge upon this suggestion next week, but in the meantime call upon our enterprising dealers to work out the idea in such a form as will aid the common cause. Let the hamper be varied in contents and priced so as to fit the pocket book of the collector of moderate means as well as the one more advanced.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

From Eugene Klein, Incorporated, we have received the "Auction Review of United States Stamps for 1912-13," compiled by Carleton G. Ferris, who in an interesting foreword to the record of nearly two hundred pages, gives ample justification for the appearance of the work. The value of the compilation of this kind is unassailable and its appeal to the increasing number of students of United States stamps is direct and almost irresistible, as aside from any argument as to the validity of auction prices over catalogue quotations, the book covers ground that the catalogue does not touch. The auction prices in this record contain those on used and unused stamps, pairs, strips, blocks, covers, not to mention minor variations of provisionals, semi-officials, general issues and departmental stamps, envelopes, revenues and proofs, and Confederate locals. Simplicity is the keynote in the arrangement of contents and beginning with No. 1 in the catalogue, under United States, the compilation is carried well over the 3,000 numbers of the catalogue. The adequacy of the work is such as to make the volume indispensable to the student who pursues data on the subject of prices on United States stamps except as single stamps which are priced in the catalogue. The work is one that is comforting to have at hand and we feel that the volume is an important part of the equipment of the serious collector of the stamps of the United States or the one who is concerned about prices in reality, as auction prices have been called. Mr. Ferris' introduction is capital; and in it, he tells among other points, how condition is a determining factor in price of stamps.

The volume is tasteful mechanically and will look well on the shelves. United States Stamp Auction Review, 1912-13, compiled by Carleton G. Ferris. Price, One Dollar; postage ten cents. Published by Eugene Klein, Empire Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

"The Sanitary Fairs and Their Issues," by C. E. Severn, has been published by H. L. Lindquist, Chicago, in handsome dress. In fact, the edition is "de luxe" and limited to one hundred copies, numbered and signed. The paper is of the best and many of the illustrations are "extra" in that they are tipped in by hand; and all in all, the book of thirty pages is a typographical triumph. A collector here and there may be interested in the price of the book, one dollar. The series that is now printed in book form appeared in the Collectors' Journal, where the articles enjoyed no little favor. Of the subject matter, we forbear in modesty to speak; it is descriptive to some length and really, there is not much to be told of the stamps themselves but at least all the information available about the stamps has been incorporated in the work. Published by H. L. Lindquist, editor The Collectors' Journal, 700 E. 40th St., Chicago; Price, One Dollar.

"More Essays for United States Postage Stamps," by Edward W. Mason, is a pamphlet of fourteen pages, distributed by Percy McGraw Mann, 1708 North 18th St., Philadelphia, Pa., in which Mr. Mason makes many additions to and just a few corrections in his handbook on essays, published in 1911 by the committee on handbooks of the American Philatelic Society.

NO MORE FAMILY "JARS"

When the good wife declares that the money you spend for stamps would buy her a new hat, or a dress, or take her taxi-riding, it is time you investigated The Unique Stamp Club. The duplicates which are laying scattered around in drawers, boxes, under the bureau and on the floor represent a respectable amount of catalog value when neatly mounted, priced, and offered in exchange.

If you have a a little money to spend a membership in The Unique Stamp Club gives you a greater purchasing power with it than when stamps are bought from some dealers who must buy cheaply and sell at high prices to pay salaries rent, and dividends.

Should you want to sell stamps The Club will make the sale, and turn over the money quicker than by any other means except an out-and-out sale for cash to a dealer. The collector then pays for ready money in accepting a short price.

Look into The Unique Stamp Club. No admission fees, no dues. Gilt-edge references as to honesty the sole requirements. Membership is desired with collectors who want stamps as well as who want to dispose of them. Consignments of stamps from dealers who realize that this is the cheapest and easiest way to sell their goods, are not desired.

The Unique Stamp Club is built to benefit the Collectors and they will find conditions ideal under which they can buy, sell and exchange.

Particulars, application blanks, etc., for 2c stamp. Investigate, join the "happy family" and enjoy stamp collecting as you never did before.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 Cent, 1869.

With this chapter the writer begins the study of what has always been a source of gratification and joy to the average stamp collector—the series of 1869. Too bad it was that this issue was so short-lived, as its general artistic beauty, and the very good opportunity it provided for deep, intimate study were unusual.

It was early in the year 1868 that the postal department decided upon a change in design, and plans were made to produce postage stamps which would be most artistic. The contract for printing was awarded to the National Bank Note Co. on October 3, 1868.

Delivery of stamps had been agreed upon for February 1, 1869, but the makers were delayed, and it was not until the latter part of April, in that year that the first stamps were sold to the public. Some stamps were furnished to postmasters earlier than this time, but instructions were issued to every postmaster receiving a supply of the new stamps that none were to be sold until the supply of the stamps of the previous issue had been completely sold out. As many postoffices had large supplies of the older stamps on hand the new stamps were not in general circulation until well along into the summer months.

One thing which prevented the extensive sale of these stamps was the general dislike with which they were received by the mail-using public. The newspapers ridiculed the issue, and patrons complained of their size, the gum; and upon the whole it was a most unpopular issue.

So great was the clamor against the continued issuance and use of the 1869 stamps that early in this year the postoffice department ordered designs made for another issue to replace it. But of this more will be said later.

The 1 cent stamp was printed from plates No. 1 and 2. The official color was announced to be Roman ochre. Besides this shade there are to be found pale orange brown, orange brown, dark orange brown, and brown. Sometimes a very dark shade is met with, but the shade will lighten when peroxide of hydrogen is applied, proving that the stamp is subject to atmospheric changes, and whenever a very dark color is offered as a true, official shade in printing it should be either refused, or subjected to a bath of peroxide before acceptance.

The stamp was grilled, usually with grille points down. Occasionally a stamp is found with grille points up, owing to the sheet being reversed when it was fed into the grille machine. The grille is found in two sizes, according to Mr. Luff; but I must take issue with him in that it is found in four sizes, as follows:

Size.	Points.
8½x8½	11x10
8½x9	11x11
9x9½	12x12

The stamp is found regularly issued without grille, but only in one shade—orange brown. This would indicate that a supply was issued from the printers in one lot which escaped the grilling process. Occasionally a stamp is found which does not show the grille sufficiently plain to be seen even with a glass. The first test as to its authenticity is, of course, the color. Then the benzine cup will almost certainly tell whether the grille was ever applied or not.

There were delivered to the government between March, 1869, and April, 1870, stamps to the number of 16,605,150.

Pairs are rather scarce; strips of three somewhat so, and fine used blocks of four are pretty good property. It is a stamp hard to find in well centered condition, and a perfectly centered lightly cancelled specimen is worth every cent of catalog price.

As it was mostly cancelled in black, the cancellations in color are rather rare and desirable.

On August 26, 1874, the National Bank Note Co. was given an order to print 10,000 of these stamps—as well as the same number of other denominations. It was printed on the same very hard, white paper, like the reprints of other issues.

It was stated by the postal authorities that these reprints would not be supplied gummed. But this order was not observed and many of the stamps were issued with a yellowish white gum, and is occasionally found with gum perfectly white, almost like the white of an egg.

The stamps of this reprint were made from Plate No. 33—a new plate having been made for the purpose. The color was designated as dark orange brown. Of these reprints there were sold 8,252, there having been turned back to the postal department 1,748 stamps.

The catalog gives this stamp as having been printed in 1880 on soft porous paper. This is only partly correct, as the year record is only so supposed, and is far from being true as Gospel. It is true that the 1 cent, design of 1869, is printed upon soft, porous paper, and probably in considerable numbers as its commonness would indicate. It is very probable that it was so reprinted by the American Bank Note Co. as the same paper was used as upon the stamps printed by this concern.

But (and mark this statement very well) no record has ever been found as to such printing, and no record of any number of stamps printed upon the soft paper is known to exist. The fact only remains that the stamps were made, and in a considerable number. For what purpose, when, or by what authority is not known—at least, not to the grand army of stamp collectors. If anyone lives who can give us facts about these stamps it will be greatly appreciated. Perhaps this note may bring out something authentic.

EDITORIAL.

These Many Years—We know that we have some readers today who have taken the WEEKLY from the beginning or for a period well over a score of years. Our volume one, number one, was dated January 7th, 1891 and it would be interesting to know how many of our present subscribers have been on our books for twenty-two years. We want to establish a roll of honor of such names and we ask that the readers who have so loyally remained with us for almost a generation or from number one to notify us by postal or otherwise. A record of this kind will be significant in a broad way of the permanence of philately, although its appeal to us will be a personal one.

Deserve the Stamps—Thus far, we have refrained from yielding to the temptation to comment upon the Balkan situation and from predicting just how the philatelic map will be changed by the developments that have come thick and fast the past fortnight. Evidently, the prowess of the Turkish soldiers which in days past was no idle boast was of no avail against the valor of the Bulgars, Serbs, Montenegrins and Greeks, armed with their righteous cause. The Bulgaria "cherry cannon" and Shipka Pass commemoratives may have some worthy co-adjutants in the years to come.

Regards to Third Assistant—Mr. Wm. A. Geiger, Fort Wayne, Indiana, writes: "I notice that the American Philatelic Society voted to petition for a stamp to commemorate the Perry victory, in 1913. I have favored this for some time and if the WEEKLY wishes such an issue, it seems to me that it could do much towards getting it by urging interested persons to write to the proper authorities and advocate the issue; and also, by giving the name of the person to whom all letters and petitions should be addressed." Even though we recognize the appropriateness of a stamp issue to commemorate the Perry victory next year when the convention will be held near the scene of the hundredth anniversary celebration, we favor the issue only academically. Commemoratives are no longer a treat to us and if the Perry stamp comes, all right but the WEEKLY itself will not be a petitioner for it. The following information should be acted upon by those who will not be happy unless they get the stamps: "In addressing the post-office department more than one subject should not be treated in the same letter and every communication should bear the address of the officer in charge of the bureau to which the business relates. Third assistant postmaster-general; Division of Stamps.—Relative to postage stamps and other stamped paper.

Now Then—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who used to go from office to office in the down-town section asking for foreign postage stamps? Is he serving under the colors of the o. f. c. who haunted the general delivery window of the post-office intent upon absorbing foreign stamps on envelopes given or thrown away? To resume: What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who liked his stamps so well that he would offer them for sale only grudgingly. Has he fallen in with the o. f. d. who bought collections from strangers on the basis of a catalogue many years old?

Tracked—We take pleasure in yielding the floor to Miss Amy L. Swift, Whitman, Mass., who wishes to say: "The old-fashioned collector who kept a record of the number of stamps on his album's pages still exists. I'm one of him and know several others who are more of him. Our tents are not folded yet, thank you! And 'the old-fashioned dealer who keeps all the cut round envelope stamps in the conviction that some day there will be a demand for them' is still lively. I know one in California, a collector-dealer for over twenty-five years, who would not give away one of his mutilated treasures. His only concession to present demands consists in mounting his cut valuables on squares of correctly tinted paper. No concessions in prices!"

We Believe It—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says that he has located a collector who lives in a small town who does not envy collectors in large cities who can attend meetings of stamp societies: An auction buyer who never had to pay the full amount of his bid: A philatelic writer who was gladly surprised at the sum paid him for a stamp article and a collector who never failed to receive satisfactory stamp exchanges from foreign correspondents to whom he sent good stamps first.

Smart Work—The tailor may be poorly clothed and the shoe-maker badly shod but the stamp folks know how to make a good stamp. The more we study the "ideal stamp" "printed and perforated at the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition" the more convincing becomes its beauty and propriety as a postage stamp. Thanks are extended to those who sent us specimens of the stamp and the enlarged postal card reproductions of it.

Not a Year Hence—The time and place of the International Philatelic Exhibition, New York City have been decided upon and we are informed by circular that "the new magnificent Engineer's building, 39th Street" and the "week of October 27, 1913," have been selected. Mr. John N. Luff, as chairman of the committee having in charge the preparation of the prospectus of the exhibition has completed his work; and the pamphlet which will be ready for distribution soon will be a most important one, containing, as it does, the rules, regulations, classifications and other information. A committee of honor loans its patronage to the exhibition and among its members abroad are the following philatelists of Europe:

Messrs. A. Leon Adutt, E. D. Bacon, M. P. Castle, S. Chapman, Dr. A. Chiesa, The Earl of Crawford, Dr. E. Diena, Henry J. Duveen, Major E. B. Evans, Gustave Gelli, L. L. Hausburg, Thos. W. Hall, Paul Kohl, Philipp Kosack, Hugo Krötzsch, Dr. A. Künkler, Fred J. Melville, Count G. Mailath, Capt. F. H. Napier, W. H. Peckitt, C. J. Phillips, Admiral von Raimann, Baron de Reuterskiold, Carl Willadt and R. B. Yardley.

Samples—Mr. George Kump, Xenia, Ohio, writes: "Having taken your paper for about four years and having received many sample copies of others, I have noticed many demands for a color chart and in the American Boy for February, 1912, Mr. Wylie had an article on the subject. My father is a printer and receives many samples like the enclosed: and I think that something such as this would be helpful." The sample book of papers submitted embraces both wove and laid and would have its instructive side for the new collector, although naturally the range of colors is small in comparison with that in the collecting field. However, buff, fawn, amber, canary, etc., both laid and wove, are illustrated, to the advantage of the neophyte in U. S. envelopes. Any adjunct to the study of colors, such as a papermaker's sample book justifies close scrutiny on the part of the collector.

Comes But Once A Year—Our Christmas corner. The stamp societies generally should follow the example of the Boston society and celebrate with a Christmas tree on which appropriate presents are affixed for distribution by a well-whiskered Santa of roly-poly habit. Philately is running at high tide by Christmas time and it should enter more noticeably into the exercises of the season. Perhaps, Parnassus Penflip will oblige us with a Christmas cantata for the Christmas number.

1913 EXHIBITION NEWS.

We presume all our readers are aware of the fact that within the space of one year there will be gathered together from all parts of the world the greatest collection of rare stamps ever seen. These will aggregate in value several million dollars and will hold the attention of New York's millions of inhabitants for the week they are on exhibition. The expense of installing this great show will amount to many thousands of dollars for it is the aim of the committee in charge to have room enough to show all that is worthy of exhibiting in this line owned either here or abroad.

Moreover place will be provided for beautifully arranged collections of small value, as well as exhibits of our world renowned philatelists all will stand an equal chance of getting a gold medal, all that is expected is that all must do their best. Next week and every week hereafter we shall use this space to let you know how the work is progressing and what every one is doing to help the work along.

Price List U. S. Envelopes

We have just issued a 16 page pamphlet giving a complete list of all cut square U. S. envelopes and the cheapest corresponding entire. It is very fully priced and a valuable guide and reference list. It is arranged absolutely by dies and not by papers making it easy for reference but Scott's numbers are added.

Price 10 Cents.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

To the Editor:—

Please permit me to make one more appeal to the collectors for their aid in the study of the early issues of the United States. I am certain that from the lack of responses received from invitations in the past the average collector does not understand nor appreciate the efforts of Dr. Chase, Mr. Stevenson and the writer to lift philately from the plane of mere collecting to a much higher one of studious effort and real dependable knowledge. If they did they would be more responsive to appeals for material with which to successfully prosecute our efforts to learn, and to make our conclusions known through the columns and pages of the philatelic press.

I am satisfied that there are thousands upon thousands of stamps of the 1 cent, 3 cent and 10 cent, 1851, hoarded away, which might better be in the hands of some real student of these early issues. It cannot be that these stamps are being accumulated and held for speculation, because within the present life of the collectors of today these stamps will never be classed as rarities, nor even scarce. I am rather of the opinion that on account of the very cheapness of these stamps those who have a few believe that their holdings would be of no benefit. So they hesitate and neglect to offer the numbers they have, fearing that less than hundreds or thousands would be of no assistance.

For myself I want singles, pairs, strips and blocks of the 1c, 3c and 10c, 1851, together with stamps showing plate numbers, engravers' imprint, margins, etc. I also want the stamps showing Carrier, Steamboat, Steamship, Express, and year dated cancellations, together with covers showing early use. To this might be added any unusual marks, either upon the plate or postmark.

The material which I hope to gather from the study of these stamps will be freely distributed through the philatelic press and in handbook form so that true students of early issues of United States stamps may benefit. I assure collectors that neither Dr. Chase, Mr. Stevenson nor myself have any selfish motives in asking the stamp collectors of this country for their assistance.

Speaking for myself I will gladly reciprocate in any way possible for any assistance which may be rendered to me. I will give good exchange, assort and classify stamps for collectors.

I also promise, in return for this assistance, that I will make the result of these studies known to all without hope or expectation of any financial reward.

The above represents a photographic copy of a Graphic Chart showing Charles Lathrop Pack's discovery of the secret marks or die varieties found on the Brazil 700r, 200r and 500r heads, which were substituted in some frames of the 100r of type I. There is no doubt but that this discovery has made the collecting of these heads very interesting, especially so as the prices at which these stamps may be obtained make them within the reach of all.

A Chat With the Advertiser

We have been crowded out during the past few weeks but must have a bit of space this week to talk things over. Business is certainly good. If you doubt it, look at our advertising columns. The season is certainly on in good shape.

Nothing pleases us more than a testimonial that is a testimonial. We make a distinction in which there is a difference. A few weeks ago Chas. A. Townsend had an advertisement in the WEEKLY in which he offered some New York Custom House stamps at a very low figure. Here is an extract from a letter just received from Mr. Townsend:—

"That advertisement of mine was quite a disappointment. In it I appealed to boys and it was a boys' bargain. It should have been answered by boys, for surely there are plenty of them among your readers. Instead of boys replying, two-thirds of my sales were to grownup collectors, with their large collections, or to U. S. specialists, etc. that knew a big bargain when they saw it. Several wanted from ten to twenty-five sets, while one wanted a price on my whole stock. Direct returns paid me all right, but it overshot the mark. Had the N. E. Stamp Co., Colman, or Eaton used that same advertisement they could easily have disposed of $200 worth of good stuff to buyers. However I am going to sell some stamps at 1c each this season, and please don't forget it."

W. Morton Webb, Kingsville, Can., is with us for a season and will use space to dispose of a large accumulation of duplicates. W. F. Slusser and Maxwell Krause break from small ads to displayed space. A new advertiser, R. S. Green, Louisville, Ky., will be found with us regularly on page 3. The Atlas Stamp Co., W. Somerville, Mass., is another enterprising firm that promotes its publicity into the displayed class. After a little vacation the Chesapeake Stamp Co. is again with us.

As for the small ads dept. we can't keep track of the newcomers. Business is just booming, and if you want a few lines of space this is your chance.

Our next recruiting number will be Nov. 30, with several thousand extra circulation. Regular rates will prevail. Have ad copy in Nov. 23.

Please remember the steady, persistent advertiser will win out. Don't imagine that people look for your ad just as soon as they get the paper. There are other toads in the puddle and you must make good.

Patience, perseverance, pluck=progress!

SAVED 10,000,000 POSTAGE STAMPS.

New York, Nov. 8.—Ten million cancelled postage stamps, domestic and foreign, done up in 100,000 neat packages, were sold today to Joseph F. Negreen, a dealer in stamps and coins, by Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, wife of the pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Parkhurst had them to sell because she had been patiently collecting them for 30 years, and she sold them because the Parkhursts recently moved from their spacious home in East Thirty-fifth street to the Ansonia, and there never would be room in the Ansonia, for all those stamps.

It seems that 30 years ago Mrs. Parkhurst read an advertisement which offered free tuition for a Chinese lady at an American institution of learning in return for 1,000,000 cancelled stamps. Mrs. Parkhurst began to collect them with great diligence, but when she had a million she could find no place where they might be exchanged for college days for a Celestial. So she just went on saving them.

The price paid by the dealer was not disclosed, but he seemed pleased with the bargain. He has figured it all out that, placed side by side, they would reach from New York to Pittsburgh. He has also calculated that when they were new the stamps represented an outlay of at least $200,000. He has not decided just how he will dispose of them, but he is sure that for the paper alone they would bring a substantial sum.—Boston Herald.

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Referring to Mr. Loeb's item in No. 1138 relative to a variety in the 1 cent U. S. revenue, P. E. Crabtree reports having found similar period varieties in the 2c surcharged "I. R.," Scott's No. 2994. He writes: "I have about fifty plate number strips from the top of the sheet in which the period after the 'I' on the middle stamp is hollow. This occurs on every one, thus being a constant variety. I also have quite a number of strips from the left side of the plate in which the period after the 'I' on the middle stamp is one third the size of the ordinary one, a perfectly shaped period, however, not broken. I should be glad to know if any of your readers have found these varieties in the same positions thus showing them to be constant errors."

CHINA.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports another local printing of the surcharges on the Imperial stamps, this time at Kien Yang Fu, in the Province of Fukien. Seven values, ½c, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c and 7c have been thus printed, the overprint being found in both red and black, the red ones being considerably scarcer than the black. One thousand of each value were overprinted, the type employed for the surcharge being quite distinctive, and readily separated from the other printings.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Whitfield King & Co. and the Universal Publicity Co. have shown us specimens of the 2½d King George stamp just issued. The design is the same as the new 1d, chronicled in No. 1139, except the necessary changes in color and value. The value in words is printed in two lines between the figure tablets, thus: "Two Pence—Half Penny."

SPAIN.—Mr. Schachne has shown us some recent arrivals in cards one of which (15x15c) is listed in a 1911 catalog as an issue of 1909. As errors of issue date have occurred in regard to adhesives we seem warranted in calling this an issue of 1912.

The 10x10c is a mate to Senf 43 and the 10c is same card with the new stamp like the 10c adhesive—small head in circle. All above have the stamp at right.

A MAGNIFICENT COLLECTION OF THE STAMPS OF THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS

This is practically the finest collection of this group extant, containing as it does the pick of the well-known Bagshaw collection — the late owner has also purchased anything fine that came on the market during the last few years.

The following interesting items may be mentioned:

1867 Issue — Large mint blocks of all values with full margins including a pane of one denomination.
1879-82 — Provisionals in blocks, etc., including the 5c and 7c with error in blocks and strips.
1883 — Provisionals. Large blocks and strips showing various types and several copies of the newly discovered 4c in red on 5c blue.
1892-4 — 32c error unused and used, the latter being the only known copy extant.
1899 — 5c carmine without surcharge.

JOHOR —
A fine range of all the various surcharges, errors, etc., etc.
PAHANG —
Used and unused copies of the 8c and 10c; the bisected provisionals, used and unused, $50 on $5, etc., etc.
PERAK —
Errors with surcharge inverted, 1c with Roman "I", etc., etc.
Service — The errors with double overprint, without stop, and with wide spacing.
SELANGOR —
A fine lot of the different surcharges, including the error on the 2c on 24c green, of which this is the only known copy.
SUNGEI UJONG — All the various overprints in blocks, etc., etc.

Lists of wants of the above group will receive every attention, and selections will be forwarded on approval.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Alfred Koppenhaver, Franklin S. Smith (3), John F. Fortune, Russell L. Stultz (3), N. O. Brooks, F. E. Morehouse, Hugo Kuenstler (3), E. S. Bissinger and Rev. Louis J. Voss.

—We are in receipt of a very handsome 1913 calendar from the International Stamp Co., Degraff, Ohio.

—H. Wesley Legg has removed from Pepperell to Boston as will be noted by his advertisement elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Legg has the advantage over the ordinary stamp dealer in that he has both a winter and a summer address.

—"The new one shilling Barbados stamps of the King George and pictorial type are already exhausted, and our correspondent informs us that fresh supplies have not been ordered. Whether this means that this value is to be permanently withdrawn we cannot say, but it must be some months before these stamps are again obtainable."—King's List.

—"I am sorrow but I am not going to renew my subscribtion to your paper, as I have given up hopes of becoming a stamp collector, as I couldn't make heads or tails of a 2 cent stamp so I give up."—Jas. Davis.

—All advertising copy must be in on Saturday. In case of emergency Monday will answer but no later.

—"My ad in the WEEKLY of glassine paper was the best I ever placed. I have had between 30 and 40 replies and they are still coming. This shows that if an advertiser offers something that collectors want and need there is no trouble about getting replies from even a small ad. Please give me another insertion in your next issue. The heavy quality of the paper makes it necessary for me to raise the price on small lots sent postpaid."—A. W. DUNNING.

—"A new set for St. Vincent will be issued on January 1st, 1913 and the design will probably be a combination of the King's portrait and the Arms of the Colony, similar to those of Barbados. As soon as these new stamps are brought into use the entire stock on hand of stamps of the old issue will be withdrawn and burnt." - King's List.

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.00 for two years renewal or two years new subscription for a friend, and we shall send you the book post free.

BIT BY BIT.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Halford Barry, Cedar Rapids, Ia., reports possession of 5 cents, 1857, Scott's No. 48a, with double perforation vertically.

H. C. Crowell, Cleveland, O., has disposed of a 5c, 1857, brick red, Scott's No. 45, cancelled Steam Ship in two lines.

O. S. Hart, Cleveland, O., reports 5 cents, 1847 cancelled in a Lake shade of ink.

F. D. Collins, St. Louis, recently secured 24 cents, August, 1861, on part of cover, dated St. Louis, Sept. 1, in black. It was stamped as received in "London, Sept. 16, '61, Paid," in red. The St. Louis cancellation is round circle with bars. Mr. Collins also has secured a block of ten 3 cents, 1870, which is unique. The left four stamps show grille very strong while the remaining six have no trace of grille.

H. F. Kohr, Kansas City, has the 2 cents Louisiana Purchase (St. Louis) in shade of orange red. Since receiving this I have seen others in same shade, both used and unused.

I have seen two book leaves, current issue 1 cent with numerals, in which the left stamp on leaf, with guide line at bottom, shows a line or point of color extending to left from lower frame line of stamp. This projecting line is about 1 mm. in length. The inscription "Cent" shows smudge in the white, resembling slightly a double transfer.

A number of readers have informed me of U. S. varieties, cancellation and otherwise, which will be noted soon.

MAY MR. SLEDD HAVE EASY GOING!

"When Mr. Wylie's article came out in the WEEKLY in regard to novices' starting a stamp business, I had been deliberating and making some preparation looking to that end for some time.. Then came Mr. Grant's 'How to become a stamp dealer;' and the first paper contained the words, 'Go to it, Andrew; go to it.' Now my name is Andrew, and one of the boys, my sons, for whom I wanted to start a stamp business, is named after me. So there you have it, and here goes: 'Pike's peak or bust.'

I enclose a check for $7.50 for 50 lines of advertising in your Small Ads Column, according to your offer of Nov. 2nd. Please insert the following ad. for the next two issues of the WEEKLY. After that I will send other copy for the next two weeks; and so on."—ANDREW SLEDD.

SCOTT'S CATALOG FOR 1912-13.

You cannot afford to collect stamps without Scott's catalog. It is the American standard and if you will remit 75c to this office we shall send you a cloth bound copy.

A "LEMON SQUASH" DEFINED.

By EUGENE KLEIN.

Thinking that it would save you and also some readers sleepless nights, I am quoting a little passage which I wrote in my diary in London, at the Hotel Cecil, on Wednesday, July 17th, 1912. This reads as follows:—"The day has been very hot. Just returned from theater. I asked the waiter for a cold drink, he suggested "Lemon squash" or "Coke tile." He mentioned the latter because he evidently took me for an American and he no doubt thought I wanted the National drink. I risked the former, which I found to be insufficiently sweetened cold lemonade."

THE PACIFIC EXHIBITION.

By HENRY B. PHILLIPS.

(While the following communication from Henry B. Phillips has considerable of the personal touch in it, we take the liberty of using it in the WEEKLY, believing that it will be of considerable interest to our readers. Mr. Phillips is the vice-president of the Pacific Philatelic Society and the death of Mr. Crocker falls heavily upon him and his associates upon the official board.—ED.)

You can imagine how keenly we feel the loss of Mr. Crocker. Our society has had no meeting since, but there is no doubt we shall face the future and the coming Exhibition with a determination to carry out our plans on the lines laid down. The writer has secured convention room from the management ot the P.-P. I. E. which may be inside or outside of the Fair grounds as may be preferred.

In due time an official invitation will be issued to the A. P. S. and to all other philatelic organizations to hold their conventions here that year, and Mr. Barr, director of conventions, hopes to have a congress of philatelic societies, which could take up certain lines of work that will suggest themselves to our philatelic leaders from all countries, and which could adjourn to meet again in three or five years. I am also assured we can have sufficient space in the fine arts building for an exhibition of stamps, but the Ex. authorities would not insure nor provide more than ordinary police protection, placing the onus of safeguarding upon our society.

However to have secured room for convention and exhibition is a distinct gain on which we will build the superstructure of a great event, or series of events.

You may not be aware that Mr. Crocker's cousin, Mr. Wm. H. Crocker, the banker, (president of the Crocker National Bank of S. F.) is a member of our society, and has a fine collection, and I am in hopes to interest him to take up some of the work and assume a leadership among us.

I regret the loss of Mr. Crocker more than I can express, both as a friend and as a stamp companion. We were arranging to collaborate in the work of bringing out a work on Western Franks that would be worthy of the name and a credit to our city, and to that end he had begun to form a strong collection, which together with my collection and extensive notes would have enabled us to carry out the plan successfully.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

POSTAGE DUE STAMPS.

In addition to ordinary postage stamps—that is stamps issued for the use of the general public for the franking of postal packages—certain countries also issue stamps for special purposes and as these are included in the catalogues it will be as well to make brief mention of them and the uses for which they are intended.

Postage due or "unpaid letter" stamps are labels issued for the collection of deficient postage. When a letter has been mailed without stamps or with insufficient stamps to cover the proper postal rate the amount due is collected from the addressee and the sum to be collected is in many countries indicated by these special postage due labels. In most English speaking countries these labels bear the words "POSTAGE DUE," either as part of the special design or in the shape of an overprint, so that they are easily recognizable. Below I give a list of inscriptions found upon the postage due stamps of other countries so that the beginner should have no difficulty in recognizing them.

A payer—(To pay). Appears upon the stamps of Belgium and Luxemburg.

A percevoir—(To pay). Found upon the stamps of Belgium, Egypt, France and its Colonies, Hayti, and Monaco.

A receber—(To be received). Occurs upon the stamps of Portugal and its Colonies.

At betale—(To pay). Appears only upon the stamps of Norway.

Chiffre Taxe—(Total amount of tax). Found upon the stamps of France and its Colonies and also on those of Hayti.

Deficiente—(Deficient). Found upon the stamps of Nicaragua.

Deficit—(Deficit or deficiency). Appears upon the stamps of Peru.

Franqueo Deficiente—(Deficient Postage). Found upon the stamps of Ecuador, Nicaragua, Paraguay, and Salvador.

Lösen—(To pay). Appears only upon the stamps of Sweden.

Milit. Post. Portomarke. Appears upon the stamps of Bosnia-Herzegovina. This means literally "Military Post penalty stamp," the first two words referring to the fact that though under the nominal suzerainty of Turkey, the provinces were occupied by Austrian troops and Austria had entire charge of the posts.

Multa—(Fine). Appears on the stamps of Chili and Costa Rica.

Multada—(Fined). Found only upon the stamps of Chili.

Porteado a Receber—(Postage to be received). Appears upon the stamps of Portugal and its Colonies.

Portomarke—(Penalty Stamp). Appears upon the stamps of Austria and Norway.

Segnatasse—(Postage Due). Found upon the stamps of Italy and San Marino.

Sobreporte—(Over-postage). Found upon the stamps of Colombia.

Surcharge Postage. This inscription is shown upon the postage due stamps of Grenada and Trinidad.

T.—A large "T" overprinted on some of the stamps of Bulgaria and Abyssinia shows they were converted into postage due labels. The postage due stamps of the Dominican Republic merely have a letter "T" engraved in each corner.

Takca—(Tax). Found upon the stamps of Bulgaria.

Tasa—(Tax). Appears upon the stamps of Uruguay.

Taxa Devida—(Tax due). Found upon the stamps of Brazil.

Taxe a Percevoir—(Tax to pay). Is overprinted upon some of the ordinary stamps of Abyssinia to convert them into postage due labels.

Tebetalen—(To pay). Appears upon the stamps of Belgium, Holland and Colonies.

SHORT REPLIES.

F. A. C. (Murphy, N. C.), writes as follows:—"I wish you would tell the meaning of some designs from time to time. On Costa Rica No. 69 is pictured Juan Santamaria with a firebrand in hand. I cannot find his story. Who was he? (2) On the French stamps what is the symbolism of the woman sowing? Is it merely plenty? (3) Why are the letters in the corners of British stamps always changing? (4) Who is pictured on the 1878 stamps of Honduras? (5) Who appears so often on the stamps of Venezuela, as on 1882-1893?"

Perhaps some reader versed in Chilean history can give us some information regarding Santamaria? I can find no mention of him in any of my reference works. (2) I presume the Sower lady is symbolical of plenty though it is difficult to understand why this figure was chosen as typical of France. (3) The numerous varieties of corner letters on the old British stamps as I have explained before, are due to the fact that every stamp on a sheet had a different combination of letters as an extra precaution against counterfeiting. The greatest possible number of varieties in any one stamp is 240 that being the number of 1d stamps in a sheet. (4) The portrait on the 1878 stamps of Honduras is that of Francisco Morazan, who was born in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, in 1799. When independence was declared in 1821 Morazan left business and devoted his attention to politics. He led the State troops against Guatemala, was captured, escaped, and made a second attempt to resist the Guatemalan ascendency in Central American affairs. This time he was successful and was made President of Honduras in consequence. Instituting many reforms he aroused the jealousies of other parties and though he was successful for a time circumstances were ultimately too strong for him and he resigned the executive in 1840. He went to Peru and two years later invaded Costa Rica overthrowing the Government and himself assuming office. His reforms resulted in a revolt during which he was captured by the rebels and shot on Sept. 15th, 1842. (5) The portrait shown on practically all the stamps of Venezuela is that of Simon Bolivar, generally known as the "Liberator." Born in 1783 and educated in Madrid he made it his life work to oust Spanish rule from South America. He led the successful troops against Spain and in 1819 proclaimed the "Republic of Colombia," which term embraced the territory subsequently (1832) divided into Colombia, Ecuador and Venezuela. He effected the independence of Peru and Bolivia. The latter country was named after him as was also the state of Bolivar.

WHERE BILLY EXCELLED.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

There was a look of satisfaction in Miss Marshall's eyes as she glanced over her room. Even Billy Towne was pouring over his geography lesson and Evelina Bird was as silent as the sphinx. The number work class continued reciting with unusual enthusiasm. If the superintendent, whom she was expecting, would only come now before the children grew tired and restless.

"Oh, Miss Marshall," whispered a pupil near her. "Someone is at the door."

Contrary to previous training, the pupils craned their necks to see the visitor as Miss Marshall admitted him. Billy sat up and stared and Evelina began to chatter. Miss Marshall felt hot and uncomfortable, and she flushed as she gave the young superintendent a chair.

The number work class rushed to their seats. Miss Marshall never allowed them to go that way; but how could the superintendent know that? All her satisfaction in her work was gone. She felt as if her humiliation was already complete.

The reading class which came next was lacking in the usual spirit and expression. That was not surprising for her attention was being given to the discipline of the school. She couldn't tell what Billy would do next, and as for Evelina—she was already taking in things around her desk. But the next class would be the geography class and that would bring these little pests under nose. Maybe she could relax a little then.

"Yes, I'd like to question these youngsters," the superintendent smiled pleasantly. "They seem to be wide-awake."

"You can never tell what children will do," exploded Miss Marshall with a sigh. "I thought I was having perfect order just before you came."

"I think I know something about that dependable quality of childhood," the man returned cheerfully, and Miss Marshall, relieved that he was not taking things too seriously, breathed freely once more.

Then the superintendent began talking about the wonderful world they were studying and the children listened attentively. Many of them answered readily until he began asking them about different countries, their people, and their customs. Both Miss Marshall and the superintendent opened their eyes in surprise as Billy Towne not only answered every question but gave much additional information. Portugal, Spain, Italy, Germany, and in fact nearly every country and colony seemed to be on Billy's tongue. Their location, their rulers, and even their monetary systems were familiar topics. It was wonderful. Miss Marshall had kept him back with the others studying North America and he really knew as much about geography as she did.

Billy's wonderful feat in geography seemed to give confidence to the whole school, so that during the remainder of the superintendent's visit, the children showed off splendidly.

"Your pupils are thorough in their work," he commented to the happy Miss Marshall. "That boy in the geography class is a wonder. What is his name?"

"Billy Towne," she replied, but she did not admit that she had been ignorant of Billy's power to learn. No wonder he got into mischief. He had already conquered every field before she assigned them, and there had been no work for him to do.

"Well, Billy, how is it that you know so much about geography?" asked the superintendent as he passed by the former terror of Miss Marshall's room.

"Oh, I have been collecting stamps for several years," returned Billy nonchalantly. "I guess I have stamps from every country you asked about, and more besides."

HELPING HANDS.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

How little we know about stamps. Thanks to the many readers of MEKEEL'S who are giving freely of their knowledge we are learning new things every day.

More evidence of the widespread mailing points of the three cents 1867, grille covering entire stamp, continues to arrive. C. W. Bowen, Providence R. I., states that he has one on entire envelope "M. O. B." "Official Business," addressed to the postmaster of a country postoffice in Rhode Island, containing instructions about the issue of money orders. The stamp has full margin and part of printers' imprint. The margin is grilled same as the stamp. The envelope is postmarked "Washington, Mar. 17."

P. M. Wolseiffer, Chicago, sends me, for examination, an entire cover with 3c grille all over, postmarked "Fort Smith Ark., Sep. 6." The cancellation is the familiar "target" form, and postmark does not touch stamp.

Mr. Wolseiffer also affords me the rare pleasure of examining a cover with vertical pair grilled all over, postmarked "Beaver Dam, Wis., Aug. 19, 1867."

When the grille covering entire stamp was first catalogued the date of issue was given as 1868. So it remained until the discovery of this pair of stamps by Mr. Wolseiffer, and its submission for expertizing. The catalog date was then changed to 1867. These stamps bear the endorsement "Examined and pronounced O. K. by J. W. Scott."

Some years ago this pair passed out of the hands of Mr. Wolseiffer. He kept track of them, however, and has recently secured them, and submitted them to the writer as added testimony, an honor which I certainly appreciate.

It is by such kind acts as these the writer may publish to the world many items which have heretofore been kept back by owners of rarities. Not only for myself, but on behalf of the grand army of collectors who are studying and specializing in United States stamps, I thank everyone who has contributed to the fund of knowledge which has been materially added to since I began writing "Specialized U. S." for this paper. To assist in a measure in determining the relative rarity of the 3 cent 1867 grilled all over, with points down with that having points up, will those who possess copies of the stamp with grille points down please communicate with the editor, or with Frank E. Goodwin, 319 Euclid Avenue, Webster Groves, Mo.

THE REGULAR ISSUES OF PERU.

By AL. DE LA TORRE BUENO.

Not till 1857, nearly a score of years after the first official issues of stamps had seen the light of day, did Peru join the ranks of the Governments with regularly established postal systems.

Prior to 1857 all mail matter had been carried and franked for its own account by the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, a steamship line plying between Panama and the ports on the west coast of South America, but in this year Peru took into her hands the care of the mails.

The Government not having a supply of stamps at the time had to avail itself of those which the Pacific Steam Navigation Company turned over to it—the 1 and 2 reales—until such time as it should receive its own stamps. This did not occur till the following year, 1858, when it put into circulation an issue consisting of three values—1 dinero, 1 peseta and ½ peso.

The 1 dinero and 1 peseta were reissued in 1859 and again in 1860, with slight modifications, in both years, in the drawing; and in 1862-72 these were superseded by two new designs in the values of 1 dinero and 1 peseta, there being three printings of the latter in three different colors.

In 1866-67 a new issue of stamps made its appearance in an entirely new design with the values in centavos, the issue consisting of three stamps, their denominations being 5, 10 and 20 centavos.

Five years later, in 1871, there appeared a new issue consisting of two stamps of an entirely new design their denominations being 2 and 5 centavos. The latter was for use in Callao, Lima and Chorrillos, the 2 centavos being a new denomination for local use in Lima.

Up to this time all the stamps issued by Peru had been imperforate, except the 2 centavos which was rouletted.

The first actually permanent and complete set of stamps issued by Peru was the 1874 issue, and consisted of seven stamps ranging in value from 1 centavo to 1 sol.

The seven values of this issue and the designs of same were used for twenty-one years—1874 to 1895— with changes in color, grill and surcharges. During this period changes of an economic as well as of an historic character occurred.

Paper money had become so depreciated during these years that in 1880 Peru surcharged her stamps with the inscription "Union Postal Universal—Perú" in an oval and the word "plata" (silver) in the centre. The stamps surcharged thus were to be used exclusively for foreign mail going to countries in the Universal Postal Union, and had to be paid for in silver ("plata"), or its equivalent, thus distinguishing them from those to be used for domestic mail which were sold for paper money without any premium being charged on account of the depreciated condition of the bills.

In 1879 a state of war existed between Peru and Chile and after a series of bloody encounters the Chilians occupied Lima on January 17th, 1881, and the same year after having taken possession of all the branches of the government, including the post office department, they surcharged the stamps with the "Union Postal Universal" surcharge, changing the word "Perú" to "Lima" as the stamps were issued only from that Post Office. Following this they surcharged the 1, 2, 5, 10 and 20 centavos values, which remained unsurcharged in the Post Office, with the Chilian coat of arms. Later in the year they overprinted four values—1, 5 and 50 centavos and 1 sol—with the inscription "Union Postal Universal" in a new shape, known as horseshoe, and the Chilian arms.

Five stamps of this issue were again surcharged in 1883 after the Chilians had evacuated Peru, with a triangle, but without "Union Postal Universal," which made it necessary to superimpose this surcharge, use being made this time of the two ovals and of the horseshoe on the different stamps; later the horseshoe and triangle were used together; this was followed by the "Lima-Correos" surcharges.

These same seven stamps were again issued in 1886 without the grill or surcharges, and later, in 1889, the 10 centavos value was surcharged with "Union Postal Universal."

H. F. COLMAN,
Second National Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

stamps are unique. First she surcharged her stamps on account of the economic condition of the country, next we see the conquering invader branding her stamps with his arms and, lastly, we find her honoring the memory of one of her sons by surcharging the stamps with his likeness.

Two of these surcharges—the first and the last—have no parallel in any other country, while the second finds its parallel in the stamps of the Transvaal surcharged by the British conquerer with the initials V. R. I. (Victoria Regina Imperatrix).

Upon the death of General Bermudez, who followed General Caceres as President of Peru, the then (1894) current issue was surcharged with his bust. This surcharge was also combined with the "Union Postal Universal" horseshoe surcharge. After the Bermudez surcharged issue there followed a new set of five stamps, comprising two of the designs of the 1874 and three of the 1866 issues.

Following the death of General Bermudez, General Caceres again took the reigns of government in hand and was ousted in the beginning of 1895 by Nicolas Pierola, who to extold his achievement had a commemorative issue made in September of that year consisting of seven stamps of the same denominations as the 1874 issues.

From 1895 to date there have appeared eleven issues, if we are to consider single stamps and single surcharged stamps as separate issues.

The first of these, issue (1895), portrayed prominent figures in the conquest of Peru by the Spaniards when it was still the Inca Empire. This issue contained one additional value—the 2 soles. In the issue of 1899 two additional values were introduced, the 5 and 10 soles, and in 1900 and 1902 there were issued two stamps of 22 centavos, the primary object of which was to prepay the foreign postage, the rate of which was reduced in 1905 to 12 centavos and a stamp of this denomination issued.

The 5 and 10 soles values were dropped from the 1907 issue but a new denomination, the 4 centavos, was added; the 2 soles was dropped from the present issue (1909) and the 12 centavos for foreign postage again introduced, the present issue being thus reduced to the nine values which are actually required.

The only stamps of which the post office officials have not been able to gauge properly the probable demand at the time of ordering is the 1 centavo. In 1897 this value became exhausted and the 1 centavo stamps surcharged "Gobierno" were used to prepay ordinary postage; in 1898 the 1 centavo postage due was surcharged "Franqueo" and used for ordinary postage, and in 1907 the 12 centavos was surcharged "Un centavo." This stamp was also surcharged "Dos Centavos." These latter two are the only cases in which Peru has surcharged any of her regular postage stamps with another value. Now we find that copies of the 1 centavo official are being used for ordinary postage.

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.00 for two years renewal or two years new subscription for a friend, and we shall send you the book post free.

AEROPLANE CANCELLATIONS.

By Arthur T. Browne, B. P. S. 543.

The number of aeroplane cancellations has now reached thirty. Since the first instalment of my article appeared (several weeks ago) I have learned of several cancellations, some old and some new, and as a result I have now compiled a complete check list of these interesting and elusive cancellations.

No. 5—Atlanta, Ga.

The fifth aeroplane cancellation comes from Atlanta, Ga. This cancellation was used November 16, 17 and 18, 1911.

The meet was held at the Atlanta Speedway on the above mentioned dates. The mail was carried by that daring bird-man Lincoln Beachey. From a special postoffice on the grounds, Beachey flew to Stewart Avenue, in Atlanta, a distance of three miles. Here he dropped the sack of mail. It was picked up and taken in an automobile to the main postoffice. Both the cancellation and postmark were in reddish purple ink. The postmark was a small circle. At the top, were the words "Speedway Aerial Sub-Station." In the center was the date. At the bottom, were the words "Atlanta, Ga." The lettering was in very small type. The cancellation consisted of eight thin lines, each two inches in length. Over the postmark and the cancellation was the following: "Aeroplane Mail Service."

No. 22—Benton Harbor, Mich.

The twenty-second aeroplane cancellation comes from Benton Harbor, Mich., and was the first to come from that state. At a meet held at the State Fairgrounds July 17 and 18, 1912, the aeroplane service was established by order of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, under order dated July 10, 1912. The route was designated as No. 637001. The aerial mail carrier was aviator Charles F. Walsh, who was recently killed while flying at the Trenton, N. J., Fair. A special postoffice was established on the field and was known as "The Fairgrounds Station."

Both the cancellation and postmark were in black ink. The postmark was circular in shape. At the top were the words "Benton Harbor, Mich." In the center was the date. At the bottom were the words "Fair Grounds Station." The cancellation consisted of eight thin lines, one and five-eighths inches in length. The third and fifth lines were broken. In the space thus made, were the words "Via Aeroplane." The space between the sixth and seventh lines was extra wide. In this space were the words "To Main Office."

Mail was carried from the special postoffice on the grounds to East Lawn on East Main street and was taken from there to the main office.

No. 30—Springfield, Ill.

The thirtieth aeroplane cancellation comes from Springfield, Ill. At the Illinois State Fair, held at Springfield, October 4-12, 1912, it was planned to have mail carrying by aeroplanes on October 4 and 5.

The aviators were Horace Kearney, Eddie Korn and Farnham Fish. Mail was carried but one day, however and that was on Thursday October 10. On October 8, Korn started with a mail pouch for Williamsville, Ill., a distance of fourteen miles, cross country. He was forced to give up the trip owing to engine trouble. On the 10th, Kearney carried a sack of mail to Williamsville. There was a special postoffice on the fairgrounds. The aeroplane postmark was a large circle and was in reddish purple ink. This served both as postmark and cancellation. At the top were the words "Aeroplane Station." In the center was the following in three lines:—"State—Oct. 10, 1912—Fair Grounds."

AN APOLOGY.

Our attention has been called to the fact that the check list recently illustrated in the WEEKLY and reproduced from the columns of Everybody's Philatelist was copyrighted. We regret very much that inadvertently we overlooked the matter of copyright, though proper credit was given to the above publication.

We make this public apology, calling the attention of our readers to the fact that this check list cannot be reproduced and expressing our regret that it appeared in the WEEKLY without first securing permission from the holder of the copyright.

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

TO THE EDITOR:—

Perhaps my zeal in the study of United States postage stamps, and my desire to see the stamps of my native-born country as well treated by the cataloguer and experts as those of other countries, leads me to walk upon dangerous ground. I say this at this time because I am in receipt of a letter from a well known authority upon stamps, and especially of the United States issues, advising me that I am putting too much stress upon minor varieties. He further advises (now mark this prediction well) that if I persist in writing along intensive specialized lines, I will cause a slump in the sale of stamps of other countries which will "put me in bad" with some dealers who sell stamps from Abyssinia to Zululand.

What I want is an equal consideration of the United States issues with those of other countries in every publication and from every general collector. In the case of catalogs and check-lists printed in the United States, and which depend more largely for support upon the collectors of this country than in any other, I want more deference paid to the collectible things of the United States than that which is accorded to any other nation.

To make my meaning clear let me cite one instance of "making fish of one and flesh of another." In Scott's catalog, under head of Canada, I see that No. 1, 3 pence red, is listed with double transfer. No. 15, 5 cent vermilion, is also listed with double transfer.

In this same country, same page, and identical issues, I find that the stamps are listed upon thin paper.

But nowhere in the catalog do I find a single United States postage stamp spoken of with double transfer, although the compiler of this catalog knows that double transfers exist in both denominations of the 1847 issue and also in the 1 cent, 3 cent and 10 cent 1851.

Students of stamps know, too, that the 5 cent, 1847, and the 1 cent and 3 cent, 1851, are found on a very thin paper, fully as thin and as distinguishable as that of Canada.

Once in a while an inverted watermark occurring in a foreign issue is made much of, while the same things in U. S. are passed lightly over. I say that United States is as worthy of every philatelic consideration as any country on earth—perhaps a little bit more.

FRANK E. GOODWIN.

Nov. 12, 1912.

TO THE EDITOR:

I desire to report to you John Dvorak of Cleveland, Ohio. I am inclined to think he wrote to us after seeing our name in your paper. He asked for a selection of Peru stamps on the letter head of The Ohio Worsted Spinning Co. We wrote to the president of the company but later this turned out to be a faked signature made by Dvorak. We sent a lot of Peru stamps in which he substituted $90 worth of surcharges, etc. taking out an inverted one and replacing it by a commoner stamp upside down. He also erased the cipher from stamps marked in dollars and remitted as many cents. By dire threats we have in the past few weeks managed to get back half of the stamps, but it looks as if he has ceased righting his wrong and we are about to proceed to prosecute him for using the mail for fraudulent purposes. We have had a letter from another dealer showing where Dvorak is asking for approval selections.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—F. R. Holloway informs us that he has purchased the balance of the R. R. Robinson stock, containing thirty thousand stamps.

—We have received from many of our subscribers a Goldberg cartoon that is being given a wide circulation. It deals with stamp collecting in a humorous fashion and not withstanding the "knocks", the publicity given the hobby will no doubt be advantageous.

—We have received from the J. M. Bartels Co. their 1913 price list of cut square and entire United States envelopes. Every collector of envelopes will find this list of value and it will no doubt be sent upon request.

—Clippings have been received from Benj. Weisner, Mrs. T. S. Gatner, R. R. Caldwell, Elliot B. Hunt, Freeman C. Allen, Arthur Russell, Chas. A. Jenkins, C. A. Yarrington, Copley Stamp Co., Meredith Staub, Frank Reeder, Jr., Chas. Beamish, A. H. Loomis.

A TABLOID TRAGEDY.

By J. T., Jr. in Bon Accord.

In Six spasms, with a Moral appended.

Scene:—Anywhere!
Characters:—Any pair! !
Time:—The (Wedding) Present! ! !

A shady nook;
A stamp-filled book;
A maiden!
Notorious flirt;
A hobble skirt
Arrayed in!

A "gay young dog"—
New catalogue—
Excited!
"Dear Mr. Brown,
Pray do sit down!"
"Delighted."

Some stamps exchanged—
Hair much deranged!
"Good gracious!"
About "wild gale"
Concoct a tale
Veracious!

A pair far "gone"!
"You are," sighs John,
"Angelic."
More meetings still—
Not strictly philatelic! !

The same old spot—
Album forgot—
Not wanted!
The usual thing—
Engagement ring—
Enchanted!

Wedding in June!
Grand honeymoon!
Gay City!
Bliss all too short!
Seek Divorce Court!
Great pity! ! !

Moral.

When philatelic damosel
Hints trousseau,
You'd be Miss-led
Were you to wed!
DON'T DO SO.

EDITORIAL.

Good Giving—Our Christmas corner is now on a basis worth while and it intends to justify its existence by advertising its wish to promote seasonable cheer of philatelic kind. Pursuant to this desire, we advocate the gift of postage stamps and albums to beginners as Christmas presents. We know that practically each one of our adult readers habitually gives Christmas presents to at least one or two small boys and girls. This year, these generous givers are asked to consider the propriety of presenting stamps and accessories to the embryonic collectors; and if the suggestion is followed, philately must flourish and likewise, the satisfaction of the boys and girls. The WEEKLY intends to do something of this sort on its own initiative this year; and we know that when we furnish some particulars next week, there will be a response from a few of our friendly readers.

Christmas Suggestion—The suggestion has reached us that no doubt among our readers are some who would be disposed to donate odds and ends of duplicates to a "gift fund" for Christmas distribution to "shut-ins," if their attention was called to the subject and if they knew that the stamps would be distributed advantageously and to those deserving of attention. We shall undertake the collection of such a fund by contributing a lot of miscellaneous stamps to it; and others who care to build on this foundation are invited to put aside stamps for the purpose and notify us of their act. Then, we shall send them the name of one or more "shut-ins" desirous of stamps, to whom the donors may send the presents of stamps direct. We wish to be given the names and addresses of worthy "shut-ins" who want stamps and who cannot afford readily to secure them through the accustomed channels. The "shut-in" who through affliction or disease is confined constantly to the house often finds that the time passes even cheerily when it may be spent with stamps. In fairness to a contemporary, it must be admitted that the plan outlined is not a new one but it is one whose adoption cannot be too heartily recommended. All correspondence relating to "shut-ins" should be addressed to the editor, C. E. Severn, who is in Chicago, at 721 Oxford Building.

How Do We Know—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who could tell instantly from memory whether he had such-and-such a stamp in his collection? Is he chumming with the o. f. c. who when he heard of a new stamp-collector called without introduction upon him in the evening to show his album and do some "trading" if circustances were favorable? What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who would put the stamp purchases in a little envelope, only if they amounted to a transaction of fifty cents or more? Is he comparing notes with the o. f. d. who remembers the Guatemala, 1882, bi-colored quetzal issue, as the most popular stamps ever issued up to that time?

At Least He Says So—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says that he has proved that there exists a collector who did not lay aside some unused Columbians with speculative intent at the time of their issue: A stamp dealer who suggested to a "star" customer that he join a stamp society so that he could have the benefit of its sales department: A collector who never received a sample copy of a philatelic publication without subscribing for the paper and a collector who could tell a brown violet from a violet brown at the instant and without comparison.

Awaiting Word—It is pleasing to notice that Parnassus Penflip's consent to accept the berth of postmaster-general in President Wilson's cabinet has been hailed with great gusto by several readers who have lost no time in writing to convey their appreciation of the Penflip's magnaminity in taking the office, so far as his acquiescence is involved. Yet the towering figure about whom the discussion circles conducts himself with becoming sang froid, as the following letter attests: "Congratulations upon my almost certain selection as postmaster-general are pouring in and it is the general feeling that my decision to serve in the cabinet will ensure a phenomenal popularity for Mr. Wilson's administration. It is too early for me to indicate the stamp changes that I contemplate; be not precipitate in anticipatory optativeness. In preparation for my trip to Washington, could you not remit the $2.50 of the $92.50 owing me for my literary lucubrations? Surely I have been patient." We need not remind our literary hero that patience is a virtue worthy of a monument and that it ill behooves him at this time when the eyes of the world are upon him to descend to any calculations of financial kind.

Let Someone Answer—The following problem of philatelic conduct has been submitted as worth the consideration of the giant intellects of our readers: "An expert in visiting the home of an ardent but philatelically unlettered acquaintance of rather recent acquisition, upon espying a palpable counterfeit of one of the Cape wood-blocks, mildly and tactfully expressed the possibility that the stamp might not be genuine, although of course he really disliked to say that it was a gull. Thereupon, the well-heeled and hospitable novice said blandly that the stamp could not possibly be a forgery, as he himself had taken it off a letter given him by his Uncle Nimmo, who was some functionary at the Cape in 1861, when the wood-blocks were issued. Shall the guest gently but firmly persist in his position or drop the subject?" Come away, he is in his cups.

Not So Bad—In the opening ceremony of the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition at London, Sir John Henniker Heaton, in moving a vote of thanks to the Right Honorable Herbert Samuel, M. P., who made the address on the occasion, that earnest advocate of postal progress, Sir John said that "he could assure the Postmaster-General that there was less crime amongst stamp collectors than amongst any other class of men with which he came in contact." This is a fact both interesting and true, and philatelists now have another count in favor of stamp collecting, notwithstanding any thought to the contrary that the new dealer might have who found that the only one of the five collectors to whom he had sent unsolicited approval sheets had substituted the only good stamps that had been on it originally.

A Rare Plate—The plate of the famous "Post office" Mauritius stamps which was so compelling an attraction at the London exhibition in the dealer's stall of Mr. D. Field, is the subject of much discussion in the English papers. Any regret at the seeming irregularity by which official property of the kind could come into private possession is met with the feeling of security in the thought that the plate is in the hands of so worthy and scrupulous a philatelist, as it is. Mr. Field sold the plate to Mr. Loder, a customer. It has been suggested that a fine line be cut across each engraving on the plate to guard against any possible misuse of it in the future, should the plate in any way become lost or stolen.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

King Edward VII Land.—This book is a history of the stamp issued for use in connection with Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition of 1907-9. It is written by Alexander J. Sefi, the frontispiece being a fine half-tone of the commander of the expedition. There are several full page plates, including a picture of the Nimrod, used copies of the stamp on and off the cover, and Antarctic scenes. The book is published by D. Field, 4 Royal Arcade, London, Eng. from whom it can be obtained at the moderate price of 12c per copy. It is a very handsome production.

Stamp Collectors Annual, 1913.—This edition of the Annual is the tenth that has appeared and is edited by D. B. Armstrong and published by H. F. Johnson, 44 Fleet St., London. The price of the book is 25c. It follows quite closely the lines of the previous edition, but is thoroughly up-to-date and will prove of great value to the general as well as the advanced collector. It would take considerable space for us to give even a resume of the contents of the book but we feel confident that any collector who invests his quarter for this book will not ask for any refund of money. It is profusely illustrated.

Check List of British Colonials, 20th Century.—This List has already been referred to in the WEEKLY and many of our readers have had the privilege of a personal examination of its contents. It is published by Stanley Gibbons, 198 Broadway, N. Y. City, and claims to give the actual market value of all specimens issued from January, 1901 to October, 1912. The man at the helm understands his business so well that we should not presume to question the correctness of the quotations made. Though a price list, there is a great deal of information scattered through the book, and the collector of British Colonials will undoubtedly keep it where it will be easy for reference. Price 25c.

CHAPTER XVII.

2 Cents, Brown, 1869.

At first glance there is little about the 2 cent brown, with its postrider, of issue of 1869 which would appeal to a stamp collector as possessing much field for study. But the specialist finds considerable in this stamp to delight him, outside of its being one of a series which has always been beautifying to any album.

There are a variety of shades and sizes of grilles, and also of paper, which make it fairly fertile for study, and when every stamp, possible to secure, has been mounted, the philatelist has really a very presentable page of two cent browns.

The stamp first appeared for sale about the middle or latter part of April, 1869, and was upon the postal market about 12 months. The stamp was printed from plates number 3, 4, 5, 6, 27 and 28. There were 300 stamps to the sheet, each stamp being slightly oblong, the official size being 20¼x20 mms.

Mr. Luff, in his authoritative book upon the U. S. stamps, gives the following collectible shades: Yellow brown, red brown, pale brown, and dark brown. To these shades I wish to add the light brown and black brown.

It is stated with authority that there were 83,743,600 stamps printed and issued to postmasters.

Four sizes of grilles are found in this stamp, although the authorities consulted to date give but two. The grilles generally known are 9x9½ with 12x12 points and 9x9, with 12x11 points. I do know that the stamps are found grilled 9½x9½, with 13x12 points and 8½x9, with 11x11 points. Split grilles are frequently found; double grilles are rarer.

The catalog also mentions the stamp as being officially issued without grille. This stamp comes only in one shade—yellow brown. Whether it was issued with authority or by accident no one is so far able to inform us.

The stamp was also printed in the 1875 reissue, and, of course, not grilled. The two can be readily recognized, if one is a student of stamps, for the reason that the regular stamp is in yellow brown with smooth brown gum, while the reissue, when found gummed, has a white crackly gum with a decided curl. Cleaned, stamps showing no grille have been regummed and put upon the market as reissues. Usually the expert tests will prove their bogusness, but sometimes an expert has been misled by carefully prepared stamps made to sell as reissues.

Pairs of this stamp are not uncommon, but strips of three are found oftener than the straight pairs, on account of it requiring three stamps to pay double letter postage. Blocks of four and larger are not frequently met with. I have seen the stamp with double impression—printed twice. I am sorry to say I do not possess the variety nor do I know where that copy is now.

There is considerable field for the specialist who pays attention to cancellations. The usual cancellation is black, with pen marked next in commonness. Then in turn come blue, red and green. "Paid" cancellations are quite rare.

The stamp has been found bisected, and half used as one cent. It has not been my privilege to see a copy.

Cleaned stamps of this denomination are frequently found. They can usually be found out by holding to the light. Unless the pen mark was very light the pen left its mark as well as the ink.

CHAPTER XVIII.

3 Cents, Blue, Issue 1869.

Probably one of the first stamps which attracts the attention of the young collector is the square stamp, blue, with an old-fashioned engine standing at "present arms." There are but few stamps in the entire line of U. S. to which more, or even as much sentiment is attached as to this little "sticker." It is not overly attractive, has little by way of variety to recommend it for study, and yet it is one of the earliest to be added to the average collection.

This stamp was the first of the series to be issued to postmasters, and was to be seen by patrons of the postoffice from early to the middle of April, 1869. It soon became common, but owing to its evident lack of popularity with the public, its use lasted only a year when it was replaced with the familiar three cent green, of 1870-71.

Ten plates were used for making the three cent stamp of 1869, to wit; Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 25, 26, 29 and 30. The shades officially announced for specialists are dull blue, gray blue, ultramarine and deep ultramarine. To which I will add a true shade of blue and a shade resembling bronze blue, as we know it. This latter might have been caused by having a trace of orange upon the plate, caused by wiping with a cloth used in printing the 10 cent.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 300, size 20½x20 mms. The total number printed was 386,475,900.

Five sizes of grilles have been found, with probably more to follow when collectors take the time and care to measure all which come to their hands. Those so far known are:

Size.	Points.
9½x9½	13x12
9x9½	12x12
9x9	12x11
8½x9	11x11
8½x8½	11x10

The stamp is found without grille, but the usual ones of this kind, so called, have a faint trace of grille when put to the expert test. The stamps were officially printed with grille missing, in shades of pale ultramarine and dull blue. What plates were used is not known.

The reissue is in a shade of deep ultramarine, entirely different from the ordinary stamp.

This stamp has been found printed upon double paper. This may be news to most collectors, but it is a fact. This double paper effect was made by printing upon a very thin paper, which was grilled all over. Then a thicker backing was applied and the stamp was finished. A block of four of this experimental variety was in the possession of H. G. Mandell.

The 30 cent of this same issue was also printed upon double paper, but the upper sheet was not embossed, or grilled.

Two-thirds, used as two cents, is the only bisect so far learned of.

Pairs are most common with this stamp, strips not rare, but blocks, except in unused condition, seem to be very scarce. Cancellations out of the ordinary seem to be uncommon. The usual postal cancellation is in black, and many stamps are pen cancelled. Blue is not often met with, green is rather scarce, and red very unusual. "Paid" cancellations are worth a small premium over catalog price.

I forgot to state in the preceding two chapters that proofs both in cardboard and India paper are worth collecting. These will sometime be much sought after, and they can now be obtained at a reasonable figure. The set of proofs makes a beautiful addition to the pages.

The writer is very fortunate in having the entire set of 1869 in superb unused condition and proofs as well, in his collection. The two make a most handsome appearance.

A Chat With the Advertiser

One reason why the WEEKLY has such a strong hold upon the collector is because it tries to simplify his stamp collecting. The specialist is needed but it is to the general collector that we make our appeal. We are constantly receiving commendatory letters.

L. R. Geisengerger, a Lancaster, Pa., attorney, remitting for two years writes:—"I have been a subscriber to the WEEKLY ever since I began collecting. It was the first stamp paper I ever paid money to receive and the last I would want to be without. I have each year's issues bound, indexing them myself as to such matters as interest me. It is indeed a welcome weekly visitor."

We neglected to note last week the advt. of E. R. Vanderhoof, Denver, Colo., who is offering revenue bargains at wholesale quotations. C. A. Pitkin of Montpelier, Vt., will be with us regularly commencing next week.

After using trade space for many weeks W. S. Aldrich of St. Joseph, Mo. will be found regularly on page 2. Charles S. Osgood has an announcement of Seychelles that will prove of special interest to our readers. His stock of this country is unsurpassed.

The Hussman Co. thinks enough of our advertising space to advertise auction prices realized at a recent sale. This publicity is certainly deserving of special mention.

Next week a great paper surely.

EXHIBITION NEWS.

We expect to be able to give some interesting news by next week with a probable present for every member of the corporation, at present there are only about five hundred members but this number should be doubled before the end of the year. There are probably hundreds of readers of this paper who would be glad to give, but do not know where to send their dollar, so we annex a list of some of the finance committee.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass.. when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—M. T. Perkins calls attention to the fact that some of the current post cards, McKinley 1c blue on bluish are coming on thinner stock than was the case at first. Mr. Perkins shows us a specimen confirming his statement. When held to the light the thinner card shows a cloudy or mottled texture, though taking ink fairly well.

Geo. C. Hale, Jr., reports finding a half sheet, 50 stamps, of the 1c violet postal savings stamp, all of which have little upright colorless marks at the extremities of the ceriph. The plate number was gone and it is not known whether the balance of the stamps in the sheet had the same defect.

ARGENTINE.—Freeman C. Allen has shown us an aviation stamp from this Republic, which came on a cover, sandwiched between pairs of the current 1c and 5c postage stamps. The aviation stamp is a large oblong, the main feature being the flag of the Republic flying from a short staff, with "Republica Argentina" across the top and "Pro-Aviation Militar—1912" in a single line across the bottom the folds of the flag at the right have dropped down giving room for a figure "5" in a large "C."

We have received from Mr. Schachne the Express letter card described in No. 1089 but with the "Laborer" stamp. No other change.

Express Letter Card.

30c carmine on white,—outside buff.

BOLIVIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us another provisional from this country made by surcharging the 10c vermilion with "Correos—1912" in black.

Provisional Adhesive.

Fiscal stamps of 1894, surcharged "Correos—1912." 10c vermilion; black surcharge.

BOSNIA.—Whitfield King & Co. and the New England Stamp Co. have now shown us the krone values in the new set and we find the colors somewhat different from those recorded in No. 1140. The 2k is black on blue, 3k, carmine on green.

CANADA.—L. C. Hooper sends us specimens of the new 1c coil stamps of the Dominion, including an unused strip of three, which is quite a curiosity in its way. The strip is perforated at the ends, but the perforations between the stamps are missing. The marks of the perforating needles can be seen, but the paper is only lightly marked. The strip and a pair used on the envelope were found in lot of 2,000 stamps used by the Hooper Publishing Co., and were all that were found that were not normal.

COLOMBIA.—Freeman C. Allen has shown us a cover from Barranquilla, franked with two 2c stamps of the issue of the 1908 issue, and the upper half of another making five cents postage.

The following is from Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List:

A correspondent sends a circular issued by the Postal Department of this Republic, and sent to the leading firms of stamp engravers and printers in America and Europe, asking for tenders for the supply of a new issue of stamps, of which the following are the particulars; the name at the end of each line is that of the individual whose portrait is to be depicted on the stamp or description of central design, which is to be in black in all values:—

4,000,000	½c	violet, Caldas.
8,000,000	1c	green, Narino.
16,000,000	2c	red, Santander.
4,000,000	5c	dark blue, Bolivar.
2,000,000	10c	orange, Lucre.
100,000	4c	Registration, violet, Allegorical design.
1,000,000	20c	olive, Ricaurte.
200,000	50c	vermilion, Cordoba.
400,000	1 peso,	lilac, Arms of Colombia.
100,000	5p	black on yellow, Camilo Torres.
40,000	10p	black on green, Arms of Colombia.
100,000	2½r	Retardo, carmine, Arms of Colombia.
500,000	10c	Registration, light blue, View of Salto de Tequendama.
100,000	5c	"A. R." yellow green, View of National capital.
50,000	4c	inscribed "Urgente" for Express Letters, grey, A Postman.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—Arthur Russell shows us the 15c value of the King George set, and also reports having seen other used values of the new set as given below. The earliest post mark seen was Oct. 2.

Adhesives.

10c buff.
12c gray.

50c lavender and black.
1r black on green.
2r black and red on blue.

FRENCH COLONIES.—Le Postillon gives some interesting information regarding new surcharges on Colonial stamps, which were slated to appear on October 15. The Colony denomination and number printed were as follows:

Guadeloupe—
05 red on 4c group; 83,000.
05 red on 30c group; 63,000.
10 black on 40c group; 50,000.

Indo China—
05 black on 4c group; 28,000.
05 red on 15c gray group; 1,386,000.
05 black on 30c group; 71,000.
10 red on 40c group; 65,000.
10 red on 50c brown group; 56,000.
10 black on 75c group; 37,000.

St. Pierre Miquelon—
05 black on 2c group; 42,000.
05 red on 4c group; 121,000.
05 red on 15c blue group; 82,000.
05 black on 20c group; 36,000.
05 red on 25c group; 213,000.
05 red on 30c group; 96,000.
10 black on 40c group; 97,000.
10 black on 50c group; 60,000.
10 black on 75c group; 43,000.
10 black on 1fr group; 47,000.

Senegal—
05 red on 15c group; 195,000.
05 black on 20c group; 36,000.
05 red on 30c group; 72,000.
10 black on 40c group; 72,000.
10 black on 50c rose group; 37,000.

Le Postillon says that in addition to the above, there were to appear at the same time further issues of the surcharges made in July and duly chronicled at that time. In most cases the new issue amounts to practically doubling the original issue. This new opening of the sack, says the editor of Le Postillon, will have two results: First, it will allow those who have not had them to obtain them; second, it will calm a little the frenzy of those who were alarmed at the advance of these surcharges. Where only 58,000 stamps of any value were surcharged the effect may not be great, but in the case of the 05 on 15c of Indo China, 1,386,000 specimens should discourage the hardiest speculator. Of the new surcharges the 05 on 4c of Indo China and the 10 on 75c of Senegal would appear to be most likely to advance in price later.

INDIA.—We have just received from W. T. Wilson specimen copies of the 25 rupees, regular adhesive and Service, Georgian issue, as chronicled in our issue of Nov. 2. The stamp is a very imposing one and printed in blue and brown orange is exceedingly handsome. The "Service" is printed in large sans serif capitals.

JAMAICA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us two values of the King George set from this Colony.

Adhesives.

2d gray.
1sh black on green.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us three of the lower values of the King George series, the design, being in the current Colonial type.

Adhesives.

¼d brown.
1d scarlet.
2½d dark ultramarine.

NEW ZEALAND.—A foreign contemporary reports that £1 rose of 1881 issue has been surcharged "Official."

RHODESIA.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 6d comes with the centre in a deep brown color instead of gray brown.

SIERRA LEONE.—Whitfield King & Co has shown us two more values of the King George set, the 1d having been previously chronicled.

Adhesives.

1½d orange.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—The African World says: The new issue of postage and revenue stamps for the Union of South Africa will be ready, it is expected, about the middle of next year. The designs have just been approved by the Union Ministers in Cabinet, and have been returned to England, so that the dies may be cut and the plates made.

The new postage stamp will be of a plain design, and there is nothing on it of a national or emblematical nature. The head of King George will be shown in an oval, the picture being the latest portrait of the King, who has approved it personally, and is the same as that used in the latest issue of the Imperial stamps. Down the two sides round the portrait will be printed the words "Union of South Africa" and "Unie van Zuid Afrika." The border of the stamp is in very simple, but effective, scroll work, and at the bottom, in the right and left corners, the value denomination of the stamp will be shown in figures. The stamp altogether is remarkable for the simplicity, though effectiveness, of the design. The issue of the ½d, 1d, and 2½d stamps will be in accord with the fixed international postage colours—i. e., green, red, and blue respectively; the colours of the others will be fixed at a later date.

The revenue stamp, which is about half as large again as the postage stamp, carries a more ambitious and artistic design. Besides the King's head and inscription, at the top and on both sides, the stamp will be decorated with a curtainlike effect.

It is understood that in about three months' time the colour scheme will be submitted to the authorities here. In the meantime, the cutting of the dies will be begun immediately. The Treasury has at the moment stamps in stock to last until next September, so that the new issue will be ready before the old stock runs out.

URUGUAY.—The New England Stamp Co. and Whitfield King & Co. have shown us two more values of the Artegas locally printed. Like the 2c recently chronicled, the new stamps are very poorly printed though the colors of the originals are imitated fairly well.

Adhesives.

5m red violet.
5c dark blue.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

OFFICIAL STAMPS.

Another important class of stamps not available to the public comprises those issued for official use. These stamps are used for franking the mail matter of the more important Government departments. As a matter of strict reality all such mail is carried free but some countries use special stamps as an easy way of determining the exact amount which ought to be credited to the Post Office for the service. Most countries now dispense with the use of these special labels and use instead official envelopes. These official stamps are either of distinctive design or are overprinted with some word or letters to indicate their special use. Generally one series suffices for all the Government departments of a country but occasionally individual series are issued for each separate department as was the case with the United States stamps of 1873-79. These stamps were all inscribed with the name of the Department for whose use they were intended but most other English speaking countries have converted [illegible] ordinary postage stamps into official ones by the simple expedient of applying an overprint.

Where the word "OFFICIAL" or "SERVICE" forms part of the inscription or overprint the character of the label is at once apparent. Thus the overprints "Army Official," on the stamps of Great Britain, or "Army Service," on the stamps of Sudan, are self explanatory and at once show that the labels were used on the correspondence of the department dealing with army matters. Where other words or simply letters are used the beginner may find some difficulty in arriving at the proper character of these stamps but the following list of overprints (except where otherwise stated) should simplify matters:—

Admiralty Official.—A British Government department dealing with naval affairs.

Board of Education.—A Government department of Great Britain.

G. F. B.—Found on some of the stamps of Tonga. The letters stand for "Gaue Faka Buleaga" which means On Government Service.

Govt. Parcels.—An overprint found on various British stamps issued to the different Government departments for use on parcels.

I. R. Official.—Used in connection with the Inland Revenue department of Great Britain.

O. H. M. S.—"On His Majesty's Service." Found on some of the King Edward stamps of the Somaliland Protectorate.

On H. M. S.—"On His (or Her) Majesty's Service." Found on the stamps of India and the Somaliland Protectorate.

On Public Trust Office Business.—This lengthy inscription forms the chief part of one of the official stamps of New Zealand issued in 1891.

On S. S. S.—"On Sirmoor State Service." On the stamps of the Indian Native State of Sirmoor.

O. P. S. O.—"On Public Service Only." Found on many of the stamps of New Zealand.

O. S.—"On Service." Found on the stamps of New South Wales, South Australia, Trinidad, and Liberia.

O. S. G. S.—"On Sudan Government Service." On the stamps of Sudan.

O. W. Official.—Used in connection with the Office of Works department of Great Britain.

P. G. S.—"Perak Government Service." On Straits Settlements stamps converted for the use of Perak.

Postage Free.—These words, with a crown between, and a border around like that on the first stamps for the Cook Is. form the design of an official stamp used in New Zealand in 1887.

R. H. Official.—On British stamps used in connection with the Royal Household.

In addition to the above South Australia furnishes a series of 55 different overprints but as these are rarely met with it is hardly necessary to detail them with their respective meanings.

In countries where the inscriptions are not in the English language more difficulty will be experienced in identifying the official stamps. Most of those of the Central and South American republics are easily distinguished for the word "OFICIAL" or "FRANQUEO OFICIAL" (Official Frank) forms part of the design or overprint. Other forms will be found in the list given below:—

E.—Overprinted on certain Bavarian stamps in 1908 for the use of Railway officials.

Francobollo di Stato.—This means literally "Frank stamp of State" and appears on the Italian official labels.

Frei Dürch Ablösung.—(Free through communication.) With "Nr. 16" stamps so inscribed are official stamps of Baden, and with "Nr. 21" they are official stamps of Prussia.

O. B.—Found on Philippine Is. stamps and means "Official Business."

Officiel.—Luxemburg.

O. H. H. S.—"On His Highness' Service." Egypt.

Pjon. or Pjonusta.—Iceland.

Service de l'Etat.—"Service of the State." Egypt.

Sevicio Interno.—"Internal Service." Guatemala.

S. P.—"Service Publique." i. e. Public Service. Luxemburg.

Tjeneste.—Denmark.

Tjenste. Sweden.

2000 Varieties $9.85

We have just received 10 Collections of 2000 different stamps mounted in 4 books; these 10 Collections are the best value in the line of 2000 variety Collections which we have ever handled. These Collections are not made up of the cheapest continentals which could have possibly gone into this Collection, but contains a very large percentage of the better grade of stamps, cataloguing from 3c each upwards.

We have only 10 of these Collections at $9.85; they are really worth more.

If upon receipt of this Collection you are not more than pleased, and you do not find the same entirely satisfactory, send it back to us, and your money will be refunded without argument or delay. We know, however, that you will be pleased and that you will recommend this packet to your friends.

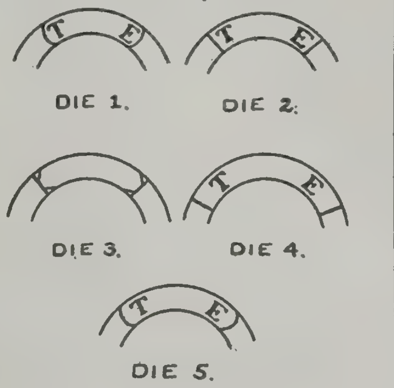
UNITED STATES ENVELOPE DIES.

By C. A. HOWES.

In the first issue of stamped envelopes, which appeared July 1, 1853, there are five well-marked dies which are, perhaps, more familiar to collectors than those of later issues. These are numbered in the catalogues instead of being lettered like the more recent issues—why, I cannot say, for Horner lettered them in his history.



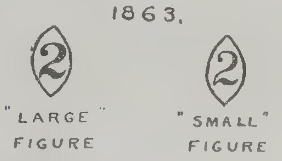
The outline illustrations show the differences between the dies, which are mainly in the lettered labels. Die 1 is often called the "close die," because of the curved ends of the label inclosing THREE coming so close to the initial and final letters. Die 2 is the "narrow, straight" die, the ends of the label being straight and near the word THREE. Die 3 is generally known, as the "K die." It is very similar to the last, but a short, diagonal line has been drawn in each corner of the label, making octagonal ends rather than "K ends." Die 4 is the "wide, straight" die. Not only is the label much wider than any other, but the letters of THREE are much farther apart. The ends are straight like Die 2. Die 5 is the common one, the label being narrow with curved ends which do not come so close to the word as in the case of Die 1.

Of the 6 cent there was but one die like Die 2, but of the 10 cent there were two, the narrow straight, Die 2, and the wide straight, Die 4.

With the issue of 1860, with stars at the sides, there is no difficulty as there is but one die of each value, except the 1 cent. The only difference between the dies of the latter is that Die 1 has a period after POSTAGE, while Die 2 has none, and is slightly larger. Both the 1 cent and the 3 cent however appear with many minor varieties such as have already been alluded to, but which are not important enough to notice here.

In the issue of 1861 there are no die varieties except in the 3-cent value, and these again are of the minor type, though two are distinct enough to have special mention in Mr. Toppan's list. The first one has a broken circle containing the numeral at the left, and the second has a broken circle at the right, which runs into the outside border line of the stamp.

When we reach the 2 cent value of 1863-4, we find a number of differences. The first dies used in 1863 are lettered U. S. POSTAGE, and though there are a number of varieties only two are important enough to list.



The illustration shows the difference between them which is most marked in the figures 2. In February, 1864, new dies appeared of the same general design, but inscribed U. S. POST. above. Again, there are many varieties due to carelessness in engraving, but these are grouped into two divisions following the width of the stamped impressions. These run from 23½ mm. to 26½ mm. The dividing line is taken at 26 mm., and all impressions having this width or over, are assigned to Die 1, while all under 26 mm. are assigned to Die 2.

For the other values of the 1864 issue there are only single dies, except for the 3 cent and 6 cent, which are again only minor.

We now come to the most puzzling of all issues for the majority of collectors. These are the so-called "Reay issue" of 1870, and the "Plimpton issue" of 1874. When G. H. Reay was awarded the contract for the stamped envelope series of 1870, he produced an artistic and beautifully engraved set of dies in which we find no varieties except a slight difference in the form of Franklin's "choker" on the 1 cent. The contract awarded by the Post-Office Department as most of us know, runs for four years. At the end of this period the Plimpton Manufacturing Company of Hartford, Conn., were the successful competitors. Mr. Reay tried by every means possible to prevent the new parties from carrying out their contract, refusing to deliver the dies to them and even attempting to "buy-up" every competent die sinker that he could obtain. The result was that the Plimpton Company brought out a poorly executed series of copies of the Reay dies, which are readily told from the latter. Some of them were so poor that several attempts were made to improve them, and hence we have a number of dies of these values which were generally those most used and therefore most hurriedly produced in the first place.

H. F. COLMAN,

There are three general distinguishing features between the two issues; first, the fine engraving and clear printing of the Reay as against the more poorly executed and generally less clear appearance of the Plimpton; second, the horizontal shading lines which appear embossed without color on the numerals, or in the case of the 7 cent on the discs containing them, which are usually quite distinct on the Plimpton dies, but generally hardly noticeable on the Reay dies, and when they are distinct on the latter, seem to be finer than the Plimpton; third, the periods after U and S in the Reay dies are always square, while a majority of the 1, 2 and 3-cent Plimpton dies exhibit periods that are anything but squares.

For other differences between the two issues and the various dies of the Plimpton series we had best take up the issues together, value by value.

1 cent. Reay. Bust evenly placed in oval and end points to N of ONE. All the scallops between the lettering and outer frame have dots in them.

Plimpton Die A. Bust comes to a corner at the back, very close to the frame. Lettering small and scroll-work very poorly done.

—— Die B. Bust evenly placed in oval like Reay, and end points between N and E of ONE. Back line of bust straight.

2 CENT PLIMPTON

2 cent. Reay. Well-formed thick numerals in circles.

Plimpton Die A. Poorly formed thin numerals in circles; no ball at bottom of 2.

—— Die B. Thick numerals in ovals; O in TWO has a solid center of color.

—— Die B2. A variety of B in which the tail of the 2 at the left touches the oval.

—— Die B3. Another variety of B in which the center of the O in TWO has a couple of crossed lines in it.

—— Die C. The tail of the 2 is entirely clear of the down stroke, while in the previous dies it is connected with the down stroke for some distance above the "ball" numerals in ovals. This is the common die of the red 2 cent.

—— Die D. Numerals similar to C, but bust is cut away in a pronounced arc of a small circle, though nearer a quarter-circle than a semicircle as usually described.

3 CENT PLIMPTON

3 cent. Reay. Thick numerals in circles, (all ovals in Plimpton).

Plimpton. Die A. Tall, thin numerals in large ovals; small lettering.

—— Die B. Shorter; thick numerals in smaller ovals; large lettering; base of bust ½ mm. from bottom of frame.

—— Die C. Similar to B but base of bust 1 mm. from frame and knot of queue quite prominent.

6 CENT. 1870; 1874.

6 cent. Reay. Neck long at the back.

Plimpton. Neck short at the back and hair comes over the forehead in a hook—upside down.

7 CENT. 1870; 1874.

7 cent. Reay. The figures 7 do not curve up at the bottom.

Plimpton. The figures have an upward curve at the bottom forming a hook.

10 CENT. 1870·1874.

10 cent. Reay. Knot of queue almost unnoticeable.

Plimpton. Die A. Known as the "Booby die." The head is very large, filling up the oval and coming very close to the frame.

—— Die B. Very similar to the Reay die, but the knot of the queue stands out quite prominently.

12 cent. Reay. G of POSTAGE has no cross bar; point of bust cut off square.

Plimpton. G of POSTAGE has a cross bar; point of bust is rounded.

15 cent. Reay. Head shows side whiskers.

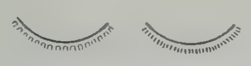
Plimpton. No side whiskers—only a single lock of hair in front of ear.

24 CENT. 1870:1874.



REAY. PLIMPTON.

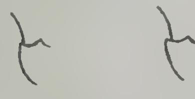
24 cent. Reay. Ornaments following border of oval end in little squares.

Plimpton. The ornaments end in lines.

30 cent. Reay. A straight edge placed against both bottoms of the labels containing numerals will show them to be parallel.

Plimpton. A straight edge placed in the same manner will show plainly that the labels are not parallel.

90 CENT. 1870:1874.



REAY. PLIMPTON.

90 cent. Reay. The upper corners of the shields containing the numerals stop practically at the edge of the oval containing the head.

Plimpton. The corners of the shields project noticeably into the oval, making a good hook.

5 CENT. 1875.

DIE A. DIE B.

In 1875 a new value was engraved by the Plimpton Company, viz., 5 cents, which comes in two dies. Their distinctive features is the shape of the numeral which in Die A has a thick "flag," and in Die B a thin one. There is a third intermediate variety of numeral which is not listed in the Standard catalogue.

The Centennial envelopes are known to all. They were struck from two dies, one at the Hartford works of the Plimpton Company and the other in the Government Building at the Exposition. The latter, commonly called the Philadelphia Die, was damaged, and shows a double or split white line beneath POSTAGE, where the Hartford Die shows but a single one.

We have now described the varieties up to the time when letter postage was reduced to 2 cents on Otober 1, 1883. For this event a new 2-cent die was engraved of the same general design as the 3-cent Die B which was in use so long. The large colored letters on the engine turned ground will distinguish it from the succeeding 2-cent dies. It is generally known as the "October Die."

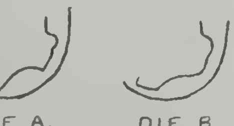
At the same time a 4-cent envelope was issued, but in a much neater and better-engraved design. There are two dies of this, differing mainly in the numerals, those of Die A measuring 2¾ mm. across their widest part, and those of Die B measuring 3¼ mm. The former also comes to a point at the left angle of the left figure 4, while the latter are blunted there.

The 2-cent die was unsatisfactory, and in November a new one appeared of the same general design as the 4 cent. Between the labels containing the lettering and the white frame lines will be found four wavy lines—two next the outer frame line and two next the inner one—which serves as its distinguishing feature. This is called the November die, but it did not prove much better than the previous one. The impressions were printed in red until May, 1884, when the color was changed to a muddy brown. This ink did not print as well and the dies deteriorated under its use much faster than before. The result was that in June the impressions showed the dies had been retouched, the white lines of the design having been thickened and the whole design having a coarse and blotched appearance which is very noticeable—in fact, more resembling the coarse impressions of the next (July) die than the original November die. Some of the differences, however are so marked that they must be ascribed to different dies though they are only listed as varieties of the "June" or "retouched" die, as it is called; yet they are as worthy of being given a "letter" under this design as the different dies of the 2-cent Plimpton, for instance.

There are three of these varieties, viz.: the "Two-link" variety, which has only two diamonds or "links" between the right oval containing the figure and the end of the label beneath, instead of two and a half as in the normal design; the "3½-link" variety, which has this number of diamonds between the left oval and the end of the label above it, instead of 2½ as in the normal design; and the "round-O" variety in which the O in TWO is a perfect circle.

There is one variety known as the "spread die," which seems to be a hybrid between the November and the retouched dies, as the left half of design shows the evidences of retouching in the wider lines and larger figures, while the right half has not been altered.

2 CENT. JULY 1884.



DIE A. DIE B.

In July, 1884, another design appeared, which followed the last one very closely, but is distinguished by having only one wavy line between the inscribed labels and the white frame lines. The white lines of the design are also heavier than the November (1883) die which is the reason the retouched (June) die somewhat resembles it. This is known as the "Kellogg Die," and it became very familiar and very monotonous to us all during its thirteen years of service. There are two varieties, Die A having the bust come to a point below the queue and Die B having it rounded off there, which makes the bust a little thicker at the back.

We now come to the issue of 1887, in which the uniform design, adopted for the four common values, is known as the "Tiffany Die." In the 1 cent there are two well-marked dies, which are not noted in the Standard catalogue, as well as several minor varieties. These two dies are distinguished A, by a larger bust inclined forward, no cross-bar on G of POSTAGE, and the side ornaments 4½ mm. long; B, by a smaller but more upright, G has the cross-bar, and the ornaments only 3 mm. long. The latter is the common one.

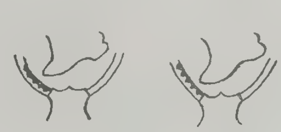
DIE A DIE B.

The 2 cents also has two well-marked dies. Die A, commonly known as the "rejected die," has the point of the bust directed toward the third white tooth of the inner serrated line. (In the drawing the teeth are represented in black, for the drawing shows the design and the latter is given by the white lines in the solid color of the stamped impression.) There is no cross-bar to the G of POSTAGE. Die B has the point of the bust directed toward the second white tooth of the inner serrated line, which does not tilt the head back as before, and the G now has a cross-bar. There are several minor varieties, but the most noticeable is perhaps the "capped 2" variety, where the figure has a white cap very similar to that found on the capped varieties of the 2-cent adhesive of 1890.

2 CENT. 1887.



DIE A DIE B.

The 5-cent had but one die until 1894 when Purcell of Holyoke, had the contract. A new die then appeared which was distinguished from the previous one bv the fact that there appeared to be no neck to the bust in front. Die A shows the neck between the coat and the chin, and also a button on the lapel in front of the shoulder strap. Die B has no button, and the coat comes directly up to the chin. This is called the "Holyoke Die."

In the meantime the Columbian series was issued, and in this design we find four varieties, though they are not listed in the Standard catalogue. As they are quite plain we give them in case any one is interested:

Var. 1. Period after CENTS; meridian back of Columbus' head.

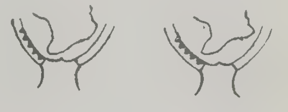
Var. 2. Period after CENTS; no meridian back of Columbus' head.

Var. 3. No period after CENTS; meridian back of Columbus' head.

Var. 4. No period after CENTS; no meridian back of Columbus' head.

The 1-cent occurs in varieties 1, 2, 3; the 2-cent and 5-cent in all four varieties; the 10-cent in variety 3 only.

2 CENT. 1899.



DIE A. DIE B.

We now come to the current issue, which made its appearance in 1899. In the 2-cent value we again find a "rejected die." This time instead of being tipped too far back, the bust was tipped forward, so that in Die A the point of the bust comes down almost to the left upper corner of the shield containing the figure. In Die B the point of the bust is sharper and is directed between the first and second white teeth of the inner serrated line. (See remarks concerning the drawing under the 2-cent of 1887.)

The 4-cents has three dies which can be as well described as illustrated. Die A has a long, thin neck, with the "Adam's apple" showing; there is no draping in the bust, which ends in a point. Die B has a shorter, thicker neck, with no "Adam's apple," and the bust has draping on it with something in front resembling a necktie; the bust is not pointed, but blunt. Die C is unmistakable, as the head is large instead of quite small as in the other two, and there is no inner serrated line at all, thus departing from the original design.

NEW YORK STAMP CLUB EMTERTAINS.

Members of the Hudson County Stamp Club were the guests recently of the Newark Stamp Club at the latter's headquarters. About fifty members of both philatelic organizations were present and the evening was indulged in exchanging stamps and viewing the rare collections of members.

The local club was organized in 1911 with eight members. At the present time there are fifty-one members. The committee in charge comprised the officers of the club, as follows: A. C. Roessler, president; H. A. Henckel, vice-president; D. B. Crockett, secretary; H. E. Planck, treasurer; E. S. Allen, sales manager.

THE MODERN COLLECTORS' CLUB.

One of the interesting, and we believe commendable developments of the times is the organization of an active American Branch of the "Modern Collectors' Club" of London. This flourishing Exchange Club is entering on its fourth successful season on the other side, and as being developed now in this country, there is no reason why the local Branch should not meet with equally gratifying growth and success.

The former American Secretary, B. W. H. Poole, who is well known to all readers of the WEEKLY, did not feel able to devote the time necessary to conduct a local exchange or sales department, and so retired in favor of W. M. McCutchen, 85 Myrtle Ave., Plainfield, N. J. Mr. McCutchen informs us that the first local circuits will be sent out early in December, and that immediately after the first of the year he expects to issue a call for selections for interchange with British circuits.

Among the unusual features claimed for M. C. C. exchange (more properly speaking, sales) circuits are commission of only 5% on sales, full postal insurance at cost of the Club, and last but not least, short selected lists for circuits so that returns can be made in four to six weeks. The secretary advising owners the amounts of sales, the latter will have the privilege of deciding whether their selections shall be returned to them or sent out on another circuit for a like period.

There are a number of other features of interest and value to members, full particulars of which can be obtained from the secretary, as per advertisement which appears elsewhere.

EXHIBITION NEWS.

What are you going to show at the great stamp Exhibition to be held in New York next October? Mr. C. Lathrop Pack will show his magnificent Cape wood blocks, Mr. Geo. H. Worthington will exhibit his wonderful U. S., Dr. Carroll Chase will teach collectors what can be done with one stamp, how four hundred varieties of the 1851 U. S. can be detected, Mr. Duveen will let the public look at some of the rarest stamps in the world. A number of different collectors are running a race to see who can collect the best lot of stamps in one year. Hundreds of other amateurs will show their best. Old and young, rich and poor will all compete, making the most marvelous lot of postage stamps ever seen under one roof. The Bank Note companies will show how stamps are printed. Skilled engravers will let you see them at work. The post office will establish a branch office and enable the public to learn how stamps are treated after they leave your hands. Of course, you are going now to tell your friends to prepare to visit New York and the Great Exhibition next October.

EDITORIAL.

Moving Along—Our Christmas suggestions have not fallen on barren ground and the Christmas hamper idea bids fair to be put in joyous operation. If the plan of a cornucopia of philatelic tid-bits is worked out in a practical way, as there is every likelihood it will be, a distinct benefit will be conferred on philately and the gift question will be happily solved for those adults who give remembrances to the young folks. We shall reflect each week, the progress that is made in this work of promotion of Christmas cheer. The "shut-in" suggestion has been received as the political editor would say with the "wildest demonstrations of approval" and even now is certain of successful consummation. Already, we can assure a few "shut-ins" who like stamps that the big outside world is not too busy to give them kind thought during the bustle of Christmas preparation. We want more names of "shut-ins" who like stamps out of all proportion to the number that they have and more names of readers who are willing to send a packet or a philatelic something to one or more of those afflicted persons who cannot compete for stamps in the way that the healthy, active collector can. Before the names of "shut-ins" are given us, we ask that the senders assure themselves that all is in good faith, as obviously, we cannot undertake to investigate each case. The editor, C. E. Severn, 721 Oxford Building, Chicago, has this feature in charge and the names of those who ask and of those who give should be sent to him.

A Start—Our roll of fame has been begun and two names lead all the rest; and by next week, we hope that many additions will be possible. For well over eleven hundred weeks or since January 7th, 1891, Volume I, Number 1, these two gentlemen have subscribed for our paper: C. B. Duffy, Columbus, Ohio and W. C. Stone, Springfield, Mass. Mr. Duffy, the collecting caliph of Columbus says: "I have been a subscriber since the first issue and have about four years coming." Mr. Stone, the stamp sage of Springfield says: "I have taken the WEEKLY from the beginning and purpose to keep it up as long as Providence will permit. My file is bound and in constant use." Mr. A. J. Bickel, Goshen, Indiana, writes: "I was a subscriber to your paper from 1891 to 1906, when I stopped collecting until two years since when I again subscribed. As long as I collect I shall take the WEEKLY." In his boyhood days, Mr. Bickel published the Indiana Philatelist.

After Them—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who saved the election "pasters" for use, when cut in half, as hinges? Has he taken as a partner the o. f. c. who would gaze rapturously, almost by the hour, at the frame containing samples of all the United States stamped envelopes, one to ninety-cents, that was on the wall of some of the post-offices? What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who delighted to tell how the stamps of Brazil boomed in 1876, when Dom Pedro visited Philadelphia on the occasion of the opening exercises at the Centennial? Has he found a congenial vis-a-vis in the o. f. d. who called Tasmania, in describing the contents of a stamp packet, Van Diemensland?

More to Come—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says that he has run to cover a collector who never applies for approval selections without sending a money deposit: A collector who received for his collection that he sold to a dealer much more than he thought it would bring: A philatelist who has never thinned an o. g. specimen and a young collector who never thought of going into the stamp business.

We Have Our Idea—Another problem of conduct is presented for solution by our readers who excel as arbiters in difficulties that beset those who tread in the circles of the highest and most exclusive philatelic society. "A touchy dealer who was very independent about even showing his stamps of which he had a splendid stock sold an August ten-cent, 1861, to a customer in the belief that it was the ordinary type. The dealer, who, as has been said, would brook no controversy or opposition when his philatelic acumen, which he thought was absolutely unquestionable, was at stake, would resent his mistake being pointed out, even though to have rectified it would have redounded to his benefit. Is the collector who profited by the transaction justified in keeping the stamp and his silence?" Let us leave the young people to themselves.

Frost—It may be recorded with sadness and it is reported with truth that the reception that the new ten-cent registry stamp is receiving would make an Eskimo igloo a hot-house by comparison. If the veracious postal clerks are to be believed, the intelligent American public will not use the distinctive stamp; even the eagle's screech falls on ears deaf to patriotic appeal. At some of the offices the clerks say frankly that the public uses the stamp in every way but the right one and for that reason they do not handle the stamps. What has become of the collector who in years gone by advocated the issue of a special registry stamp? The indications are that the registry stamp will follow the lead of the letter-sheet.

Fie—"What has become of the o. f. c. whose hands were so adhesive that a good stamp or two stuck to them every time he looked at my collection when I was not present, although at the time I never suspected in my innocence that he stole them?" queries a reader. Perhaps, he has joined the renegade who was so jealous a scamp that he would slyly tear a piece out of a stamp that the neighbor boy had but which he lacked, when the opportunity offered.

Philatelic Art.—Have you seen R. L. Goldberg's syndicated pictorial series of five illustrations on the theme, "Medical Experts are Still Unable to Diagnose the Stamp Collecting Mania?" If by any chance you have not encountered these copyrighted gems of art that have appeared in many newspapers throughout the country, it is to be said that they are typical Goldberg caricatures and are labeled according to the following samples: "The authorities have not yet been able to figure out a law to suppress the stamp collecting bug," while winsome wifie, hard by, murmurs, "I'm afraid I'll have to poison him:" "The Stamp Collector's friends have to assimilate an awful lot of punishment," while the writhing friend asks, palpitatingly, "Are you sure your doctor is giving you the right treatment?"

There Is a Way—We do not become excited in reading the following newspaper item until the last sentence is reached. Almost every one is a stamp collector at heart: "A number of New York houses have discovered that the parcels post will make samples expensive, that the establishment of the zone system will make it cheaper to send samples in bulk to Europe and there mail them under foreign stamps to houses in the United States; that the postage on samples mailed abroad is just one-half what it is in the United States. Besides the foreign stamp attracts more attention to the sample" (applause) "than if it were mailed in this country."

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.00 for two years renewal or two years new subscription for a friend, and we shall send you the book post free.

OUR ENGLISH ADVERTISERS.

It is a striking tribute to the power of the WEEKLY as an advertising medium that no less than eight English firms are advertising in this issue of our paper.

The old and reliable firm of W. H. Peckitt whose advertising has been a prominent feature of the WEEKLY during the past year, has its regular quarter-page and no reader of the WEEKLY can possibly miss it.

The quarter-page advertisements of Field, Ginn and Charlick will no doubt result in good business returns. They are prominent and reliable exponents of the business side of British philately.

With Messrs. Bright and King exploiting their catalogs during the past six months, there can be no question but that these firms are securing a goodly hearing by American philatelists.

Representing the auction interests we have the firm of Harmer Rooke & Co., which was with the WEEKLY regularly during the last season, and promises to take space in coming issues.

We have a dealer new to our columns whose offerings will prove of interest to small dealers especially. We refer to W. Berry and we are assured that he has a large wholesale stock with many offers of interest.

THE MODEL STAMP FACTORY.

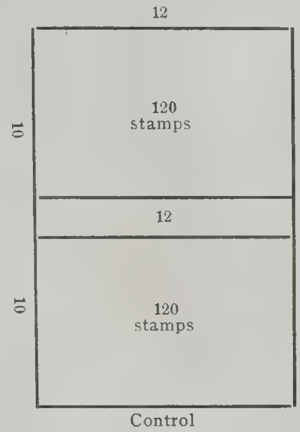
By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

In an enterprise of many side-issues, all of which are completely successful, it is not possible to point to any one feature as more remarkable than another. Yet the Model Stamp Factory at the recent Exhibition was a most wonderful demonstration, on lines more ambitious than anything heretofore attempted, showing how postage stamps are made, tracing the history of the process from the paper-pulp to the stamp in what the Americans call "post-office" state.

As an attraction the Factory drew many thousands of visitors who would probably never have visited a purely philatelic display of stamp collections. But we estimate its value more as an educational benefit to the thousands of actual students of stamps who were able to learn and appreciate technical details of the production of stamps, a lesson which to many of those students should be of lasting benefit in the serious work of philately. If the demonstration revealed something of the complexity and difficulty in the way of producing fine typographical stamps to a wider circle than the strictly philatelic element present at the Exhibition it will have done an excellent public service over and above what the organisers sought to provide. That printers from all over the country, and notably the leading stamp-printers, and printers' mechanicians visited the display and found much to interest them is a testimony to the thoroughness and the skill expended by the various firms taking part in this harmoniously co-operative stamp factory.

But the test of the success of the Model Stamp Factory lies not so much in the enormous attendance it attracted, nor in the lessons the enterprise undoubtedly taught. The public may like to see "the wheels go round" in any process of manufacture; and lessons may be learned from failures often better than successes. In our opinion the real test of the success of the Model Stamp Factory lies in the excellence of the work it produced day by day, to the extent of many thousands of perfect sheets of the Ideal Stamp.

The plates were a novelty and surprise to most of the skilled printing experts who visited the Exhibition. They were not produced from a hand-engraved die, nor was the original multiplied by any electrotyping process. Yet each stamp on each plate was a perfect replica of the first picture, indeed, as the inventors of the process claim, every unit on the plate is an original. The large plate for typographical printing was composed of two panes of 120 stamps, arranged in the manner of the plates used for the British postage stamps thus:



To construct a plate of these dimensions by the ordinary methods as used at the Royal Mint is a long and complicated matter, involving very considerable cost. In the first place the design has to be engraved upon steel, in itself an expensive matter. Then the conditions of duplicating the die by electrotyping are such that much difficulty is often experienced in securing perfection in the plate, particularly as regards alignment and perfect rectangular level to the printing-surface, but also as regards the fine lines of the design. By the Printex system, as Messrs. Miller & Motley term their process, everything is done on a strictly mechanical basis, which ensures mathematical precision in every step in the whole course of the work. It is beyond the immediate scope of this article to explain how it is all done; we have to deal more with what was achieved in the production of the Ideal Stamp. That the plates used at the Exhibition evidenced the truth of the inventors' claims, however, is to our present purpose. The nature of those claims is comprehensive of identity of design, accuracy of register, celerity and infallibility in production, minimum cost of production, permanency of the first original "record" of the design and facility in detecting any fraudulent or other imitation.

The inventors specifically state that:

"The Printex Process produces any number of absolutely identical originals, on any character of printing surface, with an accuracy of register and a perfection of detail heretofore unheard of, and at a mere fraction of cost by the ordinary imperfect methods now in vogue.

"By the Printex Process the uncertain personal factor of tedious, inaccurate hand-work is replaced by the celerity and infallibility of precision machinery. The most elaborate and involved designs are produced as rapidly and perfectly as the simplest.

"The Printex Process includes an imperishable, unalterable record of each job, from which an exact duplicate may be made at an hour's notice, and at a very slight cost."

The process has been fully protected by patents throughout the world, and we have no doubt of its ultimate adoption by a number of firms engaged in the printing of postage stamps. Its applicability to a variety of surfaces and to cylindrical plates was demonstrated at the Exhibition, and its importance as a new factor in the printing world was enthusiastically endorsed by the numerous printing experts who visited the Model Stamp Factory. The Executive Committee marked their appreciation of the special value of this display by the award of a special gold medal to Messrs. Miller and Motley.

DEATH OF E. Y. PARKER.

We are exceedingly sorry to record through H. V. Blackburn the death of the formerly well known Canadian dealer, E. Y. Parker, who conducted business for many years from 155 Dowling Av., Toronto. His death occurred Nov. 14.

Mr. Parker was for many years a patron of the WEEKLY and he was the soul of honor in his business transactions. In our many years of business relationship no complaints were ever lodged against him, and we feel certain that many dealers and collectors throughout the country will join with us in our regrets that philately has suffered the loss of so honorable a worker.

CHARLES LATHROP PACK

One of the World's Foremost Philatelists, recommends our new British Colonial series of Packets and says,—"The 1000 straight variety Br. Col. packet of Quality and Value is the best I have ever seen for the money."

WHAT IS A BARGAIN?

It doesn't mean a "fall in price," a "comedown" from a former charge, or something "cheap."

You cannot be too careful these days as there are lots of "just as good", which while not absolutely worthless, are low in quality and value. This being true, it would be wise—no matter what you want to buy—to deal direct with maker whenever possible.

Facts to think of. The makers are directly responsible to buyers of their products. You buy the very best of Quality and Value at cost plus one profit. This means you get Real Bargains.

READ THIS UNHEARD OF GUARANTEE. NEVER BEFORE MADE BY ANY DEALER.

It means every stamp a perfect copy—every one up to your standard. THINK MAN of getting a packet of all perfect copies!

THE GUARANTEE

Every stamp in our Br. Col. series of Quality packets are guaranteed to contain only perfect copies—either unused O. G. or postally used. All postage stamps. If there should be copies in your packet that are not up to your standard, we insist, that you return and they will be replaced, free of charge. Further. We guarantee entire satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. YOU CAN'T LOSE!

NOTE: These packets contain only straight varieties, straight issues,—no minor varieties, watermarks or paper are counted as varieties. Really packets of all different stamps.

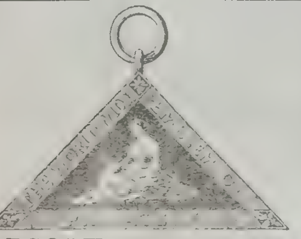
These packets do not duplicate our regular variety packets and collections. They are new—just offered the buying public. No matter what packets you have had of ours you can use one of the following to real advantage.

The larger the packet, the more value for the money it will pay to buy the largest packet you can afford.



ABSOLUTELY FREE

One of these choice real gold plated emblems as pictured above. Over 4060 now worn in London alone. Every collector should have one. Free with order for any of the following packets.

250 all diff. straight var. Br. Col. postage stamps. Certainly a fine lot and would prove a fine "buy" for collectors having 2000 var. or less. Price $2.45

500 all different straight varieties Br. Col. postage stamps. Our Leader in this series as its within the reach of all and can be used by collectors—no matter what size their collection may be.

Remember there is a great deal of difference between "500 var. Br. Col." and "500 all diff. straight var. Br. Col. postage stamps." We can arrange and assemble a "500 var. Br. Col." and sell at a profit at $3.00. Late advs. of others show they ask $5.00. But we only sell the best Quality—what collectors really want. Others would have to charge $10 to $15 for this packet. Our direct to you price—cost plus one small profit—enables us to offer this lot for only.............................. $7.50

1000 all diff. straight var. Br. Col. postage stamps. This is a Real Bargain. If you have 10,000 varieties in your collection—just count the Br. Col. you have. You will find you can use a great number and remember this packet contains only straight varieties.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Herman W. Boers sends us a clipping from the Detroit Free Press giving the particulars of the promotion of R. E. Smith to be assistant cashier of the Old Detroit National Bank. Mr. Smith has been with this bank about eighteen years having worked his way through practically all departments to his new position. He is the sales manager of the Detroit Philatelic Society.

—Charlat's Advertiser for December is before us. It is a bright, newsy sheet and Mr. Charlat's advertisement elsewhere will no doubt make a goodly demand for this enterprising house organ.

—August Mack of Scranton, Pa., desires space in the WEEKLY to say that he greatly regrets the report that has been circulated in N. Y. City as to his reliability. We quote from his card as follows:—"A man is not dishonest simply because he is unable to meet bills as promptly as he might wish. Particulars will be given in the December number of my magazine." We might add that no complaint has been filed with the WEEKLY in respect to Mr. Mack's obligations.

—The Cresent Co. advertises a universal collectors' pin, as will be seen elsewhere in this issue. It is gotten up in sterling silver and is beautifully colored. This offer will no doubt interest many of our readers.

—J. E. Handshaw, the well known dealer, has been in the Ross Sanitarium, Brentwood, L. I., where he underwent a serious surgical operation. Mr. Handshaw writes that it appears to have been successful and he will spend a short time in North Woodbridge, Ct., convalescing.

—We feel complimented in the fact that L. S. Charlick's Monthly Circular thinks enough of the WEEKLY to reprint some of Mr. Poole's matter from a recent number of our publication. The Circular is a house organ of more than ordinary interest and its scheme of giving premiums will be of moment to our readers. Note advertisement elsewhere.

—James C. Graves, manager of the Providence Stamp Co., has removed to 160 W. 65 St., N. Y. City. Delay in answering correspondence may be attributed to the change. The company expects to continue in business from the new address though under a new name.

—H. S. Powell, the packet dealer, has been seriously ill during the past three weeks. He is now on the mending hand and hopes to be able to attend promptly to the business of the firm.

—The next meeting of the Suburban Stamp and Curio Club will be held at the home of A. W. Wright, 37 Norton St., Dorchester. This meeting may be the last opportunity to enroll as a charter member. Notice of intention to join will be accepted by writing to Dr. C. C. Thompson, Sec., 76 Poplar St., Roslindale. All Boston and suburban collectors are invited.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from:—A. L. Tomes, C. E. Nickles, J. Rausch, T. C. Keyes, A. P. S. 3553, R. E. Jessup (2), Walter S. Wilmot, Geo. H. Sleeper, Wm. Evans, Herman W. Boers (5), Copley Stamp Co., Hugo Kuenstler (2), F. R. Hayworth, A. Steinberg, R. G. Montgomery (3), A. C. Roessler, Frank E. Smith, F. C. De Puy, Laurence P. Dodge, W. C. Bartlett.

—Ralph H. Graham, Windsor, N.S., sends us no less than 73 stamp clippings all dated within the past six months. It is a notable collection.

2000 all diff. STRAIGHT var. perfect Br. Col. postage stamps mounted with the best of peelable hinges in four books. When you consider 2000 all diff. straight var. you will realize that many really high priced and rare stamps must be included. SERIOUS COLLECTORS who can afford this lot—its a gold mine at our price—buy by all means and "fill in" those blank spaces. 2000 straight var. would mean more than "3500 var. Br. Col." Immense value and the price is but.... $200.00

(We made the price an even $200—it leaves us less than $8.00 profit over first cost.)

ORIGINAL COPPER PLATE

OF THE

POST OFFICE MAURITIUS STAMPS

And also the same reversed by photographic process, showing the stamps as they would appear if printed direct from the plate.

The edition will be limited, so subscribe at once, 36 cents per annum, post free.

This plate will eventually be worth pounds. You cannot have the stamps, value 20,000 Dollars, so get the nearest thing to it, 36 cents.

The history of this plate, since it was used for printing, has been a very uneventful one. In its early days it had been kept by a high Official in Mauritius as an interesting souvenir of the first stamp of the country. In due course it passed to his son, who sold it to a small Syndicate of Philatelists in London, from whom Mr. Field purchased it. It was the centre of attraction at the recent Philatelic Exhibition. The Plate is valued at 25,000 Dollars.

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

We want to buy a stamp collection for cash. J. L. Wolff, 717 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis. [tf*

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—J. N. Morse reports having found a current 2c envelope on white, with another, almost whole, stamped, folded and sealed as one envelope inside. The inside one is gummed and outside one without gum.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Stamp Journal says that there is a persistent rumor that the postal authorities intend to surcharge all the stamps above 1d in value, like the 2d of Victoria, recently surcharged. This will be done, it is said, not only to the stamps of Victoria, but of all the other states as well. This is to be done to reduce the stocks of stamps of the old issues before the appearance of the new stamps.

In line with this probably is the recent issue of the 2d envelope, 2d card and 2d letter card of Western Australia, with "One Penny" in a diagonal surcharge. The 2d letter card of Tasmania has also received the same surcharge.

BAHAMAS.—Ewen's Weekly says that specimen copies of the 6d and 1sh Georgian stamps have been seen in the regulation colors.

Adhesives.

6d lilac.
1sh black on green.

BOLIVIA.—Gibbons Monthly reports another provisional, the 20c black and lilac of 1901 having been surcharged diagonally in black, "5 Centavos 1911." Only 300 copies were overprinted.

Provisional Adhesive.

5c on 20c black and lilac; surcharge black.

CHILE.—We have already chronicled the new 10c, the portrait being the same as the 5c of 1911, the stamp being a practical reproduction of the 5c, except being in two colors, and of course having different figures of value in the lower corners. Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us three other values of the new series, and we find they are all reproductions of stamps from the previous series, with values and colors changed. The 2c is a reproduction of the previous 1c, the 4c is the same as the previous 3c and the 8c is the same as the previous 10c. It will be noted that the 8c is a new value in the stamps of this country.

Adhesives.

2c bright carmine
4c black brown.
8c slate.

DENMARK.—A new series of stamps is in preparation, with portrait of King Christian X in naval uniform. The values and colors will be the same as the current issue.

FRANCE.—Maury's Collectionneur states that the 40c and 50c stamps of the current series have appeared on a satin paper, having a battonnage visible under the glass. In view of the recent issue of counterfeits, it is likely that this paper will be used for all values.

GERMANY.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the 10pf double card with divided face, also a 5pf with divided face. The upper half of left hand space is occupied by a notice of seven lines enclosed in a single lined rectangular frame with broken corners. It seems to be a "Breslau 1913" commemorative. Only the stamp and address lines on the right hand space and the card is larger than ordinary.

Post Cards.

10x10pf carmine on buff; divided face.
5pf green and black on white; divided face, 145x95 mm.

of Postage and Revenue stamps. [H
PARKER, BETHLEHEM, PA.

GREAT BRITAIN.—According to Postmaster-General Herbert Samuel, as reported in Ewen's Weekly, the Georgian series will consist of 18 denominations and six different designs. Different designs were desirable for administrative reasons. Accordingly it may be assumed that three of the six designs have already been issued, the ½d, the new 1d and the 2d showing the three.

GREECE.—A new series of stamps will be issued as commemorative of the successful war with Turkey. The design will show an eagle holding a viper in its beak and tearing it asunder with its claws.

INDIA.—The London Philatelist reports the 5r value of the Georgian set.

MOROCCO.—A correspondent writes to Lemaire's Philatelist regarding the stamps chronicled some time since, showing a minaret and palm under an arch, as follows: "The stamps in question are properly local stamps. They were issued by the Sherifian Administration of Telegraphs, and permitted communications between the following points in Morocco: Fez, (We give the French spellings) Petitjean, Mechra Bel Ksiri, Souk el Arba des beni Aissa, El Ksar, Larache, Arzila, Tonger, Poste du Sebou, Mehedya, Rabat, Casablanca, Meknes, Mogador, Mazagan, Saffi, Azemmour and Marakech. Registered envelopes are allowed. The tariff is the French rate, expressed in the native currency.

PHILIPPINES.—Mr. Schachne has shown us the current 4c post card on blue, a change from buff.

RUSSIA.—Offices in the Levant.—Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us the stamps chronicled in No. 1141, and we find that the overprint is in an entirely new type, and is printed horizontally near the top of the stamp. The type used is a medium light face condensed Gothic, and the printing is very finely done. Messrs. King write that the 3½pi value was soon exhausted, as the number issued at Constantinople was small. These new stamps will be on sale only until the first of the year as a new set will then be issued bearing the portrait of the Czar.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist reports that 3,000,000 2d stamps had been sent to Melbourne to be overprinted "One Penny."

SWITZERLAND.—The postal authorities will issue stamps of 3, 5 and 10 francs, about January 1. They will be used to prepay postage on newspapers and printed matter within the confines of Switzerland. Singularly enough, Mr. L'Eplattenier will not be called upon to furnish the design for the new stamps, the commission having already been confided to Mr. Grosset of Paris, according to Maury's Collectioneur.

TASMANIA.—A large supply of the 2d value has been sent to Melbourne to be surcharged "One Penny."

Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

REGISTERED LETTER STAMPS.

A special class of stamps issued in connection with the postal system are labels issued for use on Registered letters or parcels. In most civilised countries a registration system is in force under which one can, by paying an addition charge, be assured of a relatively safer conveyance and delivery of a letter and, in case of its loss, compensation can usually be secured. But though registration forms an important part in the postal service of so many countries in but few places have special labels been issued to denote that the registration fee has been paid. Many arguments have been held as to the standing of these labels and it has been asserted that they have no status as postage stamps but are only receipts given by the post office to show that the registration charge has been paid. But in some cases there is no doubt that part of the sum indicated by the registration stamp indicates the postal charge as well. In any case they are a small and somewhat unimportant class of labels. The continent of Europe does not provide a single registration stamp; Afghanistan is the only Asiatic country issuing them; in Africa we find Liberia is the only country that has ever troubled to issue these special labels; in America most of the varieties come from the various departments of Colombia, though the United States, Canada, Salvador and Venezuela have also issued them. Australia, New South Wales, Queensland, and Victoria issued these labels many years ago and these are perhaps the most interesting and valuable of all registered letter stamps. As a rule these stamps are easy to distinguish for they bear some word or inscription indicating their special use. Those of Afghanistan can only be identified by comparison with the catalogue illustrations. On the United States label the word is "REGISTRY," on the Canadian and Australian stamps it is "REGISTERED" while on other stamps the following equivalents for the English word are shown:—

A.—(an abbreviation for "Anotacion") This letter is shown on some of the stamps of Colombia.

Anotacion.—This word means "Registered" and is shown on some of the labels issued in Colombia.

Certificado.—This is another form for "Registered" or, more accurately, "Certified," and appears on the stamps of Salvador and Venezuela.

R.—(An abbreviation for "Registro") This letter is prominently shown on some of the stamps of Antioquia, Bolivar, Colombia, Cundinamarca, Panama and Tumaco.

R.—(an abbreviation for "Registered") Shown upon the registration stamps of Liberia.

Recomendada.—This word means, literally, "Recommended," in the sense that the letter is recommended for special care during its journey through the post. It is shown on one of the registration labels of Colombia.

Registro.—This word, meaning "Registered," is shown upon some of the stamps of Antioquia and Cundinamarca.

Rejistro.—Another form for "Registered" used on some of the Registration stamps of Colombia.

SHORT REPLIES.

B. G. (Belmont, N. C.).—The watermark in United States stamps is nearly always very difficult to distinguish. As a rule one letter should appear in each stamp but more often than not portions of two letters can be seen.

E. J. G. (Valley City, N. Dak.).—The book you mention can be obtained from the publishers of the WEEKLY. (2) A perforated stamp is one that has perforations while an unperforated stamp has no perforations. The latter word is not often met with nowadays having been replaced by the more generally used imperforate. (3) The King Edward VII Land stamps were formed by overprinting this inscription on the 1d stamp of New Zealand. (4) Postal Savings Bank stamps as an official issue are of course included in the catalogue.

S. M. R. ((Fayetteville, N. C.).—The illustration of the 6d stamp of Tasmania given as No. A4 in Scott's catalogue is quite unlike the design of the 1s stamps of 1858-64. In the 1s value the design is Octagonal with four short and four long sides, the name and value being in solid letters on an engine turned ground.

E. C. (Reisterstown).—I am afraid I cannot advise you as it is purely a matter for your personal taste and inclination.

A. C. (Santa Cruz).—There have been several varieties of the republic overprint in native characters on the stamp of China. I have no doubt you will find them all detailed in the new issue columns of the WEEKLY if you look through your file for the past three or four months.

O. D. C. (Watervliet).—The stamp you mention is either a bogus or speculative variety.

C. M. (Des Moines).—I much regret I cannot undertake to answer precancel queries.

H. L. (Wichita).—The minute differences you mention are of no consequence whatever. Such varieties can be found in practically any stamps and the small peculiarities may be confined to only the specimen you have and are caused by some slight imperfection in printing.

C. E. G. (Toronto). As Chinese stamps cannot frank international mail the letter you had from Harbin would have to be franked with the stamps of some other country—a member of the Postal Union—maintaining consular post office there. I believe Russia is the only country maintaining an office at Harbin.

E. S. B. (San Francisco).—The differences in the envelope stamps are simply due to overinking on the part of one of them. The variety is of no philatelic consequence.

V. C. H. (Frankfort, Ind.).—Your stamp is a local but of what country I am not quite sure from your description.

A. B. (Minneapolis).—The stamps of the Central American Steamship Co. are locals.

CHAPTER XIX.

6 Cents, Issue of 1869.

The history and characteristics of this stamp may be told in very few words. There is very little out of the ordinary which will worry or confuse the average collector, and when every known variety has been mounted, there will be not more than a page or two in the album devoted to this 6 cents issue of 1869.

Like most of the stamps of the series this one is usually poorly centered and oftentimes made uncollectible by reason of heavy cancellation. When the collector has secured a used copy which is well centered, lightly cancelled, and possesses no faults, I am certain that he is justified in asking full catalog price for it—if, indeed, he wants to dispose of it. Where one copy is really fine there are probably 100 not fine, or even good. In fact, I believe that some day dealers will carefully assort their stamps according to condition, and will ask and receive a good round price for stamps which can truthfully be called perfect specimens.

The stamp under consideration was issued to the public about the first of May, 1869, and remained in use not quite one year. It is found in four true shades—pale ultramarine, deep ultramarine, blue and dull blue. I have a copy which has a shade of blue bordering upon purplish, distinct from anything else in my collection or duplicates and a peroxide bath has no effect upon it.

The stamp was printed from two plates—numbers 13 and 14. I have not been able to find any plate varieties or other characteristics existing in the engraving. So far as my library shows if varieties exist no publicity has been given to the discoveries.

There are three sizes of grilles, as follows:

Size.	Points.
9x9½	12x12
8½x9	11x11

The catalogs and books of history are silent upon the existence of the stamp really and truly issued without grille. It is possible that a sheet or two might have missed passing through the grilling rolls. Unless a block or several adhering stamps were furnished, unused, and with full original gum, I should not accept a copy as not having a grille.

About the usual run of cancellations are found. I have a green, red, claret, red and black in combination, black, pen-struck, two forms of Paid, and perhaps others which I have not remembered.

It seems reasonable to suppose that the stamp might have been bisected, and half used as three cents, but I have not heard of such "splitting" having occurred.

The stamp was reprinted by the Continental Bank Note Co., the order having been given to the printers on Aug. 26, 1874. The color of this reprint is ultramarine and is, of course, without grille. Of these reprints there were issued 10,000 and only 2,226 were sold. The balance were turned back to the department and destroyed.

These reprints can be identified by the color and texture of the paper. The paper is the peculiar white, hard paper used for these reprints. I have seen true reprints with white gum, proving that the order that the stamps were to be ungummed was not observed.

In making up a check list of collectible kinds and things in this stamp I would say:

Four shades.
Three sized grilles.
Unused.
Pair, strip or block—all if possible.
Various cancellations.
Reprint.
Proof on India paper.
Proof on cardboard.
Other things if they can be properly identified and vouched for as genuine.

CHAPTER XX.

10 Cents, Issue of 1869.

To the mind of the writer there is no handsomer stamp printed in a single color than the 10 cents 1869; and perhaps no stamp is harder to secure in fine condition. Owing to the color—a beautiful orange—and the fact that it takes the ink splendidly the cancellations are reminders of a bootblack's daub. Most of them were liberally attacked with cork stamp destroyers, and when one is found which has escaped the ruthless hand of the postmaster, it is so badly out of center as to sadden the ordinary collector.

These stamps, like the 6c, began appearing about the first of May, 1869, and were withdrawn with the entire issue when superseded by the issue of 1870. They were thus in use a little less than twelve months.

Mr. Luff, in his work upon the stamps of the United States gives three shades for this stamp—yellow orange, orange, deep orange. I believe that reddish orange should be added to this classification.

Printing was done from two plates—numbers 15 and 16. The total number issued (not necessarily used) was 3,299,700.

Three sizes of grilles are found—to date—as follows:

Size.	Points.
9x9½	12x12
9x9	12x11
8½x9	11x11

Usually the grilles were points down—looking from the face of the stamp. I have one which shows points up. I do not know if this is very rare, or not.

Like the stamps which have been reviewed in this issue, plate and line varieties, if they exist, have been carefully concealed.

Colored cancellations are not infrequent, and a combination of black and red is frequently met with. Green naturally would be somewhat scarcer. I have not seen one with Paid cancellation, although I am certain they exist and in considerable numbers, too.

There is one noticeable fact about this stamp, as well as others which have been reviewed before, and which I forgot to mention. There are at least two degrees of thickness in the papers. The thinner paper seems to have been closer wove than the heavier stock.

This stamp was easily oxidized, and some odd shades are frequently met with. These shades disappear with the application of peroxide, proving that it was not the ink alone which caused the difference.

In 1874 the 10 cents was reprinted, in common with the other denominations. These reprints are in a shade of pale orange, without grille, gummed and not gummed, on very white thin paper. The reprints were printed from plate 15. There were issued 10,000 copies, of which 1,947 were sold by the postal department. The balance was destroyed.

The same check list given for the 6 cents is suggested for the 10. Until some collectible variety is shown, other than mentioned, I can learn of nothing new to add.

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

To THE EDITOR:

Will you permit me to use a few lines to urge the eligibility of the laid papers found in various issues and denominations? Those whose word is court of last resort in recognizing or refusing various things in stamps to admission in the catalogs have declared that these effects were caused by printing with worn blankets, the threads sinking into the damp paper upon the press.

If this is true, would the laid effect be found equally as marked up to the very margin of the paper, as is the case in some issues? Is it not more likely that the laid paper effect was caused by the stopping of the paper making machinery while the thin pulp was traveling upon its way to completion, and thus left the marks of the supporting fabric impressed into the paper indelibly?

However that may be it is not my purpose to argue what the cause might be, but for the effect which is present.

If this laid paper effect was caused from accident why should that be a bar to its collectibility and cataloguableness—to coin a new word? Sheets of stamps have been printed in two colors, with part of the design inverted. That was wholly an accident. But that accident causes the stamp to rise in value many hundred fold.

It has happened that a sheet or two of stamps has escaped the watchful eyes of the makers and passed out in unperforated condition. Immediately this becomes known the stamps are eagerly sought for by collectors, and considerable sums of money change hands as a result of this accident.

The stamps with inverted centers are catalogued; the unperforated specimens ditto, notwithstanding that the makers never intended that they should be thus. Accident or design should cut no figure in the decision. When a stamp is found which shows under the most trying tests like that of the benzine cup that the paper has the laid effect, entirely different from the normal kind, then I say it should very properly be given a place in the collection and in the catalog.

Some day the justice of this claim will be recognized by the authorities, as it is today recognized by some experts.

FRANK E. GOODWIN.

To THE EDITOR:—

Looking into the future I feel that the efforts of the National One Cent Letter Postage Association will meet with rightful success, and that the postage on first class matter will be cut in half. This is of great interest to the firms and corporations, so much so that the institution I represent have given their help to the cause. This is a matter of business as cutting postal expense in half will be a great saving. On the other hand will not the change be a loss to stamp collectors? Will the issue of the common two cent stamp almost be done away with? Will the same be used the same as the four cent is at this time? If the efforts put forth are successful will the value of the higher denomination stamps be increased. I feel that this is of interest as the future may bring about many changes.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

Panama-Pacific Commemorative Postage Stamps.

Office of Third Asst. P. M. Gen.
Washington, Nov. 21, 1912.

1. Postmasters and others in the postal service are notified that the Department is about to issue a special series of postage stamps known as the Panama-Pacific commemorative stamps.

Description.

The 1 cent stamp is green, and in the center appears within a circle, a bust of Balboa, discoverer of the Pacific Ocean, looking to the left and wearing a cuirass and a helmet with a plume. On either side of the background are palm trees, with the ocean in the foreground. Below the portrait, in a horizontal panel breaking the circle, are the words "Balboa, 1513."

The 2 cent stamp is red. It represents the Gatun locks of the Panama Canal, with a merchant steamer emerging from one lock and a warship in the other. The mountains of the isthmus appear in the distance and palm trees on the right-hand side of the locks. Beneath the picture are the words "Gatun Locks."

The 5 cent stamp is blue and presents the Golden Gate of San Francisco harbor, with the setting sun in the background and a steamer and sailing vessel in the bay. The words "Golden Gate" appear below the picture.

The 10 cent stamp is dark yellow. The subject is "Discovery of San Francisco Bay," from a painting which represents the discovering party looking out upon the distant bay.

Requisitions.

3. Postmasters desiring a supply of Panama-Pacific stamps will make requisition upon the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps, using the blank spaces on Form 3201 and writing "Panama stamps" plainly opposite the items. The Panama-Pacific stamps will be issued in sheets of 70, and requisitions should be drawn for 70 or a multiple of 70 stamps of each denomination desired.

4. A supply of any other variety of ordinary stamps, due stamps, stamp books, postal cards or stamped envelopes likely to be needed soon should be included in the requisition, thus avoiding frequent requisitions. See the 1912 Postal Guide, page 31, paragraph 4.

5. The Department will not expedite requisitions for the Panama-Pacific stamps. They will probably be shipped within a week after receipt of requisition, unless requisitions should be so numerous as to cause delay. Postmasters should so time their requisitions as to avoid shipments during the holiday congestion of the mails.

6. The value of Panama-Pacific stamps handled must be included in postmasters' quarterly stamp accounts.

7. The Postmaster General has directed that the Panama-Pacific stamps shall be sold beginning January 1, 1913, and postmasters who receive them earlier must not place them on sale before that date. The Panama-Pacific stamps are not to be sold to the exclusion of stamps of the regular issue. Either commemorative or ordinary stamps should be supplied, as preferred by purchasers.

Third Asst. P. M. Gen.

It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.00 for two years renewal or two years new subscription for a friend, and we shall send you the book post free.

AEROPLANE CANCELLATIONS.

By Arthur T. Browne, B. P. S. No. 543.

No. 12.—Galveston, Texas.

The twelfth aeroplane cancellation was used at Galveston, Texas, on March 17, 1912. Through the kindness of George F. Weston, publicity agent of the Galveston Commercial Association, the following information was given me.

The service was in use but one day and the aerial mail man, aviator Paul Studensky, carried mail for a distance of nine miles. From a special postoffice on the field, Studensky flew to Texas City Junction, carrying 2700 pieces of mail matter. At Texas City Junction he dropped the sack of mail which was taken by rail to Houston, Texas.

The aeroplane cancellation was in black.

Mr. Weston's description of the aero mail service is as follows:—

That the air is a practical route, and that an Aero mail service is a possibility, was clearly demonstrated by the Aero club of Galveston, Texas, during a recent meet held in that city.

On March 17th, this year, Aviator Paul Studensky received from the hands of Postmaster H. A. Griffin a pouch of United States mail regularly recorded, sealed and stamped with the stamps cancelled with a specially prepared stamp and delivered said mail after a flight of thirty miles over water and land to representatives of the United States Postoffice where it was placed on board a regular mail train and from that point sent through regular channels to a dozen or more states of the Union and to Canada and to cities of Europe.

The special event of the aero meet was arranged by officials of the Galveston Commercial Association, who secured the co-operation of Postmaster Griffin for the establishment at the aviation grounds of a temporary postoffice. In charge of this postoffice was Mr. Shirley C. Forsgard, a clerk in the Galveston office who took with him to the grounds a specially prepared cancelling stamp bearing the words

Galveston Texas,
U. S. Aerial Mail
March 17th 1912

Galveston Tex

Notice of the event had been published in the local papers of Galveston and there was on hand at the hour of the meet a large gathering of enthusiasts who took advantage of the temporary postoffice to write and mail several hundred letters and postal cards to friends, newspapers and magazines throughout the country.

Regular hours of opening and closing the "Aerial mail" had been established, and the matter received was placed in a pouch and at the hour set for the start, 4.30 P. M., Postmaster Griffin personally sealed the pouch, delivered it to the Aviator and gave him his instructions as to where it should be delivered to the connecting rail lines which was at a station on the mainland known as Virginia Point.

At the first start of the Aero-mail carrier the machine failed to leave the ground, it being found that the mail sack placed in front of the aviator threw the machine off its balance.

A second trial was made after the sack had been fastened back of the aviator and this time after a run of sixty feet the plane majestically lifted and after a short turn in the air to gain elevation, Studensky, facing a twenty mile wind, sailed out over the city, circled the city hall and then bore away to the north traveling at what was given as a 65 mile speed.

The distance of three miles over the western part of the city was covered, then Studensky crossed Galveston Bay, following the route of the Galveston-Houston Interurban track where it crosses from the mainland into the city over a two mile stretch of water spanned by a monster concrete Causeway built by the city and county. Exactly 31 minutes after leaving the aviation grounds Studensky came to the earth again at Virginia Point where he was met by the Postoffice representatives, and where he was given a receipt for the mail he carried, the pouch then being placed aboard an Interurban car and from there carried on to Houston for delivery to the regular Railroad Postoffice mail clerk.

From Virginia Point Aviator Studensky made an immediate return to the Aviation field, and delivered back to the hands of Acting postmaster Griffin the receipt, making the round trip covering a distance of thirty miles in less than fifty minutes from the time he received the pouch.

EDITORIAL.

Busy Days—The departmental notice of the issue of the Panama-Pacific stamps made a timely appearance, and the information that it conveyed will whet the desire of collectors to welcome the stamps. The date of the issue of the stamps is January 1st, 1913, and the sheets are arranged to accommodate seventy stamps each. The coming year will be an important one for collectors in this country with its exhibition stamps and the parcel post issues as a beginning of its activities.

Evolution of the Triangle—Sometime ago, a reader showed us a specimen of the two-cent, 1895, with no lines in one of the triangles, the right, we believe. Since then, Mr. G. A. Hunt, Woburn, Mass., whose attention was directed to the oddity, as a student who had won his spurs as an investigator of the minor differences in United States issues has reported. Mr. Hunt prepared a chart of five stamps showing the "evolution of the triangle;" in the first stamp, the lines within the right triangle are normal; in the second they are not so sharp; the third stamp shows them less pronounced, while in the fourth they are even fainter. In the fifth specimen, the triangles barely are to be discerned, although in the stamp submitted for our inspection, the lines practically were absent. Mr. Hunt selected his illustrations from a large lot of the stamps and he proves conclusively that the delicate lines became worn away in the process of printing.

Part Perforated—The same correspondent writes to contribute some dicta on the three-cent 1857-60, part perforated, vertically and horizontally. Some months ago, in a communication to the WEEKLY, the esteemed Dr. Carroll Chase, expressed himself somewhat skeptically about the existence of these varieties but Mr. Hunt says that some years ago, he had in his possession temporarily, a vertical pair of these stamps, imperforate horizontally; he understands that the pair is now in the Worthington collection, which according to recollection contains both of the varieties which have been catalogued in our standard work since 1907. It may be remembered that Mr. Goodwin in his article on the stamp said that the two stamps, part perforated vertically and horizontally did exist. It is not necessary to say that these varieties are exceedingly scarce.

Thus It Was—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who says that no stamp paper published subsequently has ever equalled in interest Trifet's American Stamp Mercury, founded in 1868? Has he bumped into the o. f. c. who tells of trading a quart of shilling New Brunswicks for a number of the bogus "ship" type of Guatemala that were floated fraudulently in 1867? What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who made no distinction between grilled and ungrilled United States in his sales books? Does he tarry with the o. f. d. who called himself a timbrologist in his old printed announcements?

Get Their Names—Sinpod, the stamp sage, has sighted a collector who has given up hope of discovering an August variety, 1861, in a lot of the common type: An auction buyer who bought the only lot he wanted in an auction sale at a really low price: A beginner who never asked which is the rarest stamp known and a non-philatelist who did not ask the collector what he did with the stamps after he got them.

Here Is Another—Philatelic problem of conduct: "An impressionable young man calling for the first time upon a fetching young lady mentioned casually that he was a stamp-collector, whereat sweet Eglantine said that dear papah also was a collector. She called pater, who produced his album into the parlor; and in a burst of good nature, the young man got out his little duplicate book, which contained, among other stamps, a superb ninety-cent, 1869, that he had bought that very day for his own collection. Papah's face beamed and his prehensible fingers pounced upon the ninety-cent; and taking it, he said that the young man was welcome to have one of his duplicates, all common continentals, in return. What should the young man do? Smile or snort?" Old Trusty spoke again and another red-skin bit the dust. A mint one-dollar bill will be given for what the editor considers the best answer to the foregoing problem, in forty or fewer words, sent in by December 28th,—Parnassus Penflip barred from competition.

Already Issued—Beginning during the week ending November 30th, shipments have been made of the new parcel post stamps from Washington by registered mail; and each postmaster supposedly has received a supply. No doubt by the time that this notice is in print, some of our readers will have seen the new stamps.

Tried and True—Our roll of subscribers from January 7th, 1891 to the present day is enlarging and in another column the additions are made. Twenty-two years are a long period in the horology of philately and it warms the cockles of our hearts to hear from our indeed "constant readers." Apropos, we have a problem of conduct of our own. Mr. Henry McConnell, Walloon Lake, Michigan, writes: "I have been a subscriber to the WEEKLY from the beginning and have a complete file and will be with you 'till death do us part.' If you have any rich red sporting blood in your veins, make me a price for a life subscription. I am 61." If we named a small sum, it might be thought that our expectancy of life for Mr. McConnell was of short term and a conclusion of this sort would be cruelly contrary to our sincerest wishes. Again, if a liberal amount were asked it would not look sportsmanlike. We wish Mr. McConnell a long life and any attempt to measure it in dollars and cents seems a bit too sordid, in the case of an old and loyal friend.

Christmas Comes—Our Christmas plans are progressing well and we trust that the Christmas hamper will gladden the eyes of many of the younger people who through the gift will become responsive to the charms of philately. Really, the adult collector can give no more acceptable present than a philatelic package. Some of the "shut-ins" will be made glad as the philatelists who promise them their stamp odds and ends already have rallied in good number. More names of worthy "shut-ins" are desired as at this writing, there are more than enough stamps to go around.

Drink Did It—A madcap reader writes: "Speaking of keeping close to one's business (apologies to B. L. T.), I know a stamp dealer who uses a stamp tongs in his assaults upon the lump sugar." Our correspondent must have been using the glass too freely, else he would not have contributed to the sorrow of our readers in this way.

"IDEAL" STAMPS FOR THE KING.

At the meeting of the Junior Philatelic Society on Saturday it was announced that His Majesty the King had graciously accepted an album containing specially printed examples of the "Ideal" stamp. The stamp was printed at the recent London Stamp Exhibition as a suggestion for the improvement of the British penny stamp. Lord Stamfordham, in his letter states:

"By command of the King I write to express to the Exhibition Committee of the Junior Philatelic Society the best thanks of His Majesty for the Album of specially printed stamps, which you were good enough to forward for his acceptance.

"The King is very glad to possess these interesting specimens, both as a souvenir of the Exhibition, and as an illustration of surface-printed and intaglio stamps."

ARE YOU BOOSTING?

We were crowded out last week and unable to recognize some of the superb boosting with which we have recently been favored. A considerable number have taken the degree and we take pleasure in acknowledging the efforts put forth by J. N. Stonier, Mrs. Geo. L. Hall, John Terry, C. R. Van Deusen, H. J. Edmonds and Dr. C. L. Crist.

Mr. Terry sends in a subscription for the Public Library at Seattle and we commend this example as one worthy to be followed. C. H. Thatcher writing from Pierre, S. Dak. says:—"There is a little boosting going on up in this neck of the woods and I hope to exhibit the results in the near future."

DEATH OF C. B. DUFFY.

By WM. I. KIN.

In the death of Christopher B. Duffy which occurred November 30, at his home in Columbus, Ohio, philately has lost one of her most ardent students and thoro specialists. Mr. Duffy had been a collector since his boyhood days and had gathered together one of the really fine collections of the country. He was publisher of the Stamp Collectors' Figaro in the early days and carried it successfully through several volumes. He was identified with many attempts to found state association in Ohio even as far back as 1882 and served several times as president of them. He was the leading spirit in the foundation of the Columbus Collectors Club and served for three years as its president. Mr. Duffy joined the A. P. S. in its early stage of life and was a consistent, enthusiastic member, always willing to do more than his share toward attaining the goal of success. At the time of his death he was writing a handbook on the stamps of Guatemala which was being published serially in the Philatelic Gazette. His specialized collection of the stamps of Great Britain was without a peer in the world. He reconstructed sheets according to plate and control numbers and had many large volumes to attest the sincerity of his endeavor, ranging over several years of arduous and exhausting research.

While the loss of Mr. Duffy will be keenly felt by the philatelic world at large it remains for those in Columbus to more fully understand just what it means. The Columbus Collectors Club was in reality, the child of his brain and it was always first in the thoughts of that busy man. No matter what he had to do he always had time to attend the meetings, time to help this and that young philatelic student and always had a pocket full of stamps to assist and interest those who would have dropped by the wayside but for his timely efforts.

It has always been a source of interest to understand how a man, as busy as Mr. Duffy, could find the time to accomplish so much in a philatelic way. Mr. Duffy himself explained it that it was his only relaxation and recreation. His one source to free his mind from the besetting business cares, which as purchasing agent of a large railroad, were legion. His grasp of any philatelic subject under discussion was instantaneous and his knowledge of that subject eagerly awaited by his audience, profound and a source of wonder to those who heard him.

He, alone was practically responsible for the success and well being of the Columbus Collectors Club and his loss is one irreparable to the Club.

It is a pleasure to know that men like Mr. Duffy, or "Chris," as he was familiarly called, take such an active part in our philatelic world. Men, whose every action stamp them as nature's noblemen, ever considerate of the kindly thought and deed toward his fellow man and whose lovable personality radiate to all with whom they come in contact. Such was Christopher B. Duffy.

"God give us men—a man in whom there is still a feeling for a fellow being—a man who knows and cares for the rights and welfare of his fellowman—a man of which we all may well be proud."

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
Established 1869 IPSWICH, ENGLAND

FOR TWENTY-TWO YEARS.

The following subscribers have been on our list from the date of our first publication day, January 7th, 1912, to the present day:

C. B. Duffy, Columbus, O.
W. C. Stone, Springfield, Mass.
Henry McConnell, Walloon Lake, Mich.
Chas. A. Townsend, Akron, O.
J. C. Jay, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.
C. F. Richards, New York City.
D. H. Eaton, Cincinnati, O.
Joseph S. Davis, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. Geo. W. Bye, Rutledge, Pa., writes: "I have been a subscriber to the WEEKLY not quite from the beginning but from No. 15 and I have all the papers from that number to date. I suppose that this record will place me on the proposed roll of honor somewhere." Mr. Bye will not be forgotten. Mr. T. Russell Hungerford, Washington, D. C., says: "I cannot claim subscription from No. 1 but have complete file from March, 1892—more than twenty years, which is something of a record. Every philatelist needs the WEEKLY and none can afford to do without it."

Mr. Chas. A. Townsend says: "I can hold up my hand and say: 'Me, too.' Not only have I taken the WEEKLY from No. 1 but was a first number subscriber to the old Carson Philatelist, Philatelic Journal of America and Daily Stamp Item. The WEEKLY is good enough for me and certainly has the news." In his letter, Mr. C. F. Richards, New York City, says: "Your editorial, 'These Many Years' strikes a sympathetic chord in my heart. By referring to an old account book, I find the following entry under date of Jan. 6th, 1891 (the third item in the new book as it was then) One year's subscription to M. W. S. N., $1.00. I guess that ought to put me in the class of old friends that wear like old shoes, even though I am not absolutely certain that I never missed a year or two." Surely, it does.

Mr. D. H. Eaton tells us: "I have been on your books since the first issue of the paper. In Woburn, Mass., until July, 1900, and since then, in Cincinnati. I have a complete file of the paper and value it very much." Our good friend, Mr. Joseph S. Davis has written to say: "Just a few lines to mention that I am one of the readers of the WEEKLY since its first year. It is a pleasure to recall the events of 1890 and the few succeeding years when I put in my surplus time and energy, along with others, booming and boosting the Philatelic Sons of America and the Sons of Philatelia. It doesn't seem to me that the enthusiasm of those days has ever been equalled or even approached since in American philately. It is a satisfaction also to recall other officers of those two great associations of that time, Kissinger, Dodge, Miller, Beamish, the Greens, Beardsley, Joe Beard and the ever-smiling Brodstone. There were many more I shall not take the space to mention but most of these I had met personally. What has become of the dealers I traded with as a boy in the late '80's? Edwards, Peeke & Co., Chicago, Wm. E. Baitzell, Baltimore, etc.? My later enthusiasm was expended in editing the Rocky Mountain Stamp of Denver, which lived a long and popular life, latterly at New Oxford, Pa., under the guidance of Mr. Dodge. I have often thought that I should like to see a series of articles on Philately and Philatelists of Past Philatelic Centers. This might include a dozen or more American cities." Joseph S. Davis, A. P. S. 527; F. R. P. S., London, etc.

EXHIBITION NEWS.

The committee in charge have finally settled on a site for the great Stamp Exhibition. The building is located on West 39th St., running through to 40th St. near Fifth Avenue. For the purpose for which it was constructed it is one of the finest in the city and was erected through the aid of Mr. Carnegie for the advancement of science. Every detail of the house from basement to roof is perfect. This will secure the very best rates on the four million dollars insurance which will be carried for the benefit of exhibitors. A stockholders' meeting will be held on December 2nd and a new member added to the directorate. Plans will be adopted for advancing the welfare of the great show, raising money and many other matters. About two acres of plate glass will have to be purchased and numerous carpenters engaged making cases so that every item may work like clockwork on the opening day. It is anticipated that a large crowd will be seeking admission to the opening ceremonies, so that admission on the first day will have to be conferred to stockholders, subscribers and distinguished foreign guests. Many world renowned collectors have promised to be present and foreign dignitaries from all parts of Europe. Following the custom which has obtained abroad, it is expected that the exhibition will be opened by the Postmaster General or possibly by President Wilson at any rate the managers are assured of official recognition and support. What are you doing for the cause? Are you a member? Is your collection in shape to exhibit?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings have been received from E. Foster, Maitland Milliken (3), Russell L. Stultz, Edgar S. Bissinger, John H. Frederick, J.T. Perdomo, George Sleeper, C. B. Bostwick, Geo. H. Scharr, H. T. Willcox (6).

—A. W. Whitten sends us a clipping from a Chicago paper referring to Lord Crawford's interest in philately, and stating that the selling of his stamp treasures is due to the fact that he has had serious trouble with his eyes. We believe that we have already referred to this fact in the WEEKLY.

—It is reported that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is about to use a newly perfected press which will revolutionise the printing of stamps and save more than $400,000 annually.

—B. Gordon Jones, the well-known English dealer whose residence in India has caused him to take considerable interest in the stamps of that country, advertises elsewhere in this issue the 1854 ½ anna red in blocks of the greatest rarity.

—An error occurred in the Dayton trade adv. in No. 1143, in that 100 South and Central American stamps, catalogued $2.25 was priced at 5c instead of 50c. An error also occurred in Mr. Cormack's advertisement where a Paraguay centenary 1911, 1 on 75c was offered. It should have read, the set 1 to 75c, price 20c.

—F. R. Ginn's advertisement this week takes on more than ordinary interest in announcing the purchase of the Neville-Chamberlaine collection. The late field marshall was a great friend of Lord Roberts and the collection is a very fine one.

—W. M. Artman of Los Angeles, Cal., has been unable to attend to business for a month, owing to a serious accident. He craves the indulgence of correspondents until able to attend to matters that have accumulated during his illness.

—W. C. Phillips & Co. also reports John Dvorak of Cleveland, O., as being guilty of the substitution of stamps sent him on approval.

—The Cleveland Stamp Co. whose advertisement will be found in the Small Ads. Column, has just purchased the stamp stock of the Robt. Haynes Stamp Co. and the offerings of this firm will be found in our paper from week to week.

—Q. A. Castra, concerning whom recent inquiry was made, has been located at Providence, R. I. in care of J. Marshall. We give this information for what it may be worth.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—The Rev. Joseph Dreyer sends us a postal card which adds another to the thirty aeroplane routes already listed in MEKEEL'S STAMP WEEKLY. Lincoln Beachey was to have taken the sack of mail collected on the Grounds at Rockingham Park, but was prevented from starting by the prevailing high winds and rain that set in on the afternoon of May 30. The mail had already been postmarked on the Grounds and endorsed by an official of the P. O. "By Aeroplane," but were forwarded by rail to Lawrence, after another unsuccessful attempt had been made to carry them through via the air line.

Mr. Eldredge reports having seen the following new types of precancelled stamps. These types will in the future be indicated by giving the Whole Number of the WEEKLY in which the type is first described. Those interested in precancels should preserve this chronicle. The types are as follows:—

South Weymouth, Mass.—Three lines (South—Weymouth—Mass.) horizontal inscription in sans-serif capitals, two rules above and below, each one mm. wide, space between rules, one mm. space containing inscription, 15 mm. wide.

1c 1912 inverted.

Ashland, Ohio.—Two lines (Ashland—Ohio) horizontal inscription in small capitals between two rules, 12 mm. apart, each ½ mm. wide.

1c, 1912.

Newport, Ky.—Two lines (Newport—Ky.) vertical inscription in fine capitals, with rule above and below, and short rule about 5 mm. long each side of Ky., space containing inscription, 13 mm. wide.

1c, 1912, reading down.

Gloucester, Mass.—Two lines (Gloucester—Mass.) horizontal inscription in small capitals, between two rules, 15 mm. apart, each 1 mm. wide.

1c, 1912.

Binghampton, N. Y.—(Bingham—ton—New York) Three line horizontal inscription, between two rules, 15 mm. apart, and 1 mm. in thickness.

2c, 1912, double.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Two lines (Milwaukee—Wis.) Vertical inscription in plain medium sized capitals, between two hair rules, 15 mm. apart.

1c, 1912, reading down.

ARGENTINE.—Evidently the current stamps are being printed locally, the 12c having been shown us by Whitfield King & Co. and the New England Stamp Co. Beyond the change in the watermark, the stamp is little changed, except being reduced in size, and more roughly printed. The design is now 17x22 mm. instead of 18x25 mm. The familiar sun watermark has disappeared, the new paper being watermarked honeycomb, very easily distinguished.

Adhesive.

12c blue.

BARBADOS.—The London Standard has the following regarding the new Georgian stamps:

Queen Anne is exercising the minds of philatelists just now. They are anxious to know the qualifications of this august Stuart to figure alongside King George V on the new issue of Barbados postage stamps. A few experts more leniently disposed towards the designer dispute the identity of Queen Anne, and claim to recognise the features of Queen Victoria. Both parties are agreed that the figure is not that of Britannia, which it has been stated to represent. Handsome and striking as the new Barbados issue may be, an old inconsistency in the design has now been transformed into a flagrant error. The earliest seal of the Colony showed a figure of the reigning British Monarch in a sea chariot. The seal of Charles II reveals this very clearly. It is assumed that when Queen Anne came to the throne she took her place in the chariot on the Barbados seal.

The first Barbados stamps, issued in 1852 and line engraved, showed an undoubted Britannia, armed with helmet and trident, and leaning on a shield in the conventional way. In 1882, when the design was changed, the old theme of the seal was reverted to, and in the place of Britannia there was substituted a female wearing a crown, and holding not only a trident but an orb. The figure is believed by many to be an exact copy of that on the Queen Anne seal. Some, however, think that it is Queen Victoria, and support their argument with the fact that the figure was retained as the central object in the special Diamond Jubilee issue of 1897, when the stamp bore around the borders the inscription Victoria R. I., 1837-1897. In any case, however suited the design may have been to the reign of Queen Victoria, it is out of place with a male monarch on the Throne.

The female figure was undoubtedly placed in the Barbados seal in the reign of Queen Anne, and when Queen Victoria came to the Throne it was introduced a second time. The presence of the crown and orb upon the figure ruled Britannia entirely out of the question. The designer, however, undoubtedly took the figure as that of Britannia, and forgot to alter it. On the first Barbados stamp issue in 1852, the figure was clearly Britannia, but in 1892, a crowned figure riding on a shell drawn by seahorses was substituted. However correct the design may have been at that day, it is now an anachronism. It may be accepted owing to the excellence of the design in other directions. Anachronisms are not uncommon in British stamps. The most flagrant, perhaps, is that in the stamps of St. Kitts-Nevis, an issue covering the two Islands. This stamp, first issued in 1903, and still current, shows Columbus viewing the land through a telescope. Columbus's period of activity in exploration ranged between 1492 and 1504. The first telescope was constructed in 1608.

FIJI ISLANDS.—Whitfield King & Co. and the New England Stamp Co. have shown us two values of the King George set.

Adhesives.

½d green.
1sh black on green.

INDIA.—Hyderabad.—Lemaire's Journal says that the new official surcharge chronicled in No. 1138 is in smaller type, so that the design is not defaced so much as before. The ¼a has also been issued with the new surcharge, as well as the 1a previously chronicled.

Official Adhesive.

¼a gray.

QUEENSLAND.—The Australian Philatelist is informed that none of the stamps of this state are likely to be surcharged, as there is no large stock of any value.

RUSSIA.—Offices in China.—Mr. Morse has the regular overprint on a new card (Senf's No. 16) and in a lighter shade of blue.

Post Card.

3k red on buff.

SOUTHERN NIGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2½d, 3d and 6d values of the King George set, and the New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 1sh value.

Adhesives.

2½d ultramarine.
3d violet on yellow.
6d red violet and lilac.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

EXPRESS AND SPECIAL DELIVERY STAMPS.

Another small and comparatively unimportant class of stamps comprises the labels issued for use in connection with the Special Delivery or Express services of the post-offices of various countries. Although these extra services, like registration, are very general nowadays the number of countries issuing special labels is only ten.

The United States easily heads the list as the pioneer in the use of special delivery stamps, for it issued one as early as 1885. Canada, which occupies second place, did not bring out its special delivery stamp until 1898, while in the following year Guam and Cuba, enjoying the benefits of U. S. administration, also had stamps of this nature provided for them. The Philippine Islands followed suit in 1901, two years later Italy, Mauritius and New Zealand all issued Express delivery stamps, and in 1905 China and Spain issued these special labels.

By payment of a special fee letters or other postal packages sent by a Special Delivery or Express service are delivered by messenger immediately on their arrival instead of being held for delivery with the ordinary mail. The payment of this fee also assures greater care being taken of the letter while in the mails for special delivery matter is checked from office to office almost as carefully as registered mail.

Taking the countries in alphabetical order the following is a short descriptive list of all the special delivery and express stamps at present known:—

Canada.—This stamp can be at once recognised for in addition to "Canada Post Office" it bears the inscription "Special Delivery Within City Limits." Issued in 1898 this label has remained in use without change, excepting a small difference of tint, until the present day.

China. — China's Express delivery stamp was issued on Nov. 11th, 1905 and is an imposing label measuring 8½ by 2½ inches. It is divided into four parts by vertical lines of perforation and as these sections are removed one at a time at different periods during the missive's wanderings an entire used specimen cannot be obtained.

Cuba.—Under the United States administration the 10c special delivery stamp in use in 1899 was overprinted for use in this island. On the proclamation of the republic a new label was issued inscribed "Asegura entrega immediata al—llegar á la administracion de destino" meaning "Ensures immediate delivery on arrival at the office of destination." In 1902 a fresh supply had the third word more correctly spelled "Inmediata." In 1910 another issue was made and on this the inscription was abbreviated to "Entrega Inmediata," that is "Immediate delivery."

Guam.—Among the United States stamps overprinted for use here in 1899 was a supply of the special delivery stamps of 1895.

Italy.—On June 1st, 1903, a 25 centesimi Express letter stamp was issued here. It is large oblong in shape and shows portrait of King Victor Emmanuel III. at left with the inscriptions "Post Italiane," "Expresso," and "Cent. 25" at the right. In 1908 a stamp of similar size for use on foreign letters was issued. On this the value is 30c and, in addition to the name, the inscriptions "Unione Postale Universale" and "Expres" appear.

Mauritius.—In 1903 an Express delivery stamp was manufactured by surcharging the 15c Labourdonnais stamp with "Express—Delivery—15c" in three lines in red. It was then decided that this 15c rate should only apply to domestic letters and the word "(INLAND)" was inserted above the value at a second printing. A further supply printed later still had the whole overprint applied at one operation and this can be distinguished from the fact that the words "Express-Delivery" are quite close together. In 1904, when further supplies were needed impressions of the head-plate of the rupee value were taken in green and these were surcharged in a similar manner. Printings from this rupee plate were also surcharged in black with the words "(Foreign)—Express—Delivery—10 cents" in 1904 for foreign letters.

New Zealand.—An Express Delivery stamp was issued here in 1903 and has continued in use since without change. It bears the inscription "Secures Immediate Delivery at a Special Delivery Office."

Philippine Islands.—On Sept. 6th 1901, the contemporary Special Delivery stamp of the United States was overprinted for use here. In 1906 a stamp of special design was issued this showing a messenger running and being inscribed "Secures Immediate Delivery at any Postoffice in the Philippine Islands."

Spain.—An Express letter stamp of the value of 20 centimos was issued here in 1905. It bears no name but may at once be distinguished by the design—a winged horse and the Spanish coat-of-arms—and the inscription "Correspondencia Urgente."

United States.—The first special delivery stamp, issued in 1885, shows a messenger running with a letter in his hand while the legend reads "Secures immediate delivery at a special delivery office." This stamp was printed in blue. In 1888 the inscription was altered to read "any post office" and in 1893 the color was changed to orange. In 1894 the design was slightly re-engraved a line being added under the value and in 1895 the use of watermarked paper began. In 1902 a new design was adopted showing a messenger boy on a bicycle while the inscription now reads "Secures immediate delivery at any United States Post Office." In December 1908 a new stamp printed in green and inscribed "U. S. Postage—Special Delivery" appeared but it aroused so much ridicule that it was withdrawn after a time. In 1910 the 1902 design was resuscitated and as the new paper with single line letters watermark was in use these can be easily identified.

JORDAN ALIAS LINDSAY ARRESTED.

Perrin B. Jordan alias Walter R. Lindsay has been arrested for fraudulent use of the mails at Ardmore, Pa. The WEEKLY has given full particulars of the Lindsay operations and was itself for a short time the victim of Jordan's shortcomings. We promptly exposed Jordan and advised dealers and collectors to have nothing to do with him.

Jordan denied all knowledge of the Ardmore transactions until he was positively identified by a clerk summoned from the Ardmore office. He then broke down and confessed and was held for a hearing before the United States Commissioner at Philadelphia.

Jordan claims that financial difficulties had caused his trouble and that he used this means to raise money. Bail was furnished by an aunt.

So the Lindsay problem is solved.

OLD-FASHION COLLECTING.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

In the correct meaning of the word, I am an "old-fashioned" collector. That is to say, my methods of choosing are unaltered by Time's changes, for I am and have always been consistently careful in selecting my stamps. Both condition and centering are thoughtfully considered; and, as matter of fact, I do not often find it necessary to replace for betterment stamps which have found lodgment in my collection.

I am old-fashioned, too, in that I am a "general collector" of used and unused. Old-fashioned, too, in that I cling to the Scott's International albums,—of which I use three nineteenth and two twentieth centuries. One each is for the general collection, the others for varieties of perforation, paper, and shades. Two of these are old albums that have sheltered collections, from which the stamps have been removed, and the remains of the hinges carefully soaked off. It is a matter wholly of sentiment,—the use of these old albums. They are well-preserved and clean, though they show somewhat the touch of loving hands, now, alas! heedless forever.

He who knows not the love of old books and old editions,—he for whom the "autograph copy" has no charm,—he to whom the aroma of Antiquity is a negligible quantity,—is invited to read no further: these paragraphs are not for him, however much he may pride himself upon appreciation elsewhere.

During the long years of stamp garnering which have pleasured both boyhood and manhood, I have chosen the personal in preference to the impersonal. It has been always the individuality of the stamp which has most appealed,—the personal history of each copy,—the former ownership and vicissitudes, until it found final resting-place in my albums.

What matter if the stamps in one's collection have no meaning further than design and condition? To me the interest and the value (I by no means use the word "value" in a monetary sense) are enhanced if the stamp came from some famous collection,—from the collection, perhaps of one of those stamp-lovers unknown to the philatelists of note, yet one who knew and loved, and alas! suffered when the call of Necessity compelled separation from his treasures. Further, I find rare solace in the stamp which, like a swift passing meteor, momentarily illumes the memory of a dear friend,—and he is legion in one's collecting life.

And so I turn the leaves. . . .

My copy of Scott's No. 43, U. S. A., unused, means much to me, for it came enclosed in a letter sent to a member of the family during those dark days immediately preceding the Civil war. Even a passing glance brings with it a flood of memories inclusive of both sender and receiver. Here No. 220a serenely and benignantly recalls the friend who gave it me, knowingly; for, although he had ceased to treasure stamps, he had retained this copy against the day he planned to pass it on to one who would prize it,—even as I.

The few friends who have handled my albums these latter years were wont to smile a bit satirically at No. 2816,—for one of my two copies has lost a side and part of the top. This had been repaired with a piece from another stamp. It was a Ruin—with a big "R"—until it passed through the hands of my friend, the expert repairer. Now it "looks well," as the seductive auction cataloguer says. But it looked best to me in its old age,—for it came from a once famous collection dispersed about ten years ago. I never learned why it was treasured so carefully,—some sorrows are too sacred for the ruthless seeker after knowledge. I only know this one stamp was removed and given me just before the collection passed into alien hands.

My Canada No. 13 came to me curiously. It is perfectly centered, lightly cancelled, with the usual bull's-eye cancellation, and of a shade extremely rare,—grey-purple. It is an early printing from the plate. I do not think a finer copy is in existence. The friend who sent it to me had searched for two years for a perfect copy of this particular stamp, and, as he tersely expressed it, "It's worth much more than the price you are paying for it." And it certainly is, for catalogue values err sometimes on the side of the "innocent purchaser," despite the caviling of dissenters. The previous history of this bit of paper, and the manner of acquirement are, as Kipling would say, another story.

When my album opens to Barbados, I am confronted with a message of friendship. Removing from the East to the far West, where transportation of bulky things is largely prohibitive, I sent a friend a box of rare old magazines of a technical nature. A few weeks after they reached him, the mails brought a book of stamps, with a letter: "Take what you need to fill blanks; and the more you take, the better I shall like it." So my Barbados page was enriched, notably with Nos. 10, 26, and 40, among others of lesser value in coin-of-the-realm, but equal worth in coin-of-the-heart.

Nova Scotia No. 12 has added interest to me because this particular copy is from the J. N. Luff collection, purchased from that well-known scholar himself.

Sarawak—always a favorite country—contains Nos. 18a and 19a from the stamps of the president of the J. P. S. One has a slight tear, the other is a perfect copy of a very scarce stamp.

Turning to Chile, I recall most affectionately the friend who aided me to complete my regular issues of the Nineteenth century,—for he is one of those all-too-rare stamp-lovers who, though a dealer, declares he "doesn't care to make money dealing with friends." So do I bear living witness in my album! The beautiful No. 9b came to him amongst a lot in an old collection; and this, together with No. 13, was transferred into my album for so trifling a sum that No. 330 was "thrown in" for luck! It certainly completed the jest!

It was this same friend who presented me a set of Trinidad dues, every one lightly canceled and perfectly centered.—Nos. 151-168. The reason he gave for this was unique. We were looking through the album, one Winter-like November day.

"Trinidad—Trinidad"—he said, musingly, as his hand lingered upon the turning leaf. "Nice lot you have. But where are your dues? Collect them? Yes? I do hate to see blank spaces."

A few days later, after my friend had returned to business cares in the city, the mails brought me the set of stamps, wtih a note:

"I do hate to see blank spaces!"

Confederate States No. 209 causes a smile. My friend and I almost quarreled over it. I insisted it was "with outer line," and refused to accept it for a "milky blue" at a quarter. I was willing to pay a fair price for a stamp that was necessary to my happiness. My friend scrutinized it carefully.

"Milky blue!" he declared between puffs at his brier. "Milky blue!"

I couldn't convince him, although the outer line to me loomed up as large as Jackson's head on U. S. A. No. 73.

So I paid the quarter, with the declaration that I was "robbing a friend." May the gods bring him more profitable customers!

I might cite a hundred incidents of stamps in my collection which appeal by reason of association, but it would savor too much of a catalogue.

I would impress upon the beginner in philately the joy of "writing up" his collection,—the sweet suggestion in personal knowledge of each individual stamp,—the rare pleasure derived from lingering over the pages of one's album, with its world of meaning unfolded to the eyes. This is the way of knowledge. It is also the way of richness in peace.

SCOTT'S CATALOG FOR 1912-13.

You cannot afford to collect stamps without Scott's catalog. It is the American standard and if you will remit 75c to this office we shall send you a cloth bound copy.

THE PHILADELPHIA FIND.

(Elsewhere in this issue A. F. Henkels gives the facts in connection with this find. We reprint the following clipping sent us from the Philadelphia North American by courtesy of W. E. Beam. It shows how the "find" was reported in the general press.—Ed.)

Hundreds of stamp enthusiasts, ranking in their hobby everywhere from ordinary collectors to expert philatelists, are beseiging Edward B. Hemingway. Since knowledge became current concerning his golden "find" of rare postage stamps valued at $100,000 his office in Elbow lane has become the stamp collector's Mecca of personal pilgrimage or target for excited telegrams, letters and phone calls. Hemingway's windfall was the result of blind luck.

In a $50 purchase of waste paper, which, as representative of the Hemingway Paper Stock Company, he bought six months ago from an upstate business house he found 102 postage stamps of curious design. He exhibited them to A. F. Henkels, president of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, and was informed that his discovery was worth in cash about $100,000, and that it would go down as a memorable event in the annals of philately.

The rare bits of steel engraving number 102 in all, and are conservatively estimated to be worth 250 times their weight in gold as they stand affixed to their envelopes. The most valuable of the stamps are those known as the St. Louis "bear issue," struck in 1847. This variety was designed for use in St. Louis, and is distinguished by the seal of Missouri with the two bears rampant. The 5 and 10 cent specimens of this issue have a catalog value of $250 each, and a commercial rating of perhaps $100 more.

Mr. Hemingway has several of this denomination, but they pale in comparison with his specimens of the 20-cent "bear issues." These stamps are so rare that for many years the authenticity of the few that did exist was doubted. During the last decade, however, several have been unearthed, and their value has been established at $2500.

Mr. Hemingway has no knowledge in the valuation of stamps, and very little sympathy for the hobby. Therefore, he has decided to dispose of almost all of the collection to a syndicate rather than trouble himself with selling them piecemeal.

XMAS HAMPER

There is no better time than Christmas time to spread the gospel of philatelic good cheer, and point the way to benefits which we have enjoyed. We often wonder what sort of a present to give to certain boys and girls.

CHRISTMAS PHILATELIC FESTIVAL.

A jolly affair is planned for the evening of Dec. 17 when the Boston Philatelic Society will hold its annual Christmas Celebration. A program of rare merit will be offered and collectors residing in or near Boston are invited to attend.

SPECIAL NOTE.—The exhibits of stamps will be made at the club room, No. 322 Tremont Bdg., between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock P. M. This rare opportunity to inspect Messrs. Green's, Howes', Barrett's and Dunning's exhibits should be embraced by every Boston collector.

ATTRACTIVE STAMP AUCTION
JANUARY 10th AND 11th, IN PHILADELPHIA

Our sale upon the above dates is unusually attractive, the first session comprising nearly six hundred lots of British Colonials all unused. The second session includes a nice collection of United States stamps, general foreign and some excellent wholesale lots. The catalogues are out and should be in the hands of all collectors. If you have not received one, write for it.

The CHRISTMAS STAMP DRUMMER, just out, is free for the asking.

By WASHINGTON GRANT.

CHAPTER V.—Advertising.

Having prepared his stock for properly serving his customers, either local or through the mail, our new dealer's next step is to secure those customers. There are two sources from which he can draw his trade. The first is from among those people who are already collecting stamps and it is to this class that most dealers appeal. The second class is formed of the customers whom the dealer will create himself by making collectors through so-called "Missionary" work. This missionary work deserves a separate chapter, so we will confine the present one to the best ways to obtain customers among people who are already collectors.

The first question is that of a proper advertising medium and the first medium which commends itself is naturally MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS as having the largest circulation in this country among collectors, of all the philatelic periodicals which are open to outside advertisers. The dealer must first make up his mind how much money he is willing or can afford to spend for advertising for the season and then how he will apportion it.

For small advertising, the trade column offers an attractive field at an inexpensive rate. Whether it is best to use small space regularly or large space occasionally, is a question which is considerably debated, not only among philatelic advertisers, but among some of the biggest general advertisers in the country. Each side of this question has its strong adherents. It is the writer's belief that for one who is beginning in the stamp business, the policy of regular advertising even in a small space is better than an occasional "splurge."

The new dealer's first great disappointment is likely come in returns from his first advertisement.

This is because he usually expects too much. It is foolish to think that one can insert an advertisement in a stamp paper and "pull out" sales enough, not only to pay for the advertisement, but for all the expenses of his business, and a profit as well. If the stamp business was as easy as this no dealer would be obliged to spend his time on anything but writing advertisements and filling orders. The object of the advertisement is not so much to sell goods directly, as it is to secure customers, and an advertisement which brings you customers at a moderate cost is a paying advertisement, even if you do not sell a cent's worth direct from the advertisement.

One of the leading dealers in this country speaks of his first advertisement some 25 years ago, which was inserted in a small monthly stamp paper (MEKEEL'S not being in existence at that time). It cost less than $1.00, but he expected that it would bring him at least orders enough to pay for the advertisement. He received one 25c order and an inquiry for a package of hinges. On the face of it, the advertisement looked like a loss, but the collector who inquired about the hinges eventually became a regular customer of the new dealer who sold him stamps for his collection for many years.

The new dealer in his first advertisement is handicapped by the fact that he is a stranger. Few collectors will answer the advertisement of a stranger at first sight, even if it is in a paper which makes sure of the good faith of its advertisers. You must remember that almost every collector who reads a paper is already trading with one or more dealers and he must see some good reason why he should make a change or divide his patronage. As your new advertisement is repeated, probably with a change in the offering each week, he becomes used to seeing your name and in time you become familiar to him as a stamp dealer who advertises regularly. Then, some day, he sees in your advertisement something that he really wants or that is offered a little more cheaply than he has noticed it elsewhere and he answers your advertisement.

It is evident from this that since you are endeavoring to attract new customers, your offers must also be attractive. Use the best bargains you have in stock to induce collectors to write to you, just as the 5 and 10c stores put their best bargains in their show windows to induce people to come into the store. Some dealers even advertise stamps for less than cost to get new customers, but unless the fact is plainly stated and the reason for the unusual offer is made clear, this is not wholly a wise policy. The collector gets a false idea that the stamps may be bought for less than they are worth and when he finds out that you have no other bargains at similarly low prices, he becomes disgusted and quits. At least one stamp business which started about ten years ago made this mistake. The managers continually advertised in large type, stamps at prices which every dealer knew to be less than cost. If they had explained that they were selling at these rates to get new customers, they might have progressed all right, but they made the ridiculous claim that all their other prices were similarly low. Collectors who answered their advertisements naturally expected some wonderful bargains and when they found that most of the firm's prices were no lower than those of other dealers, they naturally quit trading, disgusted and disappointed. The firm eventually went out of business for a time, but has since resumed on a more sane, honest, and it is to be hoped, more substantial basis.

The question as to just what stamps or particular countries to advertise, depends on the dealer's own stock and what class of trade he wants. By reading the news in the stamp papers, he can see what stamps are particularly interesting collectors at the period and if he is fortunate enough to have a good stock of anything that is being commented on in the news columns, he can take advantage of the fact to advertise it. Political and geographical changes, as reported in the daily news, also cause a demand for the stamps of the countries involved. The Spanish War brought a tremendous demand for the stamps of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. The troubles in Mexico have caused a great increase in the demand for Mexican stamps, with the result that many of the older issues which have been overlooked for years, are now known to be decidedly scarce and hard to find. The Balkan War has caused a sharp demand for the stamps of the various Balkan States, as well as for those of Turkey, which have not been popular for many years.

The First National Bank of Greensboro repudiates the party whose name is given above. If any approval selections have been sent him we should advise dealers to get busy immediately. Thanks to the Hussman Stamp Co. for prompt co-operation.

A CHALLENGE

I will challenge any dealer in the United States to furnish the following set of stamps in fine condition, each stamp to show the full letter of the watermark.

EDITORIAL.

Laid—There is an interest shown at present in the so-called laid paper varieties of current issue and there are several students whose sincerity and acumen are unmistakable who support the claims of the stamps for recognition as laid paper varieties in the catalogue. One of the believers in the stamps, in fact, their protagonist, says that paper that shows the lines with the gum on or off surely is laid paper, no matter what the stamp experts say. This is fair enough and it is not to be denied that in the stamps under discussion there is the physical trait described. However, it is, too, a question of what the paper expert says and we well remember what a hue and cry were raised over the one-cent green, 1898, on what was alleged to be laid paper but an authority not on stamps but on paper said that the paper submitted was not the real laid paper. So it seems that there is laid paper and "near-laid." When the laid paper is laid as in the three-cent, 1861, laid paper, then we shall be glad to acclaim any new stamps as the real article.

Carried Out—Our Christmas plans are nearing their completion and through the instrumentality of our readers, we have been able to write success on both the gift and the "shut-in" operations. In the next issue, we shall show what has been accomplished in the "shut-in" campaign so that our readers may know how some hearts have been filled with Christmas cheer.

On The Trail—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who included a few paper collar license stamps in his collection? Is he consorting with the o. f. c. who used to say that he did not care so long as the stamp was not so heavily cancelled that you could not make out what it was? Too, what has become of the old fashioned dealer who used to paste the corner of the stamps down in his stock-books, making removal practically impossible without a thin spot? Has he decamped with the o. f. d. who said that he would not advertise in the stamp papers because he wanted only a local trade?

Goodness Knows—Sinpod, the stamp sage says that he has glimpsed the collector who has not some stamp in mind that is underpriced in the catalogue: An auctioneer who always made up his lot combinations to suit the bidder: A publisher of a stamp paper whose advertisers without exception remitted by return mail and a small boy collector who always found that his questions were pleasantly answered by the adult philatelist.

Home-Made—Mr. George A. Chandler, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, writes: "I should like to record the use of an ordinary two-cent stamp for postage due by a rural postmaster. The stamp was affixed at time of due payment and surcharged in indelible pencil the name of the post-office and R. F. D., 'Peebles 37.' I have the original cover in my possession now. I know also of a case in which ten cents having been due, five 2-cent stamps were affixed and each one similarly cancelled."

Currency Change—Over a month ago, postmasters at international money-order offices were notified "that the name of the monetary unit of the money of Portugal has been changed from milreis to escudo, which has the same value as the milreis and is divided into 100 centavos, while the milreis represents 1,000 reis, hence one centavo is equal to 10 reis."

Turn Backward—Mr. Charles Bailey, West Toronto, Canada, "a collector of 27 years," has been gracious enough to send for old time's sake page half-tones of the group comprising the first annual convention of the Philatelic Sons of America, at Niagara Falls, August, 1894; and of the officers of the Southern Philatelic Association when the great majority of the members were of the south, or in 1894. Mr. Bailey asks if the Philatelic Sons of America is still in existence. It is not and has not been in existence for ten years but while it lived it was the livest organization that ever flourished, philatelically. The sons of 1893 soon grew out of their juniority; and the supply of Kissingers, Greens and Greenes, Ashcrofts, Foxs, Barnums, Quackenbushs, Motts and Langs seemed to peter out.

Pismire vs. Philatelist—Frederic C. DePuy, Rochester, New York, contributes the following surprising sentences: "Here is something that might be interesting to Parnassus Penflip. It is copied from 'The Vanishing Man,' by R. Austin Freeman, p. 268, a rather good detective story, published by Dodd, Mead & Co.: 'The humblest of creatures has its uses,' 'even the little pismire,' you know, as Isaak Walton tells us. Why, I have got substantial help from a stamp collector. And then reflect upon the motor scorcher and the earthworm and the blowfly. All these lowly creatures play their parts in the scheme of Nature." We have heard of a pismire being compared to an elephant, but never before to a philatelist. We can imagine that when Parnassus Penflip reads the foregoing, he will have an almost fatal attack of verbal inflammation.

Looking Up—The light of joy now shines in the dome of Parnassus Penflip: "I thank you for remittance on account but allow me to say that instead of $2.50 in unused stamps, some of which, I may interpose, were denuded of their habilament of gum, there was but $2.43. However, I credit you with the full amount, leaving the balance of $90. A strange sense of stimulation steals o'er me and I feel that I shall be spared the ineffable embarrassment of declining the port-folio of postmaster-general in Wilson's cabinet because of an insufficiency of funds for fare to Washington. It is not beyond the pale of probability that I may promise you favorable action on your suggestion that the twelve hundredth number of the WEEKLY be commemorated by a special set of tri-colored stamps and that the privilege of the mails be denied those dealers who do not advertise in your paper upon the receipt of a further sum in liquidation of your account."

On Deck—Dr. Arthur W. Bruce, Kalamazoo, Michigan, writes: "A short time ago, you inquired about the old-fashioned collector who kept a record of the number of stamps on the pages of his album. In your issue of November 16th, I notice that one of them has pleaded guilty and she says that she knows of others. Here is another,—only more so. I have two separate card catalogues, one of them consisting of a separate card for each country with a record of the number of varieties. The other consists also of a separate card or cards as the case may demand for each country; here I have recorded catalogue numbers and values. Just at present the collection is housed in three volumes as follows: Volume I, 2319; Volume II, 2128; Volume III, 861. The first two volumes are 19th century and the third twentieth century. About the o. f. d. and his 'cut to shapes,' I cannot say but from Miss Swift's communication, I imagine that you have a clear understanding of him."

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. Remit if you prefer $1.00 for two years renewal or two years new subscription for a friend, and we shall send you the book post free.

EXHIBITION NEWS.

The Collectors Club of New York do not intend to be outdone by any other organization and not content with the $250.00 donation are now making a collection amongst the members to donate a silver cup or trophy costing $100.00 or more. This will be turned over to the Exhibition managers who will award it to some exhibitor. The way it looks now there will be about ten silver trophies, 50 gold and 100 silver medals. Undoubtedly this will be the grandest exhibition up-to-date. The building is perfect in every detail and well prepared to take care of the daily crowd, which is expected to reach about seven thousand. Arrangements will be made with a number of hotels so that out of town visitors can be cared for in congenial groups at moderate priced houses and have their rooms engaged months in advance. How is your collection getting along? Remember that amateurs will be divided into a number of different classes so that all will have an equal chance. Prizes for value for research and for neatness and special care has been taken of the new beginner. For the best collection made in one year. How about your membership, have you secured it yet? $1.00 with admission ticket for the entire week.

THE FIND OF ST. LOUIS STAMPS.

By A. F. Henkels.

In view of the many conflicting reports as to the find of St. Louis Postmasters provisional stamps discovered in Philadelphia a few months ago and in justice to the finder E. D. Hemingway who is the sole owner of this desirable lot, I think it is due the stamp collecting fraternity that the full facts of the find be put before them, both for the purpose of relieving the anxiety of those who already possess copies of these stamps as well as putting the find in question upon the proper basis. Some of the reports have so magnified the find as to seriously interfere with the trading in this particular class of stamps.

This find whilst of great philatelic importance is not so large as previous lots that have been readily absorbed and instead of rendering the stamps of less interest should stimulate the market for them.

Hereto I append Mr. Hemingway's statement as to the entire find which I trust will be appreciated by the philatelic public and materially aid in clearing this atmosphere of doubt and speculation.

The following data I quote from Mr. Hemingway's written statement to me: “The find comprised ‘20, 20c; 79, 10c and 6, 5c.’ The unsevered pairs and threes I have are, one 20c and 10c, one pair of 20c, seven pair of 10c, three of three 10c.

“You are at liberty to use this statement which I vouch for as correct.

E. D. Hemingway.”

I will further state upon my own responsibility having examined the stamps that they are for the most part in exceptionally fine condition and all upon the original covers.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH, ENGLAND

A Chat With the Advertiser.

This is the first opportunity we have had for several weeks of writing any advertising chat. The fact is, the WEEKLY of Nov. 30 told so eloquent a story that little additional is needed. We certainly broke all records and feel positive that the achievement will be hard to surpass.

Again the WEEKLY has demonstrated its supremacy in the field of philatelic advertising and the thing that pleases us most is the fact that our advertising patronage was contributed by the many rather than a few.

Our entire page of Small Ads. shows how much our readers appreciate the privileges that this department offers. Never before has this page been so well patronized. What was the cause of this patronage? We can best anwser with the following quotation from a letter from Geo. J. Carter, who recently took three inches of space: —

“Did I get sufficiently good results from my ads in your issue of Nov. 2nd? I am glad to be able to answer in the affirmative. The first 10 days I received 146 replies, an average of about 15 per day, and replies are still coming in. I am more than pleased and later on when my time is not taken up with other matters I shall “come back.”

Several dealers are negotiating with us for extra space to be taken during the busy months to follow, and we shall be pleased to hear from you as to what you would like in the way of a large block of advertising space, There is no question but that we can serve you the best of any stamp paper in the world.

Next special, December 28.

Chapter XXI.

12 Cents, Issue of 1869.

In this stamp, as those which have been described before, we have a case of beauty gone wrong in the finishing. To the mind of the writer there are few handsomer stamps existing in the single-color varieties than the 12 cents of 1869. And sad to say a majority of them are found almost completely ruined by the careless work of the persons who manipulated them through the perforating machine. What beauty the last mentioned employees of the stamp makers left the hard-hearted, wasteful minded postmasters wiped out by the free use of certain inks and other daubs then in their possession.

This stamp was simultaneously issued with those of the lower values, late in April, or about the first of May, 1869. They were left in use for 11 or 12 months, and were, with all other denominations withdrawn from public gaze.

The design is that of an ocean liner “going west” depicting the type of fast water transportation in vogue at the time. E. B. Power is authority for the statement that the picture of the vessel was copied from a dinner menu in use by the White Star Lines, and that the “greyhound” depicted was the “Arctic.”

Officially the color is known as Milori green. The shades, given by Mr. Luff, are pale green, yellow green, green, deep green and blue green.

This stamp was grilled. Unlike some of the other denominations it is claimed that there are no authentic copies existing without grill. The sizes of grilles, so far as the writer has been able to learn (by actual measurements and search of technical literature) are:

Size.	Points.
9½x9½	13x12
9 x9½	12x12
9 x9	12x11
8½x9	11x11

I have a copy of this stamp, in my collection, grilled with points up.

This stamp was issued from two plates in sheets of 150 each, the plates being numbered 17 and 18. The paper varies very little in the examination of many copies, being close wove, hard finish and quite white. Once in a while a stamp is found upon paper with a yellowish tinge, but this is due probably to the ravages of age, rather than to any coloring in the paper itself.

There were issued by the makers to the government 3,012,950 stamps of which probably only the latter five figures can be termed “fine” as the collector knows it. I have seen a good share of the remaining three millions and without exception they were all “off center.”

So far as the writer knows, or can learn, there are no varieties or errors in this stamp, so it is easy on the eyes.

In 1875 the National Bank Note Company printed 10,000 so-called re-issues for the government, as a sort of 100th anniversary celebration. The other denominations were so printed, too, as stated before. These reprints were not overly popular with the “dear peepul” for only 1,584 were disposed of in every way, and the rest were turned back, and later destroyed.

The color of this reprint is known as dark blue-green, and the stamp was printed from an original plate—number 17.

Of course this reprint had no grille. I have seen a copy of the reprint with a counterfeit grille, but why one should want to reduce a $10 stamp to a $4 one by such counterfeit act is beyond my understanding.

The commonest cancellation upon the regular issue is, of course, black. The stamps are freely found pen-cancelled. Red is not an uncommon cancellation, but other colors are scarce. “Paid” cancellations ought to be worth a small premium.

Proofs in cardboard and on India paper make a handsome and valuable addition to the page devoted to this stamp.

Chapter XXII.

15 Cents, Issue of 1869.

More opportunity for serious study, and for the expenditure of idle funds, is found in this rather handsome, and exceptionally popular stamp. Old collectors and younger ones, too, will recall how happy they were when they secured the first copy of this stamp, and how they fairly gloated over their possession of the second and scarcer type—with the picture frame missing, as the catalog has it.

Strange to say, this stamp was not so ruthlessly “butchered” by the perforating machine as most others of the series, and it is possible to find the stamp in fairly well centered condition. Of course one which is not a hair's breadth out of the way in any direction is a rarity, but often-times a copy can be found where the design is not cut into by the perforations.

The denomination of 15 cents appeared a little later in the year than those which have previously been described—the first copy having been mentioned the latter part of May, 1869. It is probable that the stamp was in use about 11 months before it gave way to the yellow fellow which came in 1870.

There are two types in the regular issue. Type I, as the cataloguer makes it, was the first stamp of the kind to appear, followed a little later by Type II. The second type was thought necessary to make less conspicuous the poor “register” of the printers in placing the picture inside the frame.

The cataloguer distinguishes the types by saying that “Type II has picture framed.” I believe this is not the proper way to describe this type, in that there is really a frame in both types, and I know that a good many collectors have been confused and misled by this description. I would much rather designate Type II with the words “With Diamond” and then explain that this diamond is found at the point where the frame design curves upward in the middle. “Without Diamond” would, of course, designate Type I.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 100, two plates being used to complete each sheet. Type I was printed from Plate 19 for both the frames and the picture of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence. Type II has plates 23 and 31 for the frame and 23 and 23 for the picture.

The engravers printed and delivered 1,438,940 stamps. There is no historical facts to show how many of each type were printed.

The colors in combination are designated as follows: Dark blue and red brown, dark blue and dark red brown, dark blue and pale red brown. These shades apply to each type. In my examination of the stamps I find that the Type I run more to lighter shades than Type II.

Only two sizes of grilles have been authoritatively announced up to this time:

Size.	Points.
9x9½	12x12
9x9	12x11

Two varieties are listed. The one with picture inverted, is found in type I only. This was caused by a transfer having been made upside down. When the error was discovered the plate was corrected, and but few got away from the engravers. It is a moot question whether any of these errors were used as postage. One authority will say yes, and another no.

The stamp without grille has been listed. It occurs in the second type only.

For the specialist who delights in searching for minute varieties this stamp opens up a considerable field. There are several engravers' lines and dots to be found, and some unevenness in the lower part of the design. There is a broken line at the right bottom of stamp which might be construed as collectible.

No opportunity is afforded to study paper characteristics, so far as I can learn. The paper is about all of the same texture, close wove, rather white in color, and little else to trouble the collector.

Like the others this stamp was reprinted in 1875, and unlike those it can be readily detected without the least shadow of doubt. Mr. Luff calls this reprint Type III. The shaded line of

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

CANADA.—L. C. Hooper of Winnipeg shows us the current 1c King George stamp in a dark shade of green with a touch of olive. Mr. Hooper has only seen on stamps precancelled "Toronto—Ontario," a specimen of which he submits for inspection, the precancellation being inverted.

CHILE.—Frank C. Davis has shown us specimens of the new 2c, 4c and 10c stamps recently chronicled.

CHINA.—A. C. Roessler reports that a new post card for China has been issued, but to Nov. 4, no new stamps had been issued at the capital. The card is light green, shows a flag of five stripes flying in the morning breeze with the sun rising in the distance. The "Republic of China" is printed in capitals in a circle around the flag. The label at bottom reads: Postage One Cent. The French inscription as per rules of U. P. U. "Carte Postale—Chine."

GILBERT & ELLICE ISLANDS.—A. C. Roessler is officially informed that the Georgian 4d, 2sh, 2sh 6d and 5sh will be due in the Islands early in January, 1913, followed by the 1d, 2d, and 2½d. Quoting from a letter: "Many philatelists are asking addresses of other postoffices in the Protectorate in order to obtain their postmarks. For their information I hereby give notice that similar cancelling stamps are being used by all other post offices (other than Ocean Island)." Mr. Roessler has the two cancellations referred to. Ocean Island has "G. P. O. Ocean Id.," and date enclosed by two concentric circles. The stamp used in other postoffices has only "Postal Department" with a fancy dash, above and below the words. Both stamps have between the two circles "Gilbert & Ellice Islands Protectorate."

INDIA.—W. T. Wilson sends specimens of the two new values of the King George set noted in No. 1140, the color of the 12a being different from the statement copied from a French contemporary.

NEW HEBRIDES.—The Australian Stamp Journal reports that it is proposed to surcharge the 2sh and 5sh values of the English issue of Condominium with new values, "Half Penny" or "One Penny," as the high values are very little used. Will this mean also a similar surcharge for the 2f and 5f values of the French issue, turning them into 5c and 10c stamp respectively?

ST. HELENA.—It comes somewhat of a surprise that the Colonial authorities should have reprinted the pictorial series of 1903, with portrait of King George in place of that of King Edward and with the addition of a new value, the 2½d. This is printed in type A7, all being in two colors except the 1sh. At the same time, there have been issued two values in the regular De La Rue type, with portrait of King George, the 4d and 6d stamps. Specimens of all have been shown us by Hermann Focke and the New England Stamp Co. Mr. Focke calls attention to the fact "that so far nothing has been said either here nor in Europe regarding the appearance of St. Helena stamps with effigy of King George V, and their receipt was therefore, quite a surprise. Fortunately they have been careful not to print this stamp in the old colors of orange and brown, as was the case with the new issue for Bahamas, Falkland Islds. and Gambia, which sooner or later will probably have to be changed according to the so-called color-scheme. Otherwise the design of these new stamps is the same as that of the 1903 issue with head of King Edward."

The above applies of course particularly to the pictorial issue, the smaller stamps being printed from the new keyplates, which are very much different from Scott's type A5.

Mr. Focke also says: "It is rather strange that these two odd values should have been issued, the more so as the 2½d which in the previous set was also of the small size, is now issued in the large size, and why they did not do the same with the two remaining values is not easily conceivable. The 10sh value seems not to have been included in the new set, let us hope that it never will be."

—Clippings have been received from Romain B. Wittman, Lawrence Mathews, Cecil F. Blogg, Fredk. Charles, Geo. H. Scharr, Hugo Kuenstler (5), R. H. A. Green.

—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. have issued their price list for 1913, making a strong book of 84 pages. It will no doubt be sent anyone on request. We have also received wholesale list No.8 from the Co-operative Exchange, and small dealers should avail themselves of the opportunity of giving the same a careful study.

—Elsewhere in this issue is an advertisement of the Universal Collectors Pin. This advertisement however does it scant justice. The pin is a handsome production, shows clearly what it is in tended for, and collectors at all interested should investigate the offer of the Cresent Co.

—D. T. Eaton of Muscatine, Iowa, has been finding a few good things in "I. R." watermarks in the 6c and 8c 1895. His advertisement elsewhere will prove of interest.

—Edw. W. Bridge sends us a specimen of label issued by the advocates of 1c letter postage. It is printed in carmine and shows a mail bag as the center design. At the top is the inscripton "Half your letter postage is a tax" and below "Address National One Cent Letter Postage Association, Cleveland, O."

—Edw. W. Heusinger, San Antonio, Tex., has in preparation an International stamp and coin collectors and dealers address book. The prospectus advises us that it will be issued in 1913. Interested parties will address Mr. Heusinger as above.

—Nammack's Philatelic News-Letter is a pretentious publication of eight pages. It is advertised as the house organ with individuality, with the last word in italics. A copy will be sent on request.

JORDAN ALIAS LINDSAY.

(Last week we announced the arrest of Perrin B. Jordan, alias Walter R. Lindsay. The following clipping from the Philadelphia Inquirer gives some facts of interest to our readers.—Ed.)

One of the most puzzling cases in the history of the local department of post-office inspectors was cleared up when United States Commissioner Craig, at a hearing held in the Federal Building, held Perrin B. Jordan, 19 years old, of Garrettford, Pennsylvania, under $800 bail for court on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

When Chief Postal Inspector Cortelyou on Friday summoned the proprietor of a business concern known as the Hill Music Company to appear at his office and explain the nature of the business conducted by the company he had no idea that his investigations would disclose the identity of Walter R. Lindsay, who was wanted on the charge of swindling dealers in rare stamps from many parts of the country out of hundreds of dollars' worth of goods.

Recently the music company has been sending advertising circulars to prominent men in various parts of the city. Several complaints were reported to Inspector Cortelyou. Mail to the company was sent to 3800 North Broad street, so the chief inspector sent word to that address requesting the proprietor to appear at his office.

Jordan came and explained that the company sold charts for the instruction of beginners in music. In the course of the conversation he said that he also conducted a stamp business at 27 South Seventeenth street, having moved there in the early fall from 10 South Seventeenth street. Inspector Cortelyou asked when he first entered the stamp business and he said in June, 1912.

Immediately a case which had occupied the attention of his department for several months came to Mr. Cortelyou's mind. In May, 1912, a man hired a lock box at the Ardmore Postoffice and received many registered letters every day for a month. He then turned over the key of the box and disappeared. Immediately after, complaints poured into the inspection department from stamp dealers.

All said they had received orders from William R. Lindsay, of Ardmore, for specimens of rare stamps, to be sent on approval to his postoffice address, Ardmore. All complied, and had received answers, saying that the stamps had arrived and the money would be forwarded in a few days. No money was ever received, and repeated letters brought no reply. Lindsay could never be found. Forty stamp dealers lost stamps valued at more than $600.

Jordan was questioned closely, and at length the young man admitted that he hired the box at Ardmore, under the name of Walter R. Lindsay. He said that financial difficulties had caused him to take this means of raising money.

Bail for the young man, who was only graduated from a private school near this city, was furnished by his aunt, and he was released.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

1913 Year Book of the S. P. A.—The volume before us is No. 4 in the series published annually under the auspices of the Southern Philatelic Association. It is compiled by the secretary, C. V. Webb, and is free to all members of the Association. The book contains the constitution, rules governing the various departments and proceedings of the 1911 and 1912 conventions. The roll of members indicates a good degree of prosperity and we are pleased at the energy displayed by this organization.

The Postal Issues of the Philippines.—By F. L. Palmer. Published by the J. M. Bartels Co., N. Y. City. No price stated. This book is a very valuable history of the stamps of the Philippine Islands and is reprinted from the Philatelic Gazette, where it appeared serially. Major Palmer was situated where he was able to secure a great deal of new and valuable information which coupled with what other authorities furnish makes a history that will prove of great value.

Cayman Islands.—By Fred J. Melville. Published by W. H. Peckitt, London, price 12c. This is the latest of the popular Melville Handbooks and takes its place with the remainder of the set with its handsome pages and text that fully describes the stamps of these Islands.

Philatelic Rambles and Other Papers in Popular Vein.—By Julian Park. In the book before us we have grouped together five papers which Mr. Park describes as "stamp scribblings." Of these four have appeared previously in the columns of American philatelic publication, while one, "The Story of Trinidad," is new. The reprinted chapters are Spanish American "Rambles" from Everybody's Philatelist, the "Premier Philatelic Library" from the American Philatelist and "The Dalton Local" which appeared first in a college magazine and later reprinted in Redfield's Weekly.

While Mr. Park disclaims any superior merit for his contribution to philatelic journalism, we are satisfied that the ninety recipients of the book will appreciate it very highly and with great satisfaction will add it to their libraries. Mr. Park inscribes the book to C. A. Howes in a bit of epigrammatic sentiment:—"A token as small as the esteem is great." We sincerely trust that Mr. Park will in the coming days make further contributions to philatelic journalism along the publishing lines.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

To the Editor:—

I have found a minor variefv in the 2c Gov't roll, perforated 8½ horizontally, current issue, with numerals. In a vertical pair which recently came to my hands the top stamp design was moved somewhat to the right, so that the two do not line up at the sides. My attention was called to it by the appearance of what looks like a position dot at lower left hand corner of the upper stamp. The dot just touches the frame line. If the dot was on the lower stamp it certainly was covered by the frame line in making the transfer.

Also secured several pairs Gov't rolls, single line wmk., old design, 1911, on distinct vertical laid paper. I agree with O. S. Hart in what he says of laid papers: "I don't care whether it happened by design or accident; the laid is there just the same," said he. The printers said the same thing about the use of paper watermarked "U. S. I. R."

E. T. Bartlett, of Springfield, Mass., who has been stopping in St. Louis for several weeks, shows me a copy of two cent 1862, with a third form of double transfer. This "shift" occurs in the upper left corner, in which the figure 2 is enclosed in a circle. This circle is single in the normal, but shows a double line to left in the "shift."

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RECEIPT STAMPS.

A supplementary service of considerable usefulness, in connection with the postal system of most countries, is that by means of which the sender of a registered package can obtain an official advice of the safe delivery of the package on payment of a small fee. So far as the United States is concerned the registration fee itself is so high—much higher than in any other country—that Uncle Sam throws this service in. Thus if the sender of a registered letter marks the missive "Receipt requested" an official acknowledgment of delivery is returned to him in due course. I believe I am right in stating that in every other country this service forms an extra, though there appears to be no fixed charge. In Great Britain the fee is 5c, which is paid by affixing stamps of this value to a special form provided for the purpose, while in many South American states it is less than 3c.

Nowadays the members of the Universal Postal Union cordially co-operate in making the world's great postal system as complete and useful as possible, and thus most countries offer facilities for obtaining advice of delivery. As already stated in the majority of cases a special fee is charged and as a rule this fee is paid by means of ordinary postage stamps. Some countries issue, or have issued at some time or other, special labels for the payment of this fee and these special stamps have, I believe, to be affixed to the packages respecting which the acknowledgments are required. Where special stamps are not used and the letters are sent to a foreign country they are usually marked "A R" in manuscript.

Outside the few countries in the prolific stamp-producing zone of Central and South America, only one other has deemed it necessary or expedient to issue special A. R. stamps. This solitary exception is Montenegro, which issued its first A. R. label in October, 1895. The facial value of this label was 25 novcics (5c U. S.). A change of currency from novcics and florins to hellers and krone in 1902 resulted in the issue of a new stamp in July. This bore the face value of 25 heller—the equivalent of 10nov—and it was in use for a period of five years during which it was twice overprinted in common with the ordinary postage stamps. In 1907 there was another change of currency, this time to para and krune, and a new A. R. stamp was issued of the value of 25 para. All these labels are lettered in native characters and the only inscription intelligible to the outsider consists of the letters "A R" in the upper corners.

Chili issued a 5c acknowledgment of receipt stamp in 1894 on which the letters "A R" form a prominent part of the design. These letters are an abbreviation of "Avis de paiement" which means, literally, "Advice of payment."

The Republic of Colombia furnishes several examples of these special labels those first issued in 1894 showing the letters "A R" prominently and bearing the facial value of 5c. In 1902 the fee was changed to 10c and the new stamp issued in consequence also has the letters "A R" as the chief feature of the design. In 1904 the fee reverted to 5c and a stamp of similar design to the discarded 10c was issued. Later one of the 5c postage stamps was provisionally converted into an A R label by the application of an overprint of these letters. Later in the same year a stamp of new design was issued and in 1910 another A. R. stamp was issued in connection with the centenary of Independence commemorative issue. On this the letters "AR" occupy an inconspicuous place in the upper corners.

The Colombian department of Antioquia issued a 5c A R stamp in 1902, this being of diamond shape, with the letters "A R" as a bold monogram in the centre. In the following year the color of this label was changed from black on rose paper to slate-green.

Bolivar managed to get along without A R stamps until 1903 when a special label of this sort bearing the value of 20c appeared. Like the contemporary postage stamps of the period it exists in several varieties. In 1904 an entirely new label was issued with the value given as 2c. This was one of a series issued on a gold basis the peso of 100c being equal in value to $1 U. S. currency.

The A. R. stamps of Panama are a veritable philatelic nightmare. At first a handstamp, inscribed "A.R.—COLON—COLOMBIA" in three lines, was used, this being impressed on the ordinary 5c and 10c stamps of 1892 in various colors. In 1902 a new hand-stamp was introduced, this consisting of the letters "A R" in a large oval (which was applied to the same 5c and 10c Panama stamps) and in 1903 variety was introduced by applying this overprint to the first 5c A R stamp of Colombia. As these overprints were all handstamped, they may be found inverted, double, sideways, etc. On occasion, too, they appear to have been used as cancellations. The A R stamps of the republic of Panama are even more complex. At first the Colombian 10c A. R. stamps were used overprinted with several of the handstamps—1st. Panama, 1st. Colon, etc. Then the 5c overprinted stamp was stamped "A R—COLON," this being the old handstamp of 1898 with "COLOMBIA" removed. Later still a new handstamp—"A R—COLON—PANAMA"—was used, and in 1904 a 5c stamp was issued in connection with the permanent set.

Salvador, though a prolific stamp producer in other directions, has been content with but one A. R. label. This was issued in 1897 and bore the facial value of 5c. It is inscribed "AVISO DE RECEPCION" (Advice of Receipt).

SHORT REPLIES.

H. K. (New York).—If, as you say, the mark denominations of Germany generally have two cancellations it can only be because they are of extra large size. (2) The usual Haytian cancellation is circular but the one you mention is frequently found and is a ship cancellation applied on a Dutch mail boat.

E. H. B. (Allentown, Pa.).—I am afraid such a list could not be made sufficiently comprehensive or accurate to be of any permanent value.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES.

the "frame" has been removed in the reprint, and a single line of color crosses the top of the vignette where it curves up to a point.

These reprints were printed from vignette plate 32, and frame plate 32. The color is designated as dark brown and dark blue. There were 10,000 copies of the reprint made, but only 1981 of them found their way into the outstretched hands of an expectant populace.

The cardboard and India paper proofs form a beautiful addition to the collection, and will, I believe in years to come, be eagerly sought after.

Black cancellations are commonest. Combinations of black and red seem to be easy to secure, too. Pen-cancelled stamps are scarce, and those with only a red postal cancellation seem to be even harder to find. I have seen one or two cancelled in green, and have seen, but do not possess, a copy with Paid cancellation. I have also had the pleasure of seeing a nice copy with "Steamboat" across its face.

HIS GRANDFATHER'S LEGACY.

By ARTHUR IRWIN SMITH.

Aloysius was always the black sheep of the family. Perhaps it was a sheer excess of energy and vitality endeavoring to find a natural outlet that caused him always to get into hot water, but at any rate Grandpa Ellsmere could never get along with the bright-eyed and nimble-fingered lad. Grandpa was a gentleman of the old school, seventy years old and possessing a brain that seemingly had not grasped a new idea in a decade. Originality and progression were hateful to him. Stamp collecting was a new hobby to Grandpa, and consequently a thing of particular aversion. That's how Aloysius got himself cut off in the will with a mere mention and a legacy consisting of a garretful of rubbish. Jasper, the older of the two boys and Grandpa's favorite, received a lump bequest of one thousand dollars. His mournful face lighted up with a half-smile when the lawyer read the laudatory and enriching paragraph. The smile broadened when Aloysius' allotment was reached.

"To my grandson, Aloysius Ellsmere, I bequeath the sum of one dollar and the papers, books, and documents reposing in the northwest corner of the garret."

As grandpa was notoriously a poor reader and writer, this legacy was especially humorous. The books consisted of an old blue-backed speller and a common school reader or two; the papers were mostly weekly Gazettes from Danville, the county seat; and the documents and letters, of unknown character and quantity, were the accumulated trash of ante-bellum days and the quiet years of Grandpa's later life.

"The old man handed you a lemon, didn't he?" grinned Jasper, when the two boys were alone.

"Oh, I don't know," laughed Aloysius, good-naturedly. "There may be a check for a million hidden away among those old papers."

Afterwards life flowed smoothly on for the two boys. Jasper invested his thousand in the grocery business at Danville, and Aloysius spent his dollar on a new packet of stamps. The books and papers lay in the garret untouched. Some day, thought Aloysius, he would find time to sort them and see just what they were.

Jasper, by close management, saved a few hundred a year from his grocery business. Aloysius resided on the old farm for quite awhile, until finally a nice position was offered him in the city, ninety miles away. Journalism had been his choice of a profession, and at last an opening on the reportorial staff of the Daily Ledger had been given him.

The day before the date set for his departure there came the thought of his grandfather's legacy. He had hardly shown him respect, it occurred to him, in neglecting the matter as he had. True, it was probably intended as a slur that he was given the trash; nevertheless, it was his duty to do something with it, arrange that which was of value and destroy the worthless matter. That afternoon he climbed into the rickety, dusty apartment and swung open the lone window. The mess of junk on the floor was appalling. He drew up a large, empty box and began the tedious work of assorting.

The top of the pile was principally a jumbled mess of Gazettes. These he threw into the box to be consigned to the fire. An occasional letter he laid aside to be read when he could find nothing better to do, and the few undamaged books were stacked up in a neat pile at one side. Those that were of value he would donate to the public school library.

Near the bottom of the pile of rubbish he caught sight of something that made his heart leap in excitement. It was a queer kind of document with a large blue revenue stamp attached. A closer inspection revealed an old mortgage with a fifteen-dollar imperforated stamp attached. "Twenty-five dollars catalogue value," murmured Aloysius, whose collection had always lacked this particular gem.

Grandpa Ellsmere had long been a country 'squire or justice of the peace, and none of the papers and documents he had handled had ever been destroyed. Here were hundreds upon hundreds of old papers of the period of 1860 to 1870, each bearing its quota of revenue stamps. Some were quite common, but among the lot were enough rare ones to make Aloysius open his eyes wide in surprise. Jasper's legacy was nothing in comparison. The actual net cash value of the stamps in the garret would be double that amount.

Until late in the night Aloysius worked, carefully detaching the rare adhesives and occasionally preserving them on the entire original documents. An extra suit-case was required next day to transport his treasures to the city. A week of his spare time was taken up in assorting them and looking up their value, then those he did not need in his own collection he carried around to a leading dealer.

That gentleman adjusted his nose-glasses and ran leisurely through the lot. "Quite a nice bunch," he observed. "What do you want for the lot?"

"Fifteen hundred dollars," replied Aloysius coolly.

The dealer threw up his hands in deprecation and went through the usual tactics of beating down the bargain. Aloysius had expected something like this, and he was very well satisfied when the deal was finally closed for eleven hundred dollars cash. His legacy from Grandpa Ellsmere had turned out to be considerably more valuable than Jasper's. Not only had it brought in a hundred dollars more in cash, but there were many hundred dollars worth of stamps in his own collection that must be included.

Quick-eyed, energetic Aloysius made a brilliant success of his work in the city, but his busiest days were never too busy to admit a few minutes recreation with his well-filled album of philatelic treasures. Jasper plodded along in Danville, his grocery business growing slowly but surely, but never did he equal the progress of his wide-awake brother. The matter of Grandpa's preference in making his will was never again discussed between them, but sometimes there came the thought to Aloysius that perhaps, after all, there was more design than luck in the matter. His grandfather, despite his seeming lack of sympathy, may have come to realize that many of Aloysius' hobbies were not mere child's play and may have suspected the possibilities of the rubbish in the garret. In life too stubborn to admit his mistake, in his will he perhaps attempted to atone for his harshness against something he did not thoroughly understand.

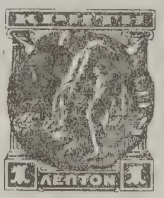
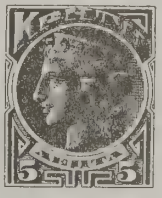
CRETE.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The postal adhesive issues of Crete reflect the troublous times the island has passed through during the short period since stamps were first issued in 1898. The first stamp for postage in the island was, curiously enough, issued under the direction of British officers during the temporary occupation of the province of Candia. Major W. E. Fairholme, Assistant British Commissioner was entrusted by the British authorities in the island with the establishment of the postal service, and he was assisted by Herr J. Berinda, the official in charge of the Austrian Post-office in Candia, whose office became the headquarters of the island post. The stamp issued is a crude label with colourless Greek characters on a ground of colour, the impressions being struck separately by hand in bright violet. This stamp was for temporary use only, and 3,000 are said to have been struck off in all; of these 1,000 are stated to have been purchased as a speculation by a captain, afterwards admiral, in the British Navy. The block from which the stamps were struck was destroyed on Jan. 20, 1899, in the presence of Sir Herbert Chermside, British Military Commissioner, Major Fairholme, Sir A. Biliotti, his Britannic Majesty's Consul-General, and Herr J. Berinda.

The crude first stamp was replaced by the familiar square stamps (10 and 20 parades), lithographed in Athens towards the end of 1898. In the following year the history of the British post was repeated in the Russian sphere of administration. Beginning on May Day, 1899, with two crudely designed stamps (1 and 2 metallik), struck separately with a hand stamp, the Russian authorities also procured a lithographed issue from Athens, which stamps began to be issued in June.





Following upon the establishment of the joint protectorate, the Cretan authorities began to display their kinship with the Greeks by reviving the symbols and emblems of their ancient history. M. Svoronos, the director of the National Numismatic Museum, was entrusted with the arrangement of a scheme of stamp designs, the subjects of which were chiefly drawn from ancient Cretan coinage. "It was, above all," say the authorities, in an official circular, "the postage stamps of the new autonomous State which bore witness to the love the Cretans feel for the symbols and emblems of their ancestors." The stamps are beautiful examples of miniature engraving. On the one lepton and fifty lepta are depicted Hermes, after a coin of a Cretan city noted for the beauty of its coinage. The messenger of the gods is bending to the left and donning his left sandal, his chlamys hangs from his shoulder, and his caduceus rests against a rock. The old-time artist had been inspired by the Odyssey, and the local authorities expressed their satisfaction with the stamp in the question, "Could one conceive a more beautiful emblem for the international and overseas postal service?" The five and twenty lepta stamps show the goddess Hera, the chosen one of Zeus, the subject being taken from a silver two-drachmai coin of Gnossus.

The design of the one-drachme stamp is meant to symbolise the domestic post, and depicts Talos, the guardian of the island, from a coin of Phæstos. This mythical winged man of brass, the work of Hephæstos, made a journey round the island thrice daily, and his protection consisted in keeping a look-out for any strangers who threatened to land. He had the power of making himself red-hot, and embracing such intruders to death. The figure of Minos, the lawgiver, from a coin of Gnossus, is shown on the two-drachmai stamp, the intention being to symbolise the principles guiding the new regime in Crete, Minos being "the wisest, the most just, and most kindly of all kings and lawgivers, a truly divine man, who became the symbol of a well-governed State."

The 10 and 25 lepta designs, in compliment to the High Commissioner, bear a portrait of Prince George of Greece. The official pamphlet explained "that the Greek imagination of the Cretans, subsequent to their freedom from foreign yoke, compared him (Prince George) from the first to the heroes of profane and Christian Greece, who, by the extermination of bandits and barbarians were the deliverers of Greece." The highest denomination in the set, the 5 drachmai was a further exemplification of this imagination, and, incidentally, a compliment to the design on the English gold coinage, for it was from this source that the device of St. George and the Dragon was taken. The English coin was chosen not only because it was readily accessible, but because it was considered the most artistic representation of St. George known, having evidently been inspired by the fine horsemen of the frieze of the Parthenon in the British Museum.

A later series of stamps (1905) is also replete with ancient lore, and is a very handsome set of engravings. The subjects taken from coins and seals include Artemis, Britomartis, Cydon, Ariadne, Europa, and Jupiter; there are also a portrait of Prince George and a view of the historic monastery of Arcadion, with Mount Ida, capped with the sparkle of eternal snows, in the background. The mountain, 6,000 ft. high, was associated with Zeus, who was supposed to have been born in a cave in Mount Ida but the monastery's chief claim to interest lies in an incident in the insurrections against the Turks in 1866. Figures differ in various accounts, but it is claimed that, after an herioc defense by 900 Greeks and Cretans, including women and children, against 22,000 Turkish and Egyptian soldiers, the former blew themselves up, together with a large number of the enemy. In the words of the postal pamphleteer, "it was the glorious Missolonghi of Crete."

A number of stamps of very crude design appeared in 1905 and later, purporting to be issued by the Revolutionary Government. An alleged figure of Victory is the device of one series; an allegory of "Crete enslaved" is set off in another series by a portrait of King George of Greece; and a third set bears a broken outline, which gives play to a very lively imagination before it can be accepted as being intended by its designers to represent a "map of Crete."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings have been acknowledged with thanks from Edw. W. Bridge, Russell L. Stultz, H. E. Bonsall, E. Tuckermann, E. A. Young, H. Clark Jarrett (3), John J. Clancy, Edgar B. Bissinger, Elbert B. Charman, W. R. Harrison, Hugo Kuenstler (6), Geo. M. Schaefer (2).

—We have received from Whitfield King & Co. their annual pricelist of postage stamps in packets and sets. It makes a very substantial book and will no doubt be furnished on request.

—Geo. M. Schaefer sends us a newspaper clipping with crude illustrations of two of the new Bulgarian stamps with the following inscription underneath:—"The New Stamps which Bulgaria has just put into Circulation for the Conquered Countries".

—The new nickel, with an artistic Indian head on the face, will be in circulation, according to the expectations of the Treasury Department, by February 1. Secretary MacVeagh has definitely accepted the design. Within a few days an order will be given the mints to begin making the new coin.

—R. Louis Payne writing us from Barbados states that while the 1sh King's head is temporarily exhausted a further supply has been ordered and is expected by early mail.

—Silas Weatherby & Co., Elyria, O., have had a singular experience with C. E. Crandall, Belmont, N. Y., the particulars of which are worth noting. Asking Mr. Crandall for returns on an approval selection sent him, the latter replied that none had been received, but a week later wrote that a friend had taken the stamps and that he would try and locate them. A subsequent letter contained a remittance for part of the stamps retained.

—L. C. Hooper, of Winnipeg, advises us that the Philatelic Society of Natal will hold a South African Philatelic Exhibition at Durban in July 1913. Great interest is being aroused in South Africa and India and a successful exhibition is anticipated. Mr. Hooper states that his correspondent advises him that all Natal stamps are now obsolete and Cape and Transvaal stamps are being used in Natal until the new Union issue is ready. We are indebted to Mr. Hooper for a clipping giving a ruling of the Canadian P. O. Dept. that stamps other than those used for postage must go upon the backs of envelopes.

—"I have just received the following from the Third Assistant Postmaster General, which may be of interest to your readers:—'In answer to your letter of December 4th, you are advised that no steps have been taken to issue the forthcoming Panama-Pacific postage stamps imperforate'."—JAS. LEWIS HOWE.

—Alvah G. Clark, 285 Spring St., Trenton, N. J., would like to know the present whereabouts of A. Wollenhaupt, Jr. formerly 51 Mercer St., N. Y. City, and 240 Carroll St., Brooklyn. Interested parties will please write.

—The Geo. W. Linn Co. announce a series of handbooks on United States postage stamps as a probability of the near future. The prospectus indicates a low priced series and an artistic bit of work with Mr. Goodwin as the author of the subject matter. We are promised a production equal to the well known Melville books.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

TO THE EDITOR:—

I have just run across the following in the P. J. of A. "* * * the recent discovery that the 10c, lithographed, of the Confederate States was printed not only by Hoyer & Ludwig of Richmond, Virginia, but also by J. T. Paterson & Co. of Augusta, Georgia, the only evidence of which fact is the imprint of the latter firm on a part of a sheet of this stamp, lately found."

It seems to have been recently discovered that just before the close of the war Confederate notes were printed at Augusta, and a few months ago it was intimated to me as not improbable that stamps might have been printed there also, but this would have been the engraved issue. Why should the old lithographic plate have been again brought into use? Can any reader throw light on this matter?

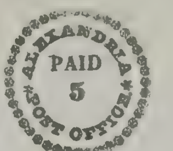
THE INTERNATIONAL BAN.

By L. C. Hooper.

That the international ban has been placed on special or commemorative stamps is the gist of a semi-official statement just sent out through the Canadian Govt. authorities. The despatch in question, of vital interest to stamp collectors, is as follows:—

"Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 9.—The post-office department has been notified by postal administrations of many of the leading countries forming part of the postal union, that their regulations will not allow them to recognize special commemorative stamps, or stamps sold or distributed in aid of patriotic or commemorative purposes, and that all letters or other aricles of mail matter bearing such stamps, will be returned to the country from which they were sent.

"Consequently this department can no longer permit such stamps to be placed on letters or other mail matter, as they prevent the department from rendering to the public the service which is expected when the ordinary postage on such articles has been paid."



ATTRACTIVE STAMP AUCTION
JANUARY 10th AND 11th, IN PHILADELPHIA

Our sale upon the above dates is unusually attractive, the first session comprising nearly six hundred lots of British Colonials all unused. The second session includes a nice collection of United States stamps, general foreign and some excellent wholesale lots. The catalogues are out and should be in the hands of all collectors. If you have not received one, write for it.
The CHRISTMAS STAMP DRUMMER, just out, is free for the asking.

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

By Washington Grant.

Chapter VI.—A Satisfied Patron.

Having secured your customer, the next step is to retain him and this next step is an important one, because a customer once disgusted is much harder to get back again than a new man who has never traded with you before. In the first place, in filling your orders from advertisements, be certain that the stamps are exactly as advertised or even better if possible. In case any slip or mistake is made, or there is any cause for complaint by the customer, or even if there is a misunderstanding which seems to be wholly the customer's own fault, take pains to adjust the matter to his satisfaction and do not be at all backward about refunding his money if he demands it. If an unreasonable customer who starts in by complaining, he will sometimes become ashamed of himself and when he has found that you intend to treat him not only reasonable but liberally, will shake his grouch and meet you half way.

Having satisfied your customer on his first order, the next step is to sell him more stamps. A great many dealers send unsolicited approval selections. This practice has been so much abused, that there is a strong sentiment against it among collectors to-day. It is much better, in the writer's opinion, to ask your new customer if you may not submit a selection on approval and if necessary enclose a stamped envelope or even a postal card for reply. This course enables you to find out what grade of stamps and what countries are most likely to interest him and not only avoid any resentment at being the recipient of an unsolicited lot, but also obviates the necessity of his looking over a lot of stamps in which he may not be interested at all.

The practise of submitting approval selections unsolicited is un-business-like from another point of view, in that you run considerable risk, unless you know pretty well who your new customer is. This matter of submitting approval selections will, however, be treated more fully in a future chapter.

In the matter of "unsolicited" approval selections, however, it should be emphasized that there is a difference between submitting general lots of approval books and sheets and sending for inspection stamps which you know a collector is likely to need or be specially interested in. Practically all collectors, after they get into business relations with a dealer, like to see any special things that may come in along their favorite lines and it is a general practise of practically all dealers to submit either single stamps or special lots of this sort to their customers, many of whom would feel slighted if they did not have a chance at any good new lots acquired by the dealer, even if they had not given a definite order to have that particular lot submitted. This practise is a usual and highly satisfactory one to both sides and should not be confused with the sending out of promiscuous, unjudged, unsolicited approvals.

In another chapter, we will treat of the second way for the new stamp dealer to make customers by spreading a knowledge of philately and creating new collectors in the outside world.

Chapter VII.—"Making Collectors."

In a previous chapter we treated some of the ways in which the stamp dealer gets new trade by appealing to stamp collectors who are already interested in the hobby. An even larger field exists for the dealers who create their own customers by interesting outsiders in stamp collecting. Of course, this method takes more time and patience than it does to simply appeal to collectors who are already interested and no dealer can expect to make a fortune at once by creating beginners.

This missionary work, as it has become to be called, is however, an essential part of a successful stamp business and the most successful firms to-day in this country are those which have recognized this fact. Many collectors, after a while lose interest in their hobby and a certain proportion drop off in time. New blood, of course, is being constantly added to the ranks of Philately, but every dealer should systematically do everything he can, not only to encourage this natural method of collecting, but to force it.

Out of 100,000,000 people in the United States to-day, there are probably not over 50,000 collectors each year who spend $1.00 or more on their hobby. Of course, this does not mean that there are only 50,000 people in the country who have stamp collections, as a great many collectors are spasmodic, buying stamps for a year or two and then laying their albums aside for a year or two, or even for a longer period. On the basis of these figures, only one person out of every 2,000 in the United States each year is active as a stamp collector. This portion is absurdly small.

The collecting instinct exists in a great many people. In fact, the majority of human beings have it in some degree. If a larger proportion of these people could be turned from collecting useless uninstructive oddities, such as buttons, cigar bands, etc., the results to philately would be enormous. It would seem as if, with united effort, it would be easy to get ten per cent. of the people of the United States to collect stamps. This would mean a million active collectors, in place of the present 50,000!

We will not, however, ask for ten per cent. but if only one person in a thousand can be interested, the result will be 100,000 active collectors, or twice the present number, which would mean the biggest boom that stamp collecting has ever seen and a sharp rise in the value of every existing stamp collection.

While this article is for those interested in stamp dealing, it may be said incidentally that if every reader of this paper would take his common duplicates, put them in envelopes and distribute them to the boys of his acquaintance, with a little explanation about the fun there is to be had in stamp collecting, several thousand new collectors could be created at once and at practically no expense.

What collectors can do and in many cases already have done in this way for the general good of the hobby and to increase the value of their own collections, every dealer should do on a larger scale to increase his own business. The boys and the girls are the first ones to appeal to. Grown people who do not know about stamp collecting are very hard to approach at first, although this difficulty is much less than it used to be, since there have been so many intelligent articles on philately published in the papers and magazines the last few years. The child's mind is fresh, the stamps appeal to him, and in most cases he has the collecting instinct. After the boy gets interested, the parent is usually appealed to for assistance in classifying the stamps and thus the boy has become the unconscious teacher of his father. In hundreds of

EDITORIAL.

Everybody Happy—To all of our readers we extend the compliments of the season; and we trust that this Christmas will be a royally merry one for all our friends. Those readers who have contributed to the cheer of the "shut-ins" by their gifts of stamps may know that their goodness has been effective and that their benefactions were gratefully received by sufferers all over the country. Our part in bringing together the giver and the recipient has occasioned us no little satisfaction and it is a comforting thought that the plan has culminated so successfully. It is to be added that the Christmas hamper has been hailed as a most timely and convenient aid to holiday giving and many a young philatelic heart will beat the faster through our adoption of the hamper suggestion, conveyed to us by a reader some weeks ago.

All Ready—Space will be given elsewhere to the official notice of parcel post stamps in which all particulars are detailed. The descriptions of the parcel post stamps and the parcel post due stamps are supplemented by information of much interest. It is noticed that "The department will issue parcel-post stamps and parcel-post due stamps to postmasters in sheets of 45; but so few as ten of the 50-c, 75-c and $1 stamps will be supplied to posmasters if desired." These special stamps may not be used interchangeably with the ordinary issue and as has been said before, all fourth-class matter should be paid by the parcel-post stamps. Instructions as to the workings and information as to the limitations of the special service have appeared in practically all of the newspapers of the country. Consultation of a map of the zones shows that the highest postage for eleven pounds, the limit of weight, is $1.32, in the last or eighth zone. The chief clerk of the post office department sells this map at cost price or twenty cents, when addressed at Washington. To find the size limit of the package, it is directed that the sender take a piece of string seventy-two inches long and wind it around the package and then across the top lengthways. If the ends of the string reach the sides of the parcel, it comes under the limit. Our post-office department is to be congratulated in having so capably transacted all the preliminary details of parcel-post service and posterity will have reason to remember gratefully, the retiring postal administration.

Call a Halt—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who says that he can prove and that some day he will do so that the Utah stamps, portrait of Brigham Young, were really used by the Mormon authorities of old Deseret? Is he standing with reluctant feet where Early Creek and Salt River meet with the o. f. c. who once made a big find of five-cent, 1847, which he sold to a dealer for two dollars a hundred to be taken out in exchange? Eftsoons, what has become of the old-fashioned dealer who gave his best customers their choice of the arms, flags or portraits of rulers of the nations of the world, as a Christmas present? Has he taken a vacation with the o. f. d. who marked the prices of his best stamps on their backs with an indelible pencil? Note: W. B., usually a man of peace wishes to know where the o. f. something or other is who penned a moustache on Washington on a ten-cent 1847 that he came into possession of recently.

Old Argus-Eyes.—Sinpod, the stamp sage says that he has espied a collector whose Hawaiian numerals which he had in his first collection have not turned out to be counterfeit: A philatelist who never had any difficulty in detecting the watermark in the postage due, 1895 issue: A collector who does not keep all the used special delivery stamps that he receives on his mail and a collector who does not hope to uncover some early unused U. S., at a little country post-office.

What Next—Problem of conduct. Sitting next to a quiet gentleman at a stamp auction where the prices are running all too low, you say to him, really with no thought in mind but to be agreeable, at a time when the slaughter is at its height: "I pity the poor owner; but it serves him right for not giving more attention to condition. I wonder how he feels?" "Why," returns the gentleman addressed, a bit uncertainly, "I happen to be the owner." What are you to do? Apologize or absquatulate or shrink into nothingness? and just then, the auctioneer, looking directly in your direction, says loudly: "No talking, gentleman."

Cruelty to Stamps—Mr. Myron T. Jones, Washington, D. C., declares: "No sir, the collector who used to string his stamps has not gone out of existence. I have in mind my next door neighbor who is a lady of about fifty. She had begun by stringing the stamps that came on the daily mail. A minister visiting a convention in her town heard that she had a collection (if such it could be called) and asked her to give the collection for the purpose of sending an old woman to some home. At that time, she was a girl of about twelve; and she replied that she would make a collection if he would ask his friends to send her all the stamps they could get. This he did and the packets began coming in by the hundreds from all over the United States; this kept up for a year and she wondered why the minister did not come for the collection. She had been assorting them by stringing the different values on strings and when the minister did make his appearance, it was only to inform her that some other disposition had been made of the old woman and that she could have the stamps if she wanted them. She had received ninety thousand by this time (she counted them by placing a hundred on a pin and measuring them likewise). She has sold about sixty dollars' worth but still has about twenty thousand, some on strings and some unstrung, with little holes in the middle."

New Color For New Value—Mr. Frank L. Applegate, Klamath Falls, Oregon, has sent the following letter to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, —too late for action, it must be said: "As the 75-cent parcel-post stamp soon to be issued will be an entirely new denomination in the United States, it is wholly fitting that it should be in a color quite new and distinctive. I am a stamp collector who for years has made a study of the colors in which United States stamps are printed—as an amateur, of course—and should like to suggest a color for the new denomination if you will permit me; and provided, of course, that the stamps are not already being printed. The peculiar dark orange red of the stamp of the American Rapid Telegraph Company, twenty-cent, appended hereto, has never been used for a United States postage stamp, and I beg to submit it for your consideration."

Philatelic Favorite—When, in years gone by, we saw names such as Phil A. Teley, R. O. U. Lette, Ann Tigua, Sur Charge, etc., attached to articles in the philatelic press, it was always our assumption that the names were not real ones but clever creations of philatelic fancy. We change our mind, upon having our attention called to the fact that a newspaper says that Mr. Ad Hesive from Paw Paw Lake, Michigan, was enjoying himself while visiting in Kalamazoo. We have some recollection of a Mr. R. E. Prints as a stamp collector.

Mr. W. R. King, Grand Island, Neb., writes: "It is a pleasure to say that I have been a subscriber to the WEEKLY from the beginning." Our old friend, Mr. Edward W. Heusinger, F. R. G. S., San Antonio, Texas, says: "I was one of your subscribers to the WEEKLY who began with Volume I, Number 1, and therefore you may put my name on your roll of honor." This cordial expression is from Mr. E. L. Whitney, Washington, D. C.: "I began to take the WEEKLY from the start and have a complete file to date.... I stopped collecting stamps twenty years ago but there is no paper that I read more carefully than the WEEKLY. I shall take the paper as long as I live and hope to leave enough to my grand-children so that they may follow my example. The Mekeel habit has a grip on me and somehow, I cannot get rid of it...."

NOTICE TO POSTMASTERS.

Letters For the Postal Agency at Shanghai Specially Addressed Via Siberia.

Office of Second Asst. P. M. Gen.,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6, 1912.

Letters for the City of Shanghai specially addressed via Siberia or via Europe and Siberia or otherwise to indicate the trans-Siberian route are subject to the postal union postage rate of 5 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce. Such letters are not delivered through the Postal Agency at Shanghai, but under the postal union regulations are delivered through the German or British post offices in the City of Shanghai.

Letters for the City of Shanghai sent via the Pacific are delivered through the United States Postal Agency in that city, and are consequently subject to domestic rates and conditions. Letters for all other parts of China by either the Pacific or trans-Siberian route are subject to postal union conditions.

Postmasters are instructed to cause due notice of the foregoing to be taken at their offices, and paragraph 7 (a), on page 124 of the July Guide for 1912, should be modified accordingly.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH, ENGLAND

PARCEL-POST STAMPS.

1. Under the parcel-post law effective January 1, 1913 mail matter of the fourth class, except "permit" matter dispatched under the provisions of Section 483½, P. L. and R., must bear distinctive postage stamps, and a special series of stamps in twelve denominations and of due stamps in five denominations will be issued by the Department.

2. The parcel-post stamps measure 1 by 1½ inches between perforation lines. The color is red for all denominations. In a curved panel across the top, supported by a paneled perpendicular column at each end, appear the words "U. S. Parcel Post" in Roman capital letters. Triangular ornaments occupy both upper corners. The denomination in large numerals is in each lower corner with the title of the subject and the word "Cents" (or "Dollar") between. The subjects of the several denominations are:

1c, "Post Office Clerk."
2c, "City Carrier."
3c, "Railway Postal Clerk."
4c, "Rural Carrier."
5c, "Mail Train."
10c, "Steamship and Mail Tender."
15c, "Automobile Service."
20c, "Aeroplane Carrying Mail."
25c, "Manufacturing."
50c, "Dairying."
75c, "Harvesting."
$1, "Fruit-growing."

3. The parcel-post due stamps are 1 by 1½ inches between perforation lines. The color is green for all denominations. In a horizontal panel across the top are the words "U. S. Parcel Post," and in a similar panel at the bottom, "Postage Due," in Roman capital letters. In the center, upon a background of lathework, and within a circular frame, is a large numeral expressing the denomination. The upper half of the circular frame carries the denomination in words which are repeated in the lower half, except that the words expressing the denomination appear but once upon the 25c stamp. Small numerals of denomination are on both sides of the large central numeral. The due stamps are issued in 1, 2, 5, 10 and 25 cent denominations.

4. All postmasters will be sent a supply of parcel-post and of parcel-post due stamps without requisition, to reach them on or before January 1, 1913.

5. To secure additional supplies postmasters should draw requisition upon the blank spaces in the new consolidated Form 3201, writing the words "Parcel Post" plainly opposite each denomination desired.

6. Pending the filling of requisitions postmasters may, if necessary, purchase temporary supplies from neighboring post-offices (paragraph 5, Section 331, P. L. and R.); but such purchases should be avoided, if possible, by timely requisitions upon the Department for needed stamp supplies. Postmasters who sell stamps to other postmasters must report their value to the First Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Salaries and Allowances, under the provisions of the 1912 Postal Guide, page 43, paragraphs 75 and 76.

7. The Department will issue parcel-post stamps and parcel-post due stamps to postmasters in sheets of 45; but so few as ten of the 50c, 75c and $1 stamps will be supplied to postmasters if desired.

8. The value of parcel-post and parcel-post due stamps handled should be included in postmasters' quarterly stamp accounts rendered to this office.

9. Beginning January 1, 1913, ordinary postage stamps will not be valid for payment of postage on mail matter of the fourth class, nor will the regular postage due stamps be valid for the collection of postage on short-paid matter of the fourth class.

10. Parcel-post stamps and parcel-post due stamps are not valid for payment of postage or postage due on matter of the first, second or third class.

11. Matter of the first, second and third classes bearing parcel-post stamps, and, beginning January 1, 1913, matter of the fourth class bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as "Held for postage." (Section 571, P. L. and R.)

12. Parcel-post due stamps are designed to witness collection of postage on short-paid matter of the fourth class and they are not valid for prepayment of postage and must not be sold to the public. (Section 134, P. L. and R.)

JAMES J. BRITT,
Third Asst. P. M. Gen.

1c STAMP FOR CITY MAIL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, former chair of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads, introduced a bill extending to large cities and towns with free mail delivery service a 1-cent first-class postage rate on local letters. Mr. Penrose said he thought his bill would become law in the present session and that it would work a great economy for business houses in the larger cities.

"The so-called drop-letter in towns without a free mail delivery," said Mr. Penrose, "very properly remains subject only to a 1-cent rate, as the cost of the service is so little.

"The provision will mean a tremendous saving to big mercantile establishments with charge accounts. Under the present system every charge account, no matter how small, costs a business house 4 cents a month in postage on the bill and the receipt. Delinquent customers multiply this amount several times. My bill cuts this burden in half."

NEW STAMPS FROM BALKAN STATES.

(Clipping from W. L. MCATEE.)

It has by now become a commonplace that the misery of war makes the joy of the stamp collector. The war in the near east will be no exception, for philatelists soon will rejoice over an event that is unique in the history of postage stamps. The stamps issued by the allies for the conquered provinces are to be all of the same type in design and decoration, the only difference between the stamps of various states being that the vignette in the middle will be a picture of Sofia in the case of Bulgaria, of Belgrade for Servia, of Cettinje for Montenegro and of Athens for Greece.

The design of the new stamps is originally Greek, being an artist's adaptation of an idea furnished by the director of the Numismatic Musuem at Athens. Above the four capital cities floats the same luminous cloud wherein a fiery cross appears with the inscription: "In hoc signo vinces." It will be a crusade stamp.—Washington Star.

Jan. 8.—J. M. Bartels Co. will sell over 300 lots of U. S. in locals and blocks. Also early Turkey.

Small Ads Column.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

We want to buy a stamp collection for cash. J. L. Wolff, 717 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis. [tf*

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—Harvey E. Nichols, writing from Ohio, reports that parcels post stamps have been received at his postoffice. He does not describe the design, the values seen being the 1c, 2c, 5c, and 25c and 1c and 5c postage dues. They reached the office December 3, as evidently the distribution begun December 3 or earlier. Mr. Nichols reports the following plate numbers:

Postage—1c, 6199, 6200, 6201, 6202; 2c, 6180, 6182, 6181, 6183; 5c, 6211, 6212, 6214, 6217; 25c, 6174.

Postage Due—1c, 6227; 5c, 6229.

The Rev. J. Dreyer writes: "Re U. S. 1c Official Savings Mail, purple, as noted on page 379, column 1 (Nov. 23), of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, allow me to state that plate number 5656 is very likely the one from which these stamps were printed. I have seen a sheet of 100 stamps, of which nearly all the lower line stamps showed such marks about the ceriph. I also possess a vertical strip of three stamps with such marks."

George A. Chandler reports having seen the 1c, 1912 with plate number 6005.

D. H. Graham reports having received a 2c envelope, die A, size 8, watermarked "U S S E—1911," with the new knife, the first seen outside of sizes 5 or 13.

Geo. E. Virden shows us a 2c envelope, size 7, on amber, which has two blanks made up into one envelope, as was noted in No. 1144. Both blanks are stamped and have the return card printed on, but only one is gummed.

Franks Kocher shows two covers mailed in Pittsburgh, Pa., December 5, but which are dated "1913." One was postmarked at 7 p. m., and the other at 8 p. m. so that the wrong date was in use for at least an hour. How many letters were dated a year ahead of time there is no means of knowing.

AITUTAKI.—W. H. Peckitt and the New England Stamp Co. have shown us the 2½d, Lake Wakatipu stamp of New Zealand, surcharged in red as before. The stamp, however, is printed in a deeper shade of blue, is perforated 13 and the gum is changed in color, being darker and more opaque.

ARGENTINE.—George J. Carter sends us specimens of the 10p and 20p stamps of the 1899 issue. These stamps were used in the same manner as the United States newspaper stamps were used, for prepaying large shipments of newspapers. The stamps were attached to the blank or receipt, and cancelled by the word "Chancelado" punched through both stamps and receipt. This hardly bears out the footnote in Scott's Catalogue.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist says:—

"Within a comparatively short time the Postmaster-General hopes to be able to supply the public with new stamps. The design, as originally selected, had in it what looked like a turnip top before a kangaroo. Mr. Frazer, the Postmaster-General, said it was kangaroo grass, but so much exception was taken to it that he had a die cast from which this has been eliminated, and a shaded ground put in. The stamp has been improved thereby. Specimens in the various colours have been submitted and approved. Mr. Frazer has issued orders for the printing of a large supply. We have, however, received a communication from the Acting-Secretary of the Postmaster-General's department, stating that there has been no material change in the design of the stamp, other than that the word 'Postage' has been inserted under the word 'Australia'."

AZORES.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the full set of stamps of the mother country, surcharged "Acores" for use in this Colony. All surcharges are in black, except on the ½c.

BAHAMAS.—W. H. Peckitt sends us the 1sh King George stamp, previously chronicled.

BARBADOS.—W. H. Peckitt shows us the full set of the new King George stamps for this Colony, chronicled some time since.

BECHUANALAND PROTECTORATE.—W. H. Peckitt and the New England Stamp Co. have shown us the 1d King George stamp of Great Britain, surcharged "Bechuanaland—Protectorate" for use in this Colony, the surcharge being like that of 1904-08. The stamp used for surcharging is type II, but with the old watermark.

Adhesive.
On stamps of Great Britain.
1d scarlet; black surcharge.

BOSNIA.—W. H. Peckitt shows us the full set recently chronicled.

CANADA.—Whitfield King & Co. say in their Monthly List: Sundry philatelic journals having announced the forthcoming appearance of a new commemorative set of stamps, we addressed an enquiry to the Post Office Department at Ottawa, to which we have received the following reply:—

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 30th ultimo, on the subject of a special set of postage stamps to be issued in Canada to commemorate the Centenary of Sir George Etienne Cartier. I may say that some consideration has been given to this matter, but no decision has, as yet, been arrived at."

CEYLON.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the new King George stamps for the Island, the design being the same as the current Gold Coast stamps, the figures of value being all in color on a white ground, and the inscriptions at the sides reading "Postage—& Revenue." "Ceylon" is much larger type than has been hitherto used, and the effect is not good. The figures of value are also bolder, which gives the stamps a crowded look.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us the $5 value with the new Republic surcharge described in Nos. 1135 and 1137.

CYPRUS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 10pa value of the King George set.

Adhesive.

10pa orange and green.

GERMAN SOUTH WEST AFRICA.—Mr. Schachne reports the 5pf card with the usual divided face form.

GAMBIA.—Whitfield King & Co. report that they have been officially informed that the stock of King Edward stamps was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of Aug. 31, 1912.

GREAT BRITIAN.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the ½d and 1d King George stamps, in both types I and II, but on paper with the new watermark. Those of type I, Mr. Peckitt says, are only to be found in the little stamp booklets sold by the postoffices, while those of type II are only to be found in the rolls of stamps.

GUADELOUPE.—Mr. Morse has a card that while it has been in use for a long time, we have not seen mentioned. It is the card of 1901 with the horizontal rectangular stamp like those on the low values of the 1905 set of adhesives.

Post Card.

10c dull red on bluish.

JAMAICA.—William L. Aldrich and Arthur Abbott have shown us specimens of the new 6d King George stamp, chronicled last week. W. H. Peckitt also shows us the 2d and 1sh King George values, previously chronicled.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke shows us a new envelope from this country, the stamp being surface printed, design and color being the same as the current postage issue.

Envelope.

10c brown on white.

NORTHERN NIGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us several values of the King George stamps for this Protectorate.

Adhesives.

½d green.
1d scarlet.
2d gray.
3d violet on yellow.
4d black and red on yellow.
6d lilac and mauve.

SOMALILAND PROTECTORATE.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 1a and 1r values of the new King George set, the higher value being in the large size, Scott's type A2.

Adhesives.

1a scarlet.
1r gray green.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 10c value in the King George series.

Adhesive.

10c violet on yellow.

Johore.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 5c, 8c and 25c of the current series, on paper watermarked multiple quatrefoil or flower.

TASMANIA.—As announced in No. 1144, the 2d of 1905-08 has been surcharged "One Penny," like the Victoria 2d announced some time since. We are indebted to F. W. Reid for specimens. The stamps used are from the original die measuring 32½ mm. in length, Mr. Reid having sent us specimens perforated 12½ and 11. The overprinting is in red, the type used being small italic caps, without a period. Mr. Reid says that the issue was smaller than the similar issue for Victoria. The pairs submitted included the defective printing which shows a white mark under the right tablet containing the figure of value, the mark being more pronounced on the stamps perforated 12½ than on the otherwise. The defective stamp is the sixth stamp from the top in the second vertical row.

Provisional Adhesive.

"One Penny" on 2d purple.

VENEZUELA.—Hermann Focke sends us specimens of the new official stamps reported some time since. There are five values, the colors of the three lower values being the same as in the previous set, but the others are changed. The design is materially changed, the seven stars over the Arms having been removed, and the horse in the lower field is running toward the left, instead of standing facing the right with head turned backward. The tablets containing the figures of value have been enlarged and now extend to the margin of the stamp, and the figures themselves are larger than before. The new stamps have this imprint in place of the familiar New York imprint: "Lit y Tip del Commercio, Caracas."

Official Adhesives.

5c green and black.
10c carmine and black.
25c ultramarine and black.
50c purple and black.
1b yellow and black.

VICTORIA.—W. H. Peckitt and the New England Stamp Co. have shown us a reissue of the current 1c stamp, but in a deeper shade of carmine, and perforated 13. Evidently the 1d provisional recently issued was soon exhausted.

THINK IT OVER.

By S. M. REED.

There are a great many collectors whose limited means prevent them from patronizing the various new issue services; at the same time the better class of dealers do not put penny stamps on their approval sheets. For these reasons many collections are years behind in the low value stamps. In my own case I find it easier to get low values for the years 1900–1905 than for 1910.

I would suggest that if dealers would begin at once offering variety packets of used stamps issued in 1912, and do the same thing in 1913 they would find a ready sale for stamps that later would be regarded as almost worthless. This may be an impracticable idea, as I am not at all acquainted with the conditions of the stamp market.

STAMPS FOR ASCENSION.

A special issue of postage stamps will shortly be made for the solitary island of Ascension, a diminutive coaling station in mid-Atlantic, which is controlled by the Board of Admiralty and administered like a man of war. The population consists of the crew of seamen and marines, their wives and families and the staff of the Eastern Telegraph station. Although Ascension has been included in the Universal Postal Union since 1896 no special stamps have as yet been issued those of Great Britain having been employed throughout. The reason for this, is that the postal service is conducted as on board one of H. M. ships, the assistant paymaster in charge acting as postmaster. The mail service is maintained by the vessels of the Union Castle Line, which touch at the island every month, under contract with the British Government. British postage stamps bearing the circular postmark indicating their use in Ascension are much sought after by stamp collectors, the values other than 1d being seldom met with.—Ewen's Weekly.

ORDERS OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL

Office of the Postmaster General,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4, 1912.

Order No. 6689.

The second paragraph of Order No. 5620, dated July 1, 1911, embodied in paragraph 49, page 15, July, 1912, Postal Guide, reading as follows:

"All domestic mail matter bearing on the address side adhesive stamps, or imitations of stamps, other than lawful postage stamps, will be returned to the sender, if known; otherwise they will be forwarded to the Division of Dead Letters"— is hereby suspended until January 1, 1913.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK,
Postmaster General.

Office of the Postmaster General,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4, 1912.

Order No. 6690.

Postmasters are authorized to deliver all letters on which the postage has been fully prepaid arriving at their respective post offices between December 16, 1912, and January 1, 1913, inclusive, which are addressed plainly and unmistakably to "Santa Claus," without any other terms or expressions identifying the person whom such letters are intended, to responsible institutions or individuals in the town or city of address who may desire to use them exclusively for philanthropic purposes. In the event that these letters are requested by more than one such institution or individual the postmaster shall distribute them in such proportion as he may deem proper.

In accordance with Section 569, Postal Laws and Regulations, letters of the character described on which the postage is wholly unpaid, or paid less than one full rate, should be forwarded immediately to the Division of Dead Letters, accompanied by the name and address of any responsible institution or individual who may desire to respond to the requests of the writers.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK,
Postmaster General.

A BIT OF POLITICS.

The managing editor now has something with which to divide his time so far as his stamp collecting is concerned. Tuesday, December 10, he was elected alderman-at-large of Beverlv, Mass. and by virtue of receiving the highest vote cast will be president of the board for the coming year. He received the very large vote of 2227 out of 3500, the largest ever given a candidate for public office in that city.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

PARCEL POST STAMPS.

It is a curious anomaly that though the United States has parcel post agreements with most civilised countries it has never had a domestic service of this sort. On January 1st next, however, a domestic parcel post system is to be inaugurated and we shall be permitted to enjoy a postal blessing that other countries have had the benefit of for many years. In connection with this new parcel post special stamps are to be issued and only these can be used for prepaying packages. In issuing these special labels the United States is following a precedent set by some of the smaller countries—it will be the first of the important nations to issue parcel post stamps. Throughout the British Empire, where the parcel post has flourished to an amazing degree and now forms one of the most important branches of the postal system, ordinary postage stamps are used for the prepayment of parcels and this saves an enormous amount of trouble all round. It is true that from 1883 until 1904 Great Britain made use of special stamps for use on official parcels but these were simply issued to simplify the accounts under which the Post Office received credit from other Government departments for carrying parcels. Prior to 1883 the packages were either franked by an official signature or by means of ordinary stamps the cost of which was reimbursed at the end of every quarter. This, in some instances, involved officials in a heavy personal outlay, which though temporary was often inconvenient, and the specially overprinted stamps obviated this. These "Govt. Parcels" stamps were withdrawn in 1904 with all other departmental stamps and since then official parcels have been franked with a "paid" postmark.

How long Afghanistan has had a parcel post I do not know but special stamps in connection therewith were not issued until 1909. In that year a series of four labels appeared each value differing from the others in design. Like all the other stamps of this country they are inscribed in native characters only.

In Belgium the parcel post, though under the administration of the Government, is worked as a branch quite separate from that of the ordinary post, and parcels had, and I believe still have, to be sent from a railway station. In fact all the stamps are inscribed "CHEMINS DE FER" (Railways), and the State Railways are responsible for the sorting, despatch, and delivery of the parcels. Prior to 1879 the cost of carrying parcels varied according to distance, and as this somewhat hampered trade, especially in goods of no great value, a number of petitions were sent to the Legislature praying for the establishment of a uniform rate for any distance within the confines of the country. In April 1879 the Department of Public Works promulgated a scheme by which it was possible to send small parcels at a uniform rate for any distance, and stamps were issued, presumably under the authority of this department, for the prepayment of the requisite charges. Later on the system was extended, and the printing of the stamps was undertaken by the Belgian government itself. Altogether four different designs have been used for these Belgian parcel post stamps, and while the earlier emissions had the inscriptions in French only, these issued since 1895 have been inscribed in both French and Flemish, the equivalent for "Chemins de fer" in the latter language being "Spoorwegen." It should be understood that these stamps are not attached to the parcels, but are affixed to the way bills accompanying the packages. These "despatch notes" are stored by the Records Department for a time and every now and then they are sold in large lots to waste paper dealers. The purchasers cut off the stamps and sell them by weight to stamp dealers; hence, in used condition, most values are qûite common.

Two years after the issue of its ordinary postage stamps the Congo State, or Independent State of the Congo as it was then called, entered into an arrangement with the Belgium Government for the establishment of a parcels post service. It was mutually agreed that the parcels must not weigh more than five kilogrammes, and that prepayment should be indicated on Belgian parcels by means of the parcel post stamps and on those of the Congo State by the ordinary stamps of the territory. Notwithstanding this stipulation the 5 francs stamp was overprinted "COLIS—POSTAUX FR. 3.50," and used for this purpose, the surcharge being made by means of a rubber handstamp. The 5fr. stamp of 1887 was similarly overprinted and in 1889-92 the surcharge was improved by the addition of a border, this latter handstamp being made of copper. These provisionals were replaced in 1899 by two handsome picture stamps neither of which, however, bore any inscription to indicate its particular use. In 1908, in common with all other Congo stamps these two values were overprinted "Congo Belge" and in 1910 new stamps with the new name engraved appeared.

Italy employed parcel post stamps for a very limited period. Four values were issued on July 1st, 1884, and two more were added on May 1st, 1886. These labels are of extra large size, and are inscribed "PACCHI—POSTALI" (parcel post) above the portrait of King Humbert. The stamps were withdrawn from use a few years later and in 1890 the remainders were converted into newspaper stamps by being surcharged "Valevole per le stempe" (good for printed matter) and "C MI. 2."

The 10c stamp of the 1892-96 type for Indo-China is known overprinted "Indo-Chine—timbre—colis postaux" in three lines. This label was used on parcels, but as it seems to have been affixed in addition to the ordinary postage stamps, its use was fiscal and not postal.

Another French Colony—Ivory Coast—furnishes us with an appalling number of provisional parcel post stamps. These were all issued during the period 1903-5 and they consist of the ordinary postage due stamps of the French Colonies overprinted with the name "Cote d'Ivoire" and "Colis Postaux" or "C P" and, usually, with new values as well. In Scott's catalogue a list of 42 varieties is given but the specialist could lengthen it considerably.

Martinique is another French Colony that has issued a parcel post stamp. This label, which was only in use for a limited period, consists of the 60c postage due stamp of 1894 surcharged "Timbre Poste—5F—Martinique—Colis Postaux" in four lines.

HOW TO BECOME A STAMP DEALER.

instances, if the boy becomes tired of the collection, the father, who has found by experience the value and pleasure of stamp collecting as a recreation, will take over the collection and continue it as his own. In this way, hundreds of intelligent adult philatelists have been made.

Our dealer, therefore, who starts out to make new collectors, bears in mind that his first appeal is to the young people. If he is located in a good sized town or city, his best method is to encourage new collectors by distributing œforeign STAMPS. Articles in papers, lectures, the aid of school teachers, etc., are all good, but in the writer's opinion, by far the best actual results are accomplished by the distribution of stamps themselves. A boy will read an interesting article on stamp collecting and be entertained by it, but without any special desire being aroused in him to form a stamp collection himself. If, however, a handful of foreign stamps is given to him, no matter how common they are, they are new to him, he examines the designs, begins unconsciously to classify the varieties and before he knows it, has become a stamp collector. Bear this fundamental fact in mind and if you are a dealer doing missionary work, spend most of your funds in distributing stamps, even if it seems that many of them are simply wasted when distributed.

For local work in a large town or city, a good way to do this is to distribute printed cards to the school children, stating that the card, if presented at your office or store will entitle the bearer to a package of foreign stamps free. In this way, the boys will get acquainted with your place of business. You will have a rush of disorderly youngsters to take care of at first, but they will soon sift out and a certain proportion will buy, first packets, then cheap albums, and will eventually become steady customers. There is no town of any size in the United States where a dealer with the assistance of a few dollars and some intelligent work cannot create a local trade in this manner. The best results in the way of this business, however, may not come for two or three years after the start, when the parents of some of the boys get actively interested and become your best customers.

Another way to sell stamps and make collectors is by making arrangements with local toy or stationery stores to carry some packets on commission and give away small free packets of stamps. This, with the proper printed matter, will bring trade to the toy store at first, but eventually the collectors will find their way to your office if your name is in the local directory and especially if your name is on the packets of stamps as being the concern that puts them out.

This chapter may seem to place too much emphasis upon the boy trade, but it is a fact that the cultivation and encouragement of this trade is absolutely the best means of increasing the interest in stamp collecting. When a dealer tells you anything to the contrary, you may make up your mind that he is one of the parasite class which always refuses to contribute to any movement leading to the betterment of philately and lives by stealing fruit from the trees that others have planted. If you ever expect to have a large business, you must stand well with the other members of the trade and the parasite dealer soon becomes known as such and after a few years wonders why his brother dealers never "turn anything his way" and why he has such difficulty in eking out a living, when the broader-minded and more liberal of his competitors are so prosperous.

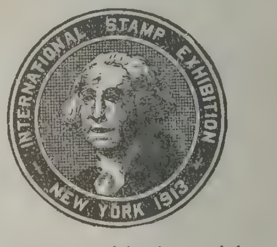
EXHIBITION NEWS.



In compliance with the articles of incorporation, the terms of ten of the directors expire in March when an election will be held. Every member has a vote and it is up to them to examine the work already accomplished, and if not up to the standard or if the machinery can be improved in any way, all have an equal chance to offer any improvement. The retiring directors have done everything in their power to make the Exhibition a success and should be re-elected but there may be others anxious to serve the cause, and the proverb says that new brooms sweep clean. There will be a grand chance for some rich New Yorker to entertain the foreign visitors and Washington officials who are all lending their influence to make the Exhibition the grand success it deserves to be. There will be at least one official banquet and possibly other forms of entertainment for members and visitors. In a few weeks the prospectus for intending exhibitors will be ready. Members can obtain copies by writing any of the officers. A subscription of one dollar secures a membership and season ticket to the exhibition. Application with required fee can be sent to the Treasurer, J. W. Scott, 36 John St., New York City, or to any of the fiscal agents scattered throughout the country. The stamps will soon be ready but it will take another number to describe their beauties, anyway, if you are a member, you will get one.

CHAPTER XXIII.

24 Cents, Issue of 1869.

There is very little to be said for or against the 24 cents, '69, stamp for the reason that only the specialist with a fairly long bank account will ever accumulate enough of them for deep study. It requires the examination of a dealer's stock of considerable size to enable one to “dig out” the several shades and varieties of grilles necessary to put together all of the known things which exist.

This is not a handsome stamp to handle or to look upon, for the reason that there is a lack of harmony between the picture of The Signing of the Declaration of Independence, and the ornate framework which surrounds the centrepiece. Green and dark violet make about the poorest combination possible, so far as beauty is concerned, and when one adds to this some abominable cancellations, and perforations which leave the stamp away out of center, the collector has a stamp which is far from being “a thing of beauty and a joy forever.”

These stamps began making their appearance from the early part of May, 1869, until the country was well supplied by the first of June. In fact, so far as the writer can discover, the higher values—from 15 cents up—showed up about at the same time. They were withdrawn from sale about ten months later, but never were entirely supplanted by the 24 cents lilac of the previous issue.

But few shades have been chronicled. Mr. Luff classifies the colors as deep yellow green, yellow green and blue green for the frame-work, and deep violet for the centre. I have three distinct shades in the vignette, but whether due to difference in printing, or to the effect of light upon the ink, I am not prepared to say. Any shade of violet is susceptible to the effects of light, and it is likely that exposure to the sun's rays might have caused the differences.

The only true variety mentioned in catalogs or the philatelic press is “with medallion inverted.”

Mr. Luff gives only two sizes of grilles. I have been shown one other, so am compelled to say that the grilles exist:

Size.	Points.
9½x9½	13x12

Some of these stamps were allowed to go to the public without passing through the grilling machine, and we have a variety—if it may be called so—without grille. The frame of the missed-grille stamp is blue green, invariably, so if any reader has a copy with yellow green frame, used, which shows no grille, it is likely that a very faint trace exists. Of this I am certain—knowing the trend of the stamp market and the lack of appetite which exists among most collectors (and dealers, too) I would give no more for a copy of any of this issue which showed no sign of grille than for one which showed the gridiron strong. This goes either used or unused—with the writer.

This stamp was printed from plates numbered in combination. There is to be found frame plate number 20 and vignette 20; frame 20 and vignette 24; no number for frame and plate 20. I have been told that a vignette plate existed without plate number but have been unable to verify the statement.

The number of stamps delivered by the contractors to the government was 235,350. Probably not all were sold, or used. But history is silent upon the number turned back to the postoffice department.

In 1874, for the government exhibit at the Centennial Exposition—and probably for other reasons, too—ten thousand reprints were made. The color is dark violet for the vignette and blue green for the frame. These reprints were made from Plate 20 in each case. Of the 10,000 printed 7,909 were returned to the government as unsalable—leaving 2,091 accounted for as having passed into the hands of people philatelically inclined.

The collector of cancellations has little to bother him, as a majority of the stamps are cancelled in black. Occasionally one is found with red cancellation; sometimes with combination black and red, and once in a while a pen marked one escapes the cleaner's eagle eye. One need not fear a cleaned stamp of this kind, however, as the acid leaves its mark upon the delicate inks used. I have seen a copy or two with a Paid cancellation.

These facts will give one a pretty good basis for making up a check list without my assistance.

The proofs on cardboard and India paper add much to the appearance of the collection, and are as cheap now as they ever will be, I believe.

CHAPTER XXIV.

30 Cents, Issue of 1869.

Long before the young collector has secured some of the cheaper stamps of the United States, he can proudly point to possession of the thirty-center. In the good many smaller collections I have been privileged to see there will be a good many stamps catalogued at less than a dollar missing, but almost invariably the 30 cents, 1869, is present. Statistics do not show that this is a common stamp, by any means. The catalogs put a price upon it which indicates that it is no "missionary," and yet it seems to be easier to obtain than some of the lower-priced ones.

In fine, superb, perfect condition this is a pleasing stamp to look upon. But unfortunately 99 out of every 100 are badly perforated, smeared with heavy cancellations, and otherwise maltreated and made to look sadly out of place in a collection. The delicate hues of the ink used in printing make it one hard to get in fine shape, and from my own experiences a superb copy ought to be worth well up to catalog valuation.

The 30 cents 1869 put in its appearance simultaneously with the 15, 24 and 90 cents denomination. It was retired at the same time, and enjoyed about the same popularity in sale as the 24 cents.

Officially the shades are given as follows:

Eagle and shield, pale rose, rose, dark rose, dark carmine. I have seen it in a shade of claret—not a changeling—which I believe is genuine and rather rare.

The flags, etc., are classified in shades as light ultramarine, ultramarine, dark ultramarine, and dull ultramarine.

It was grilled in three sizes—two being common, the other scarce:

Size.	Points.
9½x9½	13x12
9 x9½	12x12
9 x9	12x11

It has been found with a true double grille, and a few sheets slipped through the manufacturers without any grille whatsoever. It has been chronicled on double paper which had no grille.

The stamp was printed upon plates number 21 and 21, and with no plate number whatsoever.

A variety also rests in the collections of the more fortunate ones with flags reversed.

There were issued to the government by the makers 244,110 stamps. This would make it—based upon the number of 24 cent stamps issued, about the same in value, from a philatelic standpoint. More of the 30 cents were used than the other and fewer turned back to the postoffice department, if we judge by the catalog value and commonness of the stamp.

A reprint was made in 1874, for the same purpose as before stated. Like the others there were 10,000 reprinted; 8,465 were returned as unsalable, and 1,535 were disposed of to those who had 30 cents which they had no use for.

The reprints were printed from plates 21 and 21. The color is rose carmine and dark ultramarine. On hard white paper, with no grille. Some were gummed—statements of the authorities to the contrary notwithstanding.

Proofs, on cardboard and india paper ought to be collected in connection with the regular stamps. They make a handsome appearance, and add much to the future value of the collection—I believe.

An essay for this stamp is rather interesting. In appearance it is much like the 24 cent. It shows a picture of "The Surrender of Burgoyne" in a frame which has many characteristics, at first glance, of its predecessor. The essay was only printed in a single color, upon different colored papers. Had it been issued in two colors, of striking shades, regularly, it would have made a splendid addition to the series.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—W. L. Phillips of Marblehead, Mass., is now in Glastonbury, Conn., where he has entered the employ of the W. C. Phillips Co.

—The meeting of the B. P. S. December 17 was a marked success. Nearly one hundred were present. Between 6 and 8 several valuable collections were shown, including Mr. Green's Hawaiians and Mr. Howes' Chinese Treaty Ports and Coreans. Mr. Undooley performed as Santa Claus and everyone had a present of stamps and sweets.

—The advertisement of Mr. Ohlmann in our issue of December 14 was a bit misleading in the association that was possible between the description of a packet of British Colonials with another packet of foreign countries. The price of the packet of British Colonials was given as $5.00 while the second packet was priced at $1.98. Some of our subscribers mislaid their spectacles and failed to note the $5.00 mark which was certainly big enough to be seen. We offer this explanatory word as a balm to the feelings of those subscribers who wanted a $5 packet for $1.98.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from R. E. Jessup (2), Geo. H. Sleeper (2), J. Rausch, W. L. McAtee, Economist Stamp Co., Geo. M. Schaefer, Edgar S. Bissinger, Ernest W. Jakobs, John Molek.

—The Wm. J. Gardner collection is to be sold at auction. This information is gleaned from a San Francisco paper.

—The managing editor has received many Christmas tokens and he cannot take the space to acknowledge them all but his philatelic nature was keenly responsive to the kindliness that prompted H. S. Williams of Cleveland, O., to send his well wishes accompanied with a pair of 15c U. S. precancelled "Chicago Illinois". Even as Edwin B. Hill has his pages upon which are stamps around which is an atmosphere of personality so our modest album tells many a tale to us that the Philistine could not appreciate.

—"My ad in the 'Small ads' Column has sure brought results. To date I have had over forty replies, and have purchased six collections as the result, and many smaller lots."—W. I. MITCHELL, M. D.

—J. C. Piper, Elmo, Mo., was one of the first to advise us of the appearance of the parcels post set. W. L. Aldrich, the Boston dealer, exhibited a set at the B. P. S. meeting, Dec. 17.

—In reply to letters received from Wm. H. Fox, M. D., and others, we beg to state that Mr. Goodwin's articles on U. S. stamps will be reprinted in book form and the price will probably be 50c.

—The annual election of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society was held Tuesday evening, December 17. There was a large attendance and much business was transacted. Following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, S. M. Schoemann; Vice President, T. C. Mann; Secretary-Treasurer, Frank E. Goodwin, 804½ Pine Street. The officers will be installed at the next regular meeting—January 7. On this occasion a banquet will be held, probably at the Masonic Club. The committee in charge of the banquet is composed of Messrs. Hunter, Eilers and Collins.

—G. W. DeLaney, Chicago, Ill., requested approval selection from the International Stamp Co., and a letter to the party was returned marked "Unclaimed." We have received from the International Co. catalog of their Dec. 27th auction sale. We regret that an earlier notice of this list was not possible.

—Bertram J. Turner of The Hobbyist has our thanks for a pretty calendar with Christmas greetings.

—W. E. Dettweiler, Denver, Colo., applying to the New England Stamp Co. for an approval selection gave the C. E. Hussman Co. as reference. This firm replied, "This party while at Leavenworth, Kans. had two selections of sheets from us. The first one was promptly paid for but the second lot has been out since May 14, 1912." This is a word of warning.

—M. Bedard, 156 St. Andre St., Montreal, Can., would like to know the present whereabouts of F. E. Forbes, Stockton, Calif. Mail addressed to him is returned marked "Unknown."

—Calling attention to the fact that there has been no change in the postage rate on first class mail matter for almost thirty years; that the revenue from this class of mail is now over $162,000,000, of which over $62,000,000 is profit, and that a lower rate would enormously stimulate the growth of first class mail, Senator Burton, of Ohio, Dec. 16, introduced a bill reducing letter postage from two cents to one cent an ounce. The bill provides that the reduction take effect July 1, 1913.

—"I hope Mr. Goodwin's articles will be published in book form for they are very valuable. His chapter on 15c, 1869 interested me particularly, as I have a copy, unused, with "no diamond," but with double grill. This has been submitted to an expert and declared genuine.—W. H. Fox, M. D.

ATTRACTIVE STAMP AUCTION
JANUARY 10th AND 11th, IN PHILADELPHIA

Our sale upon the above dates is unusually attractive, the first session comprising nearly six hundred lots of British Colonials all unused. The second session includes a nice collection of United States stamps, general foreign and some excellent wholesale lots. The catalogues are out and should be in the hands of all collectors. If you have not received one, write for it.
The CHRISTMAS STAMP DRUMMER, just out, is free for the asking.

A LETTER FROM A SHUT-IN.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 5.

TO THE EDITOR:—

I have just finished reading the Editorials in the last issues in regards to sending Christmas presents of stamps to Shut-Ins, and I wish to state that I am a Shut-in myself and would appreciate an Xmas present of stamps as well as anyone. I wish to state also that I am ready to do my share towards the good cause although I am afraid it will be a very small share. I am sending a small packet of stamps which is all I have in duplicate.

Now in regard to myself I will say that I am an invalid and have been for the last 9 years, the last 4 years of which I have been without both lower limbs, and now one of my arms is afflicted. I am confined to the house all of the time. I used to be able to go out in a chair but now I am unable to do so.

If you wish references you may write to Mrs. John M. Galloway, Vice-President of New York Branch of Shut-In Society, 1321 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y., or Dr. George B. Van Doren, of this city.

Reading and stamp collecting is all I have to do and all that I can do to pass away the time. There is a library here so I can get all the books I want, but stamps is different, as I haven't the money except a few cents now and then. I have about 1300 stamps in my collecting most of which I got when I was a boy going to school. I am 22 years old now.

EARL E. BOYD.

I would appreciate it very much if you could find some one who will send me some surprise packages for Xmas or New Year's. I hope my little mite will help someone as I wish to be helped.

EARL E. BOYD,
2 Hall Blk., Court St., Watertown, N. Y.

SOMETHING NEW!

A PHILATELIC SAVINGS BANK

Start the New Year right—by Saving Money. To assist the thrifty I have opened a Savings Bank for Philatelists—and stamp collectors, too. Run on a new plan—take out your interest before depositing the money; big interest, too. Figure it yourself by comparing the following prices of stamps with prices you pay elsewhere. Then compound interest is allowed because the values of the stamps is bound to advance. You save money on both ends. No stamps sent on approval at these prices, because this bank employs no bookkeeper, thus saving his salary, which is lopped off the price asked. But money will be refunded if stamps are not worth more than I ask for them.

EDITORIAL.

"See America First—Some months ago the inception of the idea of exploiting the scenic splendors and historical spots of America on our postage stamps was mentioned in connection with the propaganda instituted by influential western railroad and other interests. The slogan "See America First" that was adopted is descriptive of the aims and purposes of the promoters. A step to realize the advertising advantages carried by postage stamps has been taken by the Chamber of Commerce, Colorado Springs, Colorado, whose publicity bureau has sent out the following letter to the press: "Colorado Springs, Dec.—To reproduce Pike's Peak and other noted American mountains and places of scenic historic interest on the postage stamps is the latest suggestion for the advancement of the 'See America First' idea. The suggestion, which has been made to the postmaster-general by the Colorado Springs' Chamber of Commerce has already received the support of many prominent railroad officials and commercial organizations, and also the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's Association. Colorado's newly elected senators and representatives have been requested to use their influence in securing the adoption of this idea. Following is a letter issued by the Colorado Springs' Chamber of Commerce, outlining the matter: Pike's Peak is America's most noted mountain. Historically it has played a prominent part in the story of the development of the west. Ever since its discovery by Lieut. Zebulon M. Pike in 1806, it has been known as the most conspicuous mountain in the United States. . . . For these reasons, we urge that a picture of Pike's Peak be adopted for reproduction upon future issues of the one-cent stamp. Nothing could more effectively promote the 'See America First' idea than the issuance and general use of a series of United States postage stamps bearing pictures of the most famous scenic spots in the United States."

Our Idea—The philatelist, with some amusement, will observe that the suggestion has received the support of railroad and hotel men and commercial organizations. The assignment of the future issues of the one-cent stamp is rather a large order but the very simplicity of the request shows the zeal that removes mountains even unto postage stamps. We prefer the person to the place on our postage stamps and the illustrious dead should be allowed to rest in peace in their niches of fame on our regular, as opposed to special, issue of postage stamps. The possibilities of jealously between different communities intent upon sharing the advertising benefits are not to be lost in any consideration of the suggestion, it is safe to say. As for the philatelist, even scenic sets no longer titillate his jaded palate; so much of an ennuyé is he that nothing excites him now.

1913—Philately from its position of security awaits the advent of the New Year calmly and confidently. It knows that it will strengthen its power during the coming twelvemonth; and it anticipates the time when it will become the dominant pursuit. No longer timid, no longer diffident, it now does not fear to travel the main highway; and it has bidden the by-paths farewell. The philatelic event in 1913 to loom forth most prominently is the international exhibition at New York; and already the shadow that it casts before has a most attractive outline.

On Time—The parcel post stamps have been supplied to all offices we should say and the new system is soon to be born, full-fledged, as it were; the rehearsals are over and the people await the opening. The stamps are beautiful productions and the set is a striking exemplification of some of the phases of the mail service and of a few of the industries of the country. The due stamps are severe in design as due stamps are wont to be; so early as December 20th, one of the due stamps was seen that inadvertently, we suppose, had been used by a postmaster. The official notice in the issue of last week was a thorough introduction to the stamps.

We Should Wonder—Mr. C. F. Richards, New York City, presents the following problem: "A certain specialist collector bought at auction, a counterfeit of the country in which he specializes. Instead of following the usual course and returning the forgery in condition to be sold again, perhaps as genuine by the owner, he stamped it on back in indelible ink, Counterfeit. The dealer objected and demanded the full price at which the supposedly genuine stamp was bought because the stamp did not belong to the collector; but the specialist, not fearing to break away from custom, refused to pay more than the value as a counterfeit, claiming that the forgery had no value other than a nominal one that may attach to a forgery. It was maintained that the brand on the back had not reduced this value and that the only way the specimen could be worth the price of the genuine stamp was when a swindle was accomplished by selling it as an authentic variety. He said further that in his opinion, it was the owner and not a prospective purchaser who should suffer any loss incurred. Who had the better of the argument?"

Following Them Up—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who washed off the gum on mint specimens so that it would not by any chance crack the paper? Is he roaming somewhere with the o. f. c. who after soaking a stamp all night in water knew that it was a genuine specimen if the color did not run? What has become of the old-fashioned dealer short on philatelic knowledge who would not show his stamps if he suspected that the buyer was looking for scarce small varieties at the prices of the ordinary stamps? Is he straying hand in hand with the o. f. d. who will not use a stamp tongs, considering it an unnecessary contrivance?

Here They Are—Sinpod, the stamp sage, says that he has found a collector who never felt an impulse to follow out of the shop a caller at the dealer's who was offered an absurdedly low price, which was refused, for a fine old collection: A dealer whose advertising always paid him: The publisher of a stamp paper that has never been issued a day behind the date of publication and a dealer who never took a chance in sending approval sheets to an applicant without consulting his references.

So Absurd—A man writes to a newspaper to say that he wrote two extra verses of "I've Got a Little List" for Digby Bell when he was Koko in 1885 in the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Mikado." "One verse had to do with bustles, philatelists and amateur photographers," are his very words. Philatelists have come to the front even though bustles took a back seat long ago.

HONDURAN NOTES.

By A. SCHOCH.

In a country with poor transporation facilities, where the mails even are carried mostly on pack mules and by couriers on foot, and where communication with foreign countries is so slow that it takes a person living in the capital city about six weeks to get an answer to a letter from Europe or New York, there is good excuse for resorting to surcharging when the supply of stamps of some of the most indispensable denominations runs out. Honduras nevertheless, managed to get along for a period of thirty-three years preceding 1910 without any such provisional issues.

In 1909 the supply of the 1 centavo stamps of the 1907 issue then current was exhausted. In this emergency the government had a supply of lithographed 1 centavo stamps prepared in the government printing-office in Tegucigalpa of the same design as the engraved stamps they replaced.

The government of Honduras years before had maintained a lithographing establishment in the capital city. It was the only plant of its kind in the whole country. At the time in question this lithographing plant had been consolidated with the government printing-office and was practically abandoned. This may account in part for the crude appearance of the 1909 lithographed 1 centavo stamp. No very great care seems to have been exercised in controlling the disposition of sheets spoiled in printing, to judge by the fact that I once happened to see a stack of imperforate sheets of these lithographed stamps lying around like waste paper in the quarters of the government military school, where the backs of them seemed to be used as scribbling paper by some of the cadets. The lithographed stamps placed on sale were, of course, perforated.

The supply of lithographed stamps printed proved to be insufficient. No second printing was made, however, probably owing to the unsatisfactory character of the first lot. Instead, the 2 centavo stamp was cut in two, generally diagonally but sometimes vertically, and each half was used without surcharge as a 1 centavo stamp. I have seen envelopes franked with such cut stamps postmarked at various Honduran post-offices from January to November, 1910, inclusive, and I mailed a great many pieces of mail-matter myself during that time with postage paid in the same way. Along towards the end of 1910 the use of such cut stamps was discontinued by refusal of the post-office to longer accept them for postage.

Near the end of 1910 the surplus stock of 20 centavo stamps was converted into 1, 5 and 10 centavo stamps by overprinting the new value in big figures. The surcharging was done by hand, using regular printer's type and printer's ink, which made rather crude-looking work of it. Sometimes one stamp on a sheet would not receive the surcharge, and strips and blocks can be found with one of the stamps without the overprint, tho the unsurcharged specimens were probably to some extent separated from the adjacent surcharged ones and used with their original value as 20 centavo stamps.

The surcharged stamps were only in use a couple of months, and during part of that time they were not always readily obtainable, especially the 1 centavo and 5 centavo surcharges. There had been various times in the years 1909-10 when 1 centavo stamps of any kind were absolutely unobtainable, but it was not until the end of 1910 that the scarcity of stamps of other values became noticeable. The scarcity reached its climax in the days just before the new 1911 issue was placed on sale. On one of those days I was told by the stamp clerk in the post-office of Tegucigalpa, the capital city, that he had nothing but 6 centavo stamps on sale.

With the new 1911 issue the government resumed the use of stamps surcharged OFICIAL for official correspondence. It may be of interest to note that Honduran OFICIAL stamps are not used on all kinds of official mail, but only on such mail addressed to countries outside of Central America. Official correspondence sent to points in Honduras and the other republics of Central America is simply franked by rubber stamping on the envelope or wrapper the seal of the government office or institution where such mail originates, and no postage stamps of any kind are needed. This fact explains the extreme scarcity of the OFICIAL stamps.

PARIS 1913 EXHIBITION.

By L. H. WARDWELL.

In the Revue Philatelique Francaise for Nov. 30, 1912, the chairman of the committee of organization announces the International Philatelic Exposition of Paris to take place in June, 1913 at the Palais de Glace, Champs-Elysees.

The place chosen has every advantage and convenience that could be desired, a central situation, perfect lighting, admirable arrangement and interior conveniences lending themselves to an exhibition such as ours.

The proceeds of the exhibition are to go to certain charitable purposes connected with the administration of the postal and telephone service for the benefit of persons engaged in that service.

Free admission is to be given to persons having certain tickets to be obtained through philatelic societies and dealers.

A competition for a commemorative stamp to be issued in connection with the Exposition closes December 31.

J. S. GOLDBERG—FAKE AGENT.

The above party residing at 4915 Ave. 12, Brooklyn, N. Y., is representing himself as an agent in New York for Theodore Champion. Mr. Champion writes:—"I do not know the party at all and shall thank you in anticipation for a statement in your paper in relation to this matter."

SCOTT'S CATALOG FOR 1912-13.

JUST CHAT

I don't feel puffed up under the arms, but instead am trying to speed up our business.

I suppose you wonder why we advertise so much:—well if we stopped, we would have dead stock on our hands and would be forced to go into the undertaking business.

ANOTHER REASON:—We have got hold of the door knob of success and our flying wedge of advertising is pushing us right inside.

WHY:—In this day of razor edge competition we elbow through the crowd and give you more than you bargained for.

When some dealer with a horsey vest and a three cornered trot, tries to get you to pull the cork down again, with his big stories and questionable packets, just make up your mind that in the bushes of his statements roost some fat fabrications.

First Quality Packets Make a Dollar Do Its Duty.

If our packets were not the best, we would have about as much chance selling them to you as running a livery stable in Venice.

It's Better To Buy Our Packets Than To Wish You Had.

Even a phonograph has to talk to sell its goods:—We put on a new Packet record every thirty days.

If the last firm's packets made you as mad as a centipede with corns, look ours over:—

There's as much difference between packets as there is in hugs.

Remember,—Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Cheerfully Refunded. If our packets don't suit you, we will not squeak like a sour fiddle.

We're only a couple of flies on the wheels of progress:—Send that order and help us stick on.

All things decay: — even the Hum Bug.

Some firms shoot by us and sell packets by dishonest means, but they soon sound like a second hand bicycle pump and it don't take long for us to overtake them.

We're too busy to hide the money we make:—Just spending it for ammunition to hit your target once.

It must make our competitors feel like "a one armed paper hanger with the hives" to see how experienced collectors with good judgment prefer our packets.

The man that sells you poor packets never gets a chance again. We want another chance. We don't trick anybody.

We Give Twice the Value in Our First Quality Packets Than Any Others Do If Their Price Is Less Than Double Ours.

You have promised yourself to try one of our packets sometime—why not make of that sometime NOW?

H. S. Powell

APPRECIATIONS.

J. C. Walton, Secy-Treas., The Daversport Rubber Co., of Boston, writes:—"I was much pleased with the 1500 stamp packet and found several hundred stamps I did not have. My collection numbers over 9000 var."

Rev. John Luther Kilbon, Park Congregational Church, Springfield, Mass, recommends our packets and says:—"I find that the 1500 var. lot was a profitable purchase, adding about 400 stamps to my large collection and increasing its catalog value considerably, to say nothing of what some very desirable duplicates may bring in the future."

EXHIBITION NEWS.

A great exhibition of stamps will be held in the Engineers' building, 39th St., New York, during the last week in October. Many thousands of dollars will be spent to make the exhibition the most important ever held. Thousands of dollars will be expended in prizes, tens of thousands of people representing the wealth and culture of the metropolis of the western hemisphere will attend and millions of dollars worth of stamps will be on exhibition.

Stamp collecting has devotees throughout the world, and has been aptly termed the "King of Hobbies" and the "Hobby of Kings." It increases in popularity with every new issue of stamps. It has taught art to the world and brought joy to thousands of lonely homes. Permanent as a pleasure and profitable as a pastime. No investment in the world that is open to everyone is as profitable. Take the diamond ring from your finger, see what you can sell it for today, see the cost and note the difference. Do the same by the house you live in and you will admit the truth of our statement, that stamps are the best investment for small sums in the world.

The Exhibition is calculated to vastly increase the number of collectors and therefore adds to the value of your album. Old stamps are a fixed quantity, but collectors increase. Comment is unnecessary. Send your collection to the great exhibition and secure one of the valuable prizes. Delay your vacation until October and visit New York. You will remember it as long as you live.

POWER'S BOOK ON U. S. STAMPS.

When E. B. Power speaks he says something, and in this particular book he has written a work on United States stamps that should be in the library of every philatelist. It is a compendium of valuable information and of particular value to every collector who specializes in the stamps of this country.

The price of this book is 50c and we will send it upon the receipt of this amount. We will refund your money if you do not get satisfaction.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass. Specimens must accompany chronicle, with self-addressed stamped envelope for return of the same. Please note these rules.

UNITED STATES.—The Rev. J. Dreyer sends us a complete list of plate numbers of the Panama Canal stamps as printed up to and including Dec. 10, 1912. There will be others later, as the stamps will be on sale from Jan. 1, 1913, until after the Exposition in October, 1915.

1c—6127, 6128, 6131, 6132, 6144, 6146, 6147, 6148.

2c—6123, 6124, 6125, 6126, 6136, 6137, 6140, 6141, 6142, 6145, 6149, 6152, 6156, 6160, 6185, 6224.

5c—6129, 6133, 6134, 6138.

Plate number 6161 was used on the 10c parcels post stamp, the first one finished of that series.

William L. Aldrich & Co. have shown us the lower values of the new parcel post stamps, including the regular postage values from 1c to 25c and the postage due stamps from 1c to 10c. Both series are of the same size, which is the width of the Hudson-Fulton 2c stamp, but 1½ mm. longer. All values of the different sets are printed in the same color, the postage set being in bright carmine and the dues in deep green. The postage design shows an oval arch at the top supported on pillars, and bearing the inscription, "U. S. Parcel Post." The corners above the arch are filled in with conventional ornaments. The figures of value are placed in small circles which break into the bottom of the side pillars, with "Cents" in a tablet between. The design is the same for all values seen, except the vignette which are as follows: 1c, "Post Office Clerk" distributing mail into the bag rack; 2c, "City Carrier" delivering mail at a city residence; 4c, "Rural Carrier," in a wagon with horse attached; 5c, "Mail Train," with bag of mail suspended, waiting to be caught by the fast moving express train; 10c, "Steamship and Mail Tender," showing how mail is landed in advance of the docking of the steamer; 25c, "Manufacturing," showing extensive mills and railroads. The postage due set is altogether different in design, though of the same size, both being arranged horizontally. The Due stamps have "U. S. Parcel Post" across the top and "Postage Due" across the bottom, both being in straight lines. The value appears in large figures in a central circle, with the value in words repeated twice around the circle. Small horizontal ovals at the sides have the figures of value repeated, the remainder of the stamp being filled with lathe work. It will be noted that the word is "Parcel" post, according to the United States Government.

BECHUANALAND PROTECTORATE.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 1sh King Edward stamp of Great Britain overprinted "Bechuallaland—Protectorate," in the same type as the 1d King George, recently chronicled.

NICARAGUA. — Mr. Schachne has the double cards with same stamps and similar headlines to the single cards noted in No. 1115.

Post Cards.

4x4c brown on white; T. 3.
10x10c dark brown on white; T. 3.

George H. Sleeper has shown us some new fiscal stamps from Nicaragua, which appear to have been used for postage, though as they have been separated from the covers, this fact is not certain. They are lithographed, the printing being very badly done, and the whole appearance being inferior to recent fiscals from that country. All the stamps have the value in black, and a large "B" overprinted to indicate use in Bluefields.

Fiscals Postally Used.

5c purple on green.
10c yellow green.

PAPUA.—We have received from Whitfield King & Co. the 4d stamp in a single color, printed on paper watermarked Crown A sideways.

Adhesive.

4d pale olive.

PORTUGUESE INDIES.—From Whitfield King & Co. comes another addition to the long list of split provisionals, the 5t stamp of 1902-03, surcharged "Republica" in red, having been perforated vertically into two halves, and overprinted "1—Real" upon each half.

Adhesive.

On stamp of 1902-03.
"1 Real" on half of 5t brown.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. Schachne sends us a new variety of the 5c card and we find the only change is in the headlines on the right hand half of the card: "Postkarte Carte postale" form the upper line in very similar type to last but without ornamentation, "Cartolina postale" below, with ornaments before and after similar to those to upper line on the previous issue.

Post Card.

5c green on buff; divided face.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bdg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., Dec. 17, 1912.

The 282nd (regular) meeting of the Society was held at the Club Room at 8 o'clock this evening, with President Nevin in the Chair and 95 members and friends present.

The following was read:—

LIBRARY REPORT FOR DEC., 1912.

Received by donation: Philatelic Literature Society Statutes, List of Members, Publications, London, 1912, from the Society; Morgenthau's 47, 54, 55 and 56 Sales priced from J. S. Rich; "Philatelic Rambles and other Papers in Popular Vein," by Julian Park, from the Author; Scott Stamp & Coin Co.'s 170th Sale, priced, from Scott Stamp & Coin Co.; and the current numbers of the following magazines, generously contributed by the publishers; Gibbons Monthly, Mekeel's Weekly, Stamp Journal, Berliner Briefmarken-Zeitung, Postage Stamp, Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, Scott Stamp & Coin Co. Circular, Philatelic Gazette, Roessler's Stamp News, Collectors' Journal and New England Stamp Monthly.

The following applications were posted:—

Mr. Gideon G. Ryder.
Mr. C. S. Penhallow, Jr.
Mr. Roy S. Haggard.

Mr. A. W. Dunning presented the Society with a large frame of Confederate bills, bonds, scrip, etc., for the Club Room which was acknowledged with a vote of thanks to the donor.

The following nominations for officers for 1913 were made: Pres. C. K. B. Nevin; Vice-Pres., Fernald Hutchins; Sec. C. A. Howes; Int'l. Sec., Philip Wolff; Treas. J. B. B. Smith; Supt. Auctions, J. H. Lyons; Supt. Bourse, A. W. Dunning; Supt. Sales, J. B. B. Smith Governing Board, Chas. H. Stone, F. W. Stiles, John Ingraham, T. W. Barry.

Mr. Hill then made a short address of welcome to our visitors and turned the entertainment over to Santa Claus, represented by C. H. Fowle, who read some appropriate verses, and to J. H. Lyons, who auctioned off the presents on the Christmas Tree, for purchasing which each person present was given a "credit of 50 cents." Each present consisted of a stamp or stamps cataloging at least 10 cents, accompanied by a "joker." Much merriment resulted, and plenty of Xmas candy was passed around to help out.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 p. m.

Previous to the meeting there was an exhibition of stamps at which Mr. Green's Hawaiians, Mr. Barrett's U. S. Revenues, Mr. Swain's U. S. Postage, Mr. Russell's U. S. Envelopes and Plate numbers, Mr. Dunning's Original Covers and a volume of his collection, and Mr. Howes' Chinese Treaty Ports and Korea.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

PARCEL POST STAMPS—(Continued).

It is, perhaps, fortunate that Persia has not allowed its enthusiasm for issuing stamps to extend to the special varieties for use on parcels. In 1908 the complete set of ordinary postage stamps issued during 1907-8 was overprinted with the words "Colis Postaux" for use in connection with the parcel post and no new varieties have been issued since.

On June 18th, 1898, a set of six parcel post stamps was issued by the Peruvian Government. These are of extra large size, and are plain type-set labels with large numerals of value in the centre. "Porte de Conduccion" at the top, and "Centavos" at the base, the whole being enclosed by a wide ornamental border. In 1903 the 20c value of the set was provisionally surcharged "UN CENTAVO," and two years later the 50c and 10c were reduced in value to 1c and 5c respectively by means of similar sucharges.

Since 1895 Roumania has had a special 25 bani stamp for use on parcels. The design is similar to that of the postage due stamps but with the inscription "TAXA DE FACTAGIU" in the upper label. Though the design has never been changed the label exists in various shades, with and without watermark, and in several varieties of perforation. This stamp does not denote postage paid, but represents a special fee charged for delivery.

Among the prolific stamp issuing countries of South and Central America, Salvador is the only one which has indulged in the issue of a special series of parcel post stamps. A set of five different values was issued in 1895, the stamps being handsomely designed and printed, and of diamond shape. Evidently the philatelic demand for these was not great and Salvador never issued another set of parcel post labels.

For our last example we have again to turn to the French Colonial Empire. In 1906, Tunis issued a set of ten different values for use on parcels, all being of the same design. They are large upright rectangular stamps, each being printed in two colors, and inscribed "Colis Postaux". In conclusion I append a list of the inscriptions found upon the parcel post stamps referred to above, with their equivalents in English, and a table of the countries issuing them:—

Colis Postaux.—(Parcels Post).—Appears upon the stamps of Congo, Ivory Coast, Martinique, Persia, and Tunis.

C. P.—An abbreviation for "Colis Postaux" shown on some of the provisional stamps issued for the Ivory Coast.

Fardos Postales.—(Parcels Post).—This inscription appears on the stamps of Salvador.

Pacchi Postali.—(Parcel Post).—Shown upon the stamps of Italy.

Porte de Conduccion.—(Porterage for carrying, i. e. charge for conveyance).—This appears upon the stamps of Peru.

Taxa de Factagui.—(Charge for porterage).—Shown upon the stamps of Roumania.

Spoorwegen.—(Railways).—The Flemish equivalent for "Chemins de fer," shown upon all the Belgian stamps issued since 1895.

SHORT REPLIES.

K. S. R. (Cleveland).—The "stamp" regarding which you desire information is an old friend and I believe has already been described in these columns. However, as there are probably many new readers who did not see the previous article a short description may be of general interest. These Sedang labels are entirely bogus and owe their origin to a Frenchman—an ex-officer of the French navy, named De Meyrena—who had an adventurous career in Eastern lands. He turned up one day at Hong Kong and gave out that he was King Marie I of the Sedangs, a tribe inhabiting a small tract of land on the borders of the French possession of Annam. He was a man of fine appearance and, as the French Consul vouched for his credentials, he was soon the "lion" of Hong Kong society. He instituted the "Order of Marie I" and was such a plausible individual that he succeeded in conferring this "decoration" on the British Governor of Hong Kong. King Marie had a set of seven stamps prepared in Paris, ostensibly for use in his dominions, but in reality for the exploitation of stamp collectors. Shortly after their appearance the French Government interfered and took the territory of Sedang under its protection. De Meyrena's career as King came to a sudden end but it is said he again returned to the East and died from a cobra bite while staying on a small Malaysian island with a few companions. Although these fictitious labels were issued in 1889 they still turn up fairly frequently from which it would seem that De Meyrena must have been fairly successful in selling them.

C. H. M. writes:—"Why is it impossible to get Postal Savings stamps (cancelled) from the wastebaskets of post-offices: in other words, why is the order to destroy these stamps issued from the P. O. Dept.?" Why, indeed? But who are we that we should endeavor to unfathom the sweet unreasonableness of the official mind?

J. J. B. (Buffalo, N. Y.).—It is not a very difficult matter to distinguish between the shaded and unshaded posthorn varieties of Norway. In the stamps with shaded posthorn that part of the horn that encloses the numerals of value is entirely filled with lines of color, while in the unshaded posthorns this ring or circle is plain.

D. M. A. (Portland, Ore.).—The character or emblem forming the centerpiece on the 1 and 9 candarin stamps of the 1894 issue of China is an ancient form of the character shou which is said to mean literally "long life to you" and it is apparently used in this connection to signify longevity. The Celestials have a great regard for this symbol as it is supposed to have a particularly auspicious meaning and John Chinaman is great on anything he may consider "auspicious."

J. B. (Saginaw).—Yes, the large fiscal stamps of Guatemala overprinted in September, 1898, for use as 1c and 2c postage stamps exist with two varieties of perforation. One of these is perf. 12 all round and the other variety is a compound of 12 and 14. There is little difference in the value of the two varieties on the 2c but in the case of the 1c the compound perf. is much the scarcer.

ORDINARY STAMPS USED AS UNPAID.

By L. F. GARBACCIO.

I noticed in your issue for Dec. 14, an editorial about an ordinary two-cent stamp used for postage due.

I have about one hundred copies so used, the earliest copy I have is dated March 15, 1909.

Some are cancelled in indelible ink with the Postmaster's name, others with the name Paterson, N. J. and some have the regular black post office cancellation.

I also have two copies of the one cent, one copy of the four cents and one copy of the two cent Lincoln, so-cancelled.

KNICK-KNACKS.

By C. E. S.

The new albums are out and prices have been boosted.

Do not forget a philatelic resolve on New Year's eve.

From his testimony before the investigating committee, it is suspected that J. P. Morgan was a stamp dealer at one time.

The dealers who were hooked by Jordan are glad to have had their experience now that they have received checks "for all arrears."

The Shut-Ins have reason to feel thankful for the liberality of WEEKLY readers. Everybody is happy and a final report will be made next week.

The old timers among the stamps are hitting the high places in a scandalous way and they are showing the new issues some amazing records for high jumps.

Speaking of aviation, Dr. C. F. Roh, Garrison, Nebraska, has shown us a "Flugpostkarte" with flying post cancellation, Munich, Bavaria, on the ordinary five pfennig Bavaria and the special 25pf blue, aerial stamp.

W. G. Whittaker, Cleveland, Ohio, has been appointed chairman of the recruiting committee of the United States Revenue Society. Who will volunteer? Our Mr. Wylie enjoys the proud position of first member in this organization; he is Number One.

Our managing editor, Mr. Wylie, was last year a candidate for governor of Mass., and as he was not known all over the state, perhaps that is why he was defeated. At Beverly, his home, he has just been elected alderman over many candidates and by a "huge majority." He is now in position to send regards to Alderman Moisant of Kankakee, Illinois, (who has just remembered us with a neat pad calendar).

OUR SPECIAL FEATURE PROGRAM.

Our readers have been very much interested in the series of articles on U. S. stamps by Mr. Goodwin, and we are pleased to say that we shall publish the same in book form when the series has been concluded. We have several handbooks in view and the following will give the reader an idea of our proposed activities in this direction:—

The Beginner's Guide.—By Bertram W. H. Poole. Handbook No. 2. Price 25c. To be issued shortly.

Specialized United States.—By Frank E. Goodwin, Handbook No. 3. Price (?).

How to Become a Stamp Dealer.—By Washington Grant. Handbook No. 4. Price 25c.

U. S. Envelopes 1853-1910.—By Louis G. Barrett. Handbook No. 5. Price 25c. Mss. awaiting publication.

Stamp Studies.—By Bertram W. H. Poole. Handbook No. 6. Mss. to follow the "Beginner's Guide."

Our 172nd Auction Sale

January 28th & 29th, 1913

WILL CONTAIN

A General Collection of unused postage stamps, particularly early issues. Catalogues ready January 1st. Mailed free on request.

WHEN WE BUY A COLLECTION

THIS IS WHAT WE DO:—

1st.—We pick out all stamps needed by customers from whom we have want lists on file.
2nd.—We pick out all stamps actually needed in our regular stock.
3rd.—We place all the stamps not needed as above, (listing 5c or more,) in our

Special Quick-Sale 50 Per Cent

APPROVAL BOOKS

These books, being made up from new purchases just as they come in, are not as well arranged as our "regular" 10 per cent Books by Countries, but are unexcelled for general collectors.

We have recently added several thousand dollars worth of these SPECIAL 50 PER CENT BOOKS, and wish to submit them to some more collectors who are used to spending several dollars at a time.
